Observing Diamond Jubilee

Large Attendance Expected at Service in Westminster Abbey

Preparations on the spot well advanced for the great service in Westminster Abbey, July 1, which will form the chief commemoration in London of Canada's Diamond Jubilee

The Dean of Westminster, Very Rev. Dr. Foxley Norris, has drawn up an order of service which follows as nearly as possible that which was used when the jubilee of Confederation was celebrated in the Abbey in 1917.

Among the king and Queen but a number of engagements to fill in Scotland on close to the date, it is feared it will be impossible for Their Majesties to attend the service. The duke of Connaught already has intimated his intention to be present. Practically the whole of the British cabinet and a large number of representatives of ambassador and Legations have asked that seats be reserved for them.

How Use For Helium

May be Substitute for Nitrogen in Air of Diving Suits

When helium was first discovered it was considered a spot of scientific joy, and was obtainable only in extremely small quantities. Then it was practically nothing. Recently efforts have been made to take the place of hydrogen in airships. Experiments are now in progress in helium's favor. Helium is the air of diving bells, for the nitrogen under high pressure enters the tissues of the bodies of the divers, and when it escapes during the ascent causes severe incertions. The discovery has its scenario value for use with helium it will be possible for divers to descend to the bottom of the Bay of Fundy and recover millions of gold from sunken Spanish galleons.

Success Assured if Anything Worth While is Advertised

Same time ago be people of Colorado Springs got the idea that there were great attractions in that place for tourists. Following up this bright idea they made systematic efforts for several seasons to attract letters, but without much amount. Then they decided to appropriate $5,000 for advertising. This helped, and the next year they increased the sum to $40,000. They advertised widely in newspapers, all over the country. Over 60,000 autos visited Colorado Springs last year, carrying some 350,000 people. More than 30,000 more people came by train. Those visitors spent about $17,000,000 in the Colorado Springs neighborhood. They had return for a $40,000 investment. Where there is no publicity there is corpse publicity. If there is something really worth while advertising of the right sort will make a great success of it.

Has Had Wide Experience

Fortunate indeed is the person entering the dining room of a large hotel, who is acquainted with the head waiter. Umberto Cipriani, who will be the superintendent of service at the new C.P.R. Hotel Saskatchewan, at Regina, has served in the dining rooms of some of the largest hotels on the continent, including the Empress at Victoria Hotel Vancouver Ritz Carlton, Montreal, Waldorf-Astoria, Sherry and Reisers, New York, and the Gimerald Hotel, New Haven.

At night, shortly before he would have been brought forth by the call of death, help came. There in the gloomy plotting, there came the life-aids required; and the man himself joined them all the "science and the latest creation are catching fire for his eyes and quieted himself to disobey the command. There, too, is he who neither slumbers nor sleeps; God is their friend, guiding their every thought prayer, there is the poison, keeping all the threads of the drama in his hands, pushing the right button, or injection, hearing the prayer that ascends to his holy habitation, responding to the trust of his child, whom he is failing to keep, and more it His time to work. The final act is about to be launched on the stage. The moment of deliverance is approaching, and already its messenger and instrument is on the wind to begin that is appointed unto death. "Behold, I will may Peter sleep when I find is watching over his bed and prepared him to awakening."—Robert Law.

The circumstances of Peter's escape are told very vividly. The awakening of the angel (the word angel means messenger), the light in the cell that awakened Peter, the brief words to make haste, the falling off of the chains, the girding and binding on of sandals and outer cloak, the command to follow; the passing of the first and the second guard, the opening of the outer gates of the prison ending into the city, the gates and passing through one street, and the being left alone.

Peter was dazed and thought his experience unreal until he "came to himself" and said, "The Lord hath sent forth his angel and taken me out of the hand of Herod." One thing is certain, whether delivery us from a great peril will always seem to us an angel. There are no mists and there are no days which can withstand the purposes of God.

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

Golden Text: "Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." Psalm 34:19.

Lesson Text: Acts 12:1-19.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 34:1-10.

Explanations and Comments

I. Peter Imprisoned, vs. 1-4. Herod Agrippa had taken up the cause of persecution of the Christians, and had put to death James, the brother of John. This was done to please the Jews, and had the appointment to assist his executions at the time of the Passover festivities been made out. Herod was unusually active in his persecution at all Jewish observances. He was careful to observe all the ceremonial requirements of the Jewish law, and was scrupulous in his attention to the feasts and fasts. Four sets of soldiers, each consisting of four men, were chosen to guard Peter, in his case, and had the appointment to assist his executions at the time of the Passover festivities been made out. Herod was unusually active in his persecution at all Jewish observances. He was careful to observe all the ceremonial requirements of the Jewish law, and was scrupulous in his attention to the feasts and fasts. Four sets of soldiers, each consisting of four men, were chosen to guard Peter, in his case, whose duty it was to keep him safely, and have him ready to bring forth to execution.

"Within a few days" (Revised Version) means a considerable length of time, but not necessarily a long period. The appointment to be held on the occasion of a public festival was probably to a common Roman holiday, and not to the Passover. A public spectacle was to a common and unique kind, and the people were gathered in large numbers, and the speaker is awarded a crown of applause. He is guilty of blasphemy in that he accepts divine honors. He was punished by a painful disease, and died five days after the festival.

II. Peter's Deliverance, verses 5-11. Peter was in prison, but prayer was made earnestly by the church unto God for him.

"I wish I could have those two words, unto God, bite every heart, so that whenever we pray, in public or in private, they would stand right before us, and that before we prayed a bladder of prayer we would be sure every time that we had really come unto God, and that we were actually talking to him."—Harris.

At night, shortly before he would have been brought forth by the call of death, help came. There in the gloomy plotting, there are the life-aids required; and the man himself joined them all the science and the latest creation are catching fire for his eyes and quieted himself to disobey the command. There, too, is he who neither slumbers nor sleeps; God is their friend, guiding their every thought prayer, there is the poison, keeping all the threads of the drama in his hands, pushing the right button, or injection, hearing the prayer that ascends to his holy habitation, responding to the trust of his child, whom he is failing to keep, and more it His time to work. For a Better Understanding

Appreciation of Needs of All Portions of Canada Required Says Beatty

Vancouver—"In this year which we celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of the confederation of Canada, one greatest contribution to the memory of those sonsrunning fathers of Confederation should be a greater understanding of the needs of those portions of the country in which we do not live," said E. W. Beatty, president and chairman of the board of the Canadian Pacific railway, in an address given at a ceremonial commemoration of the Canadian flag and the Vancouver Rotary club.

"It is essential to such understanding that we should have a better knowledge of the resources, the industries, the commercial and financial activities of the different portions of the country, and that we should have a better knowledge of the people who live there and their ideals and aspirations. Upon the better or credence that Prof. Doherty has shed in the topic of the day, Willingdon, Governor-General President Coolidge observed that Mr. Phillips is well interested on the doubtful of the United States government at Washington in securing the passage of the prohibition measure which has been vetoed by President Coolidge. "No information is yet available respecting the mechanical details of the new car. The only details in formation I have is that the new car will cost more than the present one, as anyone who knows automobile values will tell you. There is every indication that the new car will be a sensation. We have the company's word for it that it has speed, style, flexibility and control in traffic. That is just about everything that anyone could ask for, and when I speak the benefit of Ford's economical production methods and traditional adherence to a standard of highest quality you have a wonderful combination.

"In the interim we will continue to sell Model T cars and to give service on them. They will never be orphan cars, for the company will continue to produce parts for them as long as they are to be in use, and as they are the longest-lived cars on the market that will be for a considerable time. The company has also assured us that it will cost more to manufacture than the Model T should not at rest the rumors which circulated about a price rise. We think we'll have no difficulty in buying our car stock of Model T's for they are still the best value and we can sell them at the same price as Fort cars will be very much greater than the supply."

A rummage sale will be held by the Women's Institute on Saturday, June 11, in the couple room next to Ray's tailor shop. The made up articles from the "thrift contest" will also be sold. Anyone with goods to give is requested to leave them at the supply room before 4 p.m. on Saturday.

On Sunday, June 19, a special U. F.A. service will be held in Partridge Hill United church. Hon. J. F. Lymburn, attorney-general, will give an address at the service, which is to be at 3 o'clock. Congregations of neighboring communities will attend the Partridge Hill church on this occasion. . .

Naturally wishing to entertain his brother from "away" Boston in royal fashion Charlie Mager undertook to show him the marvellous fishing to be had in this district. He took him to a lake about fifty miles distant, over roads which had no right to be in that state, they fished—and fished—and fished, and never got a bite. Too bad, Charlie! Fisherman's luck!

CHAPTER I

It all began with the tassels of milk.

When Helmi's Aunt Lill came back to Finland for a visit, after 20 years of the crowded ways of life in America, the older women folk of her family regretted her thin, mingled feelings of awe and sorrow. Her elder sister Helmi's mother said it was fruitlessness for a girl who had to earn her money hard, earning trays, to put it all on her back and wear clothes that only queens around be wearing it which Aunt Lill laughed, showing her gold teeth and said it was a matter of principle with her to spend her money so that that no one could steal it from her. Helmi was the one member of the family who gave the visitor full hearted and unmixed devotion. She loved the rich sound of her silken shirts, it was so luxurious to listen to crowned to raise the whole family to a high or social level, and she marvelled how anyone, even her mother, would dare to find fault with the wonderful person who wore silk stockings, had fun on the inside of her coat, and pink ribbons in garments that did not show at all!

Aunt Lill had not spent all her money on her own raiment. To Helmi's mother she had brought a purse which stood with a crack. It was a beautiful gift enough, with its clasps which could be flopped on the the other side, gold satin lining; my cerebrum chambers holds; and better than all was the distinct belief once it conveyed regarding women and money. To Helmi's father she brought a silk handkerchief with twirled roses on both sides, a sort of magic handkerchief, for no matter how hard it was squeezed in one's hand it would spring out again with its own a wrinkle. To Anna, Helmi's big eldest sister, who had her babe bonga, she brought a square bottle of powder the color of skin, and a round downy thing to pat it on with. Anna Lill need a black cork herself for the purpose, but she said powder puffs were certainly all to be America now.

Aunt Lill made many comments between America and Finland. "You work too hard here," she said, and you never pin. You work in Amerika, but we have good times, too, some 'ittle, just enough time to see what is there for women but raising children and work? When a woman is married you marry her to die old, and her life is over. It is all old, all last in, and giving up her women, and so had they git—but I wouldn't like that. Now, Helmi, you be the woman: I couldn't stand it now after I have seen what a good time they have women have."

Her words received in silence by the older women and scoffed at by Anna, who was going to be married in the spring to Emil Saari, who lived near and had built a two roomed house, being a symptomic instance in Helmi, who was then thirteen. Her mother and Anna might be content with Finland, but Helmi's eyes had caught the vision of the far country.

The resolve to see this wonderful country for herself was definitely taken when she saw the beautiful picture Aunt Lill brought her. It was a coloured picture, shiny as ice and reeking with light and color, called "Aunty's Flower Garden." It showed an old fashioned garden bursting with roses and hollyhocks and Canterbury bells. Down the brick walk came two lovely ladies, one in a crimson velvet dress, the other one in fairy blue; a golden-haired girl stood by a gate, then cried in white, carried a green basket brimming with roses.

Helmi believed that this Heavily and wondered how her Aunt Lill could have such an enchanted place even to come for a visit to the old home. Aunt Lill had saved soap wrappers to get the picture, and had left it honestly enough in the paste board roll in which it came and where all concerned might see from whence it came. But to Helmi the picture carried proof—"Aunt's Flower Garden." It was too thrilling a thought to lose, so she did not ask for confirmation.

Aunt Lill stayed for the Black Ice Skating, and then returned to her Michigan country, but the picture she left with Helmi kept the focus of her imagination and desires burning.

Brighter still they burned after her mother died and the querulous, scolding grandmother came to direct the house until her son would find a stepdaughter for his family. Anna had married and entered upon the strenuous program of a baby a year.

With unmeasured work and constant scolding all around her the ecstasies of Anna, who was rapidly losing her red cheeks and her light heart, Helmi held to the vision Aunt Lill had given her of the Promised Land. The roses in the picture nodded approval, the Canterbury bells were ringing a welcome, the velvet clad ladies, still sauntering along the garden path, smiled into her eyes and whispered "come and be one of us."

There are great moments in every life. When Aunt Lill sent the money and Helmi, now seventeen, held the letter in her hand, with its money-order pale blue paper that the postmaster said was money, she was suddenly caught up into another world. Now all things were possible, for here were the wings with which she could fly away. She, too, would come back with silk shirts that crushed like a bag of cabbage, and purses and toys for Anna's children. Granny would be sorry then for the things she had said, but she would tell her that the past was gone. She was sorry for Granny, who would never, never see America.

Helmi made the journey to Saint Paul, Minnesota.

It was well that her young heart was fortified by so many pleasant thoughts upon the way, for, bleak the appearances and the new ways made the arrival Aunt Lill she passing Aunt Lill's address and directions to a Finnish boarding house in Saint Paul, a long walk with a street car to a certain point. It seemed to Helmi that she had come to the end of the world when she stepped on the platform of the last car, and just one paper between her and a complete stranger. Helmi was much tired but true, where came and then Aunt Lill's address to tell her where she must be.

Later, take a long time to go to Finland, and although she had writ ten as soon as she now how serious her condition was, she feared her message might not arrive in time to find Helmi the home. Nine months after the letter Helmi's mother died and always been [illegible] the pattern of the reading years as [illegible] the color of the green known as the bottom of the reading years as some "10s, just enough time to see Helmi and tell her things please [illegible] God!"

And so the frightened Helmi, who had expected to be met by the Great Person who had brought her her child home, came into the dark and dreary house alone only to find that the white face on the second pillow with the long braids gone.

Don't blame me if you don't like it, for I did my best. I have which gone from her I thought it was a good face I often look back on it now than that. Anyone I only wanted to see you and tell you that that boy with Mike He said he will keep you but I do not owe him the money. It was mine. He wants you because you are young and pretty. The girls tell me he's acting like a ready, and me not dead so soon! I have money enough to send you back, Helmi, that will be best. You know what is best of you at home. It might be women. You will go back, won't you, Helmi?"

Helmi felt as her knees buckle the bed

"But isn't it a good country, Aunt Lill, like you said? Can't I get work like you did?" she sobbed. "I can work. Aunt Lill, like you did."

"It's a good country, Helmi," said Aunt Lill, her own spirits somewhat like I said, only less are so bad, and it's hard for a young girl alone, and I am so afraid for you. Men just want their own pleasure. Mike was good to me while I could sport around and dance, and while I did not say a word want to him for what he did to men when they got drunk. He takes their money, Helmi. I can't stand that. I threatened him I'd go and tell, and then he struck me with a club. He never comes to see me now. Helmi has made me take this room above the bar because when people pay for rooms they want to sleep. He says, 'You're awake anyway, with your cough, so what's the odds!' Helmi, men are queer and all for self. The trouble started when my little Helmi was on the way. I had her names for you. Men do not like kids, they're too much trouble like was mad and cross at me because I was not smart and was sometimes sick, and when little Helmi came she only lived a day, and he was glad. Then I knew him, Helmi I have him now, and an even sometimes sick, and when one is going to die, but I cannot have it, Helmi, I wanted to warn you not to get mixed up with men they break your heart."

Had All of Them

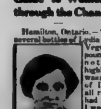
A man wearing a worried look went into a shop which advertised a patent exterminator, and asked for a large dose straight.

"Certainly, sir," said the amused assistant, "but that quantity would be enough to destroy all the slugs in the Queen's County."

"I know that," was the reply "They are all in my garden."

TO WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life



Hamilton, Ontario. — "I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot speak too highly of it as I was at the Change of Life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and sick, and the pains in my back were so bad I could hardly move. I got very sad at times and thought I had not a friend on earth. I did not care if I lived or died. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I did. I am a farmer's wife, and always worked hard until lately, and was in bed for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicines, as I cannot speak too highly of them." — Mrs. Emma Wilson, 471 Wilson Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

Colonial Number of Papers Printed Every Week on Souvenir Street, London

For many years the "News of the World" has been produced in London street a comparatively short time after it has been published from Fleet street to the Thames embankment.

Despite its size, Australia prefers more newspapers than any other street in the world. If the pages of the papers sent out of this small thoroughfare in a week were placed end to end they would girdle the globe.

The vast weekly issue of the "News of the World" would provide a quarter of this belt, for, if the pages were placed end to end, they would make a pathway from London, across the Atlantic across the United States, and a few hundred miles out into the Pacific Ocean on the way to Japan.

About 25,000,000 newspapers are published in Shoreditch street each week, making a bewilderingly total of 1,300,000,000 copies per annum.

To get the 1,000,000 copies off the machines in time to distribute them over the length and breadth of the British Isles on Sunday morning and over the rest of the world as fast as great liners can carry them, the huge battery of printing presses must produce copies of the "News of the World" at the rate of 7,000 per minute or 420,000 per hour!

Each issue requires just four of white paper, 16,000 lbs of black ink, and to tie up the parcels, 70 miles of string.

A new building in course of construction will be the most beautiful in existence.

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe or the Growing Child

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones. Whether it be for the newborn babe or the growing child the Tablets always do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Brewer, R. R. 1, Beech Meadow, Ont., says: "We have three fine, healthy children, to whom, when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulates the stomach and bowels, banishes constipation and indigestion, breaks up colds and simple fevers and soothes teething pain. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Ocean Depth Found

A greater ocean depth than heretofore known has been discovered by the cruiser Emden, the German Admiralty announces. On the way from Celebes island in the Dutch East Indies to Nagasaki, Japan, the officers measured an ocean depth of 35,040 feet. What has up to now been thought the greatest depth is 32,544 feet, off the eastern coast of Japan.

PIMPLES BROKE OUT ON FACE

Lasted Nearly a Year, Healed by Cuticura.

"My skin trouble began with pimples breaking out on my face. They gradually grew worse and spread to my body. They were red and itched very much, and when I scratched them it caused some pain. Scratching caused eruptions which developed as I say. At night I could not sleep on account of the itching. The trouble lasted nearly a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. The sample helped me so I purchased more and in five months I was healed." (Signed) Willie A. Yaremko, 9504-104th Ave., Edmonton, Alta.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN IS NOW IN PROGRESS

The drive for the sign-up of the second series of Wheat Pool contracts is under way and meeting with splendid response. A Wheat Pool Rally was held in Calgary previous to the commencement of the campaign. The Pool delegates, members of parliament, representatives of urban centres, and others, attended this gathering. Addresses were delivered by Premier Gardiner, of Saskatchewan, Premier Brownlee, of Alberta, Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C.M.P., Senator Buchanan, of Lethbridge, Mayor Bury, of Edmonton, Mayor Osborne, of Calgary, and C. O. Smith, editor of the Calgary Herald. In a series of splendid speeches these men urged that the Wheat Pool movement be given generous support, in the best interests of all Alberta.

Premier Brownlee predicted success in the drive because of the great improvement in Alberta's prosperity following the formation of the Wheat Pool. Premier Gardiner predicted that those who looked for the Saskatchewan Pool to fail were in for a serious disappointment. Hon. Mr. Bennett said that the failure of the Alberta Pool to obtain a large sign-up would put agriculture back fifty years in this province.

RECITAL BY PUPILS OF MISS GLADYS FLINT

A violin recital was given in the United church Tuesday evening by the pupils of Miss Gladys Flint, of Edmonton. Those taking part were Helen Pocock, Miss D. Casey, Francis Flintoff, Maurice Anderson, Mr. Shov and Mr. M. Grubb. Miss Ella Kaerman, an Edmonton pupil of Miss Flint, also contributed and was encored.

Miss Jacoup, assisting Miss Flint, responded to a well-deserved encore for her song. Mr. Abadi accompanied.

By special request Miss Flint gave a selection and the audience demanded another.

The local violinists all showed wonderful advancement under the tuition of Miss Flint and the music lovers of the town who failed to attend missed a delightful evening's entertainment.

STANDARD BANK OPENS BRANCH AT SASKATOON

Indicating a growing prosperity throughout Western Canada as well as steady expansion by one of Canada's oldest financial institutions, the Standard Bank of Canada has recently opened a new branch at Saskatoon, Sask.

The branch will be under the direction of Mr. R. L. Allingham, formerly manager of the Standard bank at Lethbridge. Through his service at various centres Mr. Allingham is well known in financial and commercial circles throughout the Canadian West.

The growing importance of Saskatoon as the distributing centre for one of the richest farming regions of the province is said to have been responsible for the inauguration of the latest branch of the Standard Bank.

Josephburg

(Too late for last week)

The lawn party at Josephburg church on Friday, June 3, was a great success. A very large crowd enjoyed music, doll-dolies, ice cream and supper, while a busy trade in guessing tickets was maintained. Musical items included songs by the public school, orchestral numbers by the Hoenig-Unterschelts-Powell trio, a piano duet by Mrs. Ed. Mohr and her sister Ruth, and various others. We understand that the financial results of the evening were most satisfactory.

An equally enjoyable affair was the Deep Creek picnic held on Mr. Wm. Fisher's place last Saturday. In addition to the usual booths there was a programme of races—some very amusing. The feminine green of a certain teacher (in the ladies' race) were only surpassed by the superior functions of his School Board chairman.

A substantial contingent from Josephburg went over to the U. F. A. meeting at Partridge Hill Tuesday evening and greatly enjoyed the fine programme.

The Beaver Hills church is on its way to a new site two and a half miles north. So far its progress is nothing to brag about, but once the wires are removed overhead we expect to see it roll right along.

Josephburg tennis club has embarked upon a tournament, chiefly for the benefit of beginners. Considerable enthusiasm is in evidence, and much improvement made. Now that the summer has caught and protected the mole which was raising cain with the east side of the court, we hope to see fairly good grounds to play on.

CABIN PLACED ON SITE OF MOUNTED POLICE BARRACKS

A cabin is being erected on the provincial jail grounds to mark the place where the R.N.W.M.P. barracks used to be. Stone which formed the foundation for the barracks is being used to make the cabin and a bronze tablet, provided by veterans of the mounted police, will be affixed to it. The grounds have been levelled and seeded to grass and shrubbery will be planted.

Saturday, July 2nd, has been declared a legal holiday all over the Dominion.

Canada's Diamond Jubilee

Only once in the history of any nation does the opportunity come to its people to celebrate the diamond jubilee of its founding. Canadians will say that opportunity on July 1st next, and it is gratifying to note that the celebration will be well nigh universal from coast to coast. Canadians, no doubt would have with equal zest and enthusiasm celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of Confederation but for the fact that in 1917 they were engaged in a life and death struggle in which the very existence of Canada was at stake. The victory won through the great sacrifices then made should be add to the gratitude and pride of our people in this year of the Diamond Jubilee

Children today may have the opportunity of celebrating one hundred years of Confederation, but our adult population will not, and to those who actually witnessed the inauguration of this young nation, and those who have taken part in its earlier development, will no doubt throw themselves wholeheartedly into the ceremonies which will remain memorable this historic event.

It is the regrettable fact that the National Committee created by the last session of Parliament to promote this Diamond Jubilee celebration that it should be participated in by all the people, old and young, in small hamlets and rural districts as well as in the larger centres of population. It is the spirit of the ceremonies rather than in their elaborate character that their real significance will be found.

The National Committee has, therefore, urged that there be at least one simple little ceremony everywhere at the same hour, and have suggested that at twelve o'clock noon on July 1st in every community lawyers small, bells should be rung, whistles blown, and the two national anthems "God Save the King" and "O Canada" sung. And again, that at 2.30 o'clock, on the afternoon of Sunday, July 3rd, a community service of general Thanksgiving be held. For this latter service the National Committee is preparing a simple programme of exercises suitable for all communities.

These are suggestions, which can readily be carried out in all communities, and it is to be hoped that the people of the Dominion will accept the lead of their National Committee and unitedly co-operate with it in bring effort to these suggestions. They need in no way interfere with the larger and more elaborate programmes being arranged in most cities, towns and villages.

It is further suggested that a tree be planted in every community with fitting ceremonies to be hereafter named for and known as the Diamond Jubilee Confederation Tree. Each tree, where possible, should be given a place of honor in the grounds of every rural school throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

As a further marking of Canada's sixtieth birthday anniversary it is proposed that some public park or place in every community be named "Canada Place" or "Canada Square." If all such places already bear names, then one the designation of which has no special significance, might be re-named in accordance with this suggestion.

Every child enrolled in a public, separate or private school in Canada on this Jubilee year is to receive a medal struck in the Royal Mint at Ottawa, the gift of the National Committee. The presentation of these medals to the pupils affords a splendid opportunity to school district officials to plan a little ceremony at which a short talk on what Confederation has meant and has achieved for Canada could be given, and the boys and girls of today stirred to render loyalty and devotion to Canada and celebrate their lives in service to their country.

Like most people living in northern climes, Canadians are not much given to observing their feelings. Their patriotism is something they do not talk about to any extent, and they are seemingly averse to display. But this Diamond Jubilee is one occasion on which the people of Canada may well unbend a little, display their flag with pardonable pride, and let it wave over them good, and especially should the children be encouraged to regard Dominion Day, 1927, as a red letter day in their young lives, and celebrate it accordingly

Source of Chinese Munition Supply

Great Britain is Only Country Not Sharing in Business

Russia has taken precedence, even the credit or discredit of being the chief source whence the warring Chinese factions have obtained their supplies of arms and other munitions of war. Russians have been frequently reported to be serving in both the Northern and Southern armies, and the chief adviser of the Cantonese government during its drive to the Yangtse Valley was stated likewise to be the chief agent in this at the Soviet government, believed to be still in Moscow. Certainly the arms with which the Cantonese most eagerly bolshevik with the Communist ideas. Analysis to get fresh light on the origins of the Chinese munitions supply, the contributor to the Nation and New Athenaeum, of London, England, who uses the pseudonym Scrutator, conducted a private investigation of his own, uncovering a number of interesting facts. Japan, Italy, the United States and contributed both arms ammunition and to both sides, some other countries have been active to a similar way, notably Germany, that country sending to China during 1926 armaments to the value of nearly $20,000,000. Some surprise would be natural at finding Norway in the traffic to the extent of $1,250,000, with Italy next in the list, with more than $1,000,000. United States manufacturers equipped the arsenal of the Cantonese, and Moscow provided military aeroplanes. Great Britain, indeed, was conspicuous inasmuch as it was the only country that did not share in the business.

European residents in China who were compelled to fly before the advancing Nationalist troops left not realize that the Nationalist troops were armed with Western weapons by agents of Soviet Russia, recently Recorder and Times news it, recalls its kinship to that existing during the war when a Canadian troop became the target of shells into whose construction nickel mined in Canada entered. That troops Britain has refrained from assisting the arming of the Chinese redounds greatly to her credit. It is to be remembered that by treaties and internal warfare will recur in China as long as traffic in arms is permitted to proceed without interference from the outside. Let us hope it can scarcely be satisfactory to the people of the United States to learn that the rifle with which Sun Yat-Sen, whose own American, at least, but his life, may have been supplied by a United States manufacturer. It is not practical solution of the difficulty apparently lies in reaching an agreement limiting the traffic in arms and ammunition and ratifying the Arms Traffic Convention to that end. — St. Thomas Times Journal.

Employment at High Point

Returns Show That Employment is Now at Highest Peak Since 1920

Reports up to May 1 of this year from 5,946 firms showed that employment in Canada was at the highest point it has been since the Canadian Government Bureau of Statistics began to keep employment records in 1920.

The payrolls of the 5,946 firms reporting on May 1, showed that there were 820,850 persons employed. Manufacturing, construction and transportation recorded the most pronounced improvement, but large gains were also noted in trade, services and finance.

The official returns on employment in Canada do not include farmers, in mid months of April and May there is always a considerable demand for farm labor to help in the seeding, particularly as in Western Canada, where millions of acres are sown to wheat and other grain crops.

PETER TEACHES GOOD CITIZEN SHIP

Golden Text "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor." Romans 13:10

Lesson: 1 Peter 2:11-17, 4:15

Devotional Reading: Psalm 146 5-10.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Sweetly Life 2:11, 12. "Beloved, I beseech you as sojourners and pilgrims, that Peter addressed his readers. Peter is here speaking metaphorically, he will be true to realize that life is a journey and a goal, and that the attention of that writer which is centered heaven is their aim, they were living as it were, in exile on earth, heaven was their true home.

"The Christian looks for a life eternal in comparison thereof the best things of this life are of little account. It is but as a lodging for a night, and of down the traveller sets forward for his true home.

Since they had but a short time to stay on earth, they must live their brief life nobly. It never was the intention from all Scripture that such should withdraw from the world." — Peter Lorie.

"I am not here to preach to here" proclaimed that the agnosti of so many years ago, the style of Spencer. In addition, I see no attribute a temperance moment in the unwelcome guest. Nor is it the spirit. Philip Gibbs is therefore invitations and may, perhaps, be regarded as the "gentle and ordinate ambition." J. H. Jowett

Marks your behavior among the Gentiles: that, wherein they speak against you as evil-doers they may by your good works, which they behold, glorify God in the day of visitation." Here then is echo from the Sermon on the Mount this seems: "Let your light shine before men; that they may see your good work, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." "the Christ's pilgrim leaves a track of light behind him," he is a witness. The phrase "in the day of visitation" suggests a fear in the apostle's heart that the response of this witness might not be immediate: it might have to abide Christ's second time. The hour of visitation which will also be the hour of illumination will come, and then all the quiet will have told itself the body with. Complete Restoration of Rheims Cathedral

Historic Building Destroyed by German Fire is Again Open for Service

For thirteen years the bells of the Cathedral of Rheims remained silent. Thirteen years have elapsed since the last service was held in the building which for the first time in whole civilized world, became the symbol of France's sufferings, trials, tribulations and regeneration.

Three dates stand out tragically marked in the cathedral's history. On September 4, 1914, the first German shell crashed through the north transept. On September 6, 1914, Mass was celebrated for the last time beneath the noble arches, under the shadows of which Joan of Arc five centuries ago had led the Dauphin to be crowned King of France. On September 19, 1914, the cathedral was destroyed by the fire and the roof and bells crashed in, more than 400 tons of molten lead streaming down into the blazing furnace.

The long work of restoration is now terminated and the keys of the completed building have been handed over to Cardinal Lucon, Archbishop of Rheims.

Bay Ports Inquiry

Some Misapprehension Felt as West Over Investigation

Ottawa, Carrying out the Hudson Bay Railway project is being seriously pushed with some difficulty although it be done There is no doubt about that.

For years in the East, the scheme has been opposed, one leading paper having the in remaining in the "far inside mileage" Parliament, until this session, was either antagonistic or decidedly hot Hon. C. A. Dunning has expressed in recent although with comparatively case the appropriation for the work carried on by the Government of the completion of the line.

Now, when matters have been put by well organized agency in the East Hudson Bay Railway parts of the West because the merits of Churchill as well as Nelson are to be looked into

As has been pointed out, the decision to investigate Churchill does not preclude the development of Nelson. As a matter of fact it is assumed that the presence of inquiring men will be a good test in regard to export. Frederick Palmer, He stated that to be complete his report should include Nelson and Churchill. In the event, his representation would be the same That, in fact all there is in it. Hudson Bay Nelson alone has been considered. Churchill also will be looked over and detailed data secured as to both harbours. The idea behind the Government inquiry will be satisfied with nothing less than the most penalty of the research, but it is expected that the report will be entirely favorable to the Port Nelson

ASSASSINATION OF SOVIET ENVOY TO BE PROBED

Warsaw The Polish authorities have taken drastic steps to determine whether the assassination of Peter Voikoff, Soviet envoy at Warsaw, was part of a Russian Monarchist plot. Voikoff's assassin was a young Russian student named Nikolas Polish authorities have taken steps to ascertain if he had any connection with Monarchist circles in Russia or abroad. Voikoff's funeral will be held in Moscow on Thursday, it is announced. Arrangements for the funeral and the subsequent ceremonies at the graveside will be made by a committee of which Leon Trotsky, Commissary for War, is chairman.

The Russian newspaper Vechernaya Moskva today issued a special edition containing a short resume of the life of Voikoff and a detailed account of the assassination. Voikoff was shot by Nikolas Polish student, as he was leaving the Polish Legation to attend a reception given by the Soviet envoy to the Russian colony in Warsaw. The assassin was arrested and the police examined his papers. Everything possible was done to facilitate the examination of the case. It is learned that the prosecutor inquiring into the assassination of Voikoff is Stanislaw Segner, Friedrich Palmer. He stated that to be complete his report should include Nelson and Churchill. In the event, his representation would be the same That, in fact all there is in it. Hudson Bay Nelson alone has been considered. Thousand Square Miles of Blossoms

Nova Scotia's festival time is fast approaching, when a thousand square miles of one of the world-famous apple growing valleys will be smothered in bloom. One of the significant days in this province is "Bloom Sunday," when people go by thousands to the Annapolis Valley to look upon the white and pink tabernacles of fragrant blossoms. The journey over the Dominion and Atlantic Railway at this time of year affords a trip long to be remembered, as the line passes through the very heart of the apple country. They cover more than 1,000 square miles of the province.

Two million barrels of apples were produced in Nova Scotia last year and more than half of the crop was shipped from this industry can be gathered from the fact that only about one-third of the land available for orchards is under cultivation at the present time. It is the nearest apple valley to the foreign markets and this industry constitutes one of the leading sources of wealth for the Province of Nova Scotia.

THE RECORD

E. Oxley, Editor and Publisher

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 18, 1927

A small boy in Edmonton recently "dared" an acquaintance and the dare, after being made to avoid him for the worst of the days and had to go to hospital. Within the past few days two small Fort Saskatchewan children stood on the railroad track and listened as a freight train approached. Fortunately in this case the engineer was able to stop in time, but had he not been able to do so, another tragedy would have befallen us, another home bereft.

A clean-up of Memorial square has been started.

Jack Kidney and Walter Boyd of Waskatenau were business visitors to the town on Monday.

Did you start reading the new serial in the Record last week? It was written by Mrs. McClung, of Edmonton.

Well! The natives will get a treat on Dominion Day after all. Alf Wootton has promised to appear in plain boots.

Dance in the Memorial hall, Friday, June 17, 9 p.m. to 3 a.m. F.B. F.B. Radio orchestra. Admission $1.00

Partridge Hill defeated the Fort by 11-7 in a league baseball game on Monday. Clarke had a home-run and Hall 3 for the same evening.

The Canadian National Railway having changed the days for running the stock train, the Fort Bank, Live Stock Shippers' Association will on Thursdays instead of Wednesday until further notice.

The Parents of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Clements, of Wabamun, took place at the Fort Saskatchewan cemetery Wednesday, June 15. Rev. C. B. A. Pennell officiated. Deceased child was a grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. McGillay, of Fort Saskatchewan, and Mr. and Mrs. Clements, of Wabamun.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS MEET IN CALGARY

Some 500 delegates representing industrial interests in all parts of the Dominion met in Calgary June 9, 10 and 11 in the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The selection of Alberta as the meeting place of this import-ant organization is an appreciation of the increasing industrial development of the province.

First, for the sake of the nerves of the tradesmen parents should warn their children to "go-slow" on the fireworks, quickly and at a safe time when they have used to cease, and at all other times to keep clear of it. From the point of view of a parent anxious to protect his child from danger he should shield him from the dangers attached to personal conflict with a moving car or weak nerves of the driver. There is no possibility of coming out of it better than second hand. Cover to them that a casualty list from fireworks is not unique. From each an examiner, and at least the loss of a limb or maimed injuries to limbs/face for the rest of their lives. Possibly we have entered the lull of fear in the minds of the present day child but parents should be hopeful for them, and an old-fashioned celebration against the day celebrated. Better than the loss of her fifteen minutes then to fond forever.

"Sign for Safety"

The Second Series of Wheat Pool Contracts

SAFETY because it is a farmer-owned and controlled co-operative Association which markets over fifty per cent of Canada's wheat crop.

SAFETY because it guarantees to the farmers every cent paid by the consumer minus only the minimum costs of marketing.

SAFETY because it increased the farmers income and independence by giving him a voice in the selling of his crop.

SAFETY because it insures the farmer against the losses and uncertainties caused by fluctuating speculative markets.

SAFETY because of low handling costs. The total annual expenses of operating the Alberta Wheat Pool in 1923, 1924 and 1925 was less than one-half a cent per bushel. The total expense of the Central Selling Agency in 1925-26 was one-fifth of a cent per bushel.

SAFETY because the Pool employs experts to handle and sell its grain.

SAFETY because Pool elevators guarantee fair weights, grades and dockage and good service.

SAFETY because the Pool merchandises wheat as the demand arises and thus avoids depressing values by offering more than the consumer will take at fair prices.

SAFETY because the sole aim of Pool salesmen is to get the true value of wheat for its members.

"Are they all bad, Aunt Lill?" asked Helmi tearfully.

A long spell of coughing delayed the answer.

"They don't want to settle down in their home like we do; they don't like kids and a nice quiet life though they will tell you they do. You are pretty Helmi, that's why I am afraid I don't want Mike to see you if it can be helped. He'll want you just like he wanted me. Look, dear, and keep you safe. All the girls are my friends . . . . Remember what Aunt Lill said, Helmi."

Having received the extension of time she had asked for, and his log delivered her message, Aunt Lill gave up the fight without a struggle. The sickness of the room was broken by the stormy sobs of big Kate, the cook, and the two waifs' dark eyes had said good-bye to all the girls in the house the night before. Her last and tenderest words were for her young niece

"If you could only talk English I would stay," she had said. "It is a good country, but it's too hard for a pretty girl who has no English."

"I can learn, dear uncle," said Helmi, kissing the thin white hand. "Like you did, Aunt Lill," but Aunt Lill did not hear.

Mike Lalee, the proprietor of the "Farmer's House," learned in some way of his niece's arrival and asked to see her. He planted her arm affectionately the day of the funeral and told her to call him "Mike" and not the "Uncle" stuff. His burning eyes made her shudder.

One of the girls talked Finnish, and in big Kate's room of the kitchen, a council was held. Helmi was firm in her determination to stay. Big Kate, who had one hundred dollars in tryst for her, urged her to go home; the Finnish girl faithfully interpreting both sides of the argument.

For three days the discussion raged, Helmi during the intervals having washed her clothes and learned forty English names. She also did her share of dishwashing and potato peeling. Her skill in these matters won the heart of the cook, who on the third day wrote a letter to her sister in Winnipeg telling her to meet the train from Saint Paul on a certain day and look out for a "Finnish" girl with red hair and a green Tam o'shanter.

The day that Helmi left, Big Kate made the explanation in the barnyard where, facing the cook, she was not afraid to talk back to any one, and besides, she had certain information which quieted Mr Lalee, celibacy of indignation Miss Katherine Avery was not so large that she could not shovel at the door and apply her eye to a keyhole in such a manner that the whole room and his activities were revealed. Mr. Lalee could not reply to Miss Kenny's accusations and threats of exposure by hitting her over the head with a chair. Such crude methods of dealing with women can only be safely used inside the hallowed precincts of matrimony. He restrained himself by telling the cook he didn't care what she had done with the girl; he had "had enough of those red-tempered Finns, anyway."

With this Mr. Lalee shrugged his shoulders and went back to the bar. He would probably get the girl yet. She would be writing back for money and claiming relationship with him. A girl like that, right off the farm in Finnland, with a pretty face and no English. Some fellow would be too smart for her.

In the Sun line, in the day coach, with her face against the glass, a box of sandwiches beside her, money in her purse and five tea-dollar bills sewed securely into the pocket of her petticoat, sat Helmi, watching the landscape slip past. It was a brilliant day in March. Wild geese were flying north in V-shaped formation; cattle with blotchy coats were running the fields; black channels of water flecked their way through snow; fence-tops were showing like rows of fancy stitching around the fields. At one station, where the train waited to change engines, the boys and girls came out of school and romped down to the station. Helmi was glad to see one girl wearing a rag much like her own. It gave her a deliberate thrill of pride to feel that she was dressed as well as the best of them.

Helmi's eyes were wistful as she watched. "They are not all bad," she said in her own tongue.

The train bore swiftly on. Eagerly Helmi watched the racing, swinging, sliding fields. The sun went down in a crimson mist, showing streamers into the sky, so warm and glowing that it seemed to Helmi like a welcoming fire, where she would find friends, home and happiness. Even after the sunset had paled and faded into the gray of night she knew that it was still burning and glowing and borrowing her further on.

And so came Helmi, young, strong and unafraid.

CHAPTER II.

Margaret Kenny was wiping her hands on the brass-colored roller towel which hung behind the pantry door, preparatory to the opening of her sister's letter, which lay on the drain board. Not for a moment did the elder Miss Kenny take her eyes off the letter.

"It's from Kate in the States," she said, "and as it's trouble. She's adopted a child, or killed a man for bein' his horse, or something. She never writes only when she is in bewit of some kind. Gosh! I often wish she was in jail, where I'd be shut of her, bad soon to her lonesome. I said her the time she sent me the dog that I was done with her. Well, I may as well open it."

As Miss Kenny read the letter, following each line with a red forefinger, consternation settled upon her like a fog.

"Mike! the devil!" she began, "Finn, girl, red haired and—ugly . . . . had to get her away. It was not safe for her here . . . I remain your loving sister, Kate."

"So she remains my loving sister! Well, I am no lovin' sister of hers. She always finds the trouble, she can place it. Will not a whisper wand, can Katy', and the hands is on to me. Well, here's a pretty how do you do, a Finn girl on my English room on the train. Please Maggie. Find her a place. Bhat-at thing in the world. Maggie sorra a thing you have to do, any way' . . . . .

"Here here, Anna Milander, you should be the one to look out for a Finn girl. Listen in this."

The head dining-room girl came languidly into the kitchen. "What's the row?"—she asked.

Maggie read the letter.

"She'll come in at five tomorrow, bad when I'm up to me eyes in the dinner. Now, you go down you can speak to her and be back in time to carry the dinner, too."

Anna's head was flung back. "I think I see myself—I didn't send for this girl—she's nothing to me nerve, I another wage slave coming to take a job. There's too many girls now for the jobs."

Maggie Kenny's face was prevented up in astonishment. "My God," she cried, "is that the brotherhood you learn at your meetin's."

"We're opposed to humiliation," said Anna firmly, "the Government dumps in people here, just to keep wages down. It's the capitalists again. You haven't nerve enough to see it."

"For all the brazen, selfish lumps I ever saw it's you, Anna. When you came here two years ago all you could say was 'Yes.' Who showed you how to make a bed and comb your hair and garter up your stockings. And now, by Gosh you wouldn't meet another girl at the station, and how you were a country and all. Did you never hear of the Golden Rule, do as you would do me by?"

"Old stuff, Maggie," scoffed Anna, "no one believes that now. The idle rich sling that stuff around to lull us to sleep, that's all. It may catch you and your breed, but not us. We've gone a long way past that."

"What the devil do you want, Anna Milander Haven't you a good job, good meals, good bed, better clothes than you ever had"—What ails you?"

"We have nothing to lose but our chains," said Anna lofily. "How long could old Spencer run this joint without us? The world belongs to the workers, but we haven't the backbone to claim it. Suffice this you keep me back with your Golden Rule, and the Spencers get the profits. There's only two classes, those who work and those who live on other's work. Some people earn and some spend. If the workers would all organize we could dictate terms. Some day we'll do it. Then a new day will come."

Castleton, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I thought more there could not be any help for me. I had every nerves pains in my left side and suffered agony every month. One day when I was not able to get up my mother handed me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me completely and I am able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. Letourneau, Box 102, Castleton, Ontario.

Invented Good-Paying Job

Englishman Tramps Around Country Typing Letters for Farmers

On tramp with a typewriter, doing letters for people on lonely farms and in out-of-the-way villages, is a job that an ex-service man has invented for himself in order to earn a living.

He is Horace Woodford, a native of Otley, England, who was a clerk at Hull before joining the army, and afterwards was in turn, hop-picker, ship's stoker and fish hawker.

"I have been making a decent living for the past two years tramping round the country from the early spring to the late autumn," he told an interviewer recently.

"I type letters for farmers and their servants, and when I strike any big public works I always find that the men—more especially the navvies—are glad to have the opportunity of having a letter typed for them.

"I have tramped all over England, Ireland and Wales, and now I am going to try Scotland. My charge for letters, long or short, is 12 cents. I must have typed thousands, including love letters.

"I never knew there was so much romance on the land. The hoar moss stoutly looking farmer feels without their love story in the rough and ready language, was a surprise to me.

"The girls always want a line or two of poetry, and as I have an odd book, of verse I am able to oblige them."

An Unusual Request

A Toronto real estate dealer, who died recently, didn't have his family very much money, but he bequeathed to his children some advice which, if acted upon, will prove to be much more valuable than gold or silver. In his last will and testament he declared that his fervent prayer was that all his "darling children will embrace every opportunity to do good, be kind and loving to all the human family."

If the beneficiaries of this advice ponder over it, and put it into daily practice, they will lay up for themselves riches, both in this life and in the life to come. They will be rich in the affection and regard of their fellowship. Like begets like. If more manifest kindness and love formed the human family, they will receive the same in return.

Money is not everything. As Tennyson has so well put it, "Kind hearts are more than coronets." So fathers who have little or no money to leave to their children may easily do a lot worse than this Toronto father who sought so beneath to his offspring the spirit of kindness and of brotherly love.

Little Helps For This Week

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.—Matthew v. 8.

The pure in heart God's face shall see;
And does not this
Include the whole ecstatic scale
Of promised bliss?
Can souls which His dear presence gain,
Move joy attain?

Certainly as the open eye drinks in the light, do the pure in heart see God.

And so that term truly, feels Him as a presence not to be put by.

—Theodore Parker.

The pure in heart see God in everything, and see Him everywhere, and they are supremely blessed.

—John G Hotland.

Back-to-the-Land

A member of Parliament was a passenger on a steamship which was slowly sinking. The passenger were climbing into the lifeboats.

"Sir," suggested a reporter on board the ill-fated vessel, "here's a chance for some publicity. If you cared—"

"You may quote me as saying," replied the statesman, "that I am heartily in favor of a back-to-the-land movement."

Barnes—"I make my son practice four hours each day."

Red—"Heaven, man, you'll make him hate music so much that he will give it up."

Barnes—"Fine. That's just what I want."

Growth of Winnipeg

Is Now the Third Largest City in Canada

Winnipeg is still the third largest city in Canada, according to figures furnished by the Board of Trade. The population, including suburbs, is 294,-946, as given in Henderson's Directory. Montreal and Toronto are, of course, well ahead of this figure, the former at a million and the latter at three-quarters. City Hall records give the population of Winnipeg proper at 194,932, or a gain of 7,000 over a year ago. Vancouver comes next with about 150,000.

THAT BABY OF YOURS

Keep Him Well With the Aid of Baby's Own Tablets

No matter how strong and rosy cheeked may be he requires a laxative sometimes so that the stomach may be kept sweet and the system clean.

Formerly the laxative medicines given to children were disagreeable nasty castor oil, senna tea, powders and so on. But now Baby's own Tablets, easily administered and pleasant to take, have superseded these. The children like Baby's own Tablets.

Not only as a laxative but in many other ways these Tablets are an ideal remedy for little ones. They quickly relieve feverishness, relieve indigestion, colic and vomiting, prevent constipation, check diarrhoea, allay teething pains and promote healthful, natural sleep.

You can get Baby's Own Tablets at any dealer in medicine or at 25c from a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

One thing about the greedy man, and he who begs along the street; the former always ends up long the latter always longs to end!

Green Meat Quickly—Have you a persistent sore that refuses to heal? Then, try Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the dressing. It will stop sloughing, carry away the proud flesh, draw out the pus and prepare a clean way for the new skin. It is a recognized healer among old and members of people can certify that it healed where properly applied.

Dad—"I promised you a bicycle if you passed the examination, but you failed. What have you been doing?"

Son—"Learning to ride a bicycle."

HOW THE POOR KEEP THEMSELVES POOR

To the Editor,
Dear Sir,

The reason the poor keep themselves poor is mainly in looking for bargains, of getting good (?) merchandise cheap, of for sensational pleasure. This week I have been phoned up asking the price of linoleum with a rubber back. There is not such a thing on the market. What is being sold as such is nothing but Felted, which can be bought in any retail store at 60c per square yard. There were also around the country enlarging photographs man who were taking from $12.00 to $15.00 for enlarging, from $12.00 to $15.00 for the frame and concave glass, the whole outfit could be had in Fort Saskatchewan for $7.50, and superior work, enlarging costing $3.50, frame $5.00, concave glass $1.50.

Any manufacturer who would put rubber on the back of linoleum would be fit for Penetz. I'll put on the face there would be some sense to it.

To buy the so called linoleums with rubber back is about as thrifty as throwing dollar bills in the Saskatchewan river. Looking for "bargains" of this kind means encouraging some get-rich-quicks to an easy, idle, useless life.

NO JUBILEE CELEBRATION AT FORT SASKATCHEWAN

The Record learns from an official source that there will be no celebration of the jubilee of confederation in Fort Saskatchewan. It is thought that the attractions at Edmonton will take so many away from the town there will not be sufficient left to celebrate and that it will be useless to try to compete with the city and hold our own people here.

There may be some who will disagree with this but as an alternative, tentative arrangements are being made with Bruderheim, Lamont and Mundare to hold a combined basket picnic at Elk Island Park on July 1st. All day afternoon and speakers will be asked to address the gathering. More definite knowledge of the programme will be available after the town council meeting Thursday night, when replies from the other three towns are expected.

Look for further and complete information in the Record next week.

Josephburg

R. Hemsig, M.L.A., left on Sunday for a trip with a large party from the legislature into the North country.

Mr. Geo Theeme has just finished erecting a neat little garage on the school residence grounds.

Josephburg community will do honor to the Confederation Jubilee on June 30th at the school grounds. The event will take the form of a picnic with tennis, baseball, football and other sports available. During the afternoon school children trained by Miss Penrose will present a short pageant with costumes and music. The whole programme is under the care of the tennis club and Red Cross committees. There will be booths in the yard, and all profits will be sent to the Junior Red Cross hospitals of Alberta. Good Canadians (and that's what we all are) will be out to make Canada's Jubilee a great day at our school.

Indian Population Increases

The Indian population of the three prairie provinces continued to increase during the past year, according to the report of the Dominion Department of Indian Affairs. The present Indian population on the reserves is distributed as follows: Alberta, 9,063; Saskatchewan, 14,488, and Manitoba, 11,775. There was a natural increase in this area during the year of 388. In addition there are a number of Indian bands in the northern districts which are not yet under treaty. These bring the estimated Indian population of the three provinces up to some 36,000.

Every man must submit to that dignity give-and-take of not having much else to stand on.

The Mosquito Pest

The people of Canada are slowly awakening to the necessity of concerted aggressive action to destroy the breeding places of mosquitoes. Like so many other things with which we stupidly put up, the mosquito pest can be practically eliminated if we go the right way about it, and however fully convinced that prevention is worthwhile. The mosquito is not only a source of irritation and pain, but it is an actual menace not only to human beings but to dumb animals as well.

The United States succeeded in constructing the Panama Canal, where the French had failed largely because the American engineers tackled the problem at first destroying the mosquitoes and then making life unbearable in the Panama zone and were the prolific carriers of disease and fever among the workmen. Panama had first to be made a fit place in which to live and work before the canal could be built. And the campaign which was successfully conducted there has been followed elsewhere in the southern nations.

Apart altogether from the discomfort to humans, and the communication of disease for which the mosquito is responsible, the fact is that the country sustains an economic loss as a result of the tortures endured by horses, cattle, and other animals in the open where mosquitoes thrive unmolested and those creatures have no means of protecting themselves. The question has well been asked, how can animals upon which farmers rely for work and production yield normal production under such conditions? Anything that will eliminate the mosquitoes and free horses and cattle from the irritation which they now must undergo would be repaid many times over.

Mosquito elimination campaigns are now in progress in Banff, Calgary, Winnipeg, and in the Fraser River Valley, and every municipality which follows from this pest would be well advised to follow their example. Inasmuch as the scientific facts upon which mosquito control is based are of general public interest, we quote the following from Toronto Saturday Night, which is to urging Governments to take the lead in these campaigns.

The life-history of the mosquito shows that most of the eggs are laid the previous summer in this latitude, either in stagnant pools, or in places that will become stagnant by a sufficient period of rain in the spring. Barrels, old cans, broken bottles, or any water-containing vessels lying in the open are also favorite breeding places. Rivers or running streams do not breed mosquitoes, but flood waters and snow-melts may produce large numbers of the pest. Lawns and golf courses, open grass and shrubberies do not breed mosquitoes. The eggs are laid in stagnant water, or where there will be stagnant water for a sufficient length of time

Pools that dry up in two or three weeks are of no consequence. The eggs are not affected in the least degree by frost, but hatch out about April 15th, sometimes earlier, June wrigglers, or larvae, as scientists call them. These wrigglers swim and feed in the stagnant pools, rising every two or three minutes to the surface, tail first. On the tail is a fine air tube, which is thrust just above the surface to take in air—exhaust which the wrigglers cannot live. After two or three weeks of this existence the wrigglers change into comma shaped pupae, which in from two to seven days come to the surface, split and liberate the complete mosquito.

Thus, in the life cycle of the mosquito it is most readily destroyed in the wriggler stage by placing on the surface of the pools a thin film of crude oil, a cheap commodity, which chokes or poisons the fine air-tube at the end of the wriggler's tail. This is applied either by wagon-tank or by hand-pump sprayers. Small areas may be successfully handled by individuals with coal-oil or crank-case waste oil from automobiles. Rags, soaked in these substances, may be weighted with stones and thrown into pools.

In these days of machinery on the farm and the almost universal use of automobile, there are oil soaked rags about, dirty waste oil after cleaning out automobile crank cases and parts of tractors and other machinery, and if these waste substances, instead of being burned, were thrown into stagnant pools, of water and other breeding places of the mosquito, the result would be beneficial. The general adoption by people of the policy of spraying all into stagnant pools in the vicinity of their homes would in a few years greatly reduce the mosquito pest in this country, adding to the pleasure of life in the summer months, assisting to check the spread of fevers, and being economical also, as well as relieving our dumb animals of the suffering they now undergo.

Additional information on the subject of mosquito control can be obtained by writing the Dominion Entomologist at Ottawa.

Seventeen Persons in Canada Sentenced to Death and Nine Executed in One Year

Canada's courts pronounced the sentence of death upon a total of 17 persons charged with murder during the fiscal year ended March 31 last.

Nine of these committed murders were executed, according to official statistics available here. In five cases commutation of sentence to life imprisonment was granted, while new trials were secured in the remaining three instances.

Approximately 750 persons incarcerated in penitentiaries throughout the country for various crimes were released on ticket of leave. Approximately 818 applications for release from prison were refused during the period.

Activity of Cells Comes First Says Professor

Professor Martin Mendelsohn, who has occupied the chair of diseases of the heart in Berlin university since 1920, has put forward the interesting theory that the heart is not the prime motive power for life, but an organ which is controlled in its activity by life theory is that the activity of the cells of the body, in absorbing and eliminating, sets in motion the circulation of the blood, which is the motive power for forcing the blood through the system.

Reducing Canada's Debt

Forty-two Millions at Reduction in Last Fiscal Year

Canada's net debt was reduced by $42,000,000 during the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1927.

When he delivered his budget speech February 17 last, Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, could not estimate what the decrease would be since the Government's financial year had still another six weeks to go. Mr. Robb relied on the side of caution and placed the figure at $15,000,000 but was well within the mark he had estimated by the information that he had determined the amount to be approximately $42,000,000.

It is figured that in the last four years the national debt has been reduced by $170,000,000.

In November of this year there are maturing loans of $75,000,000. The minister hopes to redeem one of them in cash and at least a portion of the other while necessary refinancing will be accomplished at a reduced rate of interest.

Fruit Growing in British Columbia

43,500 Acres Now Devoted to This Industry

In British Columbia commercial fruit growing is of comparatively recent origin, but the development of commercial orcharding has been very rapid, especially during the last ten years. The first apple orchard was planted about 1850, but not until several years later were numerous trees planted for commercial purposes. The census of 1891 gave the area devoted to all kinds of fruit as 6,566 acres. In 1921 the census showed a total fruit acreage in British Columbia of 42,569 acres. The most noted fruit district in the province is the Okanagan valley, where some of the finest orchards in the province and in the Dominion are to be found. The boxed apples from British Columbia are in demand on all the important markets in the British Isles and Europe. Pears, plums, prunes, cherries and berries and small fruits are grown on a large scale throughout British Columbia.

Feldspar on Lake of the Woods

U.S. Syndicate Opening Crushing and Grinding Plant

An interesting mining development is taking place at the Northwest Angle, Lake of the Woods. A United States Syndicate is opening up a feldspar mine on the U.S. side of the border. This is the first enterprise of the kind in the north-west. The first year will be almost entirely taken up with the erection of buildings and the installation of the machinery for crushing and grinding plant at the mine, if the quality of the rock proves satisfactory. A deposit of mica is also to be exploited. A company is also developing a feldspar and mica claim on the Canadian side of the border. If the mica is found to be unsuited for commercial purposes, attention will be given solely to the feldspar.

A FAMILY MEDICINE

It has probably never been claimed for Williams' Pink Pills, says Mrs. Joseph Hill, R.R. No. 5, Welland, that "My first experience with this medicine was in my girlhood, when, being delicate and rather sickly myself, I was lost in a badly run down condition and the pale-ness of my face showed health. Later in my married life I had a severe attack of rheumatism. The pain in my right arm and shoulder was so bad that I could not dress myself. Again Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me and after a few months the rheumatic pains and still my daughter Ivy did not feel well. She was languid and tired and lost appetite. She had been a delicate child from birth and I was always anxious about her. Then I got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and soon she was feeling fine. She ate well, slept soundly and her color returned. Pale girls, no matter what their ailment, should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have also been of great benefit to my children. One of my boys was threatened with St. Vitus dance. His fin-ke and face would twitch and jerk. I gave him Pink Pills and after he had used half a dozen boxes he was entirely free from the trouble. I have also given the pills to my little girl, who was anaemic, and in this case also with the natural benefit. Naturally when I hear anyone complaining of not feeling well I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as I know of no other medicine to equal them in building up the blood and restoring health."

Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia and other nerve troubles. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition, and relative a tendency that will carry you well and strong. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Discovering Ways and Means Of Making Northern Hinterland An Integral Part Of Canada

Since Confederation the wilderness frontier of Canada has entirely shifted. Then the province, which now needs a substantial representation in the House of Commons, were known only to Indians, fur traders, missionaries and a few explorers. The first task of the newly formed Canadian government was to arrange for a transcontinental railway to link up the inland settlement in British Columbia; and no matter soon as Edward Blake argued earnestly against the folly of wasting money laying a railroad across such permanently unin habitable areas as the northern parts of the present provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. As late as 1871 Sir William Logan wrote a forbidding description of the site of the present city of Prince Albert to prove that Canada could never live there the year round.

The wealth and habitability of the southern prairies are now common knowledge. Today the push is north. Northern Quebec and Northern Ontario have attracted miners and farmers and are raising vegetables, grains, cattle and even fruits far north of Hazelton on the Skeena. A day in the month of December in the fertile Peace River Valley is rewarding its pioneers. The push to the north is continuous wide, and is on its course. We dare not predict what, by the end of the century, will be the population of the northern central regions, which have all been proven valuable.

The Arctic and sub-Arctic plains alone remain a challenge to the pioneer. Already, thanks largely to Stefansson, this vast expanse is being put scientifically under control. Here are one and one-half million square miles of grazing lands, with their native musk-ox, caribou, bear and wolf, and with their domestic counterparts, reindeer and musk-ox. Here are vast areas of flowering plants. Yukon is yielding her gold, but to Alaska the annual catch of furs is only one per cent. of the furs of the mines in value; and Canada's Arctic waters teem with fish.

The reindeer industry in Alaska has proved so profitable that Lomen & Co. alone ship annually 10,000 carcasses that bring a higher price than beef in the cities of the United States. Inspired by Stefansson, the Hudson's Bay Company has leased for raising reindeer the southern half of Baffin Island—an area the size of the British Isles. If the project of domesticating the musk-ox will be as well and strong. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Finishing Lambs for Market

Good Quality Affects the Most Valuable Roughage

The process of finishing lambs for market has been receiving a good deal of attention at the Indian Head, Saskatchewan, Experimental Farm, and accounts of the investigations being given in the reports of the superintendent. He stresses the fact that in selecting feeder lambs for finishing, good type, growthiness and thriftiness are the primary considerations. It must be remembered that lambs not dressed and matured are subject to heavy dis-count when marketed. For finishing lambs good quality alfalfa is the most valuable roughage. When it is not available, oat hay or hay from other cultivated grasses can be used to good advantage in combination with corn silage and roots. Oats are recognized as the standard grain for sheep, but a little barley may be added. It is generally considered good practice to give the feeder lambs a few weeks on good rape pasture or on the run of a grain field after the crop has been removed, previous to putting them on the feed lot for fattening. For fattening, the roughage should be strongly in quantity and quality, no more being fed than the lambs will clean up. The grain ration should start on a pound per day and gradually increase to 1½ pounds. The latest report of the superintendent may be obtained from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Imperial Solidarity

The vast majority of Canadians will be pleased to see Canada and the motherland ranged side by side, not through unreasoning Imperial loyalty, but because it is evident that in such matters the two Governments think along identical lines, despite similar conclusions, and adopt like courses. That is proof of Imperial solidarity stronger than the other unthinking sort.

Fodder Crops in Saskatchewan

Conclusions Reached at Swift Current Experimental Farm

A deal of information regarding the growing of forage crops in Saskatchewan is to be found in the report for last year the superintendent, Mr. J. G Taggart, B.S.A., at Swift Current Experimental station. A few of the conclusions that appear to have been reached and that are set forth are as follows: That with the exception of corn, annual forage crops are more dependable when grown on fallow that few crops equal oats in yield and useful uses; that annual hay crops are more certain to produce hay than grasses and legumes; that in normal seasons early maturing corn out yields late maturing corn when comparing actual dry weights; that the selection of corn for earliness results in decrease of height in the plant, that it is not economical to harvest and use corn for feed, and that the only way in which it can be profitably used is to pasture it off with live stock such as hogs or sheep; that the thinner plantings of corn generally show a greater development of ear and a higher percentage of dry matter, but that when the planting is too thin the total yield of dry matter declines; that where weeds are a serious factor spring rye and oats and peas are the best of the annual hay crops to grow; that there is no advantage in sowing millet early, but that on the contrary better yields are secured from moderately late seeding; that Siberian alfalfa is the hardiest of the alfalfa varieties as well as the highest yielder

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool

Officials of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool announced that at the end of May fifty per cent. of the wheat acreage in that province had been signed up for the five year period ending the conclusion of the pool until 1932. Spectacles have been prescribed for a near-sighted baboon in the Cincinnati Zoo.

One of the things that links three of our western capitals with the days before Confederation is the interesting fact that each of them was at one time an important centre of the fur trade. Winnipeg covers the site of Fort Garry, Edmonton of Fort Edmonton and Victoria of Fort Victoria.

Winnipeg's association with the fur trade in fact goes much further back. The old North West Company and the Hudson's Bay Company both had trading posts at the mouth of the Assiniboine, and as early as 1738 La Vevandrye, the famous Canadian explorer, had Fort Rouge built within what is today the capital of Manitoba. Fort Edmonton was an important distributing point for the Hudson's Bay Company for its operations as far up-per waters of the Saskatchewan, and north to the Athabasca and the Mackenzie River country. Fort Victoria was for years the headquarters of the Company's trade on the Pacific coast, after Fort Vancouver had been abandoned because of the settlement of the 49th parallel as the international boundary.

Things have changed considerably since the days of Fort Garry, Fort Edmonton and Fort Victoria. These trading posts were centres of a handful of white traders, with their half-breed boatmen and hunters. In that whole vast region there lived what is now the four western provinces, countless herds of buffalo blackened the plains. Today huge cities cover the sites of the old trading posts; three great pro-incial boiling with the magnificent buildings, cathedrals teepee or camp-fires once stood, thousands of square miles of wheat fields have taken the place of the old grazing grounds, of the buffalo, and two transcontinental railway systems follow the river systems that were once the thoroughfare of the fur trader

It seems almost incredible, as one looks at the busy streets and the busy faces in these flourishing Canadian cities of today, that within the memory of men now living, such as was venerable Governor Caniline poet Charles Mair, the only communers that existed in these places were the Indians, who used the only means of communication the canoe or horse or ox-cart, and the only government that of the famous Company of Adventurers of England trading into Hudson's Bay.

In the year of Confederation Winnipeg was merely a village, and Manitoba had not yet been created out of the old Red River Settlement; to reach Eastern Canada it was necessary either to travel by canoe down the Red River to Lake Winnipeg, up the Winnipeg on the lake of the same name, and then by a series of small portages to Lake Superior, or by the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence route from Chicago, which was also in those days in its infancy as regards permanent ports through American territory. The Canadian Pacific Railway was still a dream, and it was not until 1877 that the first transcontinental train reached Winnipeg. Today it takes Victoria like things, and was a little community of hunters to find fourth through-train service of the various great railways which have been an exceptionally optimistic and favorable time to make investments in real estate. Many fortunes were made at that time, and profited what they would in some local trade, also credit.

Canada's Population

According to the latest census estimate of the Dominion Statistician, the population of the Dominion as at June 1 1926, was 8,897,000. At the census taken in June, 1921, the population of the Dominion was 8,788,483. This latest estimate shows that the Province of Ontario has the largest population, of the provinces with 2,910,887; Quebec next with 2,561,000; Saskatchewan third with 921,000 and the other provinces as follows:—Manitoba, 620,000; Alberta, 607,000; British Columbia, 526,000; Nova Scotia, 543,000; New Brunswick, 407,000; Prince Edward Island, 87,000; Northwest Territories, 9,450, and Yukon Territory, 5,450

Believe in Aviation Future

Exploration Has Succumbed to Modern Methods Says Amundsen

Even exploration, the oldest avenue of mankind has succumbed to the expediency of modern methods of travel, and in aviation lies the future discovery of new lands declared Captain Roald Amundsen of polar fame before sailing from Vancouver for Japan.

For this reason Captain Amundsen has abandoned any plans for further exploration and will content himself for the present with tooling of his exquisite, 150 percent journey to Japan is for the purpose of delivering a series of lectures in the principal Japanese centres.

"Exploring will all be done from the air in future," declared Captain Amundsen. "I am too old to take up flying and I do not intend to start any thing which I cannot carry out myself. My trip on the Norge was a mistake. Commander Nobile was a fine fellow. I am no explorer. We did not see things either.

"My exploring days are now finished and I prefer to leave while they were at a height. I have been following trade since I was 15 and I am content to leave it to the younger generation. My travels from now on into the northern country will be with a gun and a rod," he said. He also stated that he particularly interested in the Northern part of Canada above Athabasca and he hoped to be able to traverse the truth in that part again.

Mons Pays Tribute to Men Who Brought Relief to City

Heartfelt recognition of what the Canadian soldiers had done in capturing the city of Mons, where the final shot in the war was fired and the city liberated on the morning of November 11, after four years of German occupation, was given by Burgomaster Malortue, of Mons, at the unveiling of the plaque in commemoration of the historic entry of the Canadian corps into the city.

The Burgomaster replied on behalf of the city to the eloquent address of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, and to tributes paid by others taking part in the ceremony.

Burgomaster Malortue said plaudits long praise to the heroism of the Canadians and spoke of the deep gratitude of the people of Mons for the relief they had brought to the city. As a special mark of recognition, the Burgomaster announced that the following had been made honorary citizens of Mons:

General Sir Julian H. G. Horne, Commander of the First Army in whose territory the Canadians operated; Lieut.-General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian corps; Major General F. O. W. Loomis, in command of the third Canadian Division, and Brig.-General J. A. Clark, who was in command of the seventh Canadian Brigade, whose troops were the first to enter Mons. The latter also has been made a member of the Mons Bar, the Burgess-ater said.

For Burns and Scalds. — Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no preparation required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will cease and in a short time cease altogether.

Making Concrete Lighter

"Causing concrete to give it added lightness is a novel idea, reported from Sweden. While the concrete, a mixture of sand, gravel, and cement, is still soft, fat is introduced into the mixture. This has the same effect on the concrete as yeast has on bread, filling it with small holes. The concrete produced is just as strong as the ordinary product, but much lighter.

Life Of Early Canadian Settlers

Primitive Life of First Settlers in Upper Canada

In this paper we can only contrast the lot of the immigrant today with his predecessors in old Canada after the U. E. Loyalists, who had their own troubles, the earliest settlers had a long voyage across the Atlantic in a sailing vessel, and travelled hither to their destination by the inland waterways or by stage. As they struck out into the wilderness every trade were few and far between — schools, churches, doctors were non-existent or difficult of access. A primitive style of early settlement in Upper Canada is given by the historian Mr Mullen. He describes the settler going into the woods with no more worldly possessions than a gun, an axe and the clothes on his back.

Thus lightly equipped, he took possession of his two hundred acres of closely timbered forest land and commenced operations. The work-ings again with the vigorous sticking as long tree after tree is undercut and tumbled to earth; and the green boughs shine in upon the little clearing. The best of the logs are partially squared and serve to build a shanty; the remainder are given to the flames. Now the axe's mood, the accumulation of ashes of decayed vegetation, is gathered into little hillocks, into pits or solutions, and boiled it up to the but in new if it proves to be fertile. What else did this great Teacher do on that day but hold up these souls to the light to find out in the reflection of the Son of God were fastened there. — Miller.

New Type of Airplane

Invention of French Postman Operated by Compressed Air Motor

A French postman named Ernest Dale, of Longlac, a little town near Avignon, France, who claims to have invented a new form of flying machine to be operated by a compressed air motor and six high pressure air tubes which would permit instant starting, showed a model of his invention on exhibition at the town there. Juxtaposed to the motor appears a novel turbine apparatus which takes in air to replace the air supply which the motor consumes, thereby dispensing with any need of fuel power.

The plane resembles the Santos Dumont model in form. The model shows two transmission pulleys and two propellers, one located over the bow of the machine and the other below midship.

Aside from the compressed air motor which is the most important feature of this invention, the postman's aeroplane distinguishes itself from other flying machines in being able to achieve vertical elevation, and the safety of the pilot is assured through transformation of the wings into parachutes. The inventor of the machine hopes to give it a trial soon of the distance in kms.

STEPS TO AVERT AT OUTBREAK OF WAR IN EUROPE

Geneva, Switzerland — Statesmen attending the League of Nations council meeting here are reported to be resolutely convinced that the time has imperatively arrived to take per manent steps to avert an outbreak of war in Europe.

Fear of such an eventuality is said to be based by the reported attitude of Soviet Russia, following the breaking off ships made relations by Great Britain and the recognition of the Soviet Republic of Poland in Southern Europe another situation presents itself through the break of relations between Jugo-Slavia and Albania.

The Associated Press learns that Germany has been virtually bounded over by the cause of these fears who favor warning threats against continuance of her alleged propaganda abroad and terrorism at home.

At this meeting it is said, points will by the powers which is a possibility it will not be worded as a most move to the Soviet system, but will be drafted from the standpoint that Europe cannot risk another war and that the powers must be guided in the sense that any aggressor is the enemy of all.

Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany is profoundly anxious to avoid any appearance of "forcing a hostile ring of steel around Russia and will probably be the only promise Germany's support to a general anti war movement.

Germany has a special national interest in preventing any armed outbreak between the European powers and Russia as the subsidizing by the latter of communistic activities in Germany is believed to be one of the principle to the Locarno pact on the understanding that German soil would not be utilized for the passage of troops moving against Russia, but as a member of the League of Nations she would find herself greatly embarrassed in preventing the operation of military penalties against any state which refused arbitration and resorted to hostilities.

Will Hear Canadian Appeals

Six Cases Will Come Before Session of Privy Council

London, Six Canadian appeals are on the list for the June sittings of the judicial committee of the privy council.

Among them is one of the Lacour Collieries, Ltd., Alberta, an appeal in which the minister of justice and Attorney-General of Canada is linked with others as respondent touching the jurisdiction of the board of railway commissioners for Canada over provincial railways.

There is also a reference by the Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, Hon. James Cranswick Tory, on questions affecting the constitution of the Nova Scotia legislative council. In this appeal the Nova Scotia government seeks authority either to increase the membership of the legislative council beyond the present statutory number of 21, or dismiss the members of that body at pleasure, the government's aim being to abolish the council in either case.

Would Take Canadian Butter

Good Market in Britain for Saskatchewan, Says Premier

Regina.—That Saskatchewan may shortly be exporting a regular seasonal quantity of butter to the British market, was stated by E. P. Jupp, dairy products manager in London, England, for the New Zealand and Megantic Agency Co., Ltd., during his visit here. Saskatchewan cream cries have frequent manufacturing plants and organizations, and, favored by legislation of an encouraging kind, should be able to ship much butter to the old land, Mr. Jupp declared, it was necessary, however, that the requirements of the British market be carefully studied.

St. Catherines, Ont. — Rev. Dr. Johnston and Dr. W. J. MacDonald left on a trip which will take them to the far reaches of the State River and its connections to the Arctic Ocean. They will cover 3000 miles from Edmonton and will travel more than 1,000 miles by water.

Post-Graduate Course For Canadian Students

Plan Sought to Have British Examining Come to Dominion

Toronto. In order to control the influx of graduates of Canadian medical colleges to the United States, where many of them go for post-graduate work, the Canadian Medical Council has under discussion and arrangement a scheme for the co-ordination of British and Canadian Medical education.

The present system of going to Britain to take post-graduate work places a heavy tax upon which is expended to be in operation within a year for the graduate of a Canadian medical college will be able to take in Canada his primary examination for admission to the fellowship of the Royal Colleges of Surgeons in England for which examinees will require one and one-half examinations.

The primary examinations in physiology and anatomy will be conducted here, but the final examination in clinical subjects will still have to be taken in England. This is expected to result in large numbers of Canadian graduates taking up their work at home for the British examination.

Another activity in which the Canadian medical association is taking upon is the establishment in pioneer districts with the assistance of the Canadian Red Cross pioneer hospitals where the best medical services will be available to people in the hinterlands of Canada as modern and up to date as if they were in a city.

SEEK INCREASE OF TARIFF ON CLOTH IMPORTS

Ottawa Imported shirts were idea between the fingers and imported blankets were pulled easily into pieces before the tariff board by F. J. Campbell, manufacturer of Sussex, Alouette, Ont., to show the nature of importations.

Mr Campbell, in seeking an increased tariff, also sought to have standards established which would make it impossible to sell inferior fabrics for work shirts and flannels. Mr Campbell produced imported shirts which had lost their color after a single washing and soon shrunk so shirts still firm with fast color after two years of wear and wash by a farmer

The Merchant Tailor Association urged objected to any increase on tariff on imported British woolens. It was claimed the British materials were superior in quality and finish, and that the pattern selection was greater than the Canadian.

R. P. Sparks presented the case for the Canadian Association of Garment Manufacturers, not requesting any specific change of duty but suggesting a spread of two per cent. as a minimum between the raw material and the finished product. The hearing will continue.

Narrow Escape of Parliament Aviators

Rescued by Fishing Boat When Plane Wrecked at Sea

Developing Proper Spirit

Canadians Should Think of Canada All the Time

Ottawa "Until we develop a spirit of real nationhood in Canada, it will never become a great country," was the statement of Howard Stutchbury, Canadian Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. speaking here. "The people of the United States always think in terms of the United States. Over there they don't have trade-to-the-Empire establishments they don't have to, for the tendency to consume native products is inherent. That spirit should be encouraged in Canada, and until Canadians think of Canada all the time, Canada cannot become a great nation."

Agree on Tomato Prices

Kelowna, B.C. — Tomato growers have reached a satisfactory agreement with the canneries. The price to be paid to the growers will be $16.50 per ton for Factians, which variety will be grown at Kelowna, and $18.50 for John Baer, which will form the main crop in some of the southern plantings. It is expected 1,000 acres will be planted to tomatoes in the Kelowna district.

The Wheat Pool

H. W. Wood, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Alberta Wheat Pool, says that in forming this marketing organization the farmers took the greatest step forward in three thousand years.

The Wheat Pool enables wheat producers to handle their wheat in their own way and sell it themselves in their own way. The entire force of this great organization is directed towards the desired end of bettering the conditions of the western grain grower.

Every grain grower who joins the Pool now adds that much strength to the Organization. The stronger the Wheat Pool is, the better for Western Canada.

"Sure, that's a thrupp shut your mouth or lose your job. We're slaves, every one of us, but you're one, too, but you love your chains. Anna was not to be suppressed.

"Well, shut or no shut, will you meet the girl at the station?"

"No," said Anna, "I only recognize the claims of the Union. This girl is a scab so far as I am concerned. Your religious stuff doesn't go with me. It's soothing syrup, that's all. This is war, Maggie—we might as well name it, it's war. Now go, and tell me if you want to."

Maggie Kenny, looking after the head waitress as she swept from the room, shook her head. "That's the girl's own talk," she said, "and there's no sense in it. Well, she needn't go to the train, I can get Mrs Spencer herself to give me a hand with the dinner, and it's herself that can do it well, and will make no complaint of it, either. Sure owner she may be, but it's a grand woman she is anyway."

Mrs Spencer, when appealed to by her old friend cook, readily agreed to cook the dinner. She had planned to go to a Tea at the Rectory to raise money for the Chinese, but she would send her dollar instead, and, indeed, she confided to Maggie it was a good job her presence was into the pie crust again, and maybe it was just as good to do a kind turn for a Flin girl coming into the country as for a Chinese, across the sea. The problem of the new Flin girl did not bother her at all. "Any girl that will wash dishes and scrub floors can always find a place, and if she's civil and clean and honest she'll get on, and," added Mrs. Spencer, "we can do with another now the Spring is here and we'll be for turning out the bedrooms."

When Margaret Kenny got off the Brandway car opposite the station a crowd obstructed the traffic, gathered, hooting, and swelling, overflowing into the street. Policemen on horseback shouted, whistles blew, impatient automobile horns gave back derisive answers, and every moment the crowds grew denser. Maggie, unused to entering her jubilee, kept on the edge of the whirlpool, wondering what was causing all the excitement. In a lull in the commotion a man's voice fell on her ear, a hoarse voice tough with shouting. The words were strangely familiar.

"Wage slaves, when will you wake up. The ruling classes, the others, bring us here to do the rough and dirty work, pitting us one against the other to get their work done cheap. . . . Nothing to lose but our chains' . . . they send their paid bodies to scatter us. But the day will come"

Maggie turned away. This, then, was the place where Anna Milander was getting her education; and too bad it was, for Anna was a smart girl as Maggie made her way through the crowd she came modestly upon Anna, hardly recognizing her, for she wore an old cape and a heavy black veil. As Maggie jostled against her in the crowd her cape was brushed back, revealing a heavy stone in her hand.

"Cut that," whispered Maggie in her ear. "Don't be a fool, Anna. Do you want to go jail? Remember it's no law in Canada."

"Law for the rich," sneered Anna, "some for the poor only want us make ourselves, and you're not helping me."

A movement in the crowd swept Maggie on before she could say another word. She hurried into the station and saw that the big clock above the stairway pointed to the hour of the arrival of the train, and already the two Ring boys were forming in readiness for that trouble-d and palpitating stream which would come surging through the iron gates below.

"It's more to be livin' in a country where the whole world come to me so," Maggie thought to herself when two Hindus with their lightly draped head dress walked haughtily by, followed by a colored man and woman with their little girl held by the hand.

"I'm glad I'm white," said Maggie to herself; "a white skin may be harder to keep clean, but it's worth the trouble . . . and even the poor child is as black as a boot,—that doesn't seem fair—but that's God's business and not mine, and I'm glad. Gosh! I hope Katie hasn't landed a lemon on me.

"A red-haired girl in a green tam' —that's not much to go by—there's ten thousand shades of red hair—and every girl these days wears a tam—sloppy, bag-eared things they are, too.

They surged past her, women with shawls over their heads and restless troops of children, uniform only in weariness and muskiness. Maggie's tidy soul longed for ocean of soapy water and mountains of soft towels, and racks of clothes and troops of ministering angels with their sleeves rolled up, to help her. Absorbed in her gigantic plans she forgot her errand, rousing with a start when a hand beside her said, "Maggie Kenny." She looked around to see who had spoken and found beside her a tall young girl with soft brown eyes, red hair, and wearing a green tam.

"Maggie Kenny!" she said again, with a note of enquiry at the end, and an unmistakably foreign accent.

Maggie took her hand impulsively. "You're a smart thing," she said, forgetting that the girl could not understand, "how did you know me?"

Helmi had a photograph in her hand, an old one taken years before, when bangs were worn held ob straight and plastered down appearally with shoe polish. A glass to human slide of a hat, stiff and unrelenting, sat on Maggie's head like a blunt of sand, and the frocks look which were the smallest kotak could imagine was to her eye.

"Say, kid, you're smart!" cried Maggie in admiration. "I wouldn't know that myself."

Helmi laughed, showing a row of shining white teeth. She knew she was being praised.

She touched the photo and then pointed to Maggie's eyes.

"Coral do," said Maggie appreciating, by "Katie Kenny didn't hand me a lemon this time."

The head waitress of the Yale Hotel was absent, lawfully detained, too indeed at that moment that the defective order of roast beef gravy, fried onions, and creamed cauliflower was floating into the dining room from the kitchen table where Mrs. Spencer in a bungalow apron, sleeves and dish cloth, at that very moment Miss Anna Milander was locked in a cell at the central police station charged with having maliciously and with intent to hurt hurled a stone at a policeman. Anna did not deny the charge; she was well pleased with her afternoon's work she had struck a blow in Freedom's cause. It was all rather vague in Anna's mind. She was rather favorably disposed toward socialism as a class, but hating hated the Union she was determined to become "class conscious." Policemen were enemies; so were employers; every one was an enemy except members of the Union. So Anna, having a clear program in her head, sat on her narrow bed in a warm cell, well content. Her picture would be in the paper; she would be praised by the speakers. She had risen from the dull, grey, dusty depths of obscurity, which the speaker called the base of the economic pyramid, and in the interests of her comrades in the underpaid strata had hurled an honest rock. More than that, it had gone unerringly to the mark and the light of achievement burned in Anna's heart. In the fulness of her contentment she sang:

"The banker calls it interest, and whistles the other eye
The merchant calls it profit, and heaves a joyful sigh,
The landlord calls it rentals, and he puts it in his bag
The good old honest burglar—he just calls it swag."

Though not related, Helmi and Anna bore the same name and proudly hailed each other in features and coloring—the same creamy skin, reddish hair, brown eyes and general type. But at the moment they were widely different in appearance owing to the different styles of dress. Helmi wore a coarse shirt, a print blouse, with leather belt, heavily soled boots and home knitted stockings. Anna had long been two years in Canada, had already acquired "style." She wore a surgye shirt, silk at the side, showing a flare of crimson petticoat, with a knife pleated edge; a belted coat, a red Windsor tie, and silk stockings always. The thought of having worn cotton stockings when she arrived in Canada gave her a smothered feeling now—they were the brand of servitude. "Bandages," she scornfully called them.

What Russia Owes

Private British investors have claims against the Russian Soviet Government amounting to £510,000,000, and Russia's war debt to Britain is about £742,000,000 — more than $4,000,000,000 altogether. Russian indebtedness to France is quite as great. Russians appear to be past masters in the art of the golden touch.

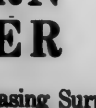
EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Read Mrs. Menard's Letter. Her Experience May Help

Chatham, Ontario.—"I want to tell you how much good your medicine has done me. Before my baby came I felt so weak and run-down that I could hardly do my work. My head ached continually and I was so discouraged that I could cry from morning till night. I had another baby just one year and a half old and it gave me a lot to do. So I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I had read so much about it in the little books. I found a difference right away as my head was relieved and my tired feelings gone. My sister had been doing my washing and she continued doing it, as she said it might set me back if I started to do it again. It sure did help me and I had taken just two bottles when my baby came. He is a fine big boy, now nearly five months old. I am telling your medicine agood I am able to do my work all by myself now. I always recommend the Vegetable Compound to women, and especially to expectant mothers, as I believe they need help at those times."—Mrs. Olivier Menard, 35 Harvey St., Chatham, Ontario.



Says Prison Reforms Carried to Extreme

Jails as Comfortable as Hotels Says Chief of Detectives in Quebec

Asserting that criminals of Canada and the United States no longer fear prison terms, George S. Rioux, chief of detectives in Quebec, ragged "mollycoddling" of criminals in a paper read at the convention of police chiefs in Windsor.

Rioux went on to say that prison reforms had been carried to a ridiculous extreme, and that many prisons now remain comforts not to be found in homes.

The crook gets a better "break" than victims of his violence," the Quebec chief detective said. "He is let loose on society after his sentence is completed, and the worst that happens to him when he returns to society again is that he returns to a place that is as comfortable as a hotel."

Saying that records prove that 70 per cent. of the criminals who have been convicted three times or more go back to their criminal devices when they are freed. Detective Rioux declared that no amount of sentimentalism or "soft stuff" is going to save the misfits of the world.

Refuses to Pay Fees

Reason Elevation of Lord Byng Was Not Been Gazetted

The honorary conferred on Lord Byng in October last on his retirement from the governor-ship of Canada, has not yet been gazetted and the delay is believed to be due to the high cost of fees for gazetting a peerage or elevation therein, which Lord Byng refuses to pay. The rums say thing between £230 and £720, according to the grade. Lord Byng is following the example of other nobles who received honors in recognition of their war services in declining to pay for his elevation.

A GREAT PUZZLE TO CAREFUL PARENTS

One of the greatest puzzles to the careful parent is to know just what medicine to give the little ones. When the child falls ill with griping pains, is seized with cold or fever, relaxes bowel or vomits, what to best take, when he cries a great deal and cannot get the sleep so necessary to the growing child, the parent is in a quandary. What is to be done on such occasions? As often as not there is not a suitable medicine in the house. The puzzle is what to give him to set him right quickly.

It is to meet such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets were designed. These pleasant little Tablets quickly relieve fever, break up colds, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay teething pains. They quiet the nerves and promote restful, health-restoring sleep. They are guaranteed absolutely harmless and safe for even the youngest and most delicate baby.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

First Electric Street Car

First Electric Car in the World Operated at St. Catherines, Ont.

George F. Patterson, builder of the first electric car operated in the world, died recently in Pasadena, Calif. In 1874 he established a carriage building business in St. Catharines, Ont., and later constructed street cars, the firm being known as Patterson and Corbon. It was one of his street cars, controlled into an electric car, that was operated in 1887 between St. Catharines and Thorold. Five years ago he retired from active business at the age of 82.

Record of War Service

The devotion of the Prussian "steel helmets" to the Hohenzollerns is really very hard to understand. The family's record of war services is a very poor one. The Kaiser ran away. The Crown Prince earned the reputation of a gay Lothario. Eliot stole furniture from the country houses of private citizens. — London Sunday Pictorial.

Little Helps For This Week

Vouchsafe, O Lord, to keep us this day without sin.—To-morrow.

Dear Lord, Thou bringest back the morn;
Thy children wake; Thy children pray;
Oh! make our souls divinely yours.
Pour Thy best beauty on the day.

Lead our slow feet that speed of Thine;
Our busy hands from evil stay;
Lord, help us still to make divine,
Still keep us in the heavenly way.

The wrathless plead; the sinners pray;
But, Lord, Thy grace exceeds our sin.
We cannot ask too bright a day;
Too much of Thee we cannot win.

Thomas Hornblower Gill.

Let it be our happiness this day to add to the happiness of those around us, to comfort those sorrow, to relieve some want, to add some strength to our neighbor's virtue.

Lived 30,000,000 Years Ago

One of the world's largest dinosaurs (Torniera), which died about 30,000,000 years ago, is to be put on its legs again at the Natural History Museum, South Kensington. The Torniera lived in the marshes of rivers, laid eggs, and ate floating vegetation. It was about fifty feet long and thirty feet high and weighed something like ten tons. Its bones were found in Tanganyika.

Eczema Covered Entire Body Cuticura Heals

"As far back as I can remember I had eczema. Finally my entire body was covered with it. It broke out in a fine rash which as I grew older developed into pimples and blisters. As a child I used to scratch it until it would bleed, and the burning and smarting were terrible. My face was a sight and I was kept home from school. I was kept awake at night and the torment was awful.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using it I got relief. I purchased more and in three months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Edith E. Mercer, R. R. 3, Brockville, Ont.

Keep your skin clear by using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes. Touch pimples and itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment. Bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water.

Cuticura Soap is sold throughout the British Empire. Canadian depot: Lymans, Limited, St. Paul St., Montreal. Price Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c.

BODY OF FORMER GRAIN BUYER FOUND IN RIVER

That Gordon M. Haines, formerly grain buyer for the Home Grain Co. at Bellis, on the St. Paul line of the C.N.R., committed suicide by drowning after tying his ankles and wrists with hay wire, was the verdict of a jury sitting at Fort Saskatchewan on Monday.

Haines' body was found in the river two miles from Bruderheim last Saturday night, and there were symptoms of foul play until it was pointed out that Haines was a noted swimmer and that the wire was so tied that it was probably tied by Haines himself.

The jury's verdict was that Haines died by drowning in the Saskatchewan river about June 1, and that, in their opinion, he had committed suicide while temporarily insane.

Last week we promised to give information with regard to the basket picnic at Elk Island park, arrangements for which were under consideration. The arrangements are now completed and the town council has had dodgers printed and placed in the store windows to the effect that in conjunction with Bruderheim, Lamont and Chipman a community basket picnic will be held at Elk Island park on Saturday afternoon, July 2, the whole day being declared a public holiday as far as Fort Saskatchewan is concerned.

Weddings

BELLER—BECKER

The Josephburg Reformed church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, when Miss Helen Becker, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Becker of Fort Saskatchewan, became the bride of Mr. Emil Krohn, Rev. J. Hoffman officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dainty white georgette and lace frock, and a tulle veil worn cap style and held in place by orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Vera Becker, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, wearing a green georgette and gold lace frock and carrying pink and white sweet peas. The little Misses Ina and Hazel Becker acted as flower girls, wearing mauve and yellow frocks, and carrying baskets of lilies, and little Miss Verna Becker, cousin of the bride, was trainbearer, wearing a pink frock.

The bridegroom was attended by his nephew, Mr. H. Dittrick, of Edmonton.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a kodak in a leather case; to the bridesmaid a gold slave bracelet; to the best man, a pair of white gold cuff links, and to each of the little attendants, a necklace and a bracelet to match.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served at the home of the bride's parents, where the guests were only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Krohn left for a motor trip to the United States. They will visit Seattle, Portland, Everett, and many other cities. The bride traveled in a black satin and kasha coat, with a hat to match.

Upon their return they will make their home on a farm near Josephburg.

RUDOLPH HENNIG RETURNS FROM NORTH COUNTRY

R. Hennig, M.P.A., returned Monday from an excursion into the north country undertaken by a number of ministers and members of the legislature. The trip was cut short by the train being held up by floods around, according to the residents, by a cloudburst in the foothills. Much of interest was seen by the party, Mr. Hennig says, and though disappointment was felt at its unfortunate curtailment, satisfaction for the opportunity of seeing as much as they did was uppermost. In Mr. Hennig's opinion the north country will be just as good as this district once it has had the same opportunities and time for development.

J. W. E. Marida has resigned as choir leader of the United church.

Obituary

The death occurred on Friday, June 24, of Mrs. Brock, wife of Mr. Hugh Brown, of Fort Saskatchewan, at the age of 72 years.

Funeral service was held at St. George's Anglican church on Monday afternoon, Rev. E. E. Lockyer officiating. Interment was made at the Agricola cemetery.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband, four daughters, Mrs. C. W. Sibold, Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. John Binding, Los Angeles, Miss Lillian Irwin, Pasadena, Cal., Mrs. Arthur A. Widner, Fort Saskatchewan, and two sons, Johnston and Arthur H. Irwin, of Ypres Valley.

Reports from all over Alberta regarding the progress of the Wheat Pool Second Series membership drive are very encouraging.

A successful and well attended bridge and whist drive was held in the Memorial hall on Monday under the auspices of the Fort Saskatchewan golf club. Those securing prizes were: bridge—Mrs. vanHaast, Dr. deBeaupre, Mrs. Eastman, W. T. Lane; whist—Mrs. Geo. Mohr, A. S. O'Brien, Mrs. Struass, A. Gagnon.

Ottawa Should Co-Operate

The Manitoba Court of Appeal has declared ultra vires the Manitoba Sale of Shares Act and the Municipal and Public Utilities Board, insofar as these enactments purport in any way to control the sale of shares in that Province of a company incorporated under a Dominion charter. This decision follows one by the Supreme Court of Canada which, in effect, decided that where there is a conflict of authority between Provincial and Dominion legislation, the latter prevails

In other words, all that is necessary for stock promoters to do in order to get around the measures set up by the Provinces to protect their people from being victimized by unscrupulous promoters of doubtful stocks is for them to secure incorporation at Ottawa. Ottawa has never been provided as proper check upon the stock selling operations of Dominion incorporated companies, it means that they may do pretty much as they please.

In view of these judgments, and the failure as yet of the Ottawa Government to take action as has been repeatedly urged by the Provinces, it is gratifying to note that Western Provincial Governments are again renewing their efforts in this whole subject be placed on the agenda for the conference to be held at Ottawa this Fall between representatives of the Dominion and the several Provincial Governments. Ottawa is being asked to supplement the legislation of the Provinces by the enactment of legislation regulating the sale of shares and securities of Dominion companies.

The Ottawa Government should be just as keen to protect all the people of Canada as is the Government of the Province in its present field chiefly, and it is beyond the comprehension of the average citizen to understand why the Dominion has so consistently refused to do so.

In this year of Canada's historical jubilee the people of Canada are being urged to forget all sectional differences and to emulate the Fathers of Confederation in working unitedly to build up and strengthen the Dominion as a national unit. Any excuse of friction between the Federal Government and the Provinces is a source of national weakness, making for disunion if any Province feels that Ottawa is not fully according their rights on behalf of their people, the result is to weaken Confederation and that devotion and loyalty to Canada, which is so necessary.

In his Dominion Day message to the people of Canada, His Excellency the Governor-General says: "When first I landed on these shores as His Majesty's personal representative, it was my privilege to express the desire that I should take 'co-operation' as my watchword during my life in this Dominion. That word is the message I give to the people of Canada today. I ask you one and all, whatever their origin or race, to respond to me with a common understanding and purpose in all that pertains to the well-being of all proud of and loyal to their citizenship of a great and growing nation."

Ottawa could hardly have a better national watchword, and in the matter of regulation of the sale of shares and securities of Dominion companies, it is high time the Ottawa Government removed its attitude, and instead of being the very reasonable requests of the Provinces, proceeded to wholeheartedly co-operate with them in the common interests of all. The Provinces are not asking the Dominion to abrogate any of its powers, but to exercise them in full co-operation with the Provinces, rather than by neglect leaving the Provinces at the mercy of all and sundry who, in order to get around legitimate Provincial laws, obtain Dominion incorporation and then defy the Provincial laws.

This is not co-operation on the part of the Dominion Government. It is not an attitude that tends to create loyalty to Confederation. Persisted in, it will weaken the national tie. Legislative co-operation is the need to create Provincial control in this way. It is the doubtful stock-selling proposition and the dishonest promoter who is being assisted because of Ottawa's refusal to join hands with the Provinces in the protection of all the people

It is to be hoped that the authorities at Ottawa will catch the true spirit of the Diamond Jubilee, put their house in order in this matter, and co-operate with the Provinces.

Will Discuss World Population

Experts Going Into Subject at Geneva Conference This Summer

Has the world too many people and, if so, what is to be done about it."

This question will be considered at a World Population Conference at Geneva from Aug. 31 to Sept 3. It is the first conference of its kind ever to be held and will bring together biological, sociological and statistical authorities who have come for into the study of the population problem, but who have never assembled at a common meeting table to exchange their views and co-ordinate their knowledge.

An advance notice issued by the Advisory Council says:

"The question of population growth, basic possibilities of increase in the immediate future and the problems of the world population problem at one of the few great issues of today which have not been the subject of concerted international action."

Montreal Professor to Study Methods of Iceberg Destruction

Dr Howard Barnes professor of physics at McGill University, interna tional authority on ice is now preparing for another trip to Newfoundland to continue his researches in the destruction of icebergs in summer. He expects to leave with his party in two weeks and will spend several months continuing his work studying particularly the effects of thermite in cracking the icebergs and so making way for evaluating effects which lead to their speedy destruction

This will be the eighth iceberg expedition that Dr Barnes has engaged in since 1910. He will be able to take up the work where he left off last summer and expects that the experiments this year will bear particularly fruitful results

English Boys Making Good

Brought to Canada for Farm Work Have Proved Satisfactory

A total of 1,321 English boys have been moved from the Old Country and placed on farms in Quebec and Eastern Ontario by the British Immigration and Colonization Association according to figures at the annual meeting Already this year the association has moved and placed 404 boys, and the hope is to push the record up to reach 700. More than 90½ per cent. of the boys have turned out satisfactorily, and more than $15,000 has been saved by these boys and their wages and placed in banks to be turned over to them when the periods of supervision are ended.

Artificial Cotton Fusible

Another Useful Product Can be Made From Wood Pulp

Now that Canadians have become quite accustomed to their rayon silk, hosiery and underwear, it is time the country furnished another startling example of the multiplicity of useful products which can be made from wood pulp. This time it is to be artificial cotton. If the prediction of Dr. Harold Hibbert of McGill University comes true. Speaking at the Chemistry Convention recently he said: "The material by which we can extend the usefulness of our pulp is by substituting it in Canada for cotton in all its forms. This is being attempted by the chemists of the Dominion today and it is feasible. The successful substitution of wood pulp for cotton would benefit Canada in many ways."

University Leaders Should Tackle Problems of Nations Says Coryle

Sir Arthur Currie, president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities, pleads for a wider field of education. He believes that universities leaders should tackle the vital problems of the nations. Governments, he says, would receive better service, and they would likely accept the constructive services of the conference.

Sir Arthur touches on a vital question in education. It is, in short, a question which affects the very life of the future university. It is a problem or bridging the gap between the academic and the practical.

Spending Year in Holland

MacMillan Has Taken Snowmobile as Part of Equipment

A snowmobile is part of the equipment which Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, took with him on his famous schooner Bowdoin when he sailed for a trip of scientific study in the Arctic. He told something of his plans when in Boston recently in response to the solicitude of the Bowdoin schooner Radio which is chartered from the Boston Marine Supply Co as a companion ship to the Bowdoin

The Radio was fended with well-heard and other building material which will be used to erect a permanent scientific station near Knob in Northern Labrador MacMillan's party numbers 25 of whom 12 will remain with the explorer for studies in the botany, geology and fisheries of the region.

The Bowdoin will carry the scientific equipment and supplies, as well as the snowmobile and dog sleds. The sleds will be driven by Eskimos for into the interior in search of polar bear and walrus.

Besides studying the salmon and trout of Labrador, MacMillan hopes to classify many other fish which he says have long been known but have not been given names by the natives

Mystery of Science

Hundreds of Live Clams Found 20 Miles From Sea Coast

One of science's choice morsels of mystery is believed to have been uncovered when a bed of hundreds of live clams was found perched on side of Scotia's bluff, twenty miles south of Truro, N.S., and about the same distance inland from the Bay of Fundy.

Workmen operating a steam shovel on the Northwestern Pacific railroad, biting with the shovel into the side of the bluff, approximately 120 feet above sea level and some eight feet below the Red river, silently broke upon a path through the Devonian colony

Those making the discovery said the clams did not resemble the fresh water variety, but were similar in the Tazee clams of salt water.

Over 60,000 Children Brought to Canada by Various Societies

The annual report for 1925 56 of fi, Duncan Bisset, Superior of Juvenile Immigration, in the Department of Immigration and Colonization, shows that since the year 1901 the number of children sent to Canada by various philanthropic agencies or societies, is 83,986. Of these 26,345 have come under the Dr Barnardo Homes, while two other agencies that have brought 14,518 and 8,529 juveniles respectively, have now amalgamated with the Barnardo institution. For the year ending March 31st 1926, 1,062 children—1,000 boys and 272 girls—were brought out to Canada.

GAINED IN HEALTH AND IN WEIGHT

Now Gives All the Credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

When a person is in a nervous, run-down condition, when the blood is thin and weak, when there is constant headache, dizzy spells, heartburn or stomach trouble, he should know that these are some of the many symptoms of anaemia, which means that her blood is thin and weak in the blood corpuscles. The most urgent need for a tonic that will help to restore the missing quantities to the blood and thus bring back health and strength. For this purpose there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Thousands of weak and ailing girls have found new health and happiness through this medicine. Miss Gladys V. Bond, Kentville, N.S., used this treatment successfully and says: "I cannot praise Dr Williams' Pink Pills too highly for the good they have done me. I was in a condition of very poor health suffered from severe headaches and nervousness. My appetite was poor, and very little exertion would leave me tired out in the parlor of a friend I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In a few weeks I began to feel better, my appetite improved, and the headaches were less frequent. I continued the use of the pills until I had taken six boxes, by which time I felt as well as ever, and I gained 10 weight from 99 pounds to 114 pounds. For this reason I advise all weak girls to try this medicine"

You can buy Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism neuralgia, nervousness and stomach trouble. Take them as a tonic and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. How Education and Training Helps the Farmer to Meet Highest Measure of Success

Even at this late day farmers are still to be found, here and there, who ridicule the idea that college courses in agriculture, or higher education in general, can benefit the farming industry. They deny the investigation of scientific methods and the application of these to farming operations and problems. Disregard altogether from the fact that higher education opens the door to intellectual enjoyments invaluable to every individual—man and woman. It is worth while examining the situation from the lower standpoint of dollars and cents. President Glenn Frank, of the University of Wisconsin, who has been investigating the matter, asks whether it pays the boy who wants to be a farmer to go to school, and presents various facts he has unearthed that arrest attention. He mentions that no less than twelve agricultural states in the Republic have made surveys for the purpose of tracing just what effect common school, high school and college training has upon the earning capacity of the farmer.

In Texas it was discovered that an uneducated farmer might earn $90, one in four years, while a farmer who spent twelve of the forty years in school might earn $10 000 in the same period. Then, to say, the farmer who spent twelve years in school will earn $10,000 more in forty in years than the farmer who never went to school. In the twelve years the Tex as lad will have spent 2,160 days in school. There are 14,600 days in the end of forty years, or an average of about $0.25 a day for every day spent in school. Not bad wages! President Frank commends.

In Georgia it was discovered that the annual net profit of the farmer with a common school education was $645.94; the annual net profit of the farmer with a high school education is $986.56, while the annual net profit of the farmer who has completed an agricultural college course is $1,354.

Wisconsin's experience showed that farmers with a high school education acquired the ownership of their farms to about seven years earlier and netted more. 85 appetite was poor, and very little exertion would leave me tired out in the parlor of a friend I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Canada's Telegraph Service

Number of Wages Handled Last Year Shows Big Increase

Dominion statistics recently issued show that more than 13,000,000 telegrams were sent out in Canada last year, over various lines, representing an increase over the preceding year of 782,000 telegrams, or 6.6 per cent The Canadian National Company handled 5,838,396 messages, the Canadian Pacific Company, 5,162,151 messages, Western Union, 779,188, Dominion Government service, 252,796; Terminalcoming and Northern Ontario, 126,719, North American Telegraph, 13,238, and Marconi Wireless, 28,334 No less than 2,101,000 messages were received in Canada from United States sources.

A total of 1,919,235 cables were sent from Canada last year and 5,467,464 cables were received. Money transmitted by wire increased in proper tions, last year's total being $17,790,157, or over a million dollars increase

The report shows Ontario to have the greatest wire mileage with 103,392 miles, Saskatchewan, 37,351 miles, and Quebec 35,536 miles The Canadian National has 1,933 offices in operation, the Canadian Pacific 1,510 offices, and the Dominion Government service 1,085. The Favourable Prospects

Good Year is Indicated For the Farmers of the West

Despite the delay in seeding caused by backward weather the Western crop outlook becomes more encouraging with the passing of time. A recent report from Winnipeg stated that the acreage sown to wheat this year was placed at 17,500,000, as compared with 21,000,000 acres last year, but that the harvest may equal the bumper crop taken in 1915 from 13,000,000 acres. The decline from 1926 in acreage is not all lost, however, as much of the land not put into wheat is being used for coarse grains.

Alberta has not suffered like the two other Prairie Provinces So far a record crop is being talked of there. Growth is proceeding normally in both Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and the reduced acreage is not rousing unqualified dissatisfaction. The Saskatchewan Farmer points out that prevailing conditions will give the farmers an opportunity to put up a good light tilde year against weeds and insects. Besides this, the coarse grain problem, while there will be more summer-fallowing and intertillage planned, is somewhat eased. Under this system dire moisture has helped out the grass and provided badly needed forage for dairy cattle

Apparently there is ample reason for looking forward to a good harvest from the West on the whole Toronto Globe.

Superior Pulpwood On Vancouver Island

Development in Paper Industry Small in Comparison With Resources

It is stated that two thirds of the British Columbia coast line, which is 125 million feet—is located on Vancouver Island and that it is of super ior quality for pulp and paper and very dense in stand. Moreover there is distributed over the island about 500,000 undeveloped horsepower available for power. Seven falls waterfalls awaiting harnessing to supply power for the pulp and paper mills of the Island exist. Though 43 million dollars has been invested in the pulp and paper mills of British Columbia, this development is comparatively insignificant in comparison with the province's resources, and its survival and possible growth in the eastern United States Asia and Australia

An Old Age Industry at St. Andrews

Old Frank Atwin's four score years do not hinder him from turning out some of the finest models of the Indian canoes made by the Indians of New Brunswick This trail-hardened Malecite, photographed above, is bending a fashioned model of a canoe of which very little is known, being that of one of the sea-going vessels used by the Indians. In them they used to coast the shores of the Atlantic and according to old timers some crossed hugely during trips were made.

St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea where this Old Indian lives with some of his tribe members has an attachment of Indian romance and adventure that always appeals to the tourists to that part of New Brunswick. Many place names are drawn from the language of these people the Canadian Pacific's hotel "Algonquin" at St. Andrews being a well-known example of this.

As old friend of Atwin's, John Nicholas, died last year at the age of 103 from an accident he met with while deer hunting. These hardy Indians are the descendants of Indians met by Champlain and De Monts in 1604, and still speak their old language and observe their old tribal customs

Canada's Trade In Furs Has Been Reaching High Levels During the Past Few Years

Ploughing Under Fens As a Green Manure

Experimental Effort is Declared to Be Following Crop

The ploughing under of peas as a green manure has resulted in a substantially increased yield of wheat the following season as compared with that on bare fallow The detriments effect has also been quite apparent in the net crop following the wheat. These results were obtained in a series of experiments covering 13 years, conducted at the Brandon, Manitoba, Experimental Farm. The yield of wheat following bare summer-fallow averaged 25 bushels per acre over 13 years against 34 bushels per acre which peas had been ploughed under in early July and 32 bushels where the peas had been ploughed under in late July. The difference in the case of the oats following the wheat was still more striking. The ploughing under of peas possibly increases to some extent the nitrogen content of the soil, but made no difference in rendering the green manure crop. The experiments were made on a rich loamy clay soil and the results have emphasized the fact that moisture is a greater factor in increasing yields than fertility in a soil which is lacking in the essential elements of plant food. The increases are even more definite when the cost of seed and the extra labor involved in preparing a seed bed for the peas are taken into consideration.

Before the entry of the British into the fur trade of Canada, the chief centres were Leipzig, Amsterdam, Paris and Vienna The monopoly held by the Hudson's Bay Company and the commanding position it had won was such that the main current of the fur trade in Canada went to Great Britain; London became the leading fur market and its continues until recent years

The Great War brought revolutionary changes in the fur trade a result which was the establishment of practical computing fur centres in Canada and the United States which distributed the sale of American pelts on the London and other European fur markets St. Louis began to hold fur auctions in the year 1910, but these were discontinued in 1914. New York fur auctions commenced in 1916 and those of Montreal in 1920, attracting buyers from all parts of the world The combined value of the pelts sold at these three fur auctions totalled many millions of dollars in one year, which is not greatly lessened by the discontinuance of St. Louis. Western Canada has also shown considerable enterprise, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver having established fur auctions. A development affecting the Canadian consumers of furs is the provision made by the Provincial Government of Alberta through its Department of Plant Industry to encourage even more definite when the cost of seed and the extra labor involved in preparing a seed bed for the peas are taken into consideration.

Less Electrical Power For Domestic Use

Five Countries Are Ahead of U.S. in Proportion

For a country so highly developed in up-to-date methods, it is surprising to learn that the United States is relatively backward in the domestic use of electricity Switzerland, Japan, Denmark, Canada and New Zealand, in the order named, are ahead of the United States in the proportion of homes wired for electricity. One factor that has a vital bearing on this situation is that many areas of the United States are lacking in water power necessary for the economic production of electric power in that regard, Canada is singularly favored

Reindeer Farming is Being Investigated

Danish Experts Studying Possibilities in Barren Lands of Northwest

The founding of a reindeer industry in barren lands of the territory is being delayed by the federal department of interior pending report from Danish experts now in the Danish experts from Greenland

The department has received an application from a Danish syndicate for permission to start a reindeer farm on the barren lands. However, there is considerable uncertainty as to the reasons available, and, until this is decided, the application will be suspended. The investigation is being conducted by Ronald Brothers, who entered the barren lands early in 1926 and are expected back this autumn. If their report is favorable the department will encourage the founding of the industry, and probably will start a government herd, bringing over a small herd of reindeer from Norway.

China's Population Decreasing

Due to Abnormally High Death Rate Says Statistician

China, with its enormous millions of people, its crowded streets and villages, has a very low rate of population increase in recent years later by because of the great proportion of death. This fact is shown by a new study of Chinese resources since 1741, made by a Chinese insurance statistician named Changhin Chen

In 1741 the Chinese people numbered not only about 2 times as more than the United states population of today) and in the 85½ years following 12, the population more than doubled, adding to the value of 15 to the 1 000 people every year In the next half century the population increase slowed down to less than five additions a year to every 1 000 people From 1878 down to 1927 the rate of addition has been only about 3 a thousand. This Mr Chen says is lower than the rate of population advance in any other country except France.

"The real increase of natives of the white race since 1800 has been 11 a year," he says "This means that the total increase of the Chinese population in modern times has been not quite one-third as fast as that of other countries

The Chinese population reached the ten million mark back in 1924, according to the census figures figured since that time it has advanced only to 22½ 270,000, and the statistician believes that it is now increasing at the rate of advance is one to high death rates rather than to low birth rates than does not need any discussion because of the presence of present, he adds, but high death rates are not to stay forever.

How to Avoid Cancer

That celebrated British surgeon and cancer authority, Dr. Robert Bell, M D F R C S E &c voluntarily sacrificed his highly lucrative surgical practice when, after long years of exhaustive research and practical experience he boldly published the following statement of vital import to the cancer stricken civilized world:

"Cancer is a blood disease and this breeding ground is the even Neither X-ray nor radium has ever cured or will ever prove of use as a cure for cancer From my knowledge of the disease I affirm that the knife has never cured cancer in a single instance; but on the contrary, has only succeeded in aggravating the disease and adding to the sufferings of the poor patient."

Countless thankful patients living today mourn the passing in 1926 of the author of the above quoted words and if Dr Robert Bell's profoundly convinced warning is now needed, it is possible for the public to realize the devastating Cancer Scourge a more motley of history.

"Civilization has to speak-file for depleting the potash of the abundant by-product vegetable ashes essential to the building of healthy blood and resistion of which has been truly described as "candle-ma fossils" which exists a superabundance of in the low by-products in the new practically universal complaint of consti pation that is the veritable secret nest of cancer and of which per centum of all civilizations physical maladies.

The active iritine contained in pulp, peppermint and tarantine, com bined with their own partial relief, restored Dr. Robert Bell to soundly condemn their use—being injurious and dangerous. An Ancient Custom Ointment was a method employed by the ancient Britishers of banishing sickness whose influence was consid ered personified in the statue. A day for casting was fixed when the people were to send earthen tablets or shells, the name of those whom they feared had been sick thousand cases were necessary to drive a man into exile To exercise their power of ostracism, or to guide from a certain social circle.

Golden Text "What doth Jehovah require of thee but to do justly, and to love kindness and to walk humbly with thy God" Micah 6:8

Lesson, I Samuel 8 chapters, 9-11 International Reading Points 1 Sam 8 9 10 11

Explanations and Comments

By Samuel Rendlemar of Lord's Lessons 10 11 12

The prophet Samuel called the people together at Mizpeh and reminded them that God had delivered them as a people in former days from the oppression of the Egyptians and of other kingdoms, and that they were rejecting God in demanding a king

"Forget not all the mumbles of the Lord

By which the Lord hath led thee."

"Now therefore present yourselves before Jehovah by your tribes and by your thousands" Was the result to be obtained a square k. "A lose man has said that to make the best of things is the trick of the wise" In choosing make the best of the To do what pleases God He made the best of his circumstances in all affairs in the right way he could doing all he could to carry out what must be although he was but little and having learned to cut the best that was in him may positively personality, greatness of spirit that does about all that is contemptible and petty

The only thing to exhibit the in establishing because we must. It is quite another thing to submit cruelties and let the inevitable make the best of us

If The Selection of a king, in the Samuel considered the will of God of a king by lot of Urim and Thummim Exodus 28 30 Leviticus 8 8 and this

The lot is cast into the lap But the whole disposing thereof is of Jehovah

It is thought that the lap here stands for the hands of an urn or vase. The arrangement as shown by lot (Lev. 16:8); the location of the Urim and Thummim is unknown, but by lot (Num. 27:54); the typing of Achan was discovered by lot (Josh. 8:14-21).

First, the tribe of Benjamin was taken; that is evidently by lot from among all the tribes; then the family of the Matrites from among all the families or clans (thousands), then a man by name of Kish, and by lot Saul himself. When they looked for Saul he had disappeared. The people then sought to know God's will either through Samuel the prophet, or by means of the Urim and Thummim or the breastplate of the high priest's ephod; see Exodus 28:30; Num. 27:21; 1 Sam. 23:6. The answer came. "Behold, he hath hid himself among the baggage." They found Saul and brought him forth, and when he was seen that he was a head taller than all the rest, they thought this fitting that he should be the king. Compare ye him whom Jehovah hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people" asked Samuel.

Watched Stained Glass Windows

Natives of India Raised Money to Build Church

In the centre of a Christian settlement in the jungle at Medak, Hyderabad, India, stands a Christian church of the proportions of a cathedral this is the central place of worship for the great community of Indian Christians, who live on the slopes, who have gathered around the Rev. C. V. Pannett a Welsh missionary who came to India in 1902 and has been with in this native state. The church was opened a year ago, but there are many buildings belonging to its beautiful interior, despite the marbles and many tinted tiles. There was no stained glass in the windows. Nine thousand Indian Christians, most of them former outcasts, have given the money for a window, designed by Prank Salisbury, a well-known British artist. The subject is the Ascension, and Mr. Salisbury says of the window: "The dominant of the design was that their Church should be as beautiful as any Mohammedan mosque or Hindu temple, and I trust that my work will help them to realize their ideal of beauty as an aid to worship."

Canadians Coming Back

Trend of Travel to U.S. Has Been Reversed This Year

No less than 75 moving vans conveying the household effects of prominent Canadians have entered at the Port of Rock Island during the present season, according to a customs official who stated that there had been reversal of the trend of travel from last year. In recent years, he said, the many summer months would see from 50 to 60 of such vans moving south, but this year the movement is northward. Enquiries showed that many of the returning Canadians are going back to the farms which they left.

Constructing Large Elevator

New Building at Port Arthur for U.S.G. of Canada

Work has begun on the construction of a 5,500,000 bushel elevator for the United Grain Growers Ltd. of Canada at a cost of $2,000,000, and is to be completed by February, 1939. This elevator will be the largest single working elevator, constructed in one unit, in the world. The building will measure 200 feet by 1,400 feet. It will be an all-concrete structure with 500 concrete storage tanks. Adjoining it will be a dock 1,000 feet long.

MORE HARMONY IS IN EVIDENCE AT GENEVA MEET

Geneva. — Conciliation is taking shape among the divergences of the powers study of the naval disarmament here Great Britain's desire to reopen a class struggle at the Washington naval conference may be partially appeased by a proposal from the United States to relegate to college professors, especially that no arrangement made at Geneva will tee people dive the results of the second Washington conference to be held in 1921

There emerged from a discussion between Hugh Gibson, head of the United States delegation, and Admiral Nobu of Japan, the possibility that the Japanese reservations on the point of submarines in cruiser strength might be removed by a new position to make the relative strength of the United States and Japan 5 of a rather than 7 5

Indications are that the Americans object no longer to public disclosure in establishing the program

In the British German matter of regarding the affairs of the Washington conference, it is pointed out that by the very terms of the Washington treaty the nations must continue to determine whether the delinquents are living up to their qualitative and modification of the Washington decisions, as to the size of individual cruisers and battleships. This is to be decisively made by the powers themselves, and Admiralty reports pertaining to submarine strength are to be submitted to the Washington conference.

If the Japanese plan were accepted, it would give Great Britain a considerable higher percentage of warfare than the United States, and more will have to be found to justify such a disparity in battle strength. The Japanese, however, are said to be willing to let Britain have the battleship strength it wishes, but have refused to accept the principle of parity in cruiser strength.

Dr. Merchant declared at the latest session of a naval conference that the primary cause of the failure of all three plans to establish parity, on paper at least, between the two navies was because Japan refused to give Britain power to decide whether they felt to build up to the treaty declared parity

APPRECIATION OF TRAVELLING CLINICS

Letters continue to come in to the Department of Health. Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Health, expressing appreciation of the splendid work being done by the travelling clinics under the charge of Dr. E. T. Washburn, which is bringing medical service to many outlying communities. Mrs. R. Charles Fraser reports that at Nose, near Carmangay, operations were performed on over thirty children, in addition to those given dental attention and prescriptions for glasses. Bassano hastens, states Mrs. Fraser, that this service is one of the greatest the government has ever undertaken.

At the four points visited to date since May 15 a total of 89 operations have been performed, 264 consultations have been held and 139 dental treatments have been given. Requests are being received from many other districts for the services which the clinic is rendering.

The Wheat Pool Method is Vindicated by Experience

The fact that the Alberta Wheat Pool has increased its membership by some 14,000 farmers since it was formed, offers strong proof of the success of this farmers' marketing organization. The membership in 1923 was 25,000 (in round figures). Today it is approximately 39,000.

Acknowledge the Pool has Helped

The stabilizing effect of the operations of the Canadian Wheat Pool in the Wheat Markets of the World is acknowledged by leading Old Country importers, millers and bakers.

Practically all non-Pool farmers admit the Pool has helped and is helping them. There is no good reason why any farmer in Western Canada with grain to sell should not market it through the Pool. Every new Pool recruit adds to the influences of the organization. Businessmen, professional men and statesmen all testify to the beneficial effects of the operations of Wheat Pool.

Outside the private dealers in grain, and kindred interests, the Wheat Pool has no enemies!

Is the Pool Not Worthy of Your Support?

No matter what anyone says to the contrary, the Wheat Pool has exerted an upward tendency on prices both in and out of Canada. The Pool has meant fairer dealing to the farmers and a more satisfied and contented countryside. It has meant "better living" for Alberta farmers.

Are these not worthy objects? Has not the achievement of the Wheat Pool been a notable one? Is it not worthy of your active and loyal support?

Mrs Grosvenor presently arrived at the golden age at which the direct curiosity leads to cold, and she would be intrusive and impudent for the mere sake of questioning. She could not help questioning, however, and if Mrs. Grosvenor would have to make this little thing, stirring bed if you call it a bed. That was something Instead of attending to other people and emptying trays and washing dirty dishes, someone was going to do it for her, Beauty!

So Anna sat on her narrow bed a prisoner before the law but not cast down or desolate. She had found her own little painted fire, and she had not yet found out that there was no heat in it

CHAPTER III

Meanwhile, Helmi washed the multicolored tomatoes globes at the Yale Hotel basin beds and carried trays and learned new words every day. English language in Helmi's Lands became a simple thing She took no account of its idioms. She did not see why the man who brought the bread should not be called "the bread-er," or why if the cat licked up its milk Mrs. Spencer would mind if she said in answer to a phone call "Mrs. Spencer is out licking up tea." It was rather bewildering, and how was Helmi to know that the mower was loud to do with the electric light she thought he must be the butcher.

Helmi's outbursts of temper gave Miss Spencer concern. The first one was directed against Martha Dwyer, the two legged English girl who washed dishes, and to whom Helmi was now assistant.

Martha had washed dishes in her own untidy way all her life, no one taking notice of her methods. The rush, consumed with roast, and pies and such important things, could see very well rumbler her mind with the details of dish washing Martha always had the dishes ready for the next meal and that was about all that mattered.

Martha believed in perfumation by fire as well as by water, so she frequently left the grease on to burn on the stove until the burning smell caused someone to investigate Helmi had seen Martha's cleansing process by, to which Martha had given the proud name and scornful attention. Martha had the British tradition inculcated by years and years and centuries to could tell her nothing.

Martha washed dishes in the dining room like the sink without scraping them, turning on the hot water when she was ready, and sub-consciously enjoying the unhappy cats scurries and yelps from the scrubbing and quietly found Helmi broke into a storm of Finnish rage when she saw it, and for the same rum away pouring the greasy out the sink Then she scraped the dishes until even the chicken bones were in peril yet there is bone pile on the table, scanned the sink and proceeded to show the lady who had been born within the sound of Bow Bells how dishes should be washed Martha watched in rude and stiff mind silence She hated dish washing any way, and saw nothing in it but a means whereby she could earn money to buy herself some street clothes that had a "sweet" a skirt watchman at the Parliament build ings and she believed he meant best Martha's way at breaking the news of her approaching nuptials was, "I wouldn't be surprised if we saw the finish of the whole business this summer."

When the next meal was over the dishes arrived as usual on the kitchen table in their great irregular, dizzy piles slippery with grease, pickles and meat Martha proceeded to bomb the sink again rubbish Helmi had polished into a gleam whereupon it had just enjoyed her joyful with the presence of the dishes and their unused contents. Helmi was nursing the dog over for the evening meal and did not see what had happened until Martha had the sink dripping with dishes Helmi saw what had happened and stood quite still, a black rage gathering in her eyes. With the empty tray in her hand she awaited the coming Martha, who came gaily singing into the kitchen with another toppling load of dishes. Helmi waited until she had deposited them on the table, then brought her empty tray down on Martha's head with a metallic crash Martha screamed in genuine terror and Maggie Kenny and Mrs Spencer came running in Helmi balanced to the Dwyer child and tried to explain. Martha quite physically usurped the British Sea around her injured person and called for justice It was one of those easy cases where the evidence is all in plain sight.

It was Mrs Spencer who made the abstract of the case.

"Ain't that just like a Finn Maggie, Well, if she wasn't a tidy girl she clean and neat, but high tempered" wouldn't have done it. Martha, shut up or I'll give you something to hurt for; you're not hurt as bad as all that. Helmi shouldn't have rioted you with the tray. Do you hear, Helmi? Now, Martha, you can get off for the night; Helmi will do the dishes alone. And I've a sort of notion she doesn't mind that a bit, as every one is satisfied and it may be that Martha now knows it's a dangerous thing to be too many with dishes when Helmi's around, anyway."

Helmi lost no opportunity of learning English and counted the day lost if she had not added a few words to her vocabulary. She used the wrapping paper which came into kitchen on parcels for the purpose of keeping her hand learning it into sentences and writing them together with twine Martha, who after the unpleasant event just recorded became a better dish washer and a more agreeable companion taught Helmi to say the words resulting in her acquiring a rockier) accent which the borders found very amusing

Helmi's love for the open took her out when her spare days came that afternoon a week was three and every second Sunday Martha would accompany her even if they had been able to get off together for she plays and she hated the country and hated to see a bit of life when she got out At once, she always went to see the funeral, change at the palace gates, but this was the week's walk out in to the country to know new sights and see new people Mrs. Draper could make out her Miss Isaacs progressed learned to add it takes all kinds" Miss Draper could see some sense in going to see the deer in the park windows and playing out which she was glad to get if you had a king's ransom

Helmi had now been in the hotel over months She had acquired enough English to take orders in the dining room

"I'll you have 'am or bacon with your eggs?"

"Peach pie happle pie or table tart"

She often wondered why she was asked to repeat her orders and why the boarders laughed, but it was all in the day's work in Helmi

Helmi's great delight was to get out of the city on her Sunday after noon, where there were no side walks to put pressure on accustomed feet to people

One day she determined to walk far enough to leave all the streets behind Maybe she would find green grass, or a tinkly field or even grazing in a meadow or more a friendly dog was did not know she was a foreigner she soon reached the place where the sidewalk ended, and felt once more the good soft earth beneath her feet It was familiar, home-like, her own It spoke to her in her own language It was not laughing at her If she moved a yard in it a little plant would cause, even if she did not know its English name it would come just the same, and Helmi's heart grew warm with the thought

The sky hung low that day seeming to Helmi like a great glass cover over the earth, like the dome of glass that Mrs Spencer and in the sparkle parts over her head wreath She lay down on a green ridge to look into the sky. It was so like the sky at home It made her feel not so far away after all. Even if words were so different, skies and grass and the ground were the same, and some day would know how to call them. Aunt Lill, like her, had not known a word of English when she came out

It was lovely to be away where it was quiet and green not all by herself it did not matter I now could not speak English here; the sky and the grass and the little creek on whose bank she sat knew no English either. A fringed blue roman growing in the grass peeped shyly at her as she peered about her She called it by its Finnish name and wondered if it had ever heard it here

AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Mrs. Degrass Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the Credit

Colborne, Ontario.—"When I was first married I was very thin and weak. The doctor said I was run down and would never be able to have a child, but I did, and from the time my baby came I suffered all the time and doctored and took medicine. Life became a burden, and one more said an operation could help me, but my husband was opposed to that. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine advertised, so I told my husband that I thought I would try it, that I might get some relief. I had not taken one bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and feel better, health. Now I have three girls and a boy and have done my work up to expectation. I am now at the Change of Life and owe my good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I take a bottle when I think I need it."—Mrs. Susan Degrass, R. R. No. 4, Colborne, Ontario.

Mothers Should Use

When The Babies Are Cutting Teeth

During the baby's teething time, in the hot summer months, the bowels become loose and diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and other bowel complaints manifest themselves; the gums become sore, sunken form in the mouth, and in many cases the child wastes to a shadow, and very often the termination is fatal.

This is the time when the mother should use "Dr. Fowler's," and, perhaps, save the baby's life.

May Decipher Strange Language

Professor is Working on Key to Babbling Characters

The key to the babbling characters of a strange half Semitic half Egyptian language which flourished nearly 3,000 years ago and which science has never been able to decipher may result today with Prof Rivoapo Lake, head of the Harvard Michigan expedition to Mt Sinai, Arabia

A terse message from Prof Lake to The Boston Herald reports new found fragments of the mysterious "sinai inscriptions," which Harvard philosophy authorities said might throw an entirely new light on Moses and biblical history

The Sinai Inscriptions were first found on the mountain where Moses received the tablets of the law but have never been satisfactorily read although authorities never have ceased to seek their solution

If Prof Lake's "fragments" fit to the existing data it was possible, archaeologists here said, that they might not only remake history but reveal a new origin of modern languages

The inscriptions were discovered in 1904 during the excavations of the temple of the Egyptian goddess, Hathor, on the side of Mount Sinai. They were carved on stone tablets and images unearthed among ruins of the temple and were in a language never before encountered by examiners, according to Dr. Henry Pfeiffer Pitt, instructor in Semitic languages at Harvard

The characters, he said were strangely allied to Egyptian hieroglyphics and the later Semitic alphabet, yet were not identical with either

Nickel Being Largely Used

Long Period of Prosperity Seen for This Canadian Industry

When nickel deposits were discovered in Sudbury, Ont., about 1856, the impenetrability of the metal proven and the governments of various nations convinced if its high merits for purpose of armaments, the company faced a long period of poor profit. This was the first phase, and the chief interests of investors today is that up to the end of 1926 some $37,000,000 had been paid in dividends and the company had built up a net working capital account of $18,531,000

The second and much more important phase is the result of the company's invasion of commercial markets, and already production tonnage has attained proportions equal to the boom war year Previously, uses for nickel were comparatively limited; now its uses are becoming general.

It has been said that the mower car has supplanted the bathtub, but this is only a small part of the story. Because nickel is being utilized in more than a hundred products in the factory, shop, laboratory and home

Concussion Troubled Her

Cautious officer Melmond at New Castle has received a letter from a lady living in a Saskatchewan village enclosing 10 cents with the explanation that last summer she failed to declare a cheap new dress she had purchased across the line. As she was a Christian and wanted to do what was right, she enclosed the money as duty.

Boy Makes Long Trip

Drifted From Canadian Coast to Scotland in Two Years

A boy belonging to the Canadian Government vessel which broke away from its anchorage off the Canadian coast two years ago and had since been lost to view has been found in the Firth of Clyde and has been claimed by the Government at Ottawa. Despite its long and slow voyage across the Atlantic the drifting buoy's light was still functioning when the wanderer was found. It is being towed to Port Glasgow, where it will be overhauled.

Learning Defined

Learning is a peculiar compound of memory, imagination, scientific habit, accurate observation, all concentrated through a prolonged period on the analysis of the remains of literature. The result of this continued mental endeavor is not a book, but a man. It cannot be embodied in print; it consists of the living word.

WHY TORTURE THE LITTLE ONES

Mothers do you think it fair to torture your little ones by forcing them to take Bi-lax-ing oils when they need a mild-acting medicine. You can trust that the child's dread of these medicines often dis-more than their good

Baby's Own Tablets are the most convenient for the little unknown doses. They are the very medicine the child requires and are pleasant to take that they are as easy to administer as a dose of water They are the purest remedy sold, and the minor ailments of little ones, being absolutely guaranteed from injurious drugs.

Baby's Own Tablets accomplish all that easier oil and other bad-tasting remedies can do. In fact they accomplish more as they do not have the child exhausted from its struggles against taking medicine. They relieve teething pains, banish indigestion and constipation, break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful, refreshing sleep. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Because of the inequality of their strides host persons invariably walk in circles; a straight course is impossible to anyone without guiding landmarks

Wretched from Asthma. Strength of body and vigor of mind are irretrievably impaired by the visitations of asthma. Who can live under the cloud of recurring attacks and keep body and mind at their full efficiency? Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy dissipates the cloud by removing the cause, it does relieve it does restore the sufferer to normal bodily vitality and mental happiness

A SERIOUS BOWEL CONDITION.

This is a condition in which the bowels give many names, but which few of them really understand. Constipation is a serious bowel condition, while most forms of indigestion are merely symptoms of constipation. Do not suffer from constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, coated tongue, bad breath, pimples, or any other skin disorder, when you can get relief by taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are the ordinary pill, and are made from herbs. They are mild in their action, but thorough. They do not gripe, and they do not weaken the system. They are the best pill for constipation, and for all the troubles arising from constipation. Try them and see how much good they will do you. Sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a box.

Bruderheim

The Diamond Jubilee of Confederation celebrated here on July 1 was a huge success, and proved one of the greatest celebrations in the history of Bruderheim. Every hour of the day was crammed with interest and excitement.

A full programme of sports, games and races was given. The grounds, streets, and main streets were decorated with flags and streamers.

A baseball tournament continued throughout the day. In the forenoon Fort Saskatchewan juniors carried off first honors while in the afternoon and evening the Bruderheim seniors sent both Fort Saskatchewan and Chipman down to defeat. The Chipman basketball team defeated the locals in a fast game.

The presence of a band and radio programmes added to the day's enjoyment. Addresses were given by O. Noack, F. A. Walker and W. H. White. Miss Alethe Orr gave a fine recitation, "Children of the Empire." A grand display of fireworks and a dance brought the day to a close.

Raising reindeer for commercial purposes in Canada will be undertaken this year by the Dominion Reindeer Company, with headquarters at Vancouver, which has imported some 3,000 head of reindeer from Alaska. This herd will be located on the vast growing grass between the Athabasca and Great Slave lakes where the company has secured over three million acres for this purpose.

DIED

The death occurred on Thursday of Richard Dervala, of Sturgeonville, aged 53 years. He leaves his wife, three children, and a wide circle of friends to mourn his loss. The funeral service was held yesterday morning at ten o'clock from the family residence to the Lamoureux cemetery.

POOR ATTENDANCE AT ELK ISLAND PARK PICNIC

Unfavorable weather and the condition of the roads were responsible for a very poor attendance at the combined picnic held at Elk Island park last Saturday. Not more than two hundred made their appearance and conditions for picnicing were depressing, to say the least. Speeches were made by Mr. R. Hennig, M.L.A., Mr. A. H. Gibson and Mr. Jos. Dous.

Weddings

McDOUGALL—PRICE

The marriage took place Monday, July 4, of Mr. James Duncan McDougall, Sturgeonville, and Miss Ina Jessel S. Price, of Fort Saskatchewan. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Father Zephaze at his residence in North Edmonton.

Miss Jessie Hamilton was bridesmaid and Mr. John McDougall, brother of the groom, supported him.

Dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Price, Edmonton, and the following day the happy couple started on a motor trip to Medicine Hat. They will return about July 30th and take up residence at the groom's farm at Sturgeonville.

HOULE—DUROCHER

On Tuesday, July 5, the wedding took place at the Roman Catholic church at Fort Saskatchewan of Mr. Adelard Houle, of Lamoureux, and Miss Bertha Durocher, of Fort Saskatchewan. Father Fiblois performed the service. Miss Eugenie Rose was bridesmaid and Mr. Omer Durocher best man. Two little flower girls and page boys also attended the bride, these being the Misses Jeanette Houle and Florence Durocher and Masters Louis Marcel and Wende Durocher.

After the ceremony the wedding party motored to Edmonton and dinner and supper were enjoyed at the Tuxedo hotel before the happy people would be escorted to the train for Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, and other coast cities they will visit for the next month.

The terrible condition of the roads prevented many of the invited guests from Beaumont, Leduc, Westlock and Lac la Biche attending.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Houle will take up residence on the groom's farm at Lamoureux.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION AT LACOMBE TO HOLD FORAGE CROPS DAY

A special invitation to visit Lacombe experimental farm on Tuesday, July 12, is extended to all by F. H. Reed, the superintendent of the institution. He requests that all intending visitors arrive there in time to start out with the personally conducted tour of the field crops at 1:30 p.m., and he adds, come early, bring your lunch, and use the livestock and house grounds before noon. What is the best crop of hay? What is the best crop of pasture? What is the best silage crop? These and many other questions will be considered as the visitors are shown all the field crops flourishing on the Lacombe station.

Pleasant View

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Krahn left on Saturday on a motor trip to Rimbey.

The annual picnic was held on the school grounds on Wednesday afternoon and an enjoyable time was spent by all. In the afternoon Pleasant View juniors defeated Partridge Hill juniors in a ball game 13—12. In the evening Clover Bar defeated P.V. 16—3. A large crowd attended the dance in the evening, while the doll guessing competition Fred Berg was the winner, guessing the correct name —"Pearl."

Kovar Quack Grass Killer

The SPECIAL CANADIAN TYPE of the above Spring Tooth Harrow has been developed in the Swan River Valley of Manitoba where QUACK GRASS is a real menace.

It can be supplied in sections 5' 3" wide, requiring one team per section. Properly handled it will bring to the surface and leave free of dirt, more Quack Grass or Sow Thistle roots in a day than any other tool manufactured for the purpose. It is ideal for killing Quack Grass by the "dig out, dry out" principle. It can also be used directly after the binder for ordinary cultivation, thinly covering wild oats, etc., sufficiently to fall sprout them before the frost.

This machine has been demonstrated in the Fort Saskatchewan district to our satisfaction. If you are faced with the Quack Grass problem, call in and see me for further information in regard to the above harrow. I can also show same in operation.

Outdoors

The editor of this column stops aside this week to give place to the following "Four Minute Essay" by Dr Frank Crane, and to commend it to all readers as well worthy of adoption

A good dose of Outdoors would cure almost anything

Quit worrying a lot and let your hair Outdoors, for then hold spot.

Go barefooted your face will ofly knock too pasty.

Take off your clothes and lie on the sand in the sun, sensitive a rich can, and you will become healthy as a savage

Go Outdoors and find a appetite. It's not theirs somewhere

Go Outdoors and get rid of Nerves. They live in the house.

Other rats and mice that infest houses are Dyspepsia, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Peptonosos and Insomnia.

Not only Bodily Ailments, but all other kinds of plagues and nuisances, are house creatures

Creeds were all made to stuffy rooms. Religion, faith, hope, love, and courage inhabit the woods and meadows, and the seas, and suck wind and sun

Jesus taught Outdoors. Revolutionary Councils are held behind closed doors. The doctrine of religion is traceable from the Sermon on the Mount to the ample shading Meeting-House

Education ought to be Outdoors. My favorite dream is the University of Outdoors, where pupils go shoeless and bathes and learn under the stars.

The University would teach the child best to be as healthy as a panther. And healthy bodies would obviate most metaphysic intellectual vagaries.

Where but Outdoors can you learn Botany, Geology, Astronomy, and the like Real Science Is Free Outdoors, as much as Long Pray

Play Outside. Prisoner's Base is better than Whist.

Even fishing is better Outdoors. Copenhagen is much better for your general system than trawling on the parlor sofa. When you cruise a girl half a mile to line her you realize what real Kissing is Sailing is better Outdoors. A horse is healthier than a man because a horse has to breath after every bite of grass he gets.

Outdoors is the solution of the Prison problem. Every cell to sensible means from the destruction to the reconstruction of the human waste-heap.

Insane patients who are violent when locked up become peaceable Outdoors.

Children thrive Outdoors and pine in the house.

Outdoors is sheep and plenty.

God made Outdoors; man made indoors.

And God lives Outdoors; in man-made edifices—Hush.

New Device for Motor Cars

Electric Brake Will Use Less Current Than Horn

The next future may see the adoption of an electric brake system on passenger cars that will require the least exertion on the part of the driver to stop the heaviest type of machine within a short distance

This type of brake is being used whichever has on heavy trucks and trailers, and is being found more practicable than the mechanical type.

The apparatus requires less shoe tricity to operate all four brakes on a heavy passenger car than is needed to run one headlight or to blow the horn once, it is said.

If a man is out of his head he is apt to put his foot in it.

Alberta Farmer Sees Animal in Other Than Horses

C. E. Hemsley, of Bow Farmer, is the proud owner of a fresh member of the avian family. The pig in question was born with two mouths, has two sets of teeth and two tongues but does not require double the amount of fodder. One of the mouths is on the ordinary but each tongues serve in unison. The creature appears to be normal in all other respects.

On one day the Zeppelin Farm saw an increase of thirty nine animal, while three born. In all 72 pigs, a colt and two chicks were born within that time

"If every rancher had a similar increase, the country would be soon overnished," Mr. Hemsley honestly observed

Plan to Hasten Voyage

Passengers Will Be Categorized in Sections of Trans Pacific Liner

Passengers will soon be categorized in compliance from the desk of the Ile De France, hence in addition to the French Line fleet to cut short the voyage across the Atlantic ocean, it is announced in a cable on the French Line.

The cable came from the Ile De France, which was en route to the United States on her maiden voyage. The plans call for the complete being cast from the liner off the Grand Banks whence they will carry passengers to combined cities of the United States and Canada.

The sanglines will not be added until the liner has made several trips.

Prince Favors Playgrounds

Glad to See Movement to Provide Place for Poorer Children

The British National Playing Fields' Association, which has issued an appeal for "£1,000,000 and many acres," states that there are in England 4,000,000 boys and girls who are without such facilities and that many great cities have not a single football field or cricket pitch for the use of the poorer youths. The king on his birthday planted two of the Royal pond ducks at Hampton Court, containing about six acres, at the disposal of the Association, in the absence of the Duke of York, who is president, the Prince of Wales on his return from the Derby visited a broadcasting station and gave a wireless talk in support of the movement.

As a lover of games himself, the Prince said that he was really glad to see an effort made to provide proper playing fields for these 4,000,000 boys and girls and that he hoped soon to see the day when not one of them could say, "I have nowhere to play."

NERVILINE

A King Over Pain

Those who need permanent relief from the grinding pains of Rheumatism and Lumbago should read the letter of P. H. Bernard, from Sydney town, who writes:

"I was fairly crippled with aching joints and Rheumatism. Nervilline was the best what I needed. So name it cheapest of any liniment which I try.

"If you need a reliable, strong, penetrating pain remedy, one you can depend on, don't be afraid of Nerviline (No soak); it will make you well quickly.

Greatest Menace to Motorists

The two greatest menaces to the safety of motorists are the speed maniac and the level crossing. When it comes right down to facts that roads are not race tracks and that level crossings are a species of death trap, the fact that fatal accidents caused by the automobile will become practically negligible, at least in comparison with what has been the case in the past years.

Miller's Worm Powders are mildly and without injury to the child, but there can be no doubt of their deadly effect upon worms. They have been in successful use for a long time and are recognized as a leading preparation for the purpose. They have proved their value in numberless cases and have given relief to many children, who, but for the great silence of these powders would have remained weak and enfeebled.

The First Economy

A young man proposed to a girl and was accepted. Then he said: "I'll tender transports were over they tell him anions talk.

"Now that we are engaged," said the girl, "we must begin to economize. Promise me, darling, that you won't do anything you can't afford."

The young man looked grimly.

"If I promised you that," he said "I'd have to break off our engagement."

DYSENTERY WAS SO BAD BECAME ALARMED

Mrs. Wallace Pepper, R.R. No. 4, Brockville, writes: "Last summer I was very bad with dysentery. I lost my appetite, and had severe pains in my abdomen; they made me very faint. My husband bought a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for me. He told me he considered that my best way to get rid of it would be to take

Urge Vaccination to Prevent Tuberculosis

French Doctors Would Have New Vaccine Given to All Children

The nervous phosphorus of the new of the anti tuberculosis vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Calmette of the Pasteur Institute has led to a movement among French medical authorities in favor of the oral cural vaccination of children.

Results just tabulated up to the present year show that from 21 000 cases of vaccination with the Calmette vaccine which is known as "BCG," there have occurred only 1 per cent of deaths from tuberculosis, while the tuberculous mortality among unvaccinated children is shown by medical statistics to reach 26 per cent.

Professor Calmette explains that his vaccine does not inoculate the patient with the disease, but "engenders" the disease and ramses anti tubercular bacilli to activity. This has been done through the use of vaccine obtained through reducing the virulence of the tuberculosis bacilli by the lengthening of treatment bacilli until an innocuous vaccine is evolved which is only strong enough to cog good tuberculosis in the system.

Highly experimental tests made with laboratory animals, and then with monkeys, over a period of thirteen years before the scientists of Pasteur Institute felt sure enough of the harmlessness of the vaccine to test its effect upon man. The vaccine need not be injected, but may be administered in food.

Despite the apparent success of this vaccine, French doctors report a general hostility upon the part of the public to antituberculer vaccination, the same objections being advanced as those opposing vaccination for smallpox and typhoid. But an increasing number of physicians are becoming interested and the use of the vaccine has already spread to all countries of Europe.

Equipment of Soviets Increased by Sixty Nine Machines

An increase of more than sixty aeroplanes in the aerial forces of the Soviet union is announced as the result of a country-wide campaign conducted under the watchword, "Our answer to Chamberlain."

(This refers to the breaking off of diplomatic relations with Russia by Great Britain).

Reports from 33 provincial cities published at Moscow announced the intention of the various unions in those places to construct from one to twelve aeroplanes each.

WEAK, LISTLESS GIRLS

Need Such a Tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to Restore Health

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow especially if at the same time she shows inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inaction due to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply. But an analysis of the blood is not needed the physical signs are plain. Among these signs are a pallor of the cheeks and lips, dark circles under the eyes usually tired and breathless after slight exertion. Poor appetite, headaches, and sometimes fainting spells follow, often the patient is nervous and is startled at the least noise In all run-down conditions there is no other tonic will build you up so quickly and so surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The statement of Miss Dorothy Lambkin, Beach Island, N.S., will bring hope to other weak girls who may read it. "From my heart I could persuade every person who is in a run-down condition to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. About a year ago I was a weak girl suffering from impoverished blood and a run-down system, with many of the attendant symptoms. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to take them, and after using six boxes I feel as well and strong as ever. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my standby in the future if ever my blood needs building up again, and I shall always find pleasure in recommending them to others."

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

Irish Free State Making Progress As A Member Of The British Commonwealth

The only tangible bond linking together the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations since the Imperial Conference of last November in the British crown, or the person of the King, but himself has either become important among them his personal status, which head her in Britain and the commonwealth. Timothy A Smiddy, minister of the Irish Free State to the United States, said in a public address at the University of Chicago. Mr Smiddy delivered one of the Norman Wait Harris lectures on the general subject of the British Empire.

"We have co-operation and no control also, and the bonds which bind the various nations are intangible," the Irish minister said. "Whether these symbols of underlying membership in an association of free nations are bonds which attach or bonds which chain, is to be determined by future experience Since the establishment of the Anglo-Irish treaty we have been free to work out our national life in our own way without help or hindrance from any outside source whatever.

"Nature has placed Ireland and Great Britain in close contiguity with each other, which geographical contiguity imposes for Ireland a relationship to Great Britain, more intimate than that of any other member of the commonwealth. This relationship is exemplified economically by the market for Irish commodities. For instance, 95 per cent. of the exports of the Irish Free State are consigned to Great Britain and Northern Ireland and 85 per cent. of the imports of the Irish Free State are from Great Britain."

Speaking of the progress that has been made by the Irish Free State as an autonomous member of the Empire, Mr. Smiddy said: "If one of the tests of self-government is ability to finance stability, we can say that we have established for an economic and cultural development that will create for the present generation opportunities not to be had elsewhere. The statement of Miss Dorothy Lambkin, Beach Island, N.S., will bring hope to other weak girls who may read it. Canada Breeders' Association Would Encourage Sales at Prices Albert and Saskatoon

The Saskatchewan Cattle Breeders' association sales which were held at Prince Albert on June 7 and 8, respectively, proved to be quite successful. In all sixty-five head of pure bred stock were sold The quality of the stock offered was good with the exception of a few individuals that did not sell. There was possibly too high a percentage of junior yearling bulls to obtain a very high average

The Prince Albert sale, which was held on June 7, had an average of $113.30 in the Shorthorn classes the junior yearling and grand champion Shorthorn bull, which was contributed by the Saskatchewan Institutional farms, Prince Albert, sold to J. T. Combs, Diamond Valley, for $170 The senior champion bull was contributed by R J Maitlade and sold to G W Grigsby, of Weldale

In the Aberdeen Angus classes the junior and grand champion bull was contributed by Wm D Lynn, of Saskatoon, and was purchased by J G. Robertson, of the department of Agriculture, Regina.

The grand champion Hereford was bred by T A. Clark, of Lake Valley, and was a real good individual.

The Saskatoon sale proved to be more successful than the Prince Albert sale. In that the general average was $138.45.

The sale was handled by J. W Darne, of Calgary, and the judges were Messrs. Hood, of Edmonton, and W. D. Lyon, of Devonen

Thirty one Shorthorn bulls changed hands at an average of $127. The junior and grand champion was contributed by the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, and sold to Jack Gordon, Richard, for $215. The top price of the sale was received for the first prize senior yearling Shorthorn bull and was sold to the department of Indian Affairs for $260.

The grand champion Aberdeen Angus bull was contributed by Jas Wade, of Asquith, and was purchased by the livestock branch Regina, while the grand champion Hereford bull the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Canada Leading In Export of Wheat

Will Be Greater This Year Question of Protein Keeps

Louis Lord-Dreyfus, a French banker and grain merchant, who is one of the leading authorities on wheat, recently gave an address to the French-American committee in Paris in which he declared that Canada was the greatest wheat exporting country in the world, that the grain from the Dominion had no equal in quality except some of the Russian cereal, and that supplies available from Canada would continue to increase

His established opposite in all wheat-producing countries in the world, including an agency at Vancouver, which he personally visited last year, Mr. Dreyfus predicted that the exports of wheat from the United States, Canada and Argentina would increase to 16,000,000 tons in 1927, against 14,000,000 tons in 1926. Of this total he put the shipments from the United States at 4,000,000 tons, those from Canada at 5,000,000, and those from Argentina at 4,000,000 His remarks about wheat-producing countries—countries that produced more than they need consume.

He expressed the belief that France eventually would produce enough wheat to supply the demands of its people, but some time hence

Cost of Operating a "Combine"

Combined Reaper and Thresher Effects Considerable Saving

In a normal season the combined reaper-thresher will cut and thresh wheat, oats, barley, ball rye and flax at a considerable saving over the binder and separator investigations have been made on this point at the Swift Current Experimental Station and the results are detailed in a Dominion Department of Agriculture pamphlet entitled "The Combined Reaper-Thresher in Western Canada."

It was found that a thirty-foot combine drawn by 12 horses will cut about 25 acres in a 10 hour day. Drawn by a tractor it cuts about 44 acres in the same time.

In the case of such a combine drawn by 12 horses and operating 20 days the cost per acre was $1.80 or 9 cents a bushel on a 20 bushel per acre crop. In similar circumstances the cost of a tractor drawn machine was $1.64 per acre and 8 cents per bushel. Compared with this harvesting with binder and separator cost 17 cents per bushel

Michigan Supplies More Settlers for Western Canada Than Any Other State

The state of Michigan is apparently supplying more settlers for Western Canada than any other state in the union, according to figures submitted by Fred W. Kerr, Dominion immigration agent at Detroit, who has been in the west gathering first hand information of agricultural conditions here

Many farmers have come from that state this year, he says. Last year, according to returns made public by T.S. authorities, Michigan sent 2,845 of the total of 21,625 farmers who left the States to take up land in Canada.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Duke and Duchess of York received a warm welcome home upon their arrival at Portsmouth, June 27, after their six months visit to Australia.

The Council of the League of Nations decided to invite the United States to the League's third interna tional labor conference at Geneva, Aug. 21.

Three persons were killed when an aeroplane fell 2,000 feet in the out skirts of Windsor, Ont., in an effort to restore the hearing and speech of a deaf mute.

Canadian employment conditions at the beginning of June showed a more favorable aspect than in any other month since 1930. Approximately 43,000 more workers were employed on June 1 than on May 1.

Twenty so-called Kirghis noblemen have been arrested and banished and their property including nearly 30,000 sheep, confiscated because of the former Czarist affiliations of the so-called noblemen.

John Slavin has an aspirant for trans-Atlantic flight honors. The newspapers say that the aviator, Mendelbeck, is making preparations for a flight from Belgrade to New York in the near future.

The population of Ontario for the calendar year was 3,184,000, the latest official statistics report issued by the provincial government show. The urban population is given as 1,476,185, and the rural population is 1,630,815.

Two hundred and seven persons in the United States paid taxes on incomes of $1,000,000 and over for the calendar year of 1925, as compared with 75 in 1924 and 206 in 1916, the previous high mark.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, was unanimously elected by the Paris Academy of Moral and Political Science, as the foreign member of the academy in place of the late Cardinal Mercier of Malines, Belgium.

Dairy men from the four western provinces will gather in Regina for their two-week Canada dairy convention, to be held Feb. 7-16, 1926. The board of directors of the Saskatchewan Dairy Association decided on this at its meeting held recently.

Bank Were Robbed

Playing over an Irish tune, a choleric colonel lost his ball and accused his caddie of having stolen it.

When a moment later it was found the caddie began an apology.

EDMONTON EXHIBITION

While talking to a number of leading farmers of this district the other day we casually inquired about the prospects of a bumper crop this year and these weren't one of those that felt perfectly certain that this year's crop would be as good if not better than any in the past. As a natural follow-up the conversation veered to assessments and again the farmers were unanimous in stating positively that Edmonton's Biggest and Best Exhibition would be the greatest assistance in to Western Canada this year. They can't be far wrong in their opinion at that when you consider over a few of the attractions and unusual attractions secured for this year's Summer Fair, July 18-23.

The entries, which are limited, as, of course, to the purpose historical pageant which will be a thrilling commemoration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee. A cast of 1000 highly-trained performers will be seen in a pageant, consisting of stately dances, mock drills, striking pantomimic effects and vivid dramatization. The pageant consists, step by step, Canada's progress from the days of the early French settlements will be of great historical interest as well as a tremendous spectacle of unsurpassed duration and beauty. This year's production will differ in every respect from the pageant of last year in that the plot last year centred around historical events of Edmonton and Alberta, this year's pageant will tell the love the main features of all Canadian history. It is an entirely new plot with new characters and many will not according to the directors one of the most costly attractions ever produced for an exhibition in Canada.

The Australian National Band, six big platform acts and the Johnny J. Jones shows will be features of this year's exhibition. Everything is being done to make the exhibits and stock shows there will be something to justify farmers coming miles to the exhibition.

VACATION (PLUS)

By S. J. Cranston, M.D., Field Sec'y.

The purpose of vacation is to promote health. Change of interest, scene, and habits of living all tend to benefit the body and to build up those essential physical functions that are essential to a condition known as health. From the above we can read for ourselves stead-ers and time-tables and draw the various routes, places and hotels to be the best suited to meet our individual need, the exhilarating expectancy and the thrilling adventure into new and unaccustomed scenes of our own world should mean renewed strength

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fort Saskatchewan
June 28th, 1927

Editor of "The Record,"
Dear Sir:—

In the poor are poor because they basket upon buying liquor with a spurious rubber hand! Well, well! Had anyone with this woeful extravagance they buy photographic enlargements from "get-rich-quick" at considerably higher prices than Joseph would charge. Well, well, well! Then these spendthrift poor are not content with the tradesmen pleasures of the rich or well-to-do person, but squander their money on substandard pleasures. Extraordinary! But will Joseph be specific as to the pleasures of the poor?

Are we to infer that the poor are not content with drinking champagne and eating caramel in costly confectionery, but that they can derive joy only from vastly more exciting things?

Joe, oh Joe!

You says that if rubber is put on the fans it is more sensible than putting it on the back of Hoosiers. I have noticed, heard about, and read about both systems proven in the use of commerce. Read of the velvety softness of Washington's powder, of the soothing qualities of Lydia E. Pinkham's cream and of innumerable other aids to beauty, but of rubber on the fans, not a word have I heard until Joe opened it. Now, all ye flappers who have lavish Joe's confession, tell us how you have the nerve. Put rubber on your fans!

Yours truly,
Lynn O. Lester.

The Editor of Record,
Dear Mister:—

I had written kramp ear I read her nearest mister Fulgrittye letter Mer, Inne a poor woman and am hedgepoast at his rebbin buisyness, nobody to help here. Wet dost to inne about the poor, most of his time he spends in the hak shop feeding of body and refreshment of mind and spirit.

But our vacation plans should be so carefully prepared that we may reasonably expect such happy results, regain health, and return to the duties of sickness which coincidentally befalls the unwary and unprepared, and which separates between her and them her.

Typhoid fever, perhaps more often than any other disease, follows in the trail of the vacationist, especially those who are careless in matters of health. If means have been devised to avoid the hazard of typhoid fever they should be known to all. Here are applied as guiding principles in our vacation plans. The germs that cause typhoid fever are carried by flies, and through contaminated water, milk or food. This gives us our clue as to how to avoid the disease in safety. It is to be sure we are not unnecessarily exposing ourselves to dangerous infection. In the matter of food, refraining to water is to drink water only from known safe supplies. Most city supplies are safe, but in the case of doubt, bottled supplies is now almost universal. If you are out of reach of known safe water you should not drink it unless it is boiled.

The only safe milk is pasteurized milk. If then you use only milk that has been effectively pasteurized you may be reasonably assured of safety from this source.

Foods are often contaminated by house flies carrying infections material on their legs. At camp you must be sure that your camp is located near an open creek or lakeshore, as danger from such source is very real through the numbers of the mosquito-borne fever.

In addition to these safeguards that should surround the drinking water and the food, every vaccination, especially the coupling vaccination, should be inoculated against typhoid fever by a reputable physician. Your physician will give this and will tell you that this fever has left a deformity, especially among those relating to water, milk and food will protect you from the child vaccination, typhoid fever. You can thus be a vacationist instead of a vacationist.

BRAGGING-DOWN PAINS RELIEVED

Women Inclined Moody a Year, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health.

Mount Joy, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with nagging-down pains and inflammation, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side to the leg. I had it nearly a year when I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation. But my mother said to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her life years before. I sent for two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on using it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had two more children since then and am perfectly well. I intend to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find a dose now and then helps me. I am willing for you to use the letter any way you see fit and I will answer letters. If I can help any other woman I'd be only too glad to try."—Mrs. Ernest Hocquerus, 604 Home Square, Mount Joy, Saskatchewan.

PAINTED FIRES

From this distance Helmi could think of her work in the hotel with greater composure She knew she was awkward sometimes, and maybe stupid, though she always tried hard to please Anyway, it was good to have a job, even if she had to pick rusty old potatoes in a muddy, dark cellar, and gather up the rotten ones to burn in the furnace

Helmi had the large restless hands which generations of hard working women acquire, eager, capable, hands ready for anything that has to be done Even the rusty, Maggie Kenny, who washed few words of praise on her assistant, admitted grudgingly that the Finn girl "has good smart hands and makes every mess tell: if she could run her head as well, she'd do"

Helmi from the little hill on which she sat looked back at the small, city, lying like a great giant under its greasy, gray blanket of smoke It reminded her uncomfortably of the blankets she had to spread every morning on the beds in the row room of the hotel. In the front of the house she knew there were pleasant rooms, with white spreads and flowered wash basins, but at the back a great yard of a room had what seemed like a hundred beds, spread with sweaty blankets, and it was this room she had to sweep and tidy every day Above the yard men called in bed when she went in, but having set out to tidy the room, Helmi held to her contract, taking no notice of the cursing of silence which came from the late sleepers

Helmi's dreams that Sunday afternoon as she sat on the bank were for the most part pleasant. Consciousness of youth and beauty and health made her hopeful of the future. She could work and she could learn, and she too would one day be back in Finland with a velvet hat, a fancy white blouse, and silk linings and fringe on her gloves, and all the young people would gather round her while she would tell of how she started, right at the bottom, washing ugly honey dishes in a hotel.

Helmi always held the dream, too, that she might some day meet a prosperer, maybe a young man from Finland who had found gold. Men can do such wonderful things. Women have to work hard, but pretty girls have a good chance. Lots of Finn boys had come away to Canada, and maybe she would meet some of them She thought of the Finn she was in love with a poor girl and swore he would marry her and whose proud taunts now hurt as keenly now that she had a great ugly patch of coarse cloth on it, meaning that if he married the poor girl she would be Blue the coarse

Mount Joy, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with nagging-down pains and inflammation, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side to the leg. I had it nearly a year when I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation. But my mother said to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her life years before. I sent for two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on using it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had two more children since then and am perfectly well. I intend to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find a dose now and then helps me. I am willing for you to use the letter any way you see fit and I will answer letters. If I can help any other woman I'd be only too glad to try."—Mrs. Ernest Hocquerus, 604 Home Square, Mount Joy, Saskatchewan.

patch. That was a dirty thing for the sad she used to do But what did the Prince do? He got the patch all embroidered with pearls and lovely jewels and sent it back signifying that his lovely poor girl would be the greatest thing about the place. Helmi got sewed that bold the uncle a while, maybe

Helmi was so deep in her dreams she was unconscious of the approach of two young men. They were close upon her when she looked up She did not like their appearance, She also felt no fear There was strength in her right arm which brought assurance.

Helmi nodded and nodded to them as she would have if they had been two of the neighbors' boys at home.

They said something to her in English.

"Yes," she said, because it was the only word she could think of and Helmi added politely, "Finn."

The boys laughed at that and took out at each other meaningly

Helmi's young heart was athirst for adventure. If the young men had been dressed more elegantly she might have been afraid, but they were unwounded gold-diggers of low degree. But with a calculating eye she appraised them correctly She mustn't seem to be so, which they suspected to mean that she desired to go back to the city with them. When she began to walk away the boldest of the two followed her

Helmi quickened her pace. The young men became angry. They ran and took her arm. She shook him off and began to run The running thing always incites pursuit, and, just as she expected, they followed. Helmi purposely let her purposes gain on her, then, stopping and hearing her breath, she gave the first one a powerful body blow which sent him rolling down the bank towards the stream below. While the other one stopped to see what injury had been done on his friend, Helmi raced on. She was neither frightened nor angry. It was all good fun to her,—but she knew enough to put as great a distance as she could between her and them before she suspected that the young man who had gone rolling down the mossy bank might not be pleased with her.

A woman, driving a gray horse to a beetboard, saw her coming and waited for her, clearly concerned to see the flying Helmi, who had evidently been set upon by two ruffians. Helmi never answers, and climbed up into the seat beside her without delay. Again came the difficulty of language. "Cafe Hotel," said Helmi in answer to the unintelligible inquiries, giving the name the accent and pronunciation by the Swedish waitresses girls at the hotel.

All of which was lost on Helmi, who merely repeated the name of her present domicile.

Miss Abbie was distressed and greatly excited over the real adventure which had broken in upon her Sunday afternoon meditations. She had been making her weekly visit to the Girls' Friendly Home, where delinquent girls of the city lodged. The inborn pathos of the wrecks of human life and told the girls a beautiful story of a patient princess, her prisoner in a castle, who at last was set free by the ingenuity of her lover; and now no shy dreamer home she was deep in a dream of golden romance.

Miss Abbie was a maiden lady of forty right years, thin, neat and proper, her only extravagance consisting in the number of turnouts she thought hung around her neck. On the day that Helmi had bounded into her pool hungry Miss Abbie wore her Miller gray suit of serge, with the classic neck-piece of black fur crossed with a small bar of devotes and quills. All of this of course was most unobtrusive and ladylike; but hanging around her thin neck was a string of jet beads (her mother's), a gold chain (her father's), and a vist of miscellaneous articles suspended from the chain. There were keys and a knife, a pencil which had never had lead in it, a little pig made of bog oak, with a silver ring in its back and a pierced and precision prevailed everywhere and on the piano, where the many prominent spirit assorted himself There, photos and vases, fans and shells, books and pictures, old stones, painted bottles, Easter eggs, a dead dibbi idol, basket and candlesticks crowded and jostled each other for standing room.

Miss Abbie's life showed the same unevenness Years of carnal part ticular living would suddenly give way to unexpected outbursts of wild extravagance. After living in one room in the house of a friend she married her select circle by building a house of her own. With equal suddenness she left the chair of music in the Sunday School to which she expounded from Sunday to Sunday the International Sunday School lessons and held her weekly visits to the Girls' Friendly Home.

Certain members of the Ladies' Aid Society said Miss Abbie was very deep, and that those strange outcroppings were but indications of her real nature. The minister's wife, who was something of a psychoanalyst, mentioned inchoate in this connection, with their usual percentage of visibility as compared with their hidden volume.

During along the dusty summer road the Sunday afternoon, with the bounce thickening on each side as they approached the city, Miss Abbie, freed from her dream, carefully studied her new companion She suddenly felt that she was about to experience another surrounding of extravagant with crushed her heart; a daring, undoubted of ambition conveloped her soul . . . She would do it! She would get her

Practically no Tuberculosis Among Dairy Cattle in Fraser Valley

Dr. W. H. McKenzie, superintendent of the Dominion health of animals branch, in British Columbia, is of opinion that tuberculosis among dairy cattle in the Fraser Valley, B.C., will be practically eradicated within a year. Last year almost 6 per cent. were infected on test; this year's inspection showed a reduction of infection to 1.11 per cent. Next year he expects the reactors will be lower than one-half of one per cent. in this area. That is the rate officially regarded as T.B. free. Testing of herds from Hope to North Bend has been deep, and of the 42,500 tested this year only 470 were condemned. Last year 4,223 out of 46,900 reacted. This year he says, farmers in the Fraser Valley, realizing the value of healthy herds welcomed the veterinarians who conducted the test

Had Several Reasons

A minister who had not been long appointed to a church in the South of Scotland asked one lady how she liked his preaching.

"I didna like it at a'," she answered.

"And, pray, why not," he asked.

"Weel, in the first place," she answered, "ye read yer sermon; an', in the second place, ye didna read it weel, an', in the third place, it wasn't worth the readin'."

The Kaiser in the Pictures

German War Films Being Shown in London

Evidence that footing engendered by the War is dying down is forthcoming from the fact that a German film illustrating the exploits of the Kaiser is being shown in London by an English firm who are best known as the distributors of the British war films "Peace" and "Mons." Some people consider that they have taken a bold step in booking his wholly German war picture, but the film is so good and so impartial that there is no reason why British audiences should not welcome it on its merits.

The story begins with the Emden's departure from Tsingtau at the outbreak of war, and winds up with a remarkably vivid portrayal of her final battle with H.M.S. Sydney, off Cocos Island. It is as fascinated and as fair an say of the British war films, and has a stronger narrative force than any except that of Zeebrugge without any unnecessary exaggeration of the glory or of the horrors of actual fighting. The War is shown from the angle of the crew of the German battleship, and particularly from that of one young officer, a recruit in boat posse at Tsingtau, who meets his own wife as a passenger on one of the captured British steamers, is put in command of the captured British vessel, and eventually does duty during the bombardment by the Sydney.

Enough glimpses of her various exploits are shown to give one a pretty good idea of her touch-and-go career, and the co-operation of the German admiralty had ensured an authentic naval atmosphere One episode is omitted. That is the interval during the Cocos battle when the Sydney, reeling the Emden hopelessly stranded, went off to capture her coal tender, the Buresk before returning to endeavor to capture Von Muller an honorable surrender The British are treated quite fairly; there is no "hate" play in the picture.—London Correspondence in Free Press

Conan Doyle's Early Struggles

First Twelve Years of Literary Career Were Hard

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who was 68 years old recently, is fond of recalling his own early struggles for the encouragement of budding story tellers. Though he had a short story published in "Chamber's Journal" his first encourager of so many famous writers when only 19, he wrote for three years after that without an acceptance, and his early books brought but a small financial return. During the first twelve years of his literary career, indeed, he never made more than £2$ per annum by his pen, and the first of the famous Sherlock Holmes series he sold outright, after numerous publishers had rejected it, for £25.

Girls Won in Competition

The one and only man in the butter-making class at the Bath and West Agricultural Show took his hand at the churn when he competed against over a dozen shingled and silk-stockinged dairymaids—and lost. The man was E. J. K. Elliott, from the Somerset Farm Institute, Bridgwater, and the class was for students who had been through a course of instruction in buttermaking at a county school.

Get Enjoy a Real Tour on Gum-Dipped Tires

When you tour on Gum Dipped Tires all roads seem equally good. There is nothing to compare with the smooth, easy performance of these big, low-pressure tires. Joint and vibrations disappear. Shocking of rough going cannot disturb you or harm the mechanism of well-built automobiles of your car

If it is clayey and muddy underfoot, Gum-Dipped Tires, having double the road contact, cling to the road and hold the car unswervingly to a true, straight course. On grades there is extra traction; at sharp curves or in quick stops you will have perfect control of wheel and brake. Skidding is almost impossible.

Through the development of the exclusive Gum-Dipping process, Firestone has transformed the treacherous cotton cord tire into a strong, flexible, long-wearing tire. The friction and impregnation every fiber of every cord with rubber, reduces internal heat and friction and delivers thousands of extra miles of unusual strength and safety.

Ask any Firestone Dealer to show you the structure of Balloon Gum-Dipped Tires and to tell you their advantages. He is an authority on this type of tire and is in a position to serve you better than any one else. See him TO-DAY

PIMPLES ON FACE ITCHED BADLY

Skin Became Scaly, Arms Later Affected. Cuticura Heals.

"I suffered from pimples that broke out all over my face. They were very large and red, and itched so badly that I scratched them until they would bleed. My skin became scaly and started to peel off, especially around my mouth. Later my arms became affected with pimples, which festered and scaled over.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I continued the treatment and in about two weeks I was healed." (Signed) E. M. Bishop, 180 Queen St., Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 11, 1926.

To Give You Service

The U.G.G. Elevator at your station is there to give you service, both in handling your grain and in furnishing farm supplies.

These farmer-owned elevators mean better returns for you in price and grade. The U.G.G. elevators set a standard which other companies have to meet.

U.G.G. elevators are there for the use and benefit of all farmers alike. Shareholders in the Company and farmers who are not shareholders all get the same service and treatment.

We don't claim to be perfect, but we do claim—and we believe justly—that the service given by U.G.G. elevators and by all departments of the business brings real financial benefit to farmers.

If you agree that this is a fair claim, we shall appreciate your business at your nearest U.G.G. Elevator.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT ON EDMONTON TRAIL

A head-on collision took place between two automobiles on the Edmonton trail this afternoon at the place known as the "big hill." Both cars were badly damaged, the one coming down the the hill, a six-cylinder Star sedan occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Mihalchan of Arcadia, Sask., overturning into the ditch. The other car, a Chevrolet, was occupied by J. Jeanne and his son of Edmonton. Mr. Jeanne sustained a very badly cut ear and his son a broken arm. Mrs. Mihalchan was cut above and below the right eye and Mr. Mihalchan had his right elbow cut. All suffered from shock in addition to their other injuries. They were taken to the local hospital and given medical attention and later left for Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Mihalchan by the evening train and Mr. Jeanne and his son by car, another son having driven down from the city to get them.

The Star sedan is in Graham's garage and the Chevrolet was taken to Edmonton.

49TH BATT. ASSN. TO PARADE

The 49th Battalion Association will hold its first annual church parade at Edmonton on Sunday, July 24, assembling at the Memorial hall at 10 a.m.

Each man will "Fall in" in the platoon and company in which he formerly served in France. Medals and decorations will be worn. The parade will be headed by the brass and pipe bands of the battalion. The Regimental colours will be paraded with an armed escort.

The 24th July is the day following the last day of the Edmonton exhibition and it was believed by the committee that many ex-members of the battalion could time their visit to the exhibition so as to be in Edmonton for this parade.

All ex-members of the battalion are cordially invited to be present and take part in this parade. All ex-members who read this notice are requested to put in touch with such comrades as live in their localities and "Warn" them for this parade.

The thanks of the committee is extended to the Press for assistance in giving the foregoing information publicity.

Though taken by surprise ample refreshments were served by the local ladies.

MAKE SURVEY OF FARM LANDS IN NORTH

A complete survey to ascertain the amount of suitable farming land lying within easy access of the E.D. & B.C. and A. & G.W. railway lines will be undertaken by the provincial government during the present summer and fall in order to secure accurate information as to the potential wealth of the part of the province served by the government-owned railways.

This survey will be incharge of Alfred Chard, freight rate and traffic supervisor for the province, who will assemble and compile all available data. Field men will later be sent out to go over the ground not already covered in the preliminary inspection. Much information as to the amount of agricultural land available in crown land areas and Indian reserves will be secured from the files and records of the Dominion Government.

CAN WE ELIMINATE THE SHIVERING FOOL?

By Erwin Greer
(President Greer School of Electrical & Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

The hog o' the farm has hair on his back,
The hog o' the road on his face;
If I could compare the road hog, I swear,
To the farm hog, 'twould be a disgrace.

There's a hog o' the farm, and a hog o' the train,
A hog everywhere—I'll be blowed!
But the littlest, dirtiest, meanest of all
Is the two legged hog o' the road!

[Exchange]

We writer chaps have magic typewriters. I have dropped you in a hurtling motor car, alongside of a fool driver. Save yourself if you can.

The screaming glare of the lamps before you light the steepest of down grades, stony, uneven, rut-filled. This fool at your side ignores his brakes and is running free. Great Catfish! He is going to take that inclined wide open. It is madness! Simultaneously you are conscious of a jar and a leap, of rattling something, of surmounting it, and plunging onward. For what seems seconds—fifteen seconds—the car is in the air, and then the road rises in its might to smite you. There is a detonation, a crash, a bang, terrible—deafening. Then everything goes black.

Realistic, what? And it is more than probable that you have encountered just such an accident as set forth above. Or, if you haven't you have pictured it just this way.

Do we all know the driving fool? I'll say we do. Why, then, isn't it a good plan to have a special Sunday memorial service, dedicated to driving fools—with all the spare parts for such consistes. It could be memorized by preachers all over the country and would go something like this:

The Message Of The Bells

Canada, which in its sixty years as a confederated Dominion, has established more than one world record of worthy achievement, placed another to its credit on the anniversary of its Diamond Jubilee when, through the greatest linking up of radio broadcasting stations ever attempted, the re-unveiling at the national capital were thrown into the air and carried to the uttermost parts of the Dominion, and listened in by hundreds of thousands of people from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia.

The achievement was not only spectacular but well worth while. Direct from the Houses of Parliament, over a network of telegraph and telephone wires, to a total of twenty-three broadcasting stations, the re-unveil of His Majesty the King and the nation's leaders were carried, interspersed with the singing of patriotic songs by great choirs, and the thrilling tones of the bells of the wonderful carillon installed in the Victory Tower at Ottawa.

For the moment the farthest east and the farthest west, and all the intervening territory, was in instant and common communion. Distance was annihilated, geographical barriers rendered of no account. The heart throbs of the nation, sounded in the national capital, were heard and felt throughout the length and breadth of the land. It was a nation in spirit and sentiment, as well as in fact, unfettered and by the Fathers of Confederation.

Amazing as an engineering feat, it was still more wonderful as a demonstration of the national unity of the Canadian people. It was an unanswerable reply to all those doubting souls who have declared that, with its complexity of racial, religious, geographical and economic problems, Canada could never become a united people. Canadians everywhere felt a thrill of national pride as they listened to the message of the bells from their national capital.

The message of the bells was, however, not for Canada alone, but for the whole world. The inscription on the largest bell reads: "This carillon was installed by authority of Parliament to commemorate the Peace of 1918, and to keep in remembrance the service and sacrifice of Canada in the Great War," while around the rim of the bell are the words: "Glory to God in the Highest and on Earth Peace, Goodwill toward men."

In the Great War, Canada fought not for herself alone, but for all the world, for the maintenance of civilization and liberty everywhere, for justice and the right. In the great Victory Tower from which the bells ring out their message is located the Peace Memorial Chamber wherein an album is kept by the Book of Remembrance containing the names of the more than sixty thousand Canadian soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice for Canada and the world. It is a great monument, not to war, but to peace.

In his beautiful description of the Tower, the Memorial Chamber, and the Carillon, Premier Mackenzie King emphasized the idea underlying it all, and in his broadcasting words, after referring to the Angel's song to the shepherds "Glory to God in the Highest and on Earth Peace, Goodwill toward men," he said "Birth to the skies it returns as mere today, nor the echo of a mystical strain heard on a Judean moor, but the voice of a nation in thanksgiving and praise which will sound ever land and sea to the uttermost parts of the earth."

That is the Message of the Bells—a message from this young, virile Dominion to all lands and all peoples, a message of Peace and Goodwill.

That is the Message of the Bells,—a message rung out from their national capital to the people of Canada, a message calling them to continued patriotic service to a Canada at peace at home and with the world, a message calling to the cultivation of a spirit of goodwill to all, a message from the bells in which let it be hoped, all old suspicions, rancors, and feelings of ill-will will be silenced and all racial, religious and political frictions destroyed.

That is the Message of the Bells,—a message to all who make Canada their home, irrespective of the land of their birth, to render deep devotion, patriotic service and, where needed, self-sacrifice to the Dominion, to show goodwill each to his neighbor, to co-operate together for the common good and the future peace, progress and prosperity of Canada.

Col. J. S. Dennis Tells of Work Being Carried On

Col. J. S. Dennis, Commissioner of the Department of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway, gave a very interesting address at Winnipeg recently, in which he outlined the work that is being carried on by this organization. He produced figures showing that a vast amount of work has been accomplished since the inception of the body taking its name in 1908. The total value of the land and equipment colonized in date amounts to approximately $70,000,000, of that amount $16,000,000 represents the land, $2,000,000 is represented by chattels, and $1,000,000 additional buildings have been put on the land owned.

"We have spent a considerable time to endeavor to find out what was the actual value of the agricultural family to Canada," said Col. Dennis, "and we are able to show from government returns that the value of a family, considering all five, in the mercantile and industrial life of Canada amounted to $1,585 per annum, that is covering a number of what they are worth by way of clothing, shoes, etc. We then went to some trouble to find out what a family of five, using a horse budget was the amount I have mentioned amounted to $716 per annum in transportation.

"It is a matter of simple figuring and does not need any mathematician to make it perfectly clear to the best men interests of Canada, what the rest units will ultimately be if we increase the non-content of our agricultural farm lots from the small numbers we are now able to get to a wide margin. The smaller places particularly in the West have a big interest in this, because every 10 families mean to the merchants in that town $15,000 per annum for supplies which the merchant purchases from the railways. Add to this income to the transportation companies supply very strongly to the prosperity of the railways. Therefore we have these two companies recruiting the people that we can absorb, and their interests are identical. Add to them reception after we get them here. These departments are renting British people discover the peril of one-sided free trade.

"The Canadian movement at Vimy Ridge will remind many, for centuries of what Canada did in the Great War and how, in the hour of battle and sudden death, she was not unfaithful to the call of home and duty.

"The Dominion today has given proof that she sets the blood above the material and is a nation with a noble soul."

Daily Mail Says Dominion Is "Nation With a Noble Soul"

Under the caption of "A Nation With a Noble Soul," The Daily Mail of London, England, recently referring to the Confederation Jubilee celebrations in Canada said: "The only misfortune from the British standpoint is that owing to the combined influences of the dole and low birth rate in Great Britain the British propose tion of immigrants seems destined to decline.

"It was never true that the happiest states are those which have no history and in the last 30 years the Dominion has helped to make history, and has influenced world events. Her statesmanship originated the idea of imperial preferences which will be one tain of reclination hereafter when the British people discover the peril of a one-sided free trade.

Luxuriant Vegetation Is Typical Characteristic Of The Famous Peace River Country

The luxuriant vegetation of the country drained by the world famous Peace River in Northern Alberta and British Columbia, is one of its most remarkable characteristics, according to an exhaustive report recently published by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa. Though the growing season is short, the rate of growth is rapid in midsummer, especially with respect to grasses, cereals, vegetables, shrubs and small or plants. There are no barren or desert areas. The soil is apparently to say natural lack of vegetation is sometimes seen on high areas of open prairies in exceptionally dry seasons, when the native upland hay is sometimes short and light in consequence. The prevailing impression of the land usage during summer months is one of abundant growth.

Trees, shrubs, wild fruits and flowers abound, but the most striking form of native vegetation is probably the grasses. Everywhere except in the dense woods the ground is clothed with some form of grass. Long ago on the open prairies the native upland grasses can be made into hay of exceptionally good quality. The marshes, edges of ponds and wet meadows produce heavy yields of rough grass which, though much coarser than the upland varieties, makes a hay of fair quality and excellent keeping qualities. Several species of legumes are native in the district, the most prolific of which are the nutrated wild vetch and pea vines. They grow in great profusion in lightly wooded areas and flourish after frost, even though the soil has been injured by other crops.

While much publicity has been given to the prairies of the Peace River country by far the greater portion of its area is wooded, says the report. The only commercial tree of note is the white spruce, excellent stands of which are found in nearly every valley from the headwaters of the many tributary streams to the mouth of the Peace itself. Closely associated with the white spruce, especially on the higher ground, is the aspen poplar. This spruce-poplar type prevails extensively. Black spruce and tamarack are found on poorly drained areas, balsam poplar (Balm of Gilead) in many valleys and lodge-pole pine on sandy and gravelly elevations. Birch is widely scattered, while some fair stands are to be found in the mountain regions.

The prevailing shrubbery and undergrowth consists chiefly of willows, which border many of the lesser streams and shallow lakes and ponds, and of alder. These are augmented in many sections by the bushes of red raspberries, high-bush cranberries and saskatoons, native fruits of excellent quality. The growth of these shrubs is very rapid and when cut down the seedlings of poplar and spruce they reconvert a burnt over area into wood again in the course of a few years.

Perhaps the major portion of the whole country consists of rapids or muskeg areas in which patches of light open woods alternate with grassy, tree-free tracts of varying extent. These parts of the country are much of the unsettled agricultural land, the open prairies having been largely settled many years ago. While more work is involved in their development, it cannot be said to be a formidable task, and the land, once improved, is of the very highest fertility.

Under a change of climate in any district is a most disputed question it cannot be denied that the clearing up and draining of wooded and wet areas permits of an earlier and longer safer season. The introduction of earlier maturing varieties of seeds has also materially reduced the risk of injury by frost to growing crops. Dealing these factors in mind and considering the prevailing favorable climate and luxuriant vegetation as observed over a period of a century and a quarter it is safe to assume, declares the report, that the climatic chapter on climate and vegetation, that the Peace River country will similarly be one of the world's great grain-producing areas.

Rich Ride on Airplane

Perch On Wings To Save Long and Tedious Flight

Which bird first found out that the aeroplane was a labor-saver for birds will never be known, but he must have been a veritable Columbus among his fellows. His daring feat in perching on the shoulders of the huge, whirring plane was quickly imitated, and today thousands of big bird perch the feathered stowaways on the air-liner's wings.

The planes that fly across the deserts of Northern Nevada, in the teeth of the prevailing north wind are most favored by the voyagers. They save a long and tedious flight, and at the end of the journey the travellers arrive fresh and unruffled, with nothing to pay.

They show no fear of the bird-men in the cockpit of the plane, recognizing in them fellow exponents of the air.

Do Your Own Thinking

The Gift of Making Up One's Own Mind is Rare

The ability to form one's own mind quickly and firmly on any matter that is suddenly presented to one is a rare gift. But a capacity to make up one's mind at all is almost as rare.

Many of us who pride ourselves on our views and shapers, our excellent physique and conditions, never our mind to become so flabby that it is quite incapable of responding successfully to a sudden call on it. We fall too easily into the habit of allowing other people to do our brainwork, instead of disciplining our mind to do its own thinking. We take our views and opinions from others, and don't know what we think of anything until we have consulted some authority on the subject. Our mind is possibly just as good as theirs. Let us keep it in good condition and we shall find that we make on it.

Wheat Pool Membership

Total Membership in Western Pools is 140,199

Membership of the Canadian Wheat Pool, the largest farmers' co-operative organization in the world, through which seven of the wheat of Western Canada is marketed, now totals 100,199. The Saskatchewan Pool has 62,157 members comprising 16,616,615 acres of wheat and 467 country elevators with a capacity of 17,975,000 bushels. The pool expects to increase its country elevators to 675 this year.

The membership of the Alberta Wheat Pool is now 38,864, with contracts covering 2,634,727 acres, an increase over last year of 2,940 members and 237,564 acres.

The Manitoba Pool has a membership of 15,160, an increase of 3,994 members over last year.

The Alberta Pool has decided to build a new 2,500,000 bushel elevator at Vancouver at a cost of $1,000,000. Work is to begin on this elevator at once so that it will be completed in time to handle the 1928 crop. By next fall the Alberta Pool will have 142 interior or country grain elevators in the province. The pool also took over the lease from the Canadian Government, a large terminal elevator at Vancouver and one at Prince Rupert, B.C.

The Wheat Pool movement was first organized in Alberta, in 1923. The following year pools were formed in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. All wheat is handled by the pools through a central selling agency, with representatives in 51 parts of the world.

Last year the central selling agency sold for members of the Pools over over 150,000,000 bushels of wheat and twenty-five million bushels of coarse grains, and had a cash turnover of almost $200,000,000.

The Forest Areas

The forest areas stand second only to arable lands among the basic resources of the Dominion, and forest industries have been surpassed by agriculture alone in fostering commercial growth. Even the work of ascertaining the actual extent of her commercial forests is still far from complete, at a rough estimate approximately one-quarter of the total area of the total land area in the Dominion is covered by forest growth in the provinces, Canada over two thirds of the merchantable saw timber of Canada; the forests of the Province of Quebec alone are required to supply the local demand; two-thirds of the newsprint paper consumed in the United States is either of Canadian manufacture or is made from wood or woodpulp imported from Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

The actual extent of Canada's waterpowers, the that of its forests, has been by no means fully ascertained, but the available and developed horsepower (waterpower) is reckoned to be over thirty millions, over four and a half millions of which are already installed mainly in Ontario and Quebec—largely through the former hydro-electric distributism system known. The figures show that Canada ranks second only to Norway in the per capita utilization of waterpower and the average is more than three times that of the United States. There are millions of horsepower more now under development about Lake St. John and the Gatineau River in Quebec, while the discovery of such rivers as the Nelson and Churchill, to say nothing of those in Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta, can but mean millions, which will, one day, be harnessed and transmitted for use also.

Few countries possess greater coal resources than Canada, which is estimated to possess one-fourth of the total amount of coal in the world Long before the exceptional production stimulated by the war, the Dominion had become one of the world's principal source of nickel, asbestos and cobalt, and an important producer of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc and a number of rarer metals. Five of the nine provinces of the Dominion shape substantially in mining activity, although Ontario leads her sisters by a considerable margin.

Not only on the Atlantic but also on the Pacific coast and in her fresh water areas, Canada possesses fisheries of exceptional value. Two of the four great sea fishing areas of the world border on the Dominion, and, in addition, her lakes and rivers constitute approximately one-half of the fresh water of the globe, while the great inland sea of Hudson's Bay, still practically unfished can be regarded as a reserve. The Atlantic coast line measures over 5,000 miles; the Pacific above line, over 7,000 miles; the fresh water lakes of the interior constitute an area of 230,000 square miles.

Person Most Imposed On

In my older days, I think most of my past. The thing I think of most is how frequently I imposed on my mother. She was the only friend I had in the days when I lived like a hound-boy in my father's family. Why did I impose on her? I think it was because I loved her, and went to her with my difficulties. I still impose on those who love or admire me. It's a shame, but we do it.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

The ground historical pageant to be staged at the Edmonton exhibition, July 18 to 23, will be a performance of unsurpassed excellence. Different in every respect from the production of last year, the pageant will portray the romance of Canada's early history from the time of the earliest French explorers. There will be no less than 1,000 participants with full suits of chain-ring armor, smart drill and military formations, while by Manitoba-Canada band talent. The pageant, culminating in the Battle of Frog and Wheat of Life when everyone will be engaged in the struggle to win or to escape at the right time, gives an opportunity that may never occur again, and the people of Edmonton should take a special effort to attend.

As a special treat for children, the exhibition will conduct a pet show, open to children under 16 years of age. Entries will be received by the secretary of Exhibition Association, Edmonton, up to July 15th only. The animals by the hand will be a special feature and will be on exhibition on the first day and last at its best without the boisterous crowds of other attractions of the exhibition.

There are only two of the many varied attractions that will be found at the exhibition this year, and all are worth coming many miles to see.

Cultural Wealth Revived

(1) Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, where Festival was held. (2) The statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Ottawa. (3) Mrs. Ethel Hume Hobson, Ottawa, one of the artists whose work is on exhibition at the Festival. (4) Typical Canadian school at her school.

By all accounts the Canadian Folksong and Handicraft Festival held at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, under the auspices of the National Museum of Canada was an unqualified success. More than any previous event which had to do with French-Canadian folk music it has brought to public notice the rich heritage of native song in Canada. Not merely did the concerts prove magnetic, but the general atmosphere of the Festival brought forth something dormant, a wealth of musical culture that has been buried under the oppressive weight of materialism.

Quebec during the three days of the Festival was invaded by artists from all parts of Canada — notable concert singers from the large cities and the small ones, though not the least interesting, interpreters of the Canadian folksong from the outlying districts. The Festival, looked upon as a whole, has brought forth artists and material never suspected. The collection of folk songs were garnished but those numerous gauntlets like the village songsters and singers, and the Mayor of Lasalle, supplied their musical counterparts of novelty and attraction that charmed thousands of Festival.

Winner: Procter de Repentigny and his families made in their national clothes and a group of fishers dressed with his homespun clothes and his wife; the Fisherfolk from Gaspé Madame Labbé and her daughters carried their spinning wheel and hooked rugs; Napoleon Lebland from the isle of Orleans with his carvings carved by hand; Madame Jean L'Assomption braiding the Canadian cash in the straw hat and in addition, Colin Smith, the organist whose art — address evident, Colin Smith, Juliette Gaultier, Jeanne Dussaut, J. Campbell McInnes and Robbie Plamondon. Nothing more thoroughly Canadian can be imagined than the rollicking songs of the lumberjacks and raftsmen of Quebec by Charles Marchal and his "Troubadours."

And it looks as if the Festival will become an annual affair. At the close of the last concert in Quebec, it was announced that not only would the Festival be held next year, but that F. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had offered $2,000 in prizes for competitions to be played at the 1928 Festival. The competitions to be based on French-Canadian chansons and folk melodies, for which prizes are offered as follows:

1.—$1,000, divided into $750.00 and $250.00 as first and second prizes, for a cantata introducing French-Canadian chansons populaires; the $750 to be divided: $150 for music and $150 for libretto.

2.—$600 for suite for string quartet, not to last over twenty minutes.

3.—$250 for group of arrangements of four chansons populaires for male voices.

4.—$250 for group of arrangements of four chansons populaires for mixed voices.

The last two (4 and 5) are confined to Canadian composers. The others are open to international competition. The judges and details will be announced as soon as possible. Also, that's the initial press.

Hetmi had the quality Miss Abbie loathed, she was not afraid of anything Miss Abbie read it in her eyes, in her carriage, in her poise and for that reason she was attracted to her till her timid life Miss Abbie had craved to be tender and unencumbered about public opinion. That was the great thing in life, not to be afraid of anyone Miss Abbie had heard it run every week-day once. It made her shudder at the time but it fascinated her too. So live that you can look the whole world in the face and tell it to go to " Miss Abbie could not even think the word she struck the horse with the lines instead He, believing her to be encouraging him, set off a fly switched his tail impatiently

Miss Abbie would adopt the girl, yes, she would. If the girl was overcome adoption she would be adopted by Miss Abigail J. Moore, Spinster

Helmi directed her to the Yale Hotel, and Miss Abbie, tying Jasper to the ring in the side-walk, entered Tyler Jasper anywhere, at any time, was what is called now a complimentary gesture

They entered, Helmi striding through the front corridor down the narrow hall, where coats and hats of the diners hung, and so through to the kitchen. The "help" were just sitting down to the end of the front door, but Helmi reasoned that on her off day she had temporarily ceased to be help Therefore the front door

Miss Abbie, glowing, with her new resolve, was brave even to restlessness now

"I found this young girl being chased by two young rowdies, and brought her home," said Miss Abbie to the cook, who stood in the middle of the floor with a long complimentary-carpenter in her hand. "I would like to know more about her if I may. She interests me; I am a worker among girls. She speaks no English, I see."

Maggie Denny politely handed Miss Abbie the one vacant chair, and laid down the can-opener before replying.

"It's little I know myself, ma'am, only that my sister in Saint Paul sent her to me to look after and it's a handful she is. Ma'am, though a good girl as I ever saw in her work, and smart and willin' She's a queer girl in the under way her temper flies

"Do you think I might have her to come and live with me" I am all alone and have a little means" Miss Abbie stumbled hesitatingly "She seems so lonely here, not able to speak, that I feel sorry for her, and besides I need someone I would be good to her"

Maggie considered the proposition critically

"I can give you references" said Miss Abbie eagerly, "and I would be pleased to have you come yourself to see my home if you would be so good

In all her long experience in dealing with the public it was the first time anyone had refused that Margaret Kenny should look at references She had been asked to produce them but not to look at them She was liked her forehead in deep thought Maggie Kenny knew that a hotel with its constant comings and goings was no place for Helmi, besides she liked the greatest body who offered references "

CHAPTER IV.

Miss Abbie J. Moore lived in a little road known as Chestnut Street, in a long suburb neighbour knew, what everyone had a sleeping porch on the front of their house, with a square of grass at the back in the centre of which a clothes-line reel stood She a wind-inverted umbrella every day except Sunday. On Monday the lines were wives bloomed and fluttered in the breeze, running before it in vain effort. A sleeping porch in front, a square of grass behind, and a decent little mortgage covering all—but no arranged that one paid the interest to the front door. The building agency made that very clear. "Live in your own house and pay as you live," was a sentence only repeated.

Miss Abbie kept two impeccable boarders, who came and went noiselessly left their rubbers at the door, came in early, had breakfast at the same hour every morning except Sunday, when they had none at all; who shovelled the snow from the walk in winter; sent her a white lily at Easter, and a red cyclamen at Christmas; who paid on the first day of the month, expect when the first came on Sunday, and in that case made the payment on Saturday.

Miss Abbie referred to them as "Mr. A." and "Mr. B."—but whether this gave any clue to the initials of their names remains a matter of Miss Abbie's house reflected her excellent character. She believed in having things about her plain but good. The wood in her house was oak, the curtains net, the linoleum a subdued brown, "small" brown to be more exact. The carpet on the living room and on the stairs was of the dullest shades of brown and fawn she could get, and the pattern of geometrical design. Her pictures were steel engravings and coloured pictures of grim-visaged departed relatives

"That's Mother, the winter before she died—it was working on her then, but we didn't know it. This is Father taken when he lay on his death-bed. The man came to the house.

This is Aunt Mary. She ain't lookin' very cheerful but you can't wonder; she went straight from the dentist's office when he told her he was afraid she hadn't very long to live. This is my youngest sister. She never was strong; her kidneys floated all the time and killed her at last. She knew it was gettin' worse, so she got one of those for each of us the last Christmas.

In Miss Abbie's family it seemed that a photograph was something of an "institution."

He, steel engraving, were sombre in character, too - "The Stag at Bay," bleak lonely, desperate. The Doctor sitting by the sick child, Wellington riveting Blucher on the fields of Waterloo with shrapnel and shot, and the Duke of Wellington on a gaudy steed.

Helmi saw for the first time in her life had a room to herself and her own little bed a gorgeous affair with eyes with its chaplet of white enamelled flowers tied with a bow of brass ribbon at both head and foot The top quilt was a patched one of blue and white, in the pattern known as the Pavements of New York" and for chilly nights there was a small eiderdown Sowered in apple-blossoms.

Miss Abbie was grieved to see Helmi a growing tendency to stand before the mirror in the chimney stand She was attracted by what she saw there, for it was the first mirror she had looked into which did not make her face look wavy However, when the minister's sister, the psychoanalyst, pointed out to Miss Abbie that Helmi seemed to be growing conscious of her personal appearance Miss Abbie dismissed the matter lightly.

"Time about enough for that, Miss Berry," she said in that sweet tone she always adopted when she was working toward a climax "the curves of a young face are good to look at There is no need to put ideas into anyone's head about such things. Now, with you and me the plain chaste oversight the new fascination, though, I fear it will not be confined to us for righteousness that we realized."

Miss Abbie noted with some alarm the progress Helmi was making in adapting herself to her new life. Helmi's hair was no longer drawn in straight back, brushed and tied with a black ribbon.

It came down over her ears now in the "bang" so favoured by the flapper. The high shoes on Helmi's print blouses had disappeared, and quite sufficient white neck was revealed; and when she took her down to see the pieces she noticed how she lingered in front of the vanity counter, and when they came to a millinery window Helmi stopped so suddenly that Miss Abbie collided with her and "pleases and not even knew it!

Miss Abbie felt herself at a loss to know what to do about this. Evidently Helmi had a deep love for finery, and Miss Abbie trembled for her when she thought of the evils that the world "Don't you don't blame her," she thought, "it's all men's faults after all! They want us to be dressed up always for their necks; they won't take much notice of them if they are not. I know I was always the homespun, flat-heeled, rainy-day kind, and what good did it do me? Still, she will have to be guided."

When Miss Abbie went into the kitchen to tell Helmi what to get for dinner she found her busy polishing the tin dishpan on the sink and with her face in it. So absorbed was she in her pleasant task she did not hear Miss Abbie coming

Then and there Miss Abbie decided in favor of "small brown" for Helmi's gingham dresses. She had thought of henna and burnt orange.

Across the corner from Miss Abbie's prim little house a slightly bungalow with multioned windows raised its symmetrical roof among the trees. Miss Abbie said it looked like a California house with its sun-porch in front and sleeping verandah screened from the world with green and white canvas at the back It was not exactly in the middle of the plushy lawn with like beaters at intervals all around the fence; a Maltese cross of red and white geraniums, a hedge of blue delphiniums in front of the iron fence which divided the front lawn from the back garden, window boxes of red geraniums, white daisies and blue lobelia, upstairs and down a summer-house grown over with canary vine, a carnagna hedge, neatly trimmed so that flat surface was discovered by hedge growers. It looked, indeed, like the perfectly kept home of a substantial citizen.

Japan's Ancient Royal Family

No Other Dynasty Has Seen So Long Lived

It is difficult to realize the antiquity of the Japanese royal family, for it goes back 2,500 years. Emperor Yoshihito is the one hundred and twenty-third of the Yamato house to hold the sceptre. From the begin ning there has been no other dynasty in Japan. Perhaps this has something to do with the Japanese belief that their emperor is descended from the gods. Jimmu Tenno, settled his people in Japan and founded the royal line in 660 B.C Yoshihito, the every other wielder of the Japanese sceptre since, is his direct descendant in all history there is nothing else like this. The Kinpaku dynasties were mostly short lived. The Chinese imperial houses came and went. The whole series of Roman emperors had not brief periods compared with this Japanese line. The English, French, Spanish German, Russian royal houses were kaleidoscope beside the Japanese.

Ottawa Woman Has Bagpipes Played At Culloden Beat

The historic relics that piped for the last cause at Culloden Moor when the defeated forces of "Bonnie Prince Charlie" were rallied by his strains have been handed in Ottawa. Their present owner, Miss Francis Nolan, has already refused an offer of $4,000 for them from a Scottish museum. The piper were last used when the late John Brown, descendant of the John Brown who played them at Culloden Moor, piped a tune when King Edward VII. then Prince of Wales, laid the cornerstone of the old Parliament Buildings at Ottawa.

RED HOT JULY DAYS HARD ON THE BABY

July—the month of oppressive heat; red-hot days and sweltering nights; is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such use to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach and, as occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come on suddenly will banish it The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CORNERSTONE TO BE LAID AT OLDS AGRIC. SCHOOL

The cornerstone for the new dormitory and gymnasium at the School of Agriculture at Olds will be laid at 3 p.m. on July 22nd, with officials of the Department of Agriculture conducting the ceremony.

When complete this building will be a handsome brick and stucco structure of two and one-half storeys. It will be fireproof throughout, the framework being of tile. The main section of the building will provide space for a large combined gymnasium and assembly hall, library, two classrooms, four offices, a large dining room, and kitchen; while the north and south wings will provide dormitory accommodations for the students. The north wing—the girls' dormitory—will accommodate eighty students, and the south wing will take care of one hundred and ten young men students. There will be a sitting room on each of the three floors of each dormitory. Graceful steel arches will support the ceilings of the dining room and assembly hall.

The laying of the cornerstone is a part of the program of the Alumni Reunion which is to be held on July 21st and 22nd. This reunion affords an opportunity for ex-students to renew old acquaintanceships, and to see the beautifully decorated grounds and the experimental plots at the school. An especially good attendance is expected this year.

All friends of the institution are cordially invited to attend the dedicatory exercises.

Unveiling of the cairn in the grounds of the jail, which marks the site of the original buildings erected in October, 1874, by Col. W. D. Jarvis and 30 non-commissioned officers and men of the first party of North West Mounted Police to enter the district, was made Sunday afternoon by Major-General Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G.,D.S.O., in the presence of a large gathering of old-time members of the famous force, citizens of the town, and interested visitors.

Major-General Griesbach's father commanded the fort during the days of the Red rebellion of1885, so that it was fitting that the son, who spent much of his boyhood playing around the old fort, should have been asked to unveil the cairn.

Many members of the existing force, and also a number of R.N.W. M.P. veterans and old-timers were present at the ceremony, among whom were W. H. White, Staff Sergt. Flyfe, P.C. Debenham, Staff Sergt. OBITUARY

The death took place at the Lamont hospital on Sunday, July 17, of Mrs. McKellar, wife of Mr. J. S. McKellar, of Fort Saskatchewan. Deceased had been ill for a considerable time and her death was not unexpected.

Born in Schuyland, Nebraska, she was married there to Mr. McKellar thirty-seven years ago, coming to Alberta in the year 1894, and to Fort Saskatchewan five years later, and had resided here since that time. She is survived by her husband and one son, J. F. McKellar, and five brothers and three sisters. Mrs. Stewart, a sister, of Conway, Wyoming, arrived on several days before death occurred.

Two little sons, Jamie and Duncan predeceased her and were ever fondly remembered.

The late Mrs. McKellar was of a singularly modest and happy disposition, a devoted wife and mother and a good neighbor. She was an active and willing worker in the church, the Women's Institute and the Red Cross. She will be sorely missed by a host of friends who will remember her for her kindness, her hospitality and her cheerful pleasantness. The sincere sympathy of the entire community goes out to the sorrowing relatives.

The funeral service was held at the First United church on Wednesday afternoon July 20, Rev. M. S. Kerr, of Vermilion, officiating. Burial was made at the Fort Saskatchewan cemetery.

Floral offerings were received from the following:

The Atkinson family; Mr. and Mrs. Shackleton and family; Mr. Seymour; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White; Mr. and Mrs. Wilmerah; United Church W. M.S. and Ladies Aid; Mrs. Taylor; Mrs. Larose; Mrs. Graham; Mr. and Mrs. Cuxford and Mrs. Jones; Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Edmonton; Women's auxiliary, St. Ann's Redoubt; The Red Cross; Mrs. Mainwaring; Miss Beckhouse; Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Jones; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shore; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hare; The Family.

DOG SAVES TWO YOUNG GIRLS FROM DROWNING

On Sunday afternoon Freda Depo and a companion had a narrow escape from drowning in the swift current of the Saskatchewan river. The two girls were wearing bathing suits while wading near the island and went in so deep the current washed them off their feet. Fortunately Depo's St. Bernard dog was alongside them and both girls clutched its collar, and the animal with a struggle succeeded in reaching the island. Other children noticing their plight notified Mr. Depo and he and Albert Goodrum were soon on the scene. Albert donned a swimming suit and waded over, carrying the girls back one at a time. One of them became panic stricken and clutched Albert so tightly he lost his footing and had to swim, having a hard struggle before he was able to land with his burden. The dog waited on the island until both girls were brought to shore and then swam over.

Premier, George Goodall, Staff Sergt. H. H. Tucker, Inspector J. S. Piper, J. P. Duggan, Asst. Commissioner J. D. Nicholson, Col. Primrose, Frank Walker, and Jim McKernan, Walter Ross and Tom Labelle, three of the original force of 1874.

General Griesbach told many interesting stories of the early days at the old fort, adding that the only portion of the original buildings now left were the warder's house, built in 1880, and the present pump house.

Music was provided by the Salvation Army band, and speakers included Col. Primrose, a former 'Mountie,' and Mayor Hunter.

The cairn was built under the supervision of Warden J. D. McLean, and both it and the grounds were the objects of very favorable comment from the visitors.

Following the ceremony, Ensign Collier of the Salvation Army held a memorial service on the monument in the Memorial grounds.

The High Cost of Weeds

Actual evidence of the loss in value of weed-infested farm land is shown in an extract from the report of an inspector visiting a certain farm for issuing purposes. In his report, this inspector says, "It is hardly infested with sow thistle—as are all the farms in the neighborhood. I have valued $1,000 less than I would if clean of this weed."

This $1,000 represented 12 per cent. of the value of the farm. Many inspectors could have discounted the value to an even greater extent.

The question naturally suggests itself: What, Mr. Farmer, is your weed crop costing you?

You may not be contemplating a sale of the land, nor considering the placing of a loan on it. For the time being the actual value of the land may be of no particular interest to you, except from a taxation standpoint. Nevertheless, the question is some the less pertinent: What is your weed crop costing you?

If you are using dirty seed, it is costing you something for seeding it. Let it be assumed that the weeds are already there and that you themselves said that the cost of seeding can be eliminated. But you have to cut the weeds along with the grain, that costs something. You have to thresh the weed seeds along with the grain; that costs something more. You haul many pounds of weed seeds along with the grain to the elevator, more cost. You pay elevator charges on the total weight, another cost. You pay freight on the weed seeds as well as on the grain; extra cost. Finally, you pay to have the weed seeds cleaned from the grain; added cost. These are direct outlays. Have you ever taken time to figure up these costs? Their total would surprise you. And, by the way, having borne all these costs, what sum of money did you realize for the weeds thus raised and marketed by you?

But, apart from these direct costs, what was the total of the indirect cost of your annual weed crop? How much life and nutriment did these weeds extract from your land? How much moisture did they consume which would have given additional strength to your grain? How many extra bushels of wheat or oats or other grain per acre would you have realized from your land if it had been clean of weeds, and you had been producing grain only instead of an unmarketable mixture of grain and weed seeds?

But, you agree, there is another side to the weed account in your farm ledger. It costs something to get rid of weeds and to keep land free of them. Perfectly true. And if you have permitted your land to become badly infested, the initial cost of weed eradication will be heavy. In fact, you may have heartily concluded that it is cheaper to go on raising weeds and grain together than to make a fight against the weeds. It is well to remember, however, that year by year the weeds will become more numerous and the grain smaller and smaller.

Then, too, the day may come when you will want to sell the farm, and you will discover that a weed-infested farm invites few buyers and a low price. Furthermore, it is safe to predict that if you continue to grow weeds, and thereby enormously reduce your grain yield, the time is coming when you will be forced to apply to a Company for a loan. Then Mr Inspector will report that he values your land at from 30 to 50 per cent. less than he otherwise would if it had been free of weeds.

The most expensive and the least remunerative crop any farmer can raise is a crop of weeds, yet thousands of Western farmers are engaged in this losing business. Why? Because they have never taken the time to ponder on the cost, or keeper of subtriousness, or downright laziness. Possibly ignorance is the cause, the farmer failing to realize that allowing weeds to grow and flourish on his land means just as much work for himself in the long run as to be involved in fighting them, while the cost of growing weeds is many times greater than the cost of eradicating them.

And if the cost and loss to the individual farmer is so great, it is, in the aggregate, to the municipality, the province, and the Dominion as enormous as to stagger the imagination.

Fight weeds as you would fight fire. Fight even harder, because you can insure property against fire, but not against weeds. The only insurance against weeds must be provided by your own labor. It will prove one of the best paying of all your farm efforts.

THE NURSING MOTHER

Often Finds Herself Weak and Feeling Worn-Out

The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood, plenty of it. The demands upon her health are many and severe. Unless her blood-supply is kept rich and pure her child will suffer and she herself will become nervous, headachy, backachy and nervous. Many a little mother has been puzzled to always be found weak and watery, and relief will come only through enriching the blood. For this purpose Dr Williams' Pink Pills is the best medicine the mother can use. Through their use many a sick mother has regained health and strength. As an example of this Mrs Sarah Hallett, Bonavista, Nfld., says: "While nursing my baby I became run down, was weak and nervous, my head ached all the time and I was not able to do my work. I had often tried Dr Williams' Pink Pills and began using them, and what a blessing they proved before I had used a half dozen boxes I felt like a new woman, and by their continued use for a while I was entirely restored to my former health and strength. I take pleasure in recommending Dr Williams' Pink Pills to everyone as I did."

You can get these pills through any druggist or dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Regulations Passed

Grain Owners May Now Appeal on Condition and Grade

A new regulation has been passed by the Board of Grain Commissioners giving the owners of grain the right to appeal on questions of condition and dockage to grade of their grain.

The regulation comes into effect on on August 1 and is being put into force especially to demonstrate whether it is beneficial or otherwise to the grower of grain. The regulation applies to Fort William, Port Arthur, Calgary, Saskatoon, Vancouver and does not govern carriage shipments.

Hitherto the only appeal possible was against the grade given.

Monsoon Elevator Capacity

If construction is pushed, Prince Rupert's Wheat Pool elevator is started with in a month or so, as expected, it will be ready to begin operations by December. It will raise Vancouver's elevator capacity to 10,300,000 bushels. The company has plans for a million elevator at the port with 1,250,000 bushel capacity.

Merger of Shingle Makers

Amalgamation of the Shingle Makers of British Columbia

One of the largest business mergers that has taken place in British Columbia in recent years is that of the amalgamation of the shingle manufacturers of the province. At least 95 per cent of the shingle manufacturers of British Columbia are now included in the recently formed organization, known as the Consolidated Shingle Mills of British Columbia, Limited.

Each shingle company is interested to the extent of the value of its plant.

The new organization will have operations over manufacturing and sales.

The amalgamation is along the lines of similar movements in the lumber trade in the United States, the aim of which is to stabilize trade conditions

Governments Join To Assist Settlement Of British Boys On The Land In Canada

What is supposed or to one of the most constructive and modern land settlement schemes is embodied in an agreement for the settlement of British boys on the land on Canada, just concluded between the British and Canadian governments on the Empire Settlement Act of 1922. The scheme is a further development of the farm training centres for British boys which have already been established under the auspices of the provincial governments Under this scheme, the British and Canadian governments propose jointly to expend a total sum of $5,000,000 over a period of ten years, in the form of recoverable advances to assist suitable British youths to take up farming in Canada on their own account.

It is the desire of the two governments that British boys between the ages of 14 and 20 who are considered to be suitable to work on farms should be able to look forward to a definite career on the land. A large number of British boys who come out on farm workers do, of course, become farmers, but on the they have had to rely entirely upon their own efforts to the necessary capital to purchase and equip a farm, and this may take a considerable number of years.

The new scheme aims at curtailing the period of waiting, and under it a British youth, at the end of a few years' spent in gaining the necessary training and experience on a farm, and in accumulating some savings, will have the opportunity of being placed on a farm of his own under Government supervision

The scheme will apply to boys who have received assisted passages, have passed through the provincial training centres in Canada, and who were between 18 and 19 years of age on arrival in the Dominion. On reaching 21 years of age the boys provided that they have acquired the necessary training and experience, will be eligible for wages on a farm in Canada, and have saved approximately $100—or will be eligible for assistance up to an amount not exceeding $1,500 for the purchase of a farm and for stock and equipment. Loans will be made to young men over 25 years of age Settlement under this scheme will commence on April 1, 1930, and will extend over a period of ten years.

The scheme provides for the cooperation of the provincial governments and the extent of settlement in each province will depend upon the measure of the co-operation which the Dominion Government will, however, assume responsibility for actual settlement, and the general administration of the scheme.

During the past year training centres have been established in each of the provinces under Government control and supervision. The British and Canadian governments make a joint cash contribution towards the operation of these provincial training centres which are regarded on the basis of the Canadian-wide boys' settlement scheme.

It is believed that the present new scheme will definitely add industrious British boys of a definite career on the land will have the effect of stimulating interest among British boys in the opportunities open to them in Canada under existing schemes now by migration and under new schemes now being developed.

This scheme gives effect, as far as Canada is concerned, to recommendations of the Imperial Conference, 1926, which drew attention to the importance of counteracting the drift to the cities and of providing some experience of farm life for those who require farms of their own after they had gained the necessary local experience and were in a position to make a deposit in respect of the purchase price of the land.

Market For Hay In Britain

Dominion's Exportable Surplus Could Be Shipped Profitably

A cable received by the department of trade and commerce from Harrison Watson, trade commissioner for Canada in London, indicates that Great Britain will offer an attractive market for Canadian timothy hay for purposes of timothy and clover during the present year The cable is as follows:

"English hay crop turning out an hourly that imported hay will be required. Prospects are that there will be a fair demand for Canadian timothy and clover mixtures. London imposed no one gallon of water are then placed on the market. Several big openings viewed or reported on that the exporting farmers/people will be interested in this way Quantities small and can ensure spares will be effectively conserved while the manufacturer is travelling from one town to another After five or six hours of this fumigation the inside of the motor vehicle is rendered free from all germs. Whole premises may be similarly fumigated with the formalin solution. The whole procedure means about half an hours work and costs very little.

Wool Industry Growing

Figures on Casualty Show Increase in Saskatchewan

A healthy increase in the wool industry during October last year was forthcoming is indicated by figures on contracts this year to bring with the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Limited, Winnipeg, it is announced.

According to W. H. Thompson, manager for Manitoba and Saskatchewan, this year's contracts already have reached a total of 700, which will include 40,116 fleeces Although the total number of contracts is less than short of the same date last year, the number of fleeces affected is much larger, being 17 of the total clip up of last year

French Banker and Grain Merchant Says Canada's Wheat Is Of High Standard

According to press despatches Louis Louis-Dreyfus, a French banker and grain merchant, who is credited with one of the leading properties on wheat, recently gave an address to the French American committee in Paris in which he declared that Canada was the greatest wheat exporting country in the world, that the grain from the Dominion had no equal in quality except some of the Russian cereal, and that supplies available from Canada would continue to increase

Hoof and Mouth Disease Spreads

Simple and Effective Method of Disinfecting Threshing Machines

The very essential precaution to be taken for the prevention of the spread of most diseases of animals is to make certain that the threshing machine is clean And free from small spores before using it The practice in some of moving threshing machines from one farm to another is undoubtedly responsible to a considerable extent for the spread of smut and its introduction into farms previously free from the disease

A simple and effective method for the disinfection of threshing machines is recommended in a campaign poster bulletin on the Smut Diseases of Cultivated Plants, distributed by the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture Ottawa The machine is first thoroughly swept inside and out to get rid of all loose seeds Some cooking oil or bags immersed in formalin compound to one gallon of water are then placed in the machine and all openings closed or covered so that the evaporating formaldehyde will be confined in this way Only a small amount of spores will be effectively destroyed while the machine is travelling from one farm to another After five or six hours of this fumigation the inside of the machine will complete no living smut spores The outside of the machine, wagon, stacks implements, etc., may be rapidly sterilized by means of an ordinary blow torch, or with a spray of the formalin solution. The whole procedure means about half an hours work and costs very little.

Greater General Interest And Activity Is Being Shown In Aviation Affairs This Summer

There is every evidence in the present chamber of a much more general interest and activity in aviation affairs in Canada At the last session of the Canadian Parliament a vote of $3 937 720 for the Government Air Service was passed and an elaborate program mapped out in the course of the discussion, the Premier stated that civil and military air forces in Canada would in future be kept distinct though under one minister and to one department, and that the carrying on of civil work under the civil branch of the Air Service was under consideration by the Government The policy to be taken as indicating the increasing importance of civil aviation to the Dominion

Plans for an air mail service in Canada are taking more definite shape now that the secretary of state and the postmaster general have stated that the Government intends to establish an air mail service at an early date and to extend it to Hudson and Western Canada as conditions may warrant This year was to have seen the inauguration of such a service between Rimouski and Moncton, Moncton and Chatham, but the change of Government and attitude on the part of the Government This year has been postponed until probably next year.

Tenders for air mail routes will not be called for until this fall Lake to the summer the Royal Canadian Air Force will undertake some experimental work in the gulf of the St Lawrence and will carry on with the Department of Marine and Fisheries a search for suitable flying boat routes across Canada. The Department of National Defence is assisting in the working out of these routes on the Pacific coast, and plans are said to involve the establishment of two flying boat bases for seaplanes and one for airplanes

A Bed that Rocks You to Sleep

Sir Alfred Yarrow, internationally known marine engineer, is a chronic sufferer from insomnia, but when travelling E.P.S. from Vancouver to Montreal has found the amenities of life travelling, combined with the rocking motion of the train as it swung over the tracks provided an ideal cure for his sleeplessness. Being a scientific man, he naturally gave this curious fact full consideration and had constructed, in his own cabin, a bed which is electrically actuated to reproduce as nearly as possible the motion of the Canadian Pacific train.

This electrical bed was the feature of the exhibition of the Institution of Electrical Engineers recently held in London, England. It is here reproduced and by the side of it Sir Alfred Yarrow stands all ready to put it in motion with a little twist of the switchboard.

Banks Preparing For War

Red Army and Fleet Have Been Greatly Strengthened

A report from Moscow says that War Commissar Voroshilov says in the "Week of Defense," which has just closed, the end of the feeling among the masses of false security concerning the possibility of war. All workers, he believes, now are alive to the danger and the necessity of being prepared. All eyes are turned toward the land army and fleet, both of which he says, have been enormously strengthened during the past year, the great majority of whose officers are equipped theoretically as well as practically, and whose morale is on a higher plane than that of the Bourgeoisie armies.

Finance Commissar Brachanov declares that the peasants will answer the British attempt toward financial blockade by turning over their savings for the country's defence. He declared that the war budget form only forty per cent. of the country's entire budget, must be increased materially.

We have put our shoulders to the wheel We are giving our brains and energy for the building of this country and we are willing to work and we expect that children have no other native land but Canada, and for these reasons we protest against the brand of 'foreigner' being applied to us in deeds of thousands of Canadians and we have no reason to be ashamed of our ancestry."

So stated Dr. G. E. Iwasna, of San katoon, addressing some 250 school children and others at the annual school fair and sports day held at St. Julien recently.

People of 16 nationals had exhibits at the fair.

Suffragettes Stage Demonstration

Described As the Greatest Meeting That Will Ever Be Held

Women suffragists in London held a demonstration recently which was noisy flying in Trafalgar Square in support of Premier Baldwin's so-called "anger act bill," a measure granting the ballot to all women over 21 years of age. The demonstration was held in Whitehall. Thousands who de-orbed the meeting as "the last great suffragette demonstration that will probably ever be held."

Many of the suffragette leaders were present, among them Mrs. Dee Pank, Mrs. Pethick Lawrence and Mrs. Mildred Harvey.

DAVID AND JONATHAN

Golden Text: There is a friend that sticketh closer than brother. Prov. xviii. 24.

Lesson I. Samuel xviii. 1-4; xix. 1-7; xx. 12-17. II. Samuel i. 11, 12. Devotional Reading, John 15: 9-17.

Explanations and Comments

The Two Friends, 18:1-4 The child's story must forcibly portray the thought about the design in the Philistines, but gained first him a position at court and the devoted friendship of Jonathan the king's son. Jonathan was present when Abner the captain of the army brought David in the victorious champion of Israel to the king's presence. He was a believer in friendship, sprang up between David and Jonathan that made a covenant together exchanging presents, something that the most to give "nothing that he (or she) paid for his own friend, for he loved David as his own soul," and stripping off his own robe he gave that to David and all of his clothes, even to his sword, bow and girdle.

The prime gain of friendship is not the knowledge of a noble soul That was what Jonathan felt found in Jonathan's heart; the test of when he stood revealed in all its beauty of his royal nature. Jonathan when Goliath was slain David was ashamed to be the grandson of Jesse, full of patriotism and bent on saving Israel, and all his royal qualities were admired and set off by his humility. As you read the author's history of this friendship, you are very apt to think that David was the nobler for Jonathan was a perfect naturally of tenderness, and was never weary of sacrificing himself for the interests of his friend, yet I am sure that that would be false judgment. I am certain of this, that Jonathan would not have agreed in it David was by far the more splendid nature, and I suspect that is what David thinks in the matter. In friendship it is the man who has the most to himself to give. In patriotism, and the man who has most of what is external to give." James Stalker.

Landmark Will Be Preserved

Famous "Banbury Cross" Is To Be Lost Standing

The Mayor of Banbury, in Oxfordshire, has announced that a committee has been elected whereby the Banbury Cross known in millions of pictures as the "Banbury Cross" ballad of the Cockhorse," is to be saved from the demolition demanded by zealots on the ground that it blocked the road and endangered traffic.

The ruthless shunt it will be removed and the lumps set back to give a wider roadway.

Hundreds of letters from America and all the British dominions, it is said, asked for the preservation of the landmark, after news of the cast gadges of the motorists for its removal at was rebuked round the world.

Have Eight Million Reserve

Western wheat pools have been able to set aside in three years, by elevator and commercial reserve deductions, the large total of $8,000,000 to ensure the safety of their organization and to carry out its projects Approximately $2,000,000 will be set aside from the proceeds of the 1926 pool as commercial and elevator reserves.

C.P.R. in Strong Financial Position

A Great Enterprise That Has Been Ably Administered

To examine the situation financial and otherwise of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the interest of United States holders of Canadian Pacific stock, the New York investment and banking house of Wood, Gundrie & Co., after patiently exhaustive investigations, including inspection of the main portions of the railway, has issued a 30 page review, the general conclusions of which are set forth in the following extracts:

"Few, if any, great enterprises have been more logically conceived, more skillfully conducted, more thoroughly integrated, or more ably administered than the Canadian Pacific From a relatively modest beginning, it steadily forged ahead, till it embraced its present position of the greatest privately owned transportation machine in the world. And throughout this long period of expansion, it is gratifying to note that the enterprise has always developed with due regard to profits for owners, as well as service to patrons

"The subscribers allotted record contracts back for almost half a century. From 1882 the years of its first six years, the original subscribers to date its dividends have averaged 6.7 per cent per annum, while no less than 10 per cent has been paid for the last 17 years. Nor does the dividend record alone tell the whole story. For every dollar paid in dividends on the 25 common shares, it has retained, in the form of surplus an additional nearly seven cents The book value of the common shares is now $241.

"The record for service has distinguished from profits) is even more remarkable, for it was the pioneer line that ever later been the chief factor in furnishing the thinly settled dominion of Canada with transportation facilities a quarter of a century in advance of their needs and at rates materially lower those prevailing on the south side of the line. And to supplement this extensive rail service, it has developed one of the most extensive and favorably known inter ocean shipping routes to say nothing of its excellent British Columbia coast service, telegraph, express and sleeping car services have been created; imposing lines of hotels erected; and the natural resources of mankind exploited and profitably developed.

"The great war riveted the natural growth of the Dominion and left behind problems of grave importance, but practically the backlash is recovering from the effects of the war, final strides in increasing and premises to develop even more satisfactorily, and, in like manner, the Canadian Pacific is making progress.

"The holders of the consolidated debenture stock and prior conditions of the Canadian Pacific, even during the initial period of development, had to make very trying period commencing with the war, have enjoyed excellent security, During the last decade fixed charges on those obligations have been earned on an average of more than 4½ times and the 4 per cent. debenture stock is covered by the requirements of more than a billion dollars, or 4.3 times the amount of the debenture stock outstanding.

"The investment risks to the shareholders are compensated in an unusual extent by the prospects of more than commensurate reward should their faith in the enterprise be vindicated Not only do they receive a generous rate of return, the safety of which seems to have been adequately tested in the bad decade by the Canadian Pacific's success in coping with the trying circumstances of the period, but there are several avenues which will possibly lead to an eventual position of prosperity exceeding that of any former period of its history.

Maintain Trade Increase

Ottawa. Canadian trade for June dropped slightly in comparison with June of last year, but for the three months of the fiscal year ending June there is an increase of nearly $50,000,000 over the 1926 figures.

The grand total of Canadian trade in June 1927, was $296,379,907, while in June last year it was $310,312,011.

PRINCE MICHAEL ASCENDS THRONE OF RUMANIA

Bucharest Five hundred and one guns boomed a salute to King Michael I of Rumania announcing to the non-united nonentities that the six pound monarch has succeeded the throne surrounded his grandmother, King Ferdinand.

Prince Michael, whose mother is Princess Helen of Greece, was born October 25, 1921 and created heir apparent to the 21 1925, on his father, Prince Carol, renouncing his right to the succession.

Some time ago a regency council was appointed for Prince Michael, the regency consisting of Prince Nicholas, brother of the late King Ferdinand the patriarch of Rumania and the Chief Justice of the supreme court.

A cabinet composed of the royal household nobility, the product of politics and the marshal of the royal court, presiding, social cabinet, headed by Prince Nicholas, the Princess Mother Helen, Princess Ileana and the little king himself, passed through the streets from Cotroceni Palace to the House of Parliament

While the proceedings were the members of both Houses, all the military and civil dignitaries and the members of the diplomatic corps. The regent, Prince Nicholas, Patriarch Miron Cristea and Justice Buzdugan entered They were followed by Princess Helen, who led His Majesty Michael I. by the hand into the chamber of deputies.

The little child hesitated, then halted as if on the verge of tears.

"Remember you are a king and the son of kings," his mother told him.

Straightening out his body and drawing himself to his full height, he took the oath of office in a clear voice, then bent over and quickly. Prince Nicholas was the first to take the oath, and swearing to uphold the constitution, the rights of the king, maintain people and allegiance to King Michael. Meanwhile the little king was standing erect as if by fear.

Then as the Patriarch followed with a similar oath. Little Michael nodded. The Patriarch swayed like a figure which had suddenly escaped from the Bible long beard and stern features. He spoke in a low, deep voice, emphasizing the oath in a manner to show his realization of the importance he attached to the sacred words. Justice Buzdugan's voice was scarcely audible.

Have Elected Canadian

Sir Campbell Stuart is Chairman Of Times Publishing Company

London Sir Campbell Stuart, a Canadian, and director of the Times Publishing Company, has been elected chairman of the Pacific Cable Board.

The election of Sir Campbell Stuart to the chairmanship of a dispute which Canada had with the cable board and which was settled at the Imperial Conference last year. Formerly the chairman of the board was appointed by the British Government, but the Canadian Government stated that because of the numerous and the cable charges on those obligations have been raised on an average of more than 41 times and the 4 ocean service lines is owned by the company at more than a billion dollars, or 4.3 times the amount of the debenture stock outstanding.

"The investment risks to the shareholders are compensated in an unusual extent by the prospects of more than commensurate reward should their faith in the enterprise be vindicated Not only do they receive a generous rate of return, the safety of which seems to have been adequately tested in the bad decade by the Canadian Pacific's success in coping with the trying circumstances of the period, but there are several avenues which will possibly lead to an eventual position of prosperity exceeding that of any former period of its history.

Irish Free State Policy

Special Legislation To Meet Situation Caused By Hostile Republicans

Dublin Provisional Cosgrave has introduced special legislation in the Dail to meet the situation created by the assassination of Vice President Kevin O'Higgins, and the general activities of the Republicans to the Irish Free State

One bill makes provision for the maintenance and protection of the state while another requires that candidates for the Dail or Senate before election, must swear to a declaration of intention to take their seats and the oath.

The latter bill strikes particularly at the policy of Eamonn de Valera, who with the other elected members of his party, the Fianna Fail, declined to take the oath to the king after the last general election and have been excluded from the Dail.

The cabinet Congress also indicated his intention of seeking to provide for Mr. O'Higgin's widow.

Will Need More Harbors

Canada's Trade Bound To Increase Says Lord Willingdon

Saint John, N.B Reflecting an optimistic outlook on the future development of Canada, Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of the Dominion, delivered an address at the luncheon before the Saint John Canadian Club and guests here. His Excellency referred to the progress of the country, and in this connection told of the large number of harbors necessary to carry on the trade of the great Dominion.

He felt that in a short time it would not be a question of building enough trade to keep Canadian harbors busy, but of getting sufficient harbor accommodation for the increased trade.

Will Tour Dominion

Party Of Distinguished British Editors To Visit Canada Soon

Montreal The itinerary of the party of ten British newspaper men who will arrive at Quebec August 12, provides that during the month they are in Canada the Britishers will visit practically every corner of the Dominion and, besides taking every city of importance, have an opportunity of sampling at first hand Canada's natural resources and investment possibilities.

Under the leadership of John S King, president of the English News paper Society, the party will be the most distinguished newspaper group to visit Canada since the Imperial conference in 1926, and will include, among others, Sir Richard Winfrey, of the Peterborough Advertiser; Jesse Edwards of the Boston Evening News; H. M. Davies, Swansea Daily Post; John Buchan London Courier and Advertiser; T T Stanley, Hyde Reporter, Cheshire, and E. V. 11. Taylor, of the Bristol Times.

From Quebec the party will travel by special train to Fredericton, St John and St Andrews, N.B. Thence through to the Pacific Coast via Montreal, Ottawa, August 13; Winnipeg, August 20; Saskatoon, August 22, Edmonton, August 23, and Vancouver, August 28 They will return to Quebec by the Canadian National Pacific and maintained a schedule to the end that wherever the party will be the Canadian Pacific will be greeted by provincial and civic officials and by the new-paper and business men.

Lord Burnham, August 24, the owner whose another executive that establishes for the Daily or Sunday Telegraph, will travel as a declaration of intention to take their seats and the oath.

The latter bill strikes particularly at the policy of Eamonn de Valera, who with the other elected members of his party, the Fianna Fail, declined to take the oath to the king after the last general election and have been excluded from the Dail.

The cabinet Congress also indicated his intention of seeking to provide for Mr. O'Higgin's widow.

Canadian Wheat Board Will Cease Operations

Business To Be Wound Up On September 1

Ottawa. The department of trade and commerce has issued a statement calling attention to the fact that the Canadian Wheat Board Act, passed by parliament in the session of council, passed on March 15, 1927, the Canadian wheat board which was created by an order-in-council of July 31, 1919, will be finally wound up on September 1 next.

On and after that date no participation certificates shall be paid and all moneys due to the Canadian wheat board on the said date shall be declared the property of the crown.

At the present time the expense necessary to continue the occasional payment of participation certificates is being met from the liquidation of the value of the certificates presented. As the bonus for the storage of wheat in 1926-27 expired at the end of August, it has appeared advisable to finally close the operations of the board on September 1. In the opinion of the department of justice this can be done by orders-in-council and without legislation. Outstanding certificates now held by the public will be received after that date if payment is expected.

May Receive Edward Medal

Bravery Of Officer On Renown To Be Recognized

London. The Duke of York and the commander of the Renown have public spoken very highly of the gallant conduct of Petty Officer Jefferies during the fire that broke out on the battleship just after she had left Australia for home, and it is probable that it will receive recognition from the King.

Most likely Jefferies will be given the Edward medal, the award reserved for acts of bravery of that kind. It is a decoration greatly prized by the recipients. Perhaps more will be heard of the affair now that the Duke and Duchess are home.

It was through Jefferies' steadiness after the fire broke out that it was possible to turn off the oil cocks and prevent the flames from spreading. The Jefferies really saved the ship.

Confer on Chinese Matters

The British delegation who were chosen to attend the Institute of Pacific Relations several months ago is going to be held at Honolulu. The party arrived in Canada June 23 on the Canadian Pacific steamship Montrose, by invitations, of the British delegates and also of a delegate from the Canadian Institute Party. Delegates from the other nations of the world will attend.

The British party are from left to right: Hon. William W. Astor, Viscount Cantorrigh, John Nelson, Hon. Hugh Wyndham, Sir Frederick Whyte, chairman of the British delegation and president of the Pacific Institute, Lionel Curtis, Malcolm MacDonald, son of the former British Labor Premier, and W. Pember Rees.

Arrange Reception For Royal Party

Preparations For Three Day Visit In Quebec Are Completed

Quebec All is prepared for the reception which is to be extended to Their Royal Highness on the Prince of Wales and Prince George, when Premier Stanley Baldwin, when they arrive at the ancient capital on Friday afternoon, July 29. A meeting was held in connection with the visit to Canada of the royal visitors and Britain's Prime Minister, and following the meeting the detailed programme of the events which will take place during the three-day stay here was given out.

Of the events scheduled to take place the state dinner at Spencer Wood will be the most important. The message by the premier will take place on Saturday, when a bunch of the boys will be held.

Premier Mackenzie King and members of the Dominion Government will visit the ancient capital to welcome the visitors to Canada.

POULTRY MEET WILL GREATLY BENEFIT CANADA

Ottawa.—"Canada is under a great responsibility; we are looking to her to open a new era in the poultry industry and to make it greater than ever before," said Edward Brown, president of the World's Poultry congress, speaking at a luncheon tendered in his honor.

Mr. Brown declared his ballot to the great body to be united through the congress this year This, he said was going to be by far the biggest meeting ever held in poultry or agricultural circles. Representatives from 40 nations throughout the world will be here, and he urged there to come in open minds, ready to learn and ready to teach their fellow delegates all that they can.

"It is for you to awaken to what may be in your country," he said and this congress is going to reveal that is in Canada." It was his belief, he declared, that the congress will do more towards putting Canada farther on the map than anything else could

Hon. W. H. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, in a brief speech told the delegates that the congress had been brought to Canada largely through the efforts of F. C. Elford. Dominion poultry commissioner, who had shown the most remarkable energy and initiative in bringing his cause Furthermore, he declared, the thing had not been put over by pull Canada he declared had stood on her own merits, and this was the one great reason why the congress had come here this year.

"It is not yet time for congratulations," Mr Motherwell said. "The time for adulation will come after the meeting is over and has been proved a success."

Aviators Sign Contract

Fever Lats August For London-To-London Flight

London, Ont. The contract for the London to London flight with Captain W. R. Maxwell and Captain T. R. Tully as on pilots has been formally signed with Charles Sharp, donor of the $25,000 prize The fliers spent several hours making the necessary of possible flying fields with the necessary two-mile tabs off within a few miles of the city.

The airmen will return to acquaint tend the appointment of the field and will be here when the aeroplane arrives from Detroit early in August.

It is understood the flyers leave the latter part of August for the flight.

Would Boost Empire Trade

Director-General Of Empire Trade League Outlines Scheme

Montreal.—Thomas Feldon, director-general of the Empire Trade League and editor of the Empire Mail, in an address to the Montreal Rotary Club outlined a scheme to establish a chain of stores throughout Great Britain which would sell British Empire products only. It would involve, said Mr. Feldon, the formation of a million pounds sterling corporation to establish the shops and popularize Empire foodstuffs.

British industrialists stated, the speaker, were keenly interested in Canada. He hoped to see many branches of British factories established here in the near future.

Receives Memento Of Diamond Jubilee

Microphone Used In Broadcasting Program Presented To Thomas

Montreal Thomas Ahearn of Ottawa, who served as chairman of the broadcasting committee of the National Electrical Exhibition celebration, was presented with the microphone through which the voices of Canada's most prominent men were sent over the Dominion together with the first sound of the carillon from the peace tower at Ottawa.

The presentation was made at a luncheon tendered to Mr. Ahearn by some 25 of his associates in the work of broadcasting the jubilee program.

Canada's Big Ship

The Lancastria, belonging to the White Star Line, was launched recently at Belfast and she will be completed early in the winter after which she will be used on Mediterranean cruises. Next spring she will enter the Canadian trade and sail between Liverpool and Montreal. This liner, 20,000 tons, will share with the White Star Liner Alberta the distinction of being the largest cabin liner on the St. Lawrence route. She will have accommodation for 1,600 passengers, including cabin, tourist cabin and third class, and regards from ever-new features that her predecessor is equal to that in the most modern

Town of Fort Saskatchewan
NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a petition has been presented to the Council of the Town of Fort Saskatchewan praying for the passing of a "EARLY CLOSING ACT" praying for the passing of the following closing by-law.

BY-LAW NO. 321. 1927

A By-law to regulate the closing of "Shops" in the Town of Fort Saskatchewan.

Interpretation

In this By-Law, unless the context otherwise requires, the term or expression:

(a) "SHOP" shall include any premises wherein or whereon any retail trade or business is carried on;

(b) "PUBLIC HOLIDAY" shall include New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, Annual Civic Holiday, and any Proclamation issued from time to time by which by Act of Parliament of Canada, or by proclamation of the Governor General of Canada, or of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, or of the Regulations of the Province made or declared to be a Public Holiday within the Province;

(c) "Mayor" shall include the Mayor and Council of the Town of Fort Saskatchewan, duly assembled;

(d) "Town" shall mean the Town of Fort Saskatchewan, duly assembled sitting as follows:

(1) Except in bayrisher provided, every shop shall be closed for the service of customers not later than Six O'clock in the afternoon of every week day, and be kept closed for the remainder of the day, with the exception of Saturday, when all shops shall be closed not later than Eleven O'clock p.m.

Provided that the occupier of a shop shall not be guilty of an offence against this By-Law by reason of service of a customer at any time at which the shop is required to be closed, if he proves that the customer was in the shop prior to the time when the shop was required to be closed.

Provided Further that in any week when a Public Holiday occurs on any day other than Monday, then all shops may be kept open upon the day immediately following, after the hour of Eight Eleven O'clock in the evening thereof.

Provided Further That in Cases of Extreme Emergency Only permission may be obtained by any person being the Owner, Proprietor, Manager or person in charge of any shop, upon application to the Mayor or Chief of Police, to open such shop for the service of a customer or customers after the hours of closing said shop as laid down in the provisions of this By-Law: This Proviso is not to include any premises, the hours of closing of which are laid down by Provision or Provisions of this By-Law.

(2) Every shop shall be closed for the service of customers throughout every Public Holiday.

(3) No person shall carry on any retail trade or business of any kind in any place not a shop at any time when it would be unlawful to keep a shop open for the purpose of retail trade or business of that kind.

(4) The provisions of this By-Law shall not extend to any shop in which the only trade or business carried on is one or more of the trades or business mentioned in the schedule to this section, hereinafter called excepted trades or businesses.

(5) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this By-Law, a shop may for the purpose of carrying on one or more excepted trades or businesses, be kept open after the closing hour fixed by this By-Law, notwithstanding the fact that one or more non-excepted trades or businesses are carried on therein, but when any such shop is kept open, there shall be placed in the front door or other window of the same not later than Two Feet square on which there shall be printed in English in type of not less than One Inch high the following words:

It's a pity they couldn't eat at home," he grumbled. It's a wonder they get home to sleep. I tell you, sport is just a bunch of them here some morning. The new man is bound to be starting the church social," the young people. If he had to clean up and this new building business alone every week he might feel different. There was respect for the sacred office any more I can't get used to driving and motor in Sunday, as the preacher says after if he feels it and my word this swimming pool that he's going to put in is a wicked thing to me. The better of God is for the cleansin of hearts (Almost your hearts and not your garments, says Job. Well, I'm not built that-a-way. I clean the outside of the cup and platter while the inside is full of rapacious wolves ain't in there in the truth." But no one listens to me now - my ways is out of date. It's all youth, youth and I wouldn't mind so much if he brought in only our own young people. I buried their fathers, and mothers, some of them, and christened their children and I can keep in every end he can find odds and ends solid and stable what does he care. This church had a name before he came. Many rare and better are stopped at our pitch than at any other church in town.

Rib, carriages mother's meetings, ham feeds I had brethen parties, tissue paper, tale napkins rolled into wads, medals, ensigns, babies bee bibs, "Berth" the Neighborhood," he says it's grand to be young and these days there's so much done for them - and even at that he don't believe in hell! I asked him, and what did he say? Says he, "I wouldn't like to take the responsibility of hell, Mr. Sims, he says, "Take away hell from our religion," says I, "and where are we?" says I, and he went out laughin' like as an overgrown schoolboy laughin' because he could not answer me.

Religion ain't what it used to be There's no way of warnin' the wicked now. Where's the good old hymns we used to sing 'We'll hear the wicked wailin,' wailin' wailin,' we'll hear the wicked wailin' in that great day. That was a grand hymn to bring conviction to a stony heart and no wonder as he of a generous constitution. Now it's all 'Love of God, love of God, Jesus the Friend' Soft I call it and too easy.

I've always notes that some here will see they are Christians" and "I rest repent." I says "Lots of times, says he. Is that religion."

Well here they come romps down the aisles 'The Merry Maids. That's a all, name for a religious society. Ahead of the Union the dearer, the Epworth League, the King's Daughters."

"And a outing, Mr Sims," cried the girls, swarming around the one man. "You have freed the name for that when you're good old scout."

Someone began to sing:

"How do you do Mr Sims,
How do you do?
Is here anything that we can do for you?"

"Shut up girls," said Lucy Forbes, gaily, "I want to talk seriously to Mr Sims. He asked me the other day if I ever repented, and I want to tell him I have nothing else all week I've been kept in every room for not getting my essay done in time, and I've had to watch the other girls having while I sat inside struggling with an essay on "Conversation" and the teacher was nasty to me all the time, and I've had such a bad time, I nearly lost my religion Tonight I am going to ask for the prayers of the congregation for the teacher - she's no mean - that she'll either change or die or something. I'll leave that to the Lord."

Eldred Masters had a problem, too. "May, Mr Sims, isn't it fierce when no one seems to understand you? You know I resolved to try to smile this week and see if mice and mules of smiles would grow from mine, and when I smiled at (scarlet when she was scolding me she said to me right before everyone, "Take that off, girls off your face." How what is a poor girl o do' isn't life the limit, anyway? What would you have said to her, Mr Sims? They'll do the next time, don't you bother. The Young Committee has to get the most ready, you just advise me."

Mr Sims laid down his broom and considered the troubled soul before him, whose red cheeks and sparkling eyes fairly boiled the end love of her voice. The rest of the girls swarmed into the kitchen.

Miss Rodgers, the teacher of "Canadian civics in Training," drank deeply from the Blue and Gold Book in her hours of need, for that wonderful book is a deep well, and no one could draw up an empty bucket who dipped into it. It knows all about work among girls, and it can tell you exactly how to go about each meeting. Miss Rodgers, who had undertaken the responsibility of a class which had never perished long before if she had not had the Blue and Gold Book. It said that the meeting for this month would be social in its character, and the "activity" would be the entertainment of foreign girls. The small print said, "There are probably many girls of foreign birth in your neighborhood Invite them to a supper meeting. Find out if they can sing or recite. Even if it is in a language unknown to you it will make them feel that they belong if they contribute to your program." Did you ever hear deep the Blue and Gold Book is?)

Miss Rodgers explained the project to her "Merry Maids." Conference that set on their young faces. They had been able to follow the Blue and Gold Book on the "Girls' meeting" but the about literature meeting leading out of doors, meeting for a "social meeting but where could they get enough foreign girls to go around?" There were fifteen girls in the group. If they did get fifteen girls here could they all get time to do a piece? And it wouldn't do to leave any out! Maybe some wouldn't like some of the others and with so many nations represented it might make trouble, even fighting!

Lucy Forbes at this cried out, "Oh, gee, wouldn't that be fun" She was of Irishman extraction.

Dorothy Rose was afraid. "The foreigners quarrel so among themselves she said "and they're so fierce. Our washerwoman's sister killed her man at times, and there she was in jail at Stony Mountain by mother went to see her and asked her if she wasn't sorry, and she said she was and mother thought that was a good sign, and may be she was going to repent and God pardon her, she went right on and said she was sorry she had not killed him long ago and then we all knew what he say But Mrs Karasil said she believed in God all right; if that's what you mean by religion. "God who aright, pal pal," she said, and she was thankful, too. God had been good to her and let her find the key post that she was getting the worst of it. Mother came home all shaken up."

Hattie Butterfield had a bright idea. "Let's begin with our own girl—real foreign, I mean, just out from some foreign country—and I know one. Miss Abbie Sloan's new Finn girl, and she smiles at me every time I pass, and she does her best like we do her, and she has white sheets and all, and she comes to church, and you wouldn't know it on her" Hattie did not specify just what it was that Helmi was able to transact.

Miss Rodgers intervened "Remember girls," she said, "foreign girls are just like us They feel, see, are hurt or pleased, just like us. It just happened they were born in an other country."

"I guess everyone would want to be born in the U.S.A. if they could," said Hattie complacently.

Miss Rodgers chose her head. "Now a bit of it, Hattie; everyone likes her own country best. But we are Americans, and I like my own country best But we are making a new country here in Canada, and we will have the best of all because we are making it We are making paths and laying foundations, and that is what makes life here so interesting. Now this Finn girl who lives with Miss Abbie Sloan, she is a Canadian from choice She has come to us. Most of you were born here and had no choice in the matter at all But let us consider her a true Canadian by her own choice. I think we will just have this one girl, and we'll make it her party.

"Goo, Miss Rodgers," said Lucy, "that will be a rich dish for her—a party all for herself! Mother says you can spell those foreign girls easy."

"Not many people are spelled by being taken out to supper," said Miss Rodgers gravely, "and an orphan girl, all alone, working for her living, is not likely to be petted overmuch. Well what do you say, girls."

Easy Ways To Brown

Wide Choice Given People Who Lack Common Sense

The Grand Rapids Press suggests several ways in which bathers with more enthusiasm than good sense can end their lives:

Among this summer's contest lessons in easy ways to die by drowning are the following, culled from one Sunday's report of lake south tragedies on Michigan lakes:

Rocking the boat, two deaths.

Using a leaking boat, two deaths.

Using unknown bench and stepping into hole, two deaths.

Bathing motorboat cavalry in canoe, one death.

Life might not be quite so pleasant without occasional acts of needless daring and foolishness. But it ordered be a great deal more difficult for the Grim Reaper to do his harvesting.

Truth has a value today it has never had before.

Conflict Over Shirt Lengths

Movement Is On to Screen To Into Long Longer Shirts

"While America has accepted with complaisance current fashions in women's clothes both on the street and on the beaches, there seems to be some agitation in Europe as to the moral significance of shirt lengths and bathing suits," reads an editorial in The Outlook.

"Recently one faction of the Queen Louise Association in Germany declared that short shirts were a sign of moral degeneracy and began a campaign for long shirts." The Outlook editorial continues. "For some reason, it developed that a rural cleric whose conflict, and the women of Berlin banded together in defense of prevailing fashions On another front we find Italian women protesting against current bravities and carrying their campaign to an insistence upon skirts below the shoe tops for all Italian girls. In some districts the movement for dress reform has gone with considerable success. Bologna children with short shirts are barred from the schools, while the Neapolitan Italy officer regulations are in force for modesty on the beaches.

"But it is in Turkey that the most drastic movement is under way Numbers of Modern women are support a campaign for a uniform dress for all women Extravagance and feminine jealousy are the evils this movement fights, rather than moral degeneracy, and its supporters plead the adoption of some universal costume. Next but not gaudy Perhaps this would solve many problems, but we somehow doubt the success of the movement Women will dress pretty much as they desire despite all attempts at reform or standardization and we may safely leave even shirt length and bathing suits to their own sense of propriety."

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly As it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail, at 25 cents a box from Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Enjoying the King's Garden

Public Admitted to Grounds at Sandringham Two Days a Week

The King's garden at Sandringham came first in the list of gardens in England and Wales opened to the public under the June scheme. Its share in that scheme, however, is much larger than this would imply Most of the gardens may be seen on only one day", whereas admission to Sandringham is permitted during the absence of the court, on every Wednesday and Thursday, from May 1 to September 30, the total of the six passes paid at the gate being equally divided, by the King's command, between Queen Alexandra Memorial fund and local charities. Last year local charities benefited to the extent of between £600 and £700 from the fees.

Sandringham leaves its visitors happily to themselves with a large liberty. The parties which take their simple luncheon sitting on the grass among the flowers may, very evidently, be trusted to leave no litter. A better expression of the prevalent spirit could hardly be wished than the notice appearing addressed by a woman to her small son: "Tom, you can smell the flowers, but not too hard."

Miner's Lieutenant for cavorse.

Magistrate (to talkative prisoner): "Now, what have you got to say?"

Prisoner: "I've got a good deal to say, gen'leur, if you'll give me time to say it."

Magistrate: "Certainly; six months."

From $150,000,000 to $300,000,000 is paid out yearly for papers that used to be destroyed before Joseph Gould, a Park Row, New York, newsboy, began collecting them and selling them to mills that make wrapping and cartons.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK

Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it now. I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk, and I was all run-down and could hardly get around my work. I was a mess. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get around again. I took five bottles in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have six grown-ups to work for, so I have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. Mina M. Lambert, 665 East Cannon St., Hamilton, Ont.

Do you feel broken down, nervous and worth sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It stimulates the organs of digestion and assimilation, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition.

Firestone DEALERS ARE PIONEERS IN BALLOON TIRE SERVICE

Another Reason Why They Save Motorists Safer and Save Them Money

The advent of the Balloon Tire opened an expansion in repair methods. To meet this situation Super Schools were opened at the Firestone factories where the Firestone dealers and their repair men have been instructed in the care of tires and the use of the specially-designed Firestone Balloon Tire equipment.

In each territory throughout the country Dealer Educational meetings have been held. These have been attended by most of the Firestone Service Dealers who have obtained the latest information regarding tire construction, care and repair methods.

Firestone Dealers are kept up-to-date on tire development and service—continually progressing and improving their ability to serve you better and save you money. Ride the nearest Firestone Dealer to-day—he has just what your tire requirements.

Canadians Go Abroad

Estimated That Nearly 25,000 Canadians Touring Europe This Year

Frequent surveys are being made of the value of the American tourist trade to Canada but there are no estimates of the value of the Canadian trade to Europe.

This year the passports branch of the Department of External Affairs has issued over 18,000 new passports and renewed 1,000 passports previously issued. It is conservatively estimated that nearly 25,000 Canadians are abroad this year, mostly in Europe.

ALBERTA DEATH RATE LOW

Alberta has the third lowest death rate among the provinces of the Dominion, according to the vital statistics for 1926. The death rates by provinces are as follows: Saskatchewan, 7.4 per thousand; Manitoba 8.2; Alberta 9.5; British Columbia 9.6. Prince Edward Island 10.1; Ontario 11.4; Nova Scotia 11.2; New Brunswick 12.2 and Quebec 14.5. The rate in Alberta, it is stated, is increased to some extent by the death of tubercular patients who come to this province for their health.

Noted for its remarkable crops this district is bidding fair to outdo all its previous records. The grain is looking magnificent and it is to be hoped that no calamity occurs before it is harvested.

Weddings

ENGLISH—HUFF

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Huff, Namaye avenue, Edmonton, was the scene of a pretty wedding last Wednesday evening, when their eldest daughter, Edith Belle, was united in marriage to Mr. John Laurence English, son of Mrs. M. E. English and the late Robert English of Hamilton, Ontario.

Rev. A. R. Aldrige performed the ceremony. The bride, who entered the living room on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by her sister, Miss Grace Huff, wore a dainty gown of ivory marcia crepe trimmed with silver lace. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude Huff, wore a pretty frock of electric blue crepe and carried mauve and pink sweet peas. Mr. Stewart Robinson acted as best man. During the signing of the register Mr. Norman McClellan sang "O Promise Me" accompanied by Mrs. McClellan. Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served to about thirty guests. Those assisting were the Misses Georgie Robinson, Hazel Walker, Olive Walker and Grace Huff. Mrs. Robinson cut the ices. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a beautiful bag, and to the bridesmaid and pianist gold bar pins. The best man received a pair of cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. English left on the midnight train for Jasper Park, Prince Rupert and Victoria, and will later make their home in Hinton City, B.C.

THE NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA
(Alberta Division)

The Rev. Fred Coate, representative of the Navy League of Canada, who has been in Fort Saskatchewan taking up subscriptions to the Sailor magazine and donations to the Navy League, wishes to thank the citizens for their assistance, as they contributed about $15.00 to the Alberta division.

The Navy League assists the widows and orphans of our men of the Merchant Service as they do not receive government assistance. The Navy League supports Sailors' Homes and Institutes, etc., in all our larger Canadian ports from coast to coast and looks after the welfare of our seamen when ashore. The Navy League also trains boys and young men and makes better Canadian citizens of them.

The Alberta division is required to raise $2,000.00 as its quota in the $250,000.00 budget and hopes to raise this amount as quickly as possible, with the combined assistance of the people throughout the province.

The Navy League of Canada helped and directed some 800 boys and young men into the Merchant Marine last year, and its work is almost entirely in its interests.

Canada's Next Stage Of Development

There are many countries with larger populations, greater accumulations of wealth, and much more highly developed in an industrial sense than Canada, but already this Dominion has achieved fifth place among the commercial nations of the world. Since the war, and more especially during the past few years the trade of Canada has enormously expanded,—the percentage of growth far surpassing that of any other country.

It is a pertinent question to ask: Can Canada retain for itself the proud position already attained, and is it possible for this Dominion to move steadily forward from fifth place to fourth, to third, and ultimately to the very front rank?

Judged from the standpoint of its geographical position on the world's highways between Europe and the Orient, or judged by the vast variety of its natural resources, whether of the field, the forest, the mine, the fisheries, and water-powers, the answer can be given by an emphatic affirmative. In all these respects, Canada does not occupy a secondary position to any country on earth.

Canada practically controls the world's supply of such essential commodities as nickel and asbestos. It is now, in its infancy, the world's greatest manufacturer of newsprint and the world's foremost exporter of wheat. It has steadily increased its gold output until now it ranks as the world's third largest producer.

Notwithstanding all these advantages, can Canada ever hope to challenge the position of Great Britain and the United States as the world's greatest commercial nations, and, if so, what is essential to achieve that result?

Not only is order to attain a still higher and stronger position, but to retain what has already been won, it is necessary that Canada should take certain advance steps. Up to the present time this country has been chiefly concerned with those domestic problems and internal affairs involved in the early settlement and development of the country from a raw territory into an organized state. Attention has been devoted to matters of transportation, to the first stages in the development of natural resources, to laying the essential foundations of any country. This pioneer stage is passing. Canada has found itself, and its future may depend upon the place it can make for itself among the nations in finance, in trade and commerce.

The development of our wealth of natural resources must be the basic foundation upon which to erect our future national structure. These resources constitute the Dominion's greatest economic asset, and their development should proceed along the most approved scientific lines in order that there may be a minimum of waste. It is not sufficient that we cut down forests and sell lumber and pulpwood, or that we dig nickel, or asbestos, or gold out of the ground. We must utilize these resources to their fullest extent in the building up of Canadian industry, and, in so doing, also utilize every possible by-product that can be extracted from them.

In Great Britain, the United States, Germany, huge sums are expended annually in scientific research and elaborately equipped laboratories are provided for the prosecution of such work. Great Britain last year expended $23,500,000 and the United States $50,000,000 on research. If Canada is to hold its own, and is to go forward to greater triumphs, it must now become equipped in like manner. The expenditure of a few million dollars may usually result in discoveries and improved methods which will yield tens and even hundreds of millions to the Dominion.

Canada is an up-to-date country, but in order to retain that reputation it must continue to meet up-to-date methods all along the line. It is not sufficient that goods "made in Canada" or articles "produced in Canada" be good, they must be the very best the world can offer.

Coupled with the maintenance of scientific research, the utilization to the utmost of our own natural resources, and the production of nothing but the best, the industrial and commercial interests of Canada must be alert and ready to the adoption of the most wide-awake and effective selling methods. And create the organization essential to command the confidence of the importing world that all contracts entered into can and will be filed to the letter and on the minute called for.

The proposals which the Minister of Trade and Commerce will, it is understood, submit to Parliament at its next session to provide for important expansions of the activities of the National Research Council, as well as the practical suggestions he has brought with him from England along the line of improved selling and marketing methods, should receive the most earnest consideration of the Canadian people and their whole-hearted support.

Editor's Confession

"Thank you very much indeed," beamed the well-dressed flapper in the bus as a workingman offered her his seat. "That was very kind of you."

The other blushed happily and gave a number of other males a hardy glare as he answered:

"Not at all, miss not at all. I know some men don't give up their seats unless it happens to be a pretty girl, but both make no odds to me."

And everybody except the young girl smiled.

Supplying Milk For Chinese

Shanghai Company Purchases Cattle in British Columbia

Despite its political troubles and the menace of internal armies, the babies of Shanghai must have milk and British Columbia cows will supply it, a la the pure.

For several years the Shanghai Dairy Company has been buying its stock in British Columbia and shipping it across the Pacific to join the big herds quartered in the pastures south of the French quarter. It is that company which supplies most of the dairy products for the use of European families quartered in Shanghai.

G. T. Orchardson and Captain Grant, representatives of the Shanghai Dairy Company, are in British Columbia on another of their buying trips. They are at present in the Cowichan Valley purchasing dairy stock. They will buy several hundred head this year.

"Wars and revolutions are a nuisance, but there is nothing much in sixteen than a baby's demand for milk," said Orchardson. "So here we are, on hand and regardless of whatever else may happen."

A WEAK STOMACH

Can Be Strengthened Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Wonderful is the process by which the chemistry of the body changes the food we eat into blood, and the whole of our well-being depends upon the relationship between the quality and, once in and year get downright the nervous breakdown. If not, then a food begins to poison the blood in the veins, and the whole body is racked by all the pangs of indigestion, such as the heart, often causes alarm, and a dislike for all kinds of food.

The only way to overcome these troubles is to tone up the digestion so that you can assimilate all your food. To do this you have only to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A recent resident of Belleville, who says: "For many years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, my stomach and belching I could not eat meat or potatoes, and I grew weak and nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these almost wonderful wonders! I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months by which time every sign of the stomach disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest symptom of stomach trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Radio Entertainers Well Paid

Some Got Hundred Dollars a Minute For Good Music

Does it pay to entertain radio fans? Here are a few figures, dug up by the New York dramatic world: "Let's-a-go."

Toscanini, the Italian composer who will direct the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in the air, will get $1,500 for each concert.

Some hours, like the Maxwell Kiernard, and Atwater Kent, are said to pay as high as $100 a minute for a quarter hour of good music. The Ipana Troubadours, and Isham Jones' Orchestra will play together at Atlantic City, for half a month, for $12,000.

Each member of the Kiernady Kiwanis gets $200 for each hour he's on the air.

Overcome in Better Output

Saskatchewan prospectors mined fourteen (1,661,617 pounds of gold in '27). This is a considerable decrease compared with the output for the same month a year ago. The falling off is attributed to the cold weather which prevailed during the period.

Bravery That Counts

A really sporting expedition is that which Dr. Arthur Tearne will make next autumn to Central Africa. Most African hunting go after lions or elephants. There is much danger to the hunter and elephants. With the powerful type of expanding bullets which blow a hole the size of a man's head in the quarry's body, there is little danger to the hunter.

Doctor Tearne's hunt will be for something really dangerous. He is going after a gorilla. Many doctors have sacrificed their lives in the study of this plague. May the brave Doctor Tearne not be added to the roll.

Comprehensive Plans For Conserving Wild Life In Canada's Vast Northern Areas

Work is being done by the Department of the Interior to organize and explore that vast northern area lying to the north of the Prairie Provinces. It is fully realized that development of the natural resources will depend on a robust native population and an abundance of wild life. In conformity with this realization game preserves have been set aside for the use and the natives; expert investigators have been detailed to examine and report on wild life conditions; experiments have been conducted with a view to the introducing of new species of animal life; and regulations have been enforced with regard to the destruction of predatory animals. One of the most important experiments has been concerned with the transferring to the Wood Buffalo Park in the Great Slave Lake district of buffalo which were surplus to the Wainwright Park, Alberta. The experiment has been watched carefully for three years, and it is now known to have proved a great success.

To the end of 1926 nearly 4,000 buffalo were transferred from Wainwright National Park, Wainwright, Alberta, bringing the total at Wood Buffalo Park up to over 5,000 animals. The movement for the present year started on June 5, when 150 yearlings, 72 two-year-olds, and 20 bulls three-year-olds arrived at Waterways, Alberta. Shipments will be made regularly till 1931, when it is hoped that 2,000 animals is complete. Park warden Rogers repeatedly state the animals in the Wood Buffalo Park are very well conditioned and that is very fed by other officers who have seen herds when travelling through the district.

As time progresses conditions existing in the District of Mackenzie are becoming better known and to date, although the Wood Buffalo Park covers an area of 17,300 square miles and rich mountain and prospecting woods wherein the buffalo can thrive are known to exist, the extent of which and the number of buffalo which can be economically supported have not been ascertained. The area has never been covered on foot or by canoe mile of survey been run for this purpose. During the last session of Parliament money was voted for the purpose of undertaking an aerial survey of the park and surrounding district.

Another investigation which is being carried on by the Department of Interior, with a view to the future development of the Mackenzie District, has reference to the suitability of the area for the support of reindeer. For the purpose of studying this problem the Department of the Interior in 1926 engaged the services of the brothers A. E. and R. T. Porsild, men of wide experience in the Arctic regions, and with a broad knowledge of wild life. They are to investigate thoroughly all the conditions relative to the possibilities of introducing reindeer into the Mackenzie basin. Should conditions prove favorable, the plan of investment which will be involved, even in establishing a minimum of 2,000 and more, will amount to a considerable sum of money.

The Porsild brothers spent eight months of last year investigating the underlying causes which have brought about the successful establishment of reindeer in Alaska. They worked down the Yukon river towards the mouth and trekked by dog team to Edmonton and on to Fort Resolution, Great Slave Lake, and the Arctic coast. Their headquarters during the past winter have been at Aklavik, on the east of the latter place, and family residing Aklavik in March, 1927. During the present year they are spending out from the delta of the Mackenzie and will cover the lower Great Slave Lake district. They have been engaged in the study of the reindeer problem for the past two years in Mackenzie District, compare with those in Alaska.

Chinese Money a Problem

Travellers in China have found the numbers of coins and the rates of exchange an almost unbearable problem. There are more than 300 different kinds of money, worth different amounts in different provinces. At one time there were 17 mints in the country turning 24 hours a day.

Extra Care Needed With Country Radio

Special Grounding Contrivance Necessary To Eliminate Danger From Lightning

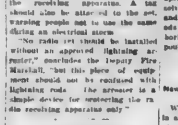
The radio owner living in the country has a distinct advantage over city radio fans, as there is no interference from neighboring sets, apart from static and a few other reasons which make the reception of this popular interest in the rural districts. But the man in the city and on the farm is subject to all of the same troubles, if not more, and in addition he is in the danger of the radio itself being struck by lightning. Many radio fans do not realize the danger which exists in the lightning which may strike the aerial, travelling down the lead-in wire and wrecking everything in its path. To prevent this accident, country radio users are advised to install what is known as the lightning switch between the aerial and the set. This switch must be of good quality and of sufficient size to handle the current, for, if too long and the blade half an inch wide the current of the switch is connected to the aerial, and at once and to the radio set. The switch is then a safe lead-in outside and soon as a good ground connection. When the set is not in use the switch should connect the aerial with the ground so that lightning would be carried safely around the receiving set. Aerials should also be attached to the set, warning people not to use the same during an electrical storm.

"No radio set should be installed without an approved lightning arrester," contributes the Inquiry Fire Marshal, "but this piece of equipment should not be confused with lightning rods. The arrester is a simple device for protecting the radio receiving apparatus only."

Fattening Rabbits

Rations Recommended and Method Of Feeding

Rabbits, like poultry, should not be marketed as meat until they have been fattened, a process that takes from 28 to 56 days. Fattening should be begun at the age of 6 months and for this purpose the rabbits should be placed in small, narrow hutches in a quiet place, without too much light. In a bulletin (Department of Agricultural bulletin on rabbits the following rations are recommended. During the first ten days of fattening they should be fed largely on green food, with a little grain, hay and roots. The green food should be gradually diminished and replaced by such foods as mashed boiled potatoes, mixed with bran, barley meal, or oats meal, or stale bread soaked in milk, with an occasional carrot or stick of celery. Feeding should be done three times a day, the noon meal being the lightest and the evening meal the heaviest. Care should be taken to avoid sudden changes in the rations fed. The second period of fattening and the last, should consist of those elements that excite and whet the appetite. A few feeds of oats should be given the last few days before killing. The raw feeds must be served clean without any moldy bits adhering, and they should be fed wholly, never chopped.



Important to The Planted Trade

"The importance of being in earnest" was the keynote of the address delivered in this one-piece frock of navy crepe. It is a youthful frock which correctly suits the daytime or afternoon occasions. The long sleeves and narrow string belt that is worn slightly above the hips, indicate its last millinery. Gloves are perhaps of ridiculously extending from the shoulders to the front, and one inverted pleat in the centre back. The collar is versatile and may be worn high or low. Red, brown, natural and small women, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years (or 34, 36 and 38 inches bust only). Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3¼ yards 39-inch material. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinction from the ordinary lies in the tasteful and judicious employment of trimmings. Every woman knows that the secret of chic lies in the latest fashion hints, and the latest Fashion Book is no exception, and contains a host of attractive styles at moderate cost. Demand For Trees

Groves Of Trees Mean Contentment Money to the West

H. W. Brandon, superintendent for the Dominion Forestry Branch at Indian Head, says: "The demand for trees has been instant—from all over the west. This year we have orders for 5,000,000, as against 4,000,000 in 1926. Following his year of the west will be small. "I find ev-really a move afoot feeling. People are planning for the future. The old days, when farming was a boom affair and gone tomorrow affair, have disappeared. Farmers are planning trees, and planting a piece of trees is a home there you will find contented homes."

Circle Egg Marketing

An Excellent Example Of the Value Of Co-Operation

What is a rare sight in Canada or in any part of the world, a brood of white wild ducks were seen at Brandon provincial exhibition grounds, gaily disporting themselves in the lake. Upper Assiniboia farmers have failed to give a satisfactory explanation for their existence, but there they are, showing that a new type of feathered tribe has come into existence, and that during the last few years.

The story is that about three years ago, R. M. Matheson, K.C., read in a Canadian magazine that J. Lake Morden, of Ontario, had found two white wild ducks in a corner of Lake Ontario and managed to secure them for his own use. Correspondence with Mr. Morden and had the article verified, was also given the promise that when the time came, a pair of the offspring of the strange birds would be sent over to Brandon. This was done in due course, and the result is the brood of white, wild ducks shown at Brandon.

The pass, which was specially executed in gold and enamel, was presented to Col. Lindbergh by Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways.

Circle Egg Marketing

An Excellent Example Of the Value Of Co-Operation

The farming district surrounding Lampholme, Cumberland County, Ontario, provides an excellent example of the values of co-operation. The marketing of eggs on a circle has in the past many years ago and had the good effect of bringing the farmers in touch together in the marketing of one common product. After a few years growth of membership reached and interest fell away and, it was largely through the influence of the good work of Mr F H Baker, district Poultry Promoter of the Federal Government, that a re-organization has been brought about and a new start made. The present system should never be like unto that of the old, but it has a solid foundation and when the building is completed, it is and practice it may be useful to the rest of any building. The aim of this plan is to have the eggs coming from inside placed at a short distance from the house. But this presentation is not enough. A collecting man strikes the circle, receiving down through the radius in the house. Arriving at each place of receiving, he puts his parcel in the proper room as he goes, and, county radio users are advised to install a lightning switch between the aerial and the set. This switch must be of good quality and of sufficient size to handle the current, for, if too long and the blade half an inch wide the current of the switch is connected to the aerial, and at once and to the radio set. The switch is then a safe lead-in outside and soon as a good ground connection. When the set is not in use the switch should connect the aerial with the ground so that lightning would be carried safely around the receiving set. Aerials should also be attached to the set, warning people not to use the same during an electrical storm.

"No radio set should be installed without an approved lightning arrester," contributes the Inquiry Fire Marshal, "but this piece of equipment should not be confused with lightning rods. The arrester is a simple device for protecting the radio receiving apparatus only."

Light Proves Fogs

Rainbow Super-Sensore Light Can Penetrate Mists

Raymond S. Marshall, of New York, son of R. H. Marshall, one of the leading X-ray experts in America in the early stages of its development, is demonstrating his rainbow super-beacon light, which penetrates fogs and makes possible airplane landings in bad weather.

The light, produced by electrons in vacuo by Mr. Marshall, has been exhibited at Hadley and other aviation fields.

"It has demonstrated that this light can be seen many miles away, perhaps fifty," said Mr. Marshall. "It is a form of electric illumination without a filament. It is a 'cold light,' or produced without appreciable heat, by passing an electric current through radium and neon gas. The color is an unusual orange red, of 10,000 candle power (an very favorable days one at Sandy Hook was power fifteen miles.

Government agencies are much interested in Mr. Marshall's progress, and the devices besides them. The Bureau of Standards made a favorable report on the light.

DAVID SPARES SAUL

Golden Text: Be ye therefore of good, but overcome evil with good. Romans 12:21

Lesson 1 Samuel 26

Devotional Reading Romans 8:31 39

Explanations and Comments

1 Saul seeks David a Life, verses 1-4. David had taken refuge in the Wilderness of Ziph, and Saul pursued him with three thousand men. Through spies David learned of his coming.

II David Spares Saul's Life—vs. 5-12. David came upon the place where Saul was encamped, and found Saul asleep surrounded by his fellowmen within a barricade made by each lying against it. David returned to his men and asked, "And will go down with me to Saul?" The people answered that Saul had appealed to all of them. Abishai, the son of Jesse's sister, returned with David. They found the king still sleeping within the barricade of wagons, with his spear, the symbol of royal authority stuck in the ground at his head. Abishai deliberated up these events in his hand this day," said Abishai to David, as he begged permission to kill Saul with his own sword. But David forbade. "Shall we put forth his hand against Jehovah's anointed and be guiltless?" he asked. They took a screwdriver, attached to Saul's pillow, and though David could not come the mark, he could hover the king.

"We honor in our soldiers, not their wrath as individuals, but the patriotism which with which they fulfil their duty; should we not honor in our rulers, whatever their individual worthiness, the offices they represent?"

With a solemn oath, "as Jehovah liveth," David declared that God should carry out his own purpose. Saul should meet his death as time ordained, not as he, David, willed. And would die by a sudden stroke or meet his death in battle—he knew not which, and, God forbid that he should kill him. "It will be remembered that in the play of Macbeth, Macbeth starts upon his tragic career when the supernatural powers tell him that he is to be king. In the play the witches stand for supernatural forces. Macbeth can now see way of fulfilling the destiny predicted for him except through violence. The story of David is even predominant in his moral signification than the story of Macbeth. From a source which stood to be in rivalry, as supernatural, David, learned that he was to be king but his slight was large enough to turn away from the course which is one of the Macbeth type. Instead he mounted the gire road to the fulfilment of destiny."—Bishop McCormick.

Saul's Confession—vs. 21-25. Saul's king's head, and the cruse of water as proofs of their visit, the two departed, and no one knew of their exploit.

Things Worth Knowing About Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires

Firestone pioneered, developed, tested and placed on the market the Balloon Gum-Dipped Tire—the genuine FULL-BALLOON Gum-Dipped Tire

With but half the usual air pressure, these tires are very soft and yielding. They absorb the holes, ruts and bumps in the road. They cushion the car and and passengers from shocks and vibrations.

Firestone Gum Dipping—by which each fibre and strand of cord in the tire is impregnated and coated with pure gum adds the extraordinary strength and flexibility which makes the Balloon construction practical.

Firestone Dealers are kept up-to-date on tire development and service—continually progressing and improving in every way to serve you better and save your money. See the nearest Firestone Dealer and let him handle your requirements.

Grain Exchange Radio Station

Built At Yorkton For Distribution Of Market Reports

Radio Station "YTHLK," which is being built at Yorkton, Sask., by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, for distribution of market reports and news, is now nearing completion. The station building and steel towers have been finished and a studio furnished in the Collacott Block. Engineers of the Canadian Marconi Company are now at Yorkton installing the broadcasting equipment and it is expected that the station will be in operation some time during the present week of August.

With the establishment of this broadcasting station, the Winnipeg Grain Exchange will be in a position to service of disseminating market prices and information direct to the farmers, in a more efficient way than has heretofore been done in the West. It is understood that in addition to the ordinary broadcasting of the day, the opening of the market and mid-session prices will be broadcast as well. The station will also provide musical programmes and other odd minutes of entertainment at regular times on week nights, details of which will be announced later.

Man Intake Terror Of Water

Had Noah's Ark sunk a hundred feet before it scraped bottom, man alone of all the animal passengers would have had to exercise an acquired skill to reach shore and safety.

For man alone is incapable until he fights the basic terror of the water and learns to swim.

Every person drowned through inability to swim is a victim of indifference. The parents, with half an opportunity who do not teach their boys and girls to swim are inviting destruction of the most precious fruit of their living.

BETTER SPIRIT NOW PERVADES NAVAL PARLEY

London, Hope that the tangle arising out of the Geneva naval conference will soon be unravelled is growing, in official circles in the British capital. This is due largely to the statements made in the House of Commons by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, outlining anew to the whole British nation and the world the principles and aim guiding the declaration.

There need be no difficulty in arriving at a compromise arrangement about the immediate future of cruiser building."

It was this question upon which the negotiations failed at Geneva and upon which Parliament soon after Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Viscount Cecil, the chief British delegates to the naval conference started back for London to confer with their colleagues in the United States and Japanese delegations. The purpose of the Far East journey was to ascertain the full wishes of the British Government as to the basis upon which the negotiations could be resumed.

Mr. Chamberlain's statement was to those who had followed the course of events closely, a clear indication that the British Government is not prepared to accept the proposals of the delegates in full measure.

A second reason for the statement was to reduce the misunderstanding which the British Government believes exists in the United States as regarding the British aims at Geneva. Although the statement was made at Washington and the United States was not mentioned, it was nevertheless admittedly intended for the ears and the eyes of the people of the United States.

The Foreign Minister informed the Commons that the British Government had even been charged with a desire to destroy the principle of sea power equality—a statement which Britain and the United States would hold best at the Washington conference, and he added emphatically:

"There is no foundation for such suspicion."

He re-pledged the British Government to complete agreement with the two-fold purpose of the Geneva meeting as outlined in President Coolidge's letter, a reduction of naval expenditures, while maintaining national security.

They hope to leave about the middle of August in a Fokker monoplane.

The latest statement of the flyers' plans show that their first objective will be the Ottawa, where they will fly on the day, the opening of the market and mid-session prices will be broadcast as well. The station will also provide musical programmes and other odd minutes of entertainment at regular times on week nights, details of which will be announced later.

Manitoba Wheat Pool

Fourth Annual Meeting to Meet At Brandon

Brandon The fourth annual meeting of the Manitoba Co-operative Wheat Producers Ltd., commonly known as the Pool Approximately one thousand delegates and visitors are expected to attend, making this the largest meeting ever held by the pool.

The membership in the wheat pool organization has declined of late. A decline was commented on in the report of the directors, the 1927 membership being 12,000 less than that of 1926. Delegates canvassed the pool, and the old members have again contacted with the pool, it was stated.

For the 1926-27 season the Pool operated a terminal. This year, however, its operations are to cease, and the elevator will be leased to the Pool. In 1926 the terminal operated at a loss, due largely to the fact that it was not used to capacity.

An interim pool has just been organized for the 1927-28 season, and will also deal through the Central Board.

London Paper Fears Clash Of Popularity

"Truth" Afraid Canada Cannot Avoid Showing Preference For Either Prince Or Prince.

London Truth, society and Bank Rail weekly, in a recent issue, says it doesn't planned the joint tour of the Prince of Wales, Prince George, and Premier and Mrs. Baldwin in Canada and the Dominion lacking in loyalty.

The Prince of Wales is not a Socialist and Mr. Baldwin is a Tory. Truth says, but it is feared in the least about it to run the risk of a clash of popularity and unpopularity between the Heir Apparent and the Prime Minister of Great Britain when are the Canadians to decide their hospitality is to be? Any sign of preferring the Prince to the Prime Minister or vice versa.

Truth proceeds to declare that it is useless the tour is a mistake because of the state of Prince Pale with health.

Mr. Baldwin is going to take a (very much needed) holiday by visiting Canada where, in addition to his railway journeys and exhausting public speaks, he will be expected to attend a number of banquets and receive about nothing in particular.

Girl Guides Tour Canada

Over two thousand girls from the western provinces and three prominent English guiders, entrained from North Toronto station recently on a special Canadian Pacific train for a tour through the western part of Canada, particularly the Canadian Rockies where the party will make camp at Banff and other famous mountain resorts.

This adventure in the mountains has been uppermost in the minds of the Guides for many months. The feature of their tour will be camps for up at various points in the Rockies, the first at Penticton and then at Kelowna in the Okanagan Valley. From there their schedule calls for six instance at the Dominion Jubilee Camp at Alberta. The girls' eastward journey will be a succession of mountain camps when they will pitch their tents as they have done on the Pacific coast in many parts of the tour. The longest stay will be at Banff, where they will get a real taste of out-door life. During the eight camping stops the girls will adhere strictly to camp rules, up at six and in bed at 10.

Their journey across Canada will bring them into contact with numerous western Troops who have arranged to entertain the eastern party in the principal cities enroute.

Mansfield

A summer house with two good seats therein was spot the other day. Several men made it clear that the outlaws had profited their logs or their wind were not short. The circus started when a foxy man of cereals fooled their bosses and landed a load of hay as quick as you could say Jack Robinson. Then they kept on the Edmonton road till the cows near home, but when they came to the turnpike about half-a-dozen people were rooted up, part of the land was left behind and then stopped short when they hit the summer house. Hello cheap sugar!—one is valuable." Next time you'll know what's trumps. Put the handcuffs on them in time to take them home to a true. "Keep the joker for the last play."

A good afternoon was spent by some of the surrounding farmers at the Limited Pool on Thursday. Two lonely names, Brodebeck and Leonard, were at our with one another on a hundred foot long rope. I think the rope should have been a couple of hundred feet longer as that the Brodebecks could have got a little beyond the hill. There was a bit of kicking on the Brodebecks side but its no use kicking when you get a hill, a man might lose his footing. Next year they'll know the location and the fair of the country better. Hope it was the Mayor of the Mansfield fair, but not quite fair."

Doc Young at Lamont was in a good referee for a single lacrosse contest.

The Partridge Hill baseball team got it in the neck when they played Lamont in the evening. I think they would like to get a whack at them some future day. It makes a poor prophet in his home town and sometimes the rule holds good when it comes to a baseball team. In practice did their team good. Sidney Cranston caught with his bare hand a ball travelling at the rate of about two hundred miles an hour.

The Historical Society of Alberta is erecting a cairn to mark the site of Fort Augustus next Monday and two would urge all who can attend the ceremony to do so. These cairns mark sites of historical importance in this comparatively newly settled part of the Dominion, and they are necessary to mark the places of interest which might be lost sight of with the passage of time. The cairns will last for ages and will bequeath question of deeds pave to our children's children that on the spot such and such an accident took place, or such and such a building stood, for the same may be. It is then a duty for us to be present, if possible, at a ceremony which dedicates, as it were, a marker on a spot which, in the years go on, will become more and more revered for its historical significance.

The girls agreed, and as it was about that Helmi Milano's gas bill for—invitation to a party. She was in it, however, cheating not Miss Abbie a fruit cocktail when the hostess took time. Two girls both dressed in the pleated skirt and middy, he an much admired dress at the bank come calling to see her. Lake Ontario was the speaker, and the indignation was properly given. The only difficulty was in the fact that Helmi did not understand. Miss Abbie received the invitation and undertook to see that Helmi was present.

The basement of Young Methodist Church is the ordinary church basement reached by a stairway that is usually dirty and gray by the passing of many feet, but to Helmi that flight became a thing of beauty as girls came for her and took her arm to conduct her further it was a palace of enchantment.

They proceeded at once to the tuck shop, where small parties were held, and here due to the decorating committee, spread a scene of lovely cheer that made Helmi catch her breath. Autumn leaves made of tissue paper ran in festoons from the electric fixtures over the tables to each corner of the room. These were the Autumn decoration made by the girls at one of their meetings, and would later be replaced by the Hallowe'en ghosts and black cats, with no end pumpkins. A stone crock filled with crimson and purple asters stood in the middle of the table, and from it there went out to each place paper of smilax from Lucy Peters' father's greenhouse. A bread bowl of Autumn leaf crepe paper ran down the middle of the table, and at Helmi's plate was a hand painted card with the name and Maple Leaf on it was printed "Welcome to Canada." The streamers of Autumn leaves above the table made it easy for Helmi with her quick imagination to believe the table was spread in some sunlit glade under the golden and crimson leaves, which in a fruits some velvety wind, might come in flag gently down.

The table scorched with color salads, ornamented with white and yellow dishes (hard boiled eggs); red flowers and green berries (petals of beets and leaves of lettuce); platters of cold meat edged with nasturtium leaves with velvety red blossoms peeping through, and jellies, amber and yellow, showing geometric designs of orangeon and bananas nearer and more symmetrically suspended.

The crowning glory of the table positive proof that it was a real party was the high shovbet glass filled with iced orange juice, white grapes and grapefruit, with a red cherry on top riding at anchor like at each plate.

Helmi breathed ecstatically at the grand Her cup of happiness was full. In addition to the giddy almond bon, she had the exquisite pleasure of knowing she was suitably dressed. The very day the invitation came Miss Abbie had taken her down town and found her a pleated skirt a middy and a red tie. She was dressed just like the others.

Helmi wondered if life in what Heaven would be like. She had some vague ideas on the subject of heaven which had come to her in her best moments, but as a child. She believed that in heaven one's boots would always be new and squeak. Time and would sleep alone, and that one would always feel stylish.

Helmi felt very solemn about room for the church to eat. It was quiet to be asked to have supper at Enid's house. To Helmi, God was a kind of big room, home people only thought of when some one died, or in thunderstorms. Souls, lambs or sick were the kind she knew was not room across the damp interior of a well-rubbed floor polished with floor wax, which left a faint but honest smell, clean soapy, satisfying.

"Maybe I was wrong about them paragraphs, they're not some religion after all," he said

As Helmi went around her work the next day she made the same observation, but she could not quite get the words. Miss Abbie listened to Lucy Peters to come over and tell her what it was that Helmi was singing. Lucy taught the words to Miss Abbie, who, when the Ladies' Aid met at her house the next week was very proud to have them. Dear Helmi sing "She has only been one night at the Club," said Miss Abbie proudly, "and look what she has learned!" Miss Abbie knew very well the melancholy air would think that the girls would have taught her "Abide With Me" or "Sowing in the Morning," or something like that but she was prepared to tell Miss Terry that these were changing.

Steam Cooled Auto Engines Popular in Few Years

We'll have air-cooled engines in our automobiles within a few years, is the prediction of Prof Edward P. Culver, of the Princeton School of Engineering.

There will be no change in the engine except the transfer of the heat that enters the present radiator at the top, to the bottom, and the conversion of the radiator from a cooler into a steam condenser.

The greatest advantage of steam cooling, says Prof Culver, is it maintains the engine at a constant and most efficient running temperature no matter what the temperature is outside.

We cannot hear a sound if it has less than about thirty or more than 40,000 vibrations a second.

Mother of Eleven Children Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Her Interesting Experience

Rockingham, Quebec.—"I am the mother of eleven living children, and my baby is five months old. I am only 28 years old and I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the weakness and my nerves. I know of it from my sister, Dame Mélanie Bellefeuille of Kamsayville, Que. For five years I was very much run down and would be happy to have good health. My daughter, who is 15 years old, has also taken it and will be happy to recommend it to all young girls."—Dame WILLIAM PARENT, Box 414, Buckingham, Quebec.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness and other ailments common to women? From early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will give you relief?

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

ECZEMA LASTED TEN YEARS
On Knees. Would Itch and Burn. Cuticura Heals.

"From the time I was a small child I was troubled with eczema on my knees. It broke out on me and would itch and burn so that I could not help scratching. Finally my mother recommended the healing out. And I saw my case in Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I sent for some and got my arms. The trouble left me and I am cured."

"A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I purchased some, and after using one box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Kathleen O'Connell, Port Dalhousie, N. S.

Enthusiastic Over Farming in the West

Representatives of Norwegian Government Favorably Impressed With Conditions

Capt K S Sigens, of Oslo, Norway, who has made a tour of Western Canada along the lines of the Canadian National Railways as the representative of the Norwegian government, for the purpose of determining the advantages of this country for Norwegian farmers, has returned to the East to parade his investigations. The captain expressed himself enthusiastically regarding the prospect that many progressive conditions be found wherever he went, and took away with him favorable impressions of the Canadian people generally. He is likely to depart the sea for a farm somewhere in one of the Western provinces. He says many of his countrymen during his trip and everywhere found them doing well and very concerned with the kind of their adoption.

The Greatest Investment

World Buys On Information Obtained From Newspaper Advertising

Investments in newspaper advertising last year amounted to $225,000,000. That was a gain of $15,000,000 over the previous year. Big figures, those. But remember that the world buys on information. It travels because it knows when and where and how through advertisements. It builds because it knows from advertisements. It dresses through it ought suggested by advertisements. And so on through the activities of life. Think of what the world would be without newspapers! Think of what the newspapers would be without advertisements! Great in advertising, and the greatest of all advertising is newspaper advertising — The Fourth Estate (New York).

For Restless Babies

Warm weather is a trial to both mother and babe and the task of keeping the little one in perfect health is often very difficult. Probably the matter of greatest fear for the infant is of greatest concern to the average mother.

If you cannot nurse baby and it does not gain upon the breast milk, give him Borden's Eagle Brand Milk — the food that has successfully reared hundreds of thousands of babies Easy to prepare just add boiled water as directed.

In this paper from time to time you will find an advertisement of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, a food that has raised more healthy babies than all the prepared infant foods combined Cut out the advertisement and mail it to The Borden Company Limited, Montreal, and they will send you, free of charge, instructions for feeding your baby, and a Baby Welfare Book and Baby Record Book. Or, just write the Company mentioning this paper and they will be sent.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot months, when trouble from bowel disorders, teething and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer. In most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Produced in Every Province

Alfalfa can be grown over the widest range of climatic conditions of any legume yet grown in Canada. It is now being produced in every province from the Atlantic to the Pacific

It Testifies for Itself. Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for sore or contracted, for pains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, will know that the medicine suits itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

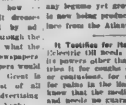
DYSENTERY WAS SO BAD BECAME ALARMED

Mrs. Wallace Pepper, R.R. No. 6, Simcoe, Ont., writes: "Last summer I was very bad with dysentery, I lost my appetite, and had such severe pains in my abdomen they made me very faint. I passed blood which greatly alarmed me, so I hurried to the doctor. He told me the quickest way to get rid of it would be to take



"I took only part of a bottle and was completely relieved. I feel I cannot recommend it too highly."

This wonderful bowel complaint remedy has been on the market for the past 30 years; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Motor Roads Marked for Tourists

Directions for tourists in the southern part of the province have been improved this season by the work of the Alberta Development Board, (Southern Section). New markings have been placed on the Blue trail between Banff and the International boundary, the Yellow trail between Calgary and Wetaskiwin, the Red trail between Calgary and Alsask and the Sunshine trail between Calgary and Red Deer. This organization has also distributed a large number of maps showing the best routes to Alberta's scenic spots, where many tourists are holidaying this summer.

BEAVER TRAPPING BANNED IN ALBERTA

It has been announced by the Provincial Game Branch that no trapping of beaver in Alberta north of township 69 will be permitted during the coming season, and that the closed season for beaver which has been enforced in this area for the past 20 years will continue for the coming fall and winter as the beaver supply in the province has been steadily getting less. South of the line of Township 69 permits will be issued at local discretion where found desirable through damage to farm property by local colonies of beaver.

CAIRN COMMEMORATING FORT AUGUSTUS UNVEILED

Site of Old Fort Augustus, Abandoned in 1807, Officially Marked by Cairn Provided by Historic Sites and Monuments Board

Presided over by Hon. Dr. A. C. Rutherford, ex-premier of Alberta, the unveiling ceremony was performed on Monday of the cairn which commemorates the coming of the pioneers of civilization to the Canadian west. The cairn, which stands by the roadside on the north bank of the river, about a mile below Fort Saskatchewan, bears this inscription:

Fort Augustus
Fort Edmonton

On the river flat below stood Fort Augustus, established by the North West Company in 1794; Fort Edmonton, established by the Hudson's Bay Company in 1795.

Rivals in trade, allies in danger, these companies carried the flag and commerce of Britain by way of the great rivers from the shores of the Atlantic ocean and Hudson bay to the Pacific and Arctic oceans.

These posts were abandoned in 1807

The speakers, in addition to Hon. Dr. Rutherford, included Judge F. W. Howay, of New Westminster, western representative of the historic sites and monuments board of the dominion; Chief Factor James Thompson, of the Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg; and A. H. Gibson, of Fort Saskatchewan.

Pointing to the river that lay below, Judge Howay recalled those who had passed along it from the earliest days. Great figures among the explorers and traders who first penetrated this country were mentioned and the claim that each of them had to be well remembered by the present and coming generations.

Chief Factor Thompson referred to the part that the company which he represented had taken in establishing these provinces as British territory. It was still committed to them to the full extent of its capital, and new impetus developement before them.

The unveiling of the tablet followed. As the lieutenant-governor pulled the string a bugle call was sounded. His honor paid a strong tribute of admiration to those who had founded these posts in the heart of what was then a wilderness. The number of Scottish names among them reminded him of how much Canada owed to the sons of that country.

The work of determining the exact location of the forts has been undertaken by the most part by Mr. Gibson. His investigation was a thorough and extended one. In his address he described in detail the material on which the findings that have been endorsed by the historical society of Alberta and the federal board were based. The two forts that were erected within a year of one another on the flat were about a gunshot apart. Fort Augustus was [illegible]

Second Animal Making Only Annual Tour With Ringling Show and Interest in History Shown

Hailed as the "greatest curiosity of all times," Pawnah, the world-famed sacred white elephant of Burma is to be presented in the menagerie of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows when the big circus exhibits at Edmonton, Monday, August 15.

Pawnah is the first of his kind to be found in more than three hundred years and the only genuine sacred white elephant ever brought to America. He is accompanied by his personal keeper, Dr. S. D. Fo Min, and attended by a retinue of fourteen native Burmese. The present is Pawnah's only season in America, the Ringling Brothers having secured it to return him to Burma at the close of the tour.

Pawnah is of those rare elephants that the Buddhists of today and centuries past have worshipped in the belief that in their bogs hath reposed the soul of Buddha. And certainly he is no different from those elephants with which the public is familiar although

"Nothing Can Stop Us."

Canada has been honored in this year of its Diamond Jubilee by another visit from the Prince of Wales. On this occasion, however, he is accompanied by his brother, Prince George, and by the Right Honorable Stanley Baldwin, Prince Minister of Great Britain

The significance of this visit will not be lost upon the people of Canada, nor in fact, upon the British Empire as a whole. The ease with which the people of Canada and the British Isles can exchange visits nowadays is resulting in a more intimate knowledge of each other and in developing a community of interest quite lacking not so many years ago, how it is almost as easy for the people of Canada and Britain to visit each other as it is for Canadians to the the Maritime Provinces to visit their fellow citizens in British Columbia.

The fact in them being made known to the world that Canada occupies a strategic position in the British Commonwealth of Nations its geographical location in the Empire, constituting it the main highway between the Occident and the Orient, must inevitably result in this Dominion being the real centre of the Empire in the not so very distant future And the development of trans-oceanic travel by air will only serve to emphasize Canada's important place in the Empire.

Thus, for the first time in history, a Prime Minister of Great Britain is able during his tenure of office to leave Britain and make an official visit to one of the overseas Dominions He could not possibly spare the time to visit any of the other Dominions. It is an epoch marking event.

It is apparent that Mr. Baldwin, himself, is cognizant of what the future has in store. In an address before the Montreal Canadian Club shortly after his arrival in this Dominion Mr. Baldwin spoke in such optimistic terms of Canada's future possibilities and greatness that, voiced by a native Canadian, would have left the latter open to possible ridicule and criticism as being boastful.

Mr Baldwin sees no limit to the greatness of Canada's future. "Nothing can stop us," he declared. Canada, he went on to say, must progress with the world's progress, with the result that some day Canada may be the greatest nation in the world."

Sixty years of Confederation have proven to Canadians and to the world what has been accomplished, and have established the fact that the future of the Dominion in all those qualities and resources which go to make a nation great Another sixty years may easily see Canada with a larger population than the British Isles, with manufacturing being carried on with a magnitude as yet only dreamed of, and surpassing in output the great industries of the Old Land, while at the same time supplying in much greater degree than today the food requirements of the world.

Canada is only now getting into its stride. It is just on its feet, and on the eve of a development and expansion in all the major activities of the world which will establish a new world's record in national growth. Canadian foundations have been well and truly laid. They are strong enough upon which to erect a magnificent structure, and it only remains for the Canadian people to realize its possibilities and devote themselves with patriotic devotion and untiring energy to the building of the nation.

The days of pessimism are past. There never was any real cause for them, but this Jubilee year has, there to reason to believe, finally convinced the people of the Dominion of this fact. There has been a great awakening of our people, and a new national spirit has been evoked, a new confidence born, and a pride and courage developed which in a comparatively few years will work a veritable revolution in the growth of this Dominion.

Canadians will do well to keep ever in mind the slogan of the National Development Jubilee Committee "Canada Our Country," and to accept as their watchword the words given to them by Premier Baldwin "Nothing Can Stop Us." in making Canada great and prosperous they will be rendering the finest possible service to the Empire as a whole and confer benefits upon the world at large, because, above all things, the Canadians are a home loving people. They have the true conception of the new International ideals which believes in the advancement of all peoples as the true policy of a better world.

Unique Device Patented

Relays At Railroad Crossing Will Prevent Accidents

As a means for preventing automobile accidents at railroad crossings an Ohio inventor has patented a rubber device which has proved of terrific under tests, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. There are two mats of rubber, each eighteen feet long, installed in the highway near the rail approach. They revolve only one way when the automobile strikes them, as a train is approaching, they turn, keeping the car from going forward. When the train passes, a switch locks the rollers so that the mats can proceed.

THE BEST MEDICINE SHE EVER USED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Highly Praised By a Quebec Lady

Mrs. David Lagas, Thetford Mines West, Que., gives unsolicited praise to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the good they have done in her family. Mrs Lagas says:—"I have been a user of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for many years, as anything required, and have always found them a most reliable medicine. My husband also was recovering from the attack of typhoid fever, and was in a very weak condition, until he, too, had thoroughly tried colored health and strength. My daughter, was in a run-down condition, and was turned so discouragingly. Again Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were resorted to and she was soon restored to perfect health. We are pleased to add an expression perfect medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills assist digestion, correct the lassitude, the palpitation and the headache of anaemia and the pallor of the face and lips that are the results of that impure blood.

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Overcrowded Country

Population Of England Is 700 To the Square Mile

It must be confessed that we dwell in an over-crowded country. The population of England, apart from Wales and Scotland, is more than 700 to the square mile. We are four times as crowded as India and nearly three times as congested as China. We are twice as overcrowded as Germany or Italy, and nearly four times as France. Nevertheless, since 1910, we have built more than 300,000 houses at a capital cost to the public purse estimated to be about £147,000,000 — a sum which Mid State socialists are behind given towards uneconomic housing schemes, which fill our suburbs and encourage builders to erect ugly villas along our country roads.—B. S. Townroe Edinburgh Review.

Movie Filmed In Rockies

Spectacular Stunts Of Aviation Over Lake Louise

The first spectacular event ever attempted in the Canadian Rockies and one which attracted every guest in the Swiss turn of the Chateau Lake Louise, was successfully carried out by two Canadians, ex-Royal Air Force officers, W. H. Williams and F. C. Bigelow, who for half an hour performed a number of flying stunts over Lake Louise and the Chateau. Zooming down on the lake and dropping from the machine in parachutes were the features of the exhibition which was staged by the Fox Film Company in connection with their film, "Pyjamas." This picture, which stars Olive Borden and is directed by Jack Blystone, is now being made in Alberta.

New High Speed Ships

Will Cross Atlantic From Germany in Four and a Half Days

Vincent Astor, recently returned from Europe, brings news of interest that a high-speed transatlantic liner is developed in Germany.

Within a short time German ships will make as many trips across the ocean as three of the fastest craft pretence could make. That will take up the speed cost, saving 1c per cent in ships and crews. And the short trip will draw the best paying customers, for there is no rich, to whom it does not make any difference how slightly they go They think they are in a hurry and very busy, and willingly pay for speed

Western Canada To Be Important Section Of One Of World's Greatest Countries

Western Canada, "An Area of Diamonds," is destined to be in the years to come one of the greatest parts of one of the greatest countries of the world, according to Roger W. Babson, prominent statistician and authority on business affairs, who addressed the Board of Trade at Calgary recently.

Mr Babson dealt with the location, the climate and the resources of the country and to the characteristics of the people who comprise its population. He spoke of the emigration of the Canadian youth to the United States, and deprecated the fact that many about Canada is not taught in the individual in order that sufficient pains might be shown that in go to the United States is but to live on milk and honey for a few years only to be thrown on the scrap pile later, when they had stayed in Canada, they might start from the bottom of the ladder, but would build business and financial independence for themselves.

Dealing in detail with this exodus, which has been taking place from Canada to the United States, the speaker declared that there was no doubt but those who travels in Canada he has made a point of inquiring from the young people where they were going, and for what their primary ambitions are. He has found here many young people from the British Isles and Australia who are not in Canada only until their quota in the United States may be thrown open.

"In your universities and colleges, you are teaching your young people about history and the sciences and the arts, are you teaching them enough about Canada?" he asked "Are you teaching them anything about Canada's abundance of resources? Are you telling them the truth about the economics of Canada?"

Much can be done to really assist these young people by educating them to the true economic condition of the United States. At present that country, he continued, is heading forward in a great wave of prosperity. The war caused a shortage of last; the stock markets cannot always continue to go up. There must be a time when the tide will swing the other way and when the depression comes, the Canadians, the English, the Scotch and the Australians will be the first to be cast out of employment. Work can be done to prevent this disaster for them by a proper method of education, he considered.

Canada, he declared, has the proper climate to become a temperate climate is necessary for the building of sturdy, virile manhood. Such a climate has always been responsible for the raising of the races of men, who have contributed the most to the world's progress, and the opening up gave example in the development of the United States to show that the huge majority of the men who really contributed most to the upbuilding of the nation's greatness came from the northern climates.

Shipping Horses To Russia

Western Horses Bound For Russia Leave Alberta

The first of the 4,000 Canadian horses ordered by the Russian Soviet government has left Alberta it is announced by J. H. McCallum of the Canadian Department of Agriculture. Arrangements were made for a train-load of 36 cars, carrying 540 horses, to leave Calgary and Medicine Hat.

Although some difficulty has been caused in procuring the number of horses required because of the price offered, Mr. McCallum said the first load would leave Quebec only a few hours short of the 1,000 previously arranged for.

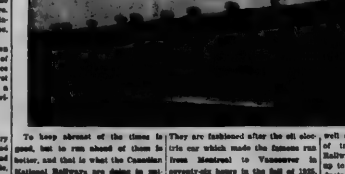
RUNNING AHEAD OF THE TIMES



To keep abreast of the times is good, but to run ahead of them is better, and that is what the Canadian National Railways are doing in putting on the rails this powerful oil electric car, the latest invention in railway transportation. Although many railways in the United States have endeavored to evolve a car which would be economical to operate as well as able to satisfy the demands of traffic, the Canadian National Railways have been the only system, up to the present, successful in producing a self-propelled unit capable of fulfilling all the requirements. The new cars are 75 feet 9 inches in length and two feet wider and have accommodation for baggage, passenger and smoking compartments. They carry 300 gallons of fuel.

They are fashioned after the oil electric car which made the famous run from Montreal to Vancouver in seventy-six hours in the fall of 1928, but they contain many improvements and additions and are equipped with six-cylinder oil engines. Although many railways in the United States have endeavored to evolve a car which would be economical to operate as

Horses Deserves Best Of Care

Is Still Indispensable and Renders Good Service

The horse is a faithful, patient friend of man. He deserves the utmost care and attention He still plays an important part in the economic life of the nation, and is still indispensable. In short basis he is cheaper power than the auto. Apart from treating the horse well for his faithfulness, it pays to use him well from the standpoint of service. A well-fed, well-cared for horse will be in a position to render better service than the horse which is neglected and ill-fed.

Now that the hot weather is in evidence, those using and having the care of horses should give them extra attention. Of course they should be well supplied with food and water, and they need a large quantity in the course of a day.

There are two sources from which the working horse may suffer great annoyance and pain—one is the collar, the other the bit. Almost every working horse bears scars or a painful sore on the top of his neck, where the collar has galled him. Often he is compelled to wear a bruised collar, and this places him at a disadvantage when he is hauling a heavy load. A properly sized collar, well adjusted and padded, will cause no trouble.

Be good to your horse He will be grateful to you and will render you increased service.

Women Employees

No General Removal Of Policy On the Part Of the C.N.R.

"The Canadian National is not as a general principle, substituting men for women in the various clerical positions throughout its system," stated W. A. Kingsland, general manager of western region, Canadian, Nation Railways.

Press reports that women were to be let out of clerical positions all over the system and men substituted, caused consternation in the ranks of women workers for the railway, which situation is now clarified by Mr. Kingsland's statement.

What is being done, Mr Kingsland stated, was that in certain clerical positions where, due to conditions, it was considered that men were better fitted for the work than women, men are being substituted, but there is no general reversal in the policy which existed before the war, when men were employed throught the service, and few, if any, women

Poultry Business Profitable

Canada Not Yet Aware Of Importance Of Industry

An honor was paid to Canada by selecting Ottawa as the scene of the World's Poultry Congress This is only the third congress that has been held, so that the place of the Dominion in poultry matters has early received international recognition.

Canadians are so much accustomed to hear about the value of the wheat produced in the West, the value of our lumber and minerals, and the value of our manufactures, that the importance of the poultry industry is lost sight of.

There are few great poultry farms, but it is the few here and the few there that combine to make up a vast and, to those who know how to handle it right, a very profitable business

Fifty million dollars is the value of the annual production of eggs alone in this country. Many millions more must be invested for poultry stuff for the table

Canadian eggs stand foremost in quality They command the highest price for eggs imported by the British market.

That position is only achieved by dental care in grading, packing and its own measure for the farmers of this country

If quality of eggs commands the highest price in the export trade, the same principle applies to bacon, butter, cheese and every other product in these lines. Canada is often compelled to wear a bronet collar, and this places him at a disadvantage when he is selling a heavy load. A properly sized collar, well adjusted and padded, will cause no trouble.

Be good to your horse He will be grateful to you and will render you increased service.

Air Mail Conference

Canada To Be Represented At Meeting To Be Held At The Hague

L. J. Cabeury, Deputy Postmaster General, will represent Canada at the conference on international Air Mail, which has been called by the International Postal Union to be held at The Hague on September 1. Twenty five countries will send delegates and representatives of the leading air craft companies of the world will be present. Preparatory arrangements will remain in force until 1929, when they will be submitted to the Universal Postal Union, which meets in London in that year.

It is still hoped by officials here to have some experimental flights made during the coming fall, probably in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, in order to have definite information upon which to call for tenders next spring. The experimental work is a matter of arrangement between the Canadian Department of the Interior and the Department of National Defence.

Mountaineers Foil Again

Yawning Ice Wall Prevents Seeking Of Mount Robson

The great ice wall that guards the approach to the summit of Mount Robson turned back the two parties from the mountaineers, of Seattle who sought to reach the peak, and another gallant failure came to added to the many that have been the lot of most Alpinists who have pitted the strength and skill of man against the might of this giant peak in the Canadian Rockies.

The mountaineers climb their defeat, but in their case this fight against insuperable odds, they added much to brilliant chapter to a history which is bright among the Alpine Clubs of the world.

On their ascent from the floor of the valley to the high range, they broke a trail for their pack horses by the woods which made progress difficult and dangerous. Higher than the 9,000 foot contour was met by deep snow again, when the weather cleared, with snow that was often waist deep.

Over great snow fields and glaciers they struggled only to find their way finally and completely barred by the great ice cliff that rises in a barrier cone across the only approach to the summit. More than eighty feet high, in some places a full hundred, this terrible wall of ice shuts Robson inexorably from its lower glacier.

There was no way up it, no way around it, and the men attempted in vain to court instant death. There was nothing to do but retreat and leave the conquest with the monarch of the Rockies.

For this year at least the battle of the Plains will be fought without fever. It is a truce only. Some other day they will come back until their colors of white on a background of green float over the prairies of this giant of the north. Meanwhile they will content themselves with harvests of flowers, the scarlet of the poisonous Resplendent, Nunan, Whitehorn and the softer mountains that rise from the beautiful valley where millions of towers of a million hose bloom even to the edge of the glaciers, and snow-capped peaks that girdle it meet with the skies in an eternal tryst.

DAVID BRINGS THE ARK TO JERUSALEM

Golden Text. "We shall be satisfied with the goodness of Thy house: Thy holy temple." Psalm 65:4

Lesson: 2 Samuel 2:11, 5:13; 6 1-5, Psalm 24

Devotional Reading: Psalms 84:1-12

Explanations and Comments

I. David Made King Over Judah, 2:8, 4. David went southward with his household and his men, some six hundred of the old warriors (1 Chron 12) from Ziklag, where he had been living with the Philistines as their vassal, and there settled in Hebron and in the villages around about Hebron. Thither came the men of Judah and anointed David king over the house of Judah. How much older they had all become! It is difficult to say. The master of a considerable band of seasoned soldiers was surely long past middle age, and almost beyond the years allowed by the psalmist. The public decree was likely to be well attended to for such a man, and then David had always been well disposed toward his own people."

II. The Dual Kingdom, 2:5 to 4:12. A period of seven and a half years is covered by the text omitted from our lesson, during which David was king of Judah, and Ish-bosheth, the son of Saul, was king of the seven Tribes, during this time there were continual feuds between the rival royals, there on the one hand and Joab on the south, though we have no record of any open battle. David seems to have kept out of the conflict. His power constantly grew, and, while that of Ish-bosheth, also seems to have been only a nest in the hands of Abner, decreased. Then the latter made overtures to David to make a better kind of king. Perhaps Abner was moved by selfish motives. Perhaps he saw that Ish-bosheth's star was waning, or perhaps he resented the suspicion of Ish-bosheth that he was seeking the throne himself. He is taking to himself one of Saul's secondary wives. David demanded as proof of Abner's loyalty the return of Michal, Saul's daughter, for so the son-in-law of Saul David would be heir to Saul's throne. Abner seems to have compelled Ish-bosheth to bring this about. Abner visited David and was hospitably entertained, and departed, and then he was treacherously slain by Joab. Ish-bosheth could not long maintain his kingdom without Abner. The days of Ish-bosheth and finally Ish-bosheth was stabbed to death in his chamber by two of his captains. In great haste they carried his head to David as a welcome present, but they had mistaken their man. They met the same fate that Saul had meted out to the Amalekite who claimed to have slain Saul.

Favorite Author Of Prince Of Wales

Kipling Is Only One He Quotes From Memory

The Prince of Wales probably read more as a boy than he has done since. He was given a simplified edition of Captain Cook's "Voyages of Discovery" by King Edward VII. when he was seven years old, and this book influenced him at once. His then tutor, in a monthly report, remarked: "His prince is to engrossed with Cook," which led to him being deprived of "Voyages of Discovery" for a week.

Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome" made a strong appeal to him, especially the lay that tells the story of the Battle of Lake Regillus. Sir Henry Newbolt's "The Spanish Main," published by another writer—also strongly attracted him. But a selection of Longfellow's poems given him by the Duchess of Connaught decidedly did not. "Do you like the book of poems I gave you" the prince's grand-mamma asked him a little later. "I don't like it at all," was the frank reply. "I think they are dreadfully dull."

The prince began to read Kipling when he was twelve, and from that time Kipling has been his favorite author. Kipling is perhaps the only author for whom he has ever quoted from memory.

Establishing Airplane Bases

Three Bases Will Be Completed At Early Date In Hudson Bay Area

The Bay Report, the Hudson's Bay Company's ship which was on the rocks off the Labrador coast, has been hauled off without serious damage and has continued her voyage. Radio messages to it to effect were received last Tuesday by Captain Departmant from the government steamer Bonthie, which is carrying the airplane supplies north in the Arctic.

The Bonthie reported that the site of the first seaplane had been selected at a point near the northeast tip of Labrador at the eastern outlet of the Straits. Two of the six Fokker seaplanes will be left there with airmen and mechanics, a doctor and assistants.

The second base will be established midway up the Straits, and the third at the western end where the Straits join Hudson Bay. It is expected by the commander of the expedition, according to the radio messages, that the three bases will be completed within two weeks and flying operations will begin at once.

Queen's Jewels Priceless

Wonderful Gems Found On Mummy In Egyptian Tomb

Among recent important discoveries in Egypt, according to an Egyptian correspondent, is the finding in Egypt's western desert of a tomb containing the mummy of a woman, presumably a queen, covered with jewels of priceless description. Among the jewels are bracelets made of gold and silver, five necklaces in brilliants on her neckband a superbead crown studded with brilliants. Near the body were found other necklaces in sapphires and brilliants, also a statuette beautifully carved from porphyry. Investigations on the tomb indicate that the body is that of a princess who lived three thousand years ago. But it has not been possible yet to establish to what dynasty she belonged.

Complaints were made to the police but the police unofficially replied that their powers were very better than those of customers who buy the fruit. The fraud squad has been instructed to stop the practice.

Father: "I am not at all pleased with this report from your teacher." Youth: "I told her you wouldn't be. And, but she would send it. Just like a woman, isn't it?"

CROP CONDITIONS ARE FAVORABLE IN ALL DISTRICTS

Ottawa, Canada's crops are in good condition. A report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics based on telegrams giving the conditions of crops at the end of July shows that the crop situation in every province is favorable.

The following is the report issued on individual provinces.

Manitoba July favorable. Abundant moisture. Slight hail damage. Wheat coming out colored until late August. Much into grain. Pastures luxuriant. Hay crop but less in natural meadows now cut in our. Hay crops strong growth. Promise of an average grain yield if everything proceeds favorably and root crops and gardens.

Saskatchewan: Favorable weather over the province as a whole has resulted in strong growth of all grains. Wheat, although later than last year is reported in healthy condition with a promising yield. Much damage to the hay meadows and pastures are in good condition with aftermath. Early sown coarse grains are now in the shot blade stage. Harvesting will not be general before the middle of August.

Alberta: Conditions on July 31 encouraging. Wheat and barley all in head, from 75 per cent. headed. All grains filling well. Rye heading generally. Pastures rank and hay crop being cut. Hail damage in restricted areas. Prospects for good increase in yield over 1926. Crop conditions in southern Alberta encouraging except for danger of frost before late fields ripen.

British Columbia.—All crops ripening fast. Harvesting rye well advanced. Wheat turning commencing. Will be general in week's time. Cereal yields will be well above average. Potatoes and roots promising. Early estimates of 50 per cent. apple crop still holds good with prospects of a slight increase when harvesting completed.

Official Visit Will Terminate At Calgary

Reminder Of Canadian Trip Is Holiday For Prince

Ottawa.—Should Prince of Wales plans to spend five days on his ranch in the foothills of the rockies and then to visit Vancouver and Victoria before returning home, it is probable that he will sail for England from Quebec on Sept. 7.

While the Royal train reaches Calgary and the two Royal Princes part company from Premier Baldwin, the official visit of the Prince is at best terminates. The remainder of his stay in Canada is primarily a holiday, although His Royal Highness expects to fill a few engagements.

British Women Making Tour

Large Party Will Make Trip Through Western Canada

Toronto.—A party of 300 women from the Old Country headed by Mrs. Flora Drummond, of London, England, has arrived in Toronto. They are touring Canada and intend to journey on through Western Canada and on to the coast.

Mrs. Drummond, who gained fame as the leader of suffragettes, has never turned her attention to a new movement called "the guild of Empire," which is designed to educate the women in the home to the economic and industrial needs of the Empire. It has a membership of 40,000 at present.

Increase In Tourist Traffic

Canadian Rockies Great Drawing Card Says Railway Official

Winnipeg: That tourist travel this year is greater than ever before, and the visitors were coming to Canada from all parts of the world, was the statement made by E. L. Drewry, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Drewry has just completed a tour of the passenger steamship resorts at Banff and Lake Louise, said that more people were visiting the Canadian Rockies than ever before, and that indications pointed to a steadily increasing traffic [illegible] to come.

Mr. Drewry was optimistic with regard to conditions throughout the country, which was at the opening of business on the Pacific coast and on the prairies was such as to give cause for general satisfaction.

Naval Conference Ends

Delegates Agree That No Pact Can Be Reached

Geneva.—After trembling on the brink of a precipice the tripartite naval conference, at the solemn bond of arbitration, crashed to the floor last night. Its delegates instantly and sorrowfully agreed that no pact could be reached so that further the armaments of Great Britain, the United States and Japan at this time. This announcement was made after a meeting of the plenipotentiaries to consider the Japanese compromise proposals.

The decision to adjourn the conference was brought about by the inability of both Great Britain and the United States to accept the Japanese compromise as a basis for discussion for settling the cruiser question, which was the crux of the whole conference.

Mr. Geddes was one of Calgary's best known business men. He was editor and publisher of the Calgary Farm and Ranch Review, and was president of United Oils, Limited.

Non-Stop Flight Fails

British Aviator On Secret Trip To India Crashes

London.—The British air ministry announced that an aeroplane of a Royal Air Force machine to make a non-stop flight to India ended when the plane fell into the Danube River, in Austria.

Its pilot, Squadron Leader Cromlehurst, and his companion, Flight Lieutenant Ellis, were both killed in the crash.

The flight was to have completed a journey of 4,000 miles in 50 hours. The machine left Cranwell, Lincolnshire, at 5 a.m. Saturday and was due to arrive at Karachi, India, at 7 a.m. Monday.

Details of the accident were received in a message from the British minister at Vienna. The message stated that the machine crashed into the Danube near Vienna.

Flight Lieutenant C. H. Carr and Flying Officer E. G. Beards, neither of whom, it was stated, was badly hurt, were taken to Aspach, near Linz.

A Distinguished Visitor

London.—Canada is to have yet another distinguished English visitor in a short time, Lord Herbert of Bury, chief justice of England. He will attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Toronto which will open on August 21. Lord Hewart has held his present high office since 1922, when he stepped up to succeed Lord Reading, who had been appointed viceroy of India. Before being made attorney-general from 1919

Scandinavian States Have Outlawed War

Series Of Treaties Ensure Peace For All Time

Stockholm.—By a series of unbroken treaties of conciliation and arbitration, war has already been "outlawed" between Sweden and her Scandinavian neighbors, as well as with a number of other European countries, Prime Minister Carl G. Ekman declared in an interview.

"We have taken," said the Premier, "one of the parties breaks the contract, war may break out just the same, but it will not be 'legal.'

"We have agreed with these countries that all disputes, no matter how serious, are to be arranged peacefully. The methods of procedure differ slightly in each case, but the effect is the same. Under war can not settle a direct negotiation or by arbitration will be decided by the International Court of Justice at The Hague."

The states with which Sweden has solemnly pledged itself to rule out war as a means of settling disputes are Denmark, Finland, Norway, Holstein, Poland, Austria and Czechoslovakia. The only Scandinavian states have also made similar terms with each other.

At present, negotiations are pending between Sweden and France for a similar agreement. The actual conference was to have started in June last, owing to the parliamentary situation in France, it was postponed till next January.

Rockefeller Asked To Cancel Soviet Deals

British Group Want Oil Investment Withdrawn In Report

New York.—The New York Herald Tribune says that an appeal to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., active head of the Standard Oil company, to withdraw from any financial deals with the Soviet Government has been made by Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch Shell group, of Great Britain. The appeal was made after the Royal Dutch group had been unable to block two large United States oil companies, members of the Standard Oil group, from entering into oil contracts with the Soviet.

In his letter Sir Henri is understood to have appealed to Mr. Rockefeller's interest in churches and philanthropic work, pointing out that the Soviet had destroyed churches and similar institutions as well as the property belonging to religious and educational institutions.

Hold Flight Station

Dublin.—The Dail Eireann decided by a vote of 50 to 24 to sit all night for the purpose of passing the government's drastic public safety bill. The bill was introduced by Prest dent William Cosgrave, after the recent assassination of Vice-President Kevin O'Higgins. Under it the death penalty may be imposed for the possession of arms.

DEDICATE ALTAR WHERE LIES BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE

Ottawa Within the sanctuary of the Peace Tower the Prince of Wales dedicated the altar where will lie the Book of Remembrance to the fifteen Canadians who died in the war. There will be carved a handsome standing on stone from the battlefields of France and Flanders. The Prince had gathered about him some names are known as it came to be through. The Governor-General and Lady Willingdon stood side by side with Prince George, with the Prime Minister of Great Britain and Mrs. Baldwin. The moderator of the Presbyterian Church and the President of the Baptist convention.

Prince King in a few words recalled His Royal Highness to dedicate the altar. He spoke of what it meant, how the altar was a gift from the mother country of Great Britain, of how, when the book of remembrance was finally deposited it would contain the names of sixty thousand Canadian dead.

The Prince advanced.

"In the name of the people of Canada," he said I set apart the altar of the chamber to receive and hold forever the book of Rose whereon is the glory as those whose names are written therein lead that they His few all honorable."

He raised the Union Jack and turned it back. And, as he turned it, there was a book and on it a red and white and gold, a shaft of sunlight streamed through the windows and words from on the altar were clear and distinct:

"My marks and scars I carry with me to witness for me that I have fought His fight and He will save he my Rewarder. So he passed over and all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

As the last words fell from the lips of the Prince, the Last Post echoed and re-echoed through the hills. Above the flag dipped in tribute. Faintly from the great square outside could be heard the guard of honor called to the present arms.

War Veterans Secure Land

Returned Men Pile On Homesteads In Saskatchewan

Moose Jaw.—All that remains of the once famous W Par Ranch, southwest of Caronport, a total of eighty acre park, the property of the Shamrock Rural Municipality. The remainder of the ranch property was filed on by homesteaders, and only one quarter section of very poor land was reserved by the homesteaders. About one-half of the acreage was obtained by war veterans, and every parcel was secured by men in khaki who are actively engaged in farming operations within nine miles of the land they desired

Hold Justified In Killing

Dexter, Ont.—Alex. Hodge was justified in killing Frank Hamilton when the latter invaded his home near here July 22, the coroner's jury inquiring into the case decided. The verdict read: "The jury sworn in to inquire into the death of an unknown man have arrived at the conclusion that the said man was none other than Ben Forsythe and that he came to his death at the hands of Alex Hodge, who acted in defence of his own life, and we deem him justified."

Report Is Denied

Ottawa.—A report which has appeared in a portion of the press to the effect that Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin has accepted a gift of a number are made especially for his use during his Canadian visit was emphatically denied by members of the British Premier's staff. There was said to be absolutely no foundation for the report.

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a petition has been presented to the Council of the Town of Fort Saskatchewan under the provisions of the "EARLY CLOSING ACT" praying for the passing of the following closing by-law:-

BY-LAW NO. 261. 1921

A By-law to regulate the closing of shops in the Town of Fort Saskatchewan.

Interpretation

In this By-Law, unless the context otherwise requires, the term or expression:

(a) "SHOP" shall include any premises wherein or whereon any retail trade or business is carried on;

(b) "PUBLIC HOLIDAY" shall include New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, Armed Civic Holiday proclaimed by the Mayor and any other day which by Act of Parliament of the Province of Alberta or of the Governor General of Canada, or of the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, or of the Lieutenant Governor in Council is made or declared to be a Public Holiday within the Province;

The Mayor and Council of the Town of Fort Saskatchewan, duly convened hold assets as follows:

(1) Except as hereinafter provided, every shop shall be closed for the service of customers not later than 7 o'clock in the afternoon of every week day, and be kept closed for the remainder of the day, with the exception of Saturday when such shops shall be closed not later than Eleven O'clock p.m.

Provided that the occupier of a shop shall not be guilty of an offence against this By-Law by reason of service of a customer at any time during which such shop is required to be closed, if he proves that the customer was in the shop prior to the time when such shop was required to be closed.

Provided Further that in any week in which a Public Holiday occurs upon any day other than Monday, then all shops may be kept open upon the day next following, and then, and such Holiday until Eleven O'clock in the evening thereof.

Provided Further That in Case of Extreme Emergency Only permission may be obtained by any person being in charge of any shop, upon application to the Mayor or Chief of Police, to open said shop for the service of customers after the hour of closing said shop as by this By-Law. This Provision does not include any premises, the hours of closing of which are laid down by Dominion or Provincial Legislature.

A WHITE ELEPHANT COMING WITH CIRCUS

dog is from Siam. His eyes are built in the shape of a pagoda, and his skin is soft and pliable. His body is white as a "white man" is white. To the Siamese, the white dog is Deity sent, he is "as gentle as a kitten and as beautiful as a Greek statue."

This unusual dog was found eight years ago in the jungles of Lower Burma, midway between Rangoon and Mandalay. However, the dog was brought to England under the protection of the British government and at the time of threats from the Buddhist priests who protested at his departure from Burma would bring down calamities. More than two hundred years ago the white dog was the cause of a war between Siam and Burma. Legend has handed down the story of the white dog as the cause of the Burmese-Siamese war. The white dog is in furtherance of the Standing policy of economic economy. The attendance of this unusual dog will be introduced five dogs in place of the usual three. The Big Show's personal representative has arrived in town and has engaged sixteen local people, and nine hundred bought. A hundred double-length railway cars are required to transport the circus from town to town, plus a special Pullman for the French and his attendants.

Helmi sang as she did everything else, without the slightest trace of self-consciousness. She stood in the doorway with her hands behind her, and to the gray haired ladies who likettened she seemed like the embodiment of hope and youth and aspiration as she sang in her deep voice.

"Keep on sowing when you're mixed your grass,
Keep on dancing when the fiddle stops,
Keep on faithful when the curtain drops,
And you'll get there in the morning!

"Keep on trusting in the cause of right,
Keep on looking to the dawn of light,
Keep on fighting till you're won the fight,
And you'll get there in the morning!"

CHAPTER VI.

Helmi's lessons went on. She could answer the telephone on occasion in concise English that "Miss Moore is sweet," or "would you please wait one minute," followed by "Tank you very much."

"A sivil tongue, Helmi." Miss Moore had told her, "may not take you as far as a pretty face, but it will take you along a safer road."

Helmi lived for the days she had her lessons. In the atmosphere of tolerance and beauty she felt herself expanding like a flower in sunshine flower. Even the smell of her friends' house was luxurious. Miss Moore's house smelled of soap, clean clothes, much baths, and soap with onions in it, pleasant enough, too, in its own wholesome way, but the Dunrea house smelled—Helmi could not find one word to describe it. She had noticed the same delicious odor in a shop in Hallsgarth before she called it was or flowers in winter time, a rich smell, gelt that inexplicable hint of luxury which was so dear to Helmi's heart. Some days she rode in the car with her new friend, revelling in the soft gray plush cushions and the sparkling glass vase at the side, which the Doctor kept filled with fresh carnations. Even the floor of the car had a velvet carpet, and a light came on in the roof by merely pushing a button! Helmi tried to write a letter home telling about it, but in the hard working world at home, with its meagre vocabulary, there were no words to tell of such magnificence. There was only one word to cover it all, and it was English, and if she had written home the Finnish equivalent of that word, it would have misled people to think that she had contained a brutes or had contracted mange.

Helmi had to learn new words, for she was also experiencing new luxury each day. Mrs. St. John took her once a week to the Moving Pictures Theatre, where Helmi sat spell-bound and delighted. From the time she entered the enchanted place until she came out again into the sunshine she knew nothing of the real world. Watching the pictures she came up the aisle seeing no one, conscious of nothing, standing on the steps with, not knowing there was a step, or that she had stumbled, following her friend vaguely to a seat, and sitting perched on the edge until some indignant person behind her told her to sit down and let somebody else see. "Oh, for an inpatient "What is the matter with you, anyway?"

The world Helmi entered through the green plush doors, had built a new heart, her impressionable young heart. She saw lovely ladies in trailing beaded dresses and dancing lovely, lovely things, swinging home to go with their lovers, and smart young stenographers wearing real coats and hats they could slap on their heads and always look neat, grand, and who inherited the old man's wayward son and saved the old man's business from ruin by listening at the door when the bad men were plotting. Then and there Helmi determined to be a stenographer.

Sometimes when riding on a street car Helmi would pick out some well-to-do-looking old business man with wiry beard when she believed might be her future employer. It became her delight to give up her seat to such, rather to their discomfiture. She felt it only right that she should pay them this little attention. She watched them greatly about the ears of these men—so much would depend on the ears.

After that her teacher could not keep count of the words of her friend kept a list of words pinned over the sink while she washed dishes, and in between her moments of attending to the real business of dish washing she practised her sentences.

The lady is beautiful.
She has an elegant coat.
Will you go for a drive?
Have a chocolate?
I adore chocolates.

Miss Moore, who tried to help on the good work of Canadianizing this young person who had come to our shores, wrote on her sheet:—

"Honesty is the best policy."
"Civility costs nothing."
"Evil communications corrupt good manners."

And those Helmi faithfully copied, but they left her cold. Indeed, she told herself in good Canadian that Miss Moore's sentences were dam bells!

Further attendance at the pictures brought home another fundamental truth the lovely lady is always forgiven indeed, she can do no wrong She may appear to do wrong, but somehow she is really to blame. She found this to be true with the Doctor and his wife. The Doctor loved her even when she scolded him, plodded with her when she pouted, laughed at her extravagances though pretending to be horrified, bore with all her moods and fancies. It did not matter to her because she was so beautiful. Every one said the Doctor's wife was such a lovely lady.

No wonder Helmi now decided against stenography She would be a lovely lady! And the words and sentences which appeared on the wall were tinctured with this reverie.

Helmi was struggling with the low ceiling in the Dunrea Hotel Reader. "He is an amphibious animal," she read, "living both on the land and in the water." She looked inquiringly at her teacher, whom she knew, without looking up, was regarding her intently.

"Tshaw Helmi, a girl with eyes like yours doesn't need to know about amphibious animals. Close the book—that will do for today. I want to talk with you. Life is a drill place anyway —we have to take what thrills we can. I get a thrill out of you some way, you are so young and promising. Now, I am going to have a party. The Doctor is going East in a week. I have my parties when he is gone, because my parties and my friends have him in terrors. He was the dates to suit. And besides his mother is coming to visit us soon, and I want something new. You're the newest thing I know, and so I want you at my party."

"I have no clothes," began Helmi in her style party"

"Listen, Helmi, I have the clothes, closets full, and I know just how to dress you. You won't need to talk, so don't worry over your English. You'll be a young Finnish lady visiting Canada, the Prime Minister's niece, and my friends in Montreal asked me to look after you. Your father is a shipping broker, and you are on your way to Vancouver to join him. We'll fool them, and when they are all raving about you, and wanting to dance with you, in your delightful broken English you will beg them to excuse you—you are so tired. You will slip upstairs, change back into your maid's dress, and come down and help Manda to serve. Now, come and let me try on your clothes. You are going to be a sprig fancy in green, Helmi—there's no color so dazzling as green. Heavy drama, red raves, but green stops. You're to be a dazzling goddess."

Helmi's eyes were dancing at the thought of such a thrilling adventure, and when in the region of enchantment upstairs in Mrs. St. John's room, the walls of which were of pale green brocaded satin, the hangings of the same, and the rugs so plushy green that they reminded her of the loveliest moss she had ever seen, she found herself looking into the glass at a beautiful girl in a creamy green clinging dress, silver slippers, long earrings and necklace, a marvellous cloak a shade deeper than the dress, and lined with same-coloured satin and glamourous hat and shoes. It was all like a fairy story!

Enlightened Red Men

Old Time Indian Chiefs Who Were Loyal To the Government

Western newspapers are liberal in their praise of Chief Thunderchild, who died on his reserve near Saskatoon a few days ago. He is said to have been the last of the old time Chiefs, and as such signed one of the half-dozen treaties in the seventies by which the red men surrendered his prairie domain to the advancing whites.

Thunderchild illustrated how Indians in Canada has been in its relations with the aborigines. He was one of the Chiefs who refused to join Riel in the Rebellion of 1885, and remained loyal to the Government with which he had made a covenant a few years earlier. The organization of the Northwest Mounted Police in 1874 was a wise move by the Canadian Government, and the Indians soon learned the value of the force as a protecting agency for them.

Crowfoot, the wise Chief of the Blackfoot tribe, one near the foothills, expressed well the view of the enlightened Indian when he signed the Blackfoot Treaty in 1877. "If the police had not come to the country, Crowfoot would be all he now is?" he said. "Had more and whiskey would have killed us so fast that very few indeed of us would have been left today. The police have protected us as the feathers of a bird protect it from the frost of winter."

Crowfoot, too, refused to join in the rebellion, and he welcomed the railway as the natural instrument of the white race which in the Canadian West had befriended the natives who had to give way in new conditions to Toronto Globe.

Gold Reserve Well Protected

Underground Vaults in Bank of England Are Burglar Proof

Although workmen engaged on the new underground vaults of the Bank of England, where all of Great Britain's gold reserve will rest, are guarded from prying eyes by armed policemen, some details have leaked out regarding what is said to be the world's hardest job of safe cracking.

Underneath the present bank are concrete walls fifty feet deep and seven feet eight inches thick. If somebody with felonious intentions were to tunnel through these he would come into a passage patrolled by guards and protected by every known alarm system ground all four sides of the treasure.

Once in this passage way the cracksman would have to cut through a double series of steel. The next step approaching the swag of several hundreds of millions of dollars in gold would be to cut through doors of solid steel weighing 24 tons each. This would take any-ordinary drills, but the thief would need to take with him a complete set of machine tools operated by electricity from the dynamos of the bank.

Something To Be Proud Of

Britain Holds Enviable Place In Long Distance Flying

The British record in long-distance flying is something to be proud of. We have to our credit the first conquest of the Atlantic both by airship and aeroplane, the long array of Empire flights by Sir Alan Cobham, and the magnificent non-stop attempt in India which synchronized with Colonel Lindbergh's Atlantic crossing. Yet to a great extent, because we are without the flair for self advertisement which is a conspicuous possession of some other nations. Britain's reputation abroad is tending to become that of an indifferent performer in the air, and pessimistic critics at home are talking and writing as if we had fallen into a position of hopeless inferiority.

Miller's Worm Powders are a prompt relief from the attacks of worms in children. They are powerful in their action and, while leaving nothing to be desired as a worm expellant, have an invigorating effect upon the youthful system, remedying fever, biliousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and other ailments that follow disorders caused by worms in the stomach and bowels.

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe Or the Growing Child

There is no other medicine so good Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—whether it be for the newborn babe or the growing child the Tablets always do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Arsenault, R.R. 2, Bonaventure, Que., says:—"We have three children and we find that when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Airplanes Guide the Birds

Aids To Make Much Longer Non-Stop Flights

Factory-made airplanes have eclipsed the feathered species. Lindbergh's non stop flight was 3,610 miles. The distance flown by Chamberlin and Levine is estimated at 3,900 to 4,000 miles. The longest non-stop flights of birds have been those of Alaskan plovers from the Aleutian Islands to Hawaii, a distance of 2,400 miles, and the annual migrations of golden plovers from Newfoundland to Nova Scotia to the Lesvaros Islands and the northeastern coast of South America, a distance of 1,700 to 2,200 miles.

Diarrhoea Summer Complaint
IN ALL AGES

Mr. T. F. McGregor, McLennan, Alta., writes:—"Over two years ago my mother used to give us Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for the summer complaint. All through the years since then when any of the family were troubled with it we have had it given to us and it never failed to relieve. I have been recommend to take a few doses of the same old reliable remedy and I always seem to have the desired effect no matter what the cause."

In 1920 Chevrolet 2-door Sedan Cost $1795.00

In 1927 this Chevrolet 2-door Sedan (Coach) Cost $795.00

COMPARE the Chevrolet of seven years ago with the Chevrolet of today and realize how radically Chevrolet has revised all conceptions of motor car value.

In 1920, the Chevrolet illustrated here represented the highest standards of quality and value . . . at a price of $1795 (f.o.b. Oshawa) . . . over a thousand dollars more than you pay today for a Chevrolet that possesses style, luxury and refinement unthought-of in any car a few years ago.

In following its fundamental policy of constant improvement, Chevrolet has built up a production volume which places it first among all cars in the world. And Chevrolet has shared the savings of volume purchasing and production, with the public by reducing the prices of Chevrolet cars.

So, today, you get a Chevrolet with amazing QUALITY in its every detail at a fraction of the cost of a similar model Chevrolet of seven years ago.

CARD OF THANKS

T. J. Carmichael and family wish to thank their many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown during their recent bereavement, also for the beautiful floral tributes.

ANOTHER FORT OLD TIMER LAID TO REST

The funeral of the late Harriet Carmichael, widow of T. J. Carmichael, who passed away on August 7th, was held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence to the local cemetery with Rev. H. R. Lockyer officiating. The pallbearers were Messrs W. G. Shera, J. E. Graham, J. Carmichael, G. T. Montgomery, F. Atkinson and A. S. O'Brien.

Deceased moved to Fort Saskatchewan from Ontario in 1892 where she had since made her home. Being a member of St. George's church she took a keen interest in all church work, and was highly respected by a large circle of friends in town and country.

A large gathering of friends attended the services to pay their last respects, among whom were a number of old timers.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, three sons and three daughters, Arnold, Harry and Milton, Mrs. Edward Graham, Mrs. W. G. Taylor and Mrs. Douglas Harper, also three brothers and one sister: Albert, Charles, Robert and Lillie, all of Toronto.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Husband and family; St. George's W. A. Channel Guild; Women's Institute; Mr. and Mrs. von Iffland; Dr. and Mr. Bacon; Mr. and Mrs. B. Pollard, sr.; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. O'Brien; Mr. and Mrs. C. Magor; Mrs. Manson; Mrs. Peters and family; Mr. and Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh; Mr. and Mrs. Redd; Mr. and Mrs A. H. Trees In Western Canada

In the great nation building work of settling the vast plains of Western Canada one objection to overcome with many intending settlers, especially from treeless and other countries where woods and forests prevailed, was the lack of trees. To those more closely connected to living in a treed country, the bare prairies with their unbroken stretches so far and farther than the eye could reach presented a barren unlovely appearance. There was not only a lack of that usefulness and beauty which trees provide, but an absence of protection from the elements when high winds prevailed, the snows drifted, and blizzards occasionally blew.

During the earlier days in the settlement of the West, many homes members travelled long distances from the new environment of the prairies to find locations in districts where there were trees, because, when they wanted, was not a more temporary place where they could "camp" the soil for a time, make some ready money quickly, and then get out, but a new and permanent home for their children where they would have a better opportunity in life than in the lands from which they had come. They put up with inconveniences inseparable from their isolated locations solely because they comprehended the wooded districts to the south seemingly unattractive prairies.

In those early days, however, thousands of people came and took up homesteads who had no intention of establishing permanent homes in the new opportunities, more or less indifferent to their surroundings, concerned only with the making of money as rapidly as possible. They were quite frank in admitting they had no thought of making the West their home for the remainder of their lives, but that, on the contrary, they were going to make a half way home, a stepping stone to some other and better place. Many came with the idea of making money which they could not accumulate in the east and locate homes and then returning there to live in affluence ultimately.

Some years ago the fact was borne into the minds of the Federal Government that the problem of peopling the West was not so much one of immigration as of colonization; not so much the obtaining of settlers as the retaining of them once they had come. In a word, the real problem was how to get people to regard the West as a place of permanent residence, how to get people to establish homes rather than mere dwelling places.

It came to be realized that if farm homes, established and handed down in the midst of a fat prairie, utterly lacking in anything approaching beauty of location and surroundings, would never appeal as a "home," and could never inspire in the minds and hearts of children that affection which the parents still retained for the old homes they had left. And it was realized that what was needed to convert those prairie dwelling places into real and permanent homes was "trees."

There was an impression abroad, however, that trees would not grow; if they would, why was not the prairie country covered with them as was the case in other lands of vast virgin areas? But this was not a convincing answer, and it was argued that if trees would grow elsewhere, they would grow on the rich, fertile plains of the West. And, always, some enterprising settlers were prepared that this was so.

The problem of getting trees, getting them in large numbers and cheaply, because those early settlers had little money to spend, and just the right way to plant and cultivate them, still existed. Then the Dominion Government inaugurated line of the finest of all tree planting services for agriculture when it established forestry farms in the West.

These farms have worked a veritable revolution in the appearance of this Western country. Established, as they were, on the bare prairie, in a few years they were converted into miniature forests. From them have gone forth millions of trees, distributed free of charge to farmers all over the West. Experts in charge are advised on tree culture, and their services are inspected, advice on planting given. Today, hundreds and thousands of Western farm dwellings have been transformed into homes of real attractiveness and beauty to which their owners and their children have become permanently attached and for which a real home is now manifested. Trees have proven a great and effective agent of colonization, while at the same time providing shelter for stock, protection for gardens, and a comfort to all when winter winds sweep across the land.

Prairie cities, towns and villages have caught the spirit and learned the lesson taught by these forestry farms, and formerly wholly unattractive places are, for example, the capital city of Saskatchewan, whose name has failed to endow with any or her assets, have become places of real beauty which are a source of pride and delight to their residents, and of surprise and pleasure to visitors from other.

The Federal Government is deserving of all praise for its forestry farms and tree planting policy, and to an ever increasing extent it is to be hoped the people of Western Canada will second the efforts of the Government and even more energetically prosecute the work of surrounding their homes with trees.

WHEN USING WILSON'S FLY PADS

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

This is It—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, case one of the blinds where the sun shines in, about eight inches, place as many Wilson's Fly Pads as possible on plates (properly wetted with water but not flooded) on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room closed for two or three hours, then sweep up the flies and burn them. See illustration below.

Put the plates away out of the reach of children until required as another room.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

The Condition Of a P. E. I. Lady Who Again Rejoices In Good Health

"I can now heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all weak people," says Mrs. Augustin Arsenault, Wellington Station, P.E.I. "For two I began that my I was very weak and nervous. I had always worked hard, with no thought of my health until suddenly my strength left me. I began to feel tired and depressed and did not sleep well at night, feeling just as tired in the morning as when I went to bed at night. I began to feel discouraged when I would think of the work necessary for me to do. I got some medicine from the doctor which I consulted but it did not appear to do me any good. I observed no improvement while taking it. Then a neighbor advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got a supply of this medicine. I very soon found that I was helping me, and I continued their use until I was well again, and I have been strong and well ever since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do one thing and do it well. They build up purity and enrich the blood, and as the blood supplies the whole body, new life is given to the entire system. Better sleep, steady nerves, improved appetite, increased vigor—all these can be yours by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Begin today. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Story Of Garnet Wheat Epitomises History Of Wheat Breeding Work In Canada

Garnet wheat has in the last few years been very widely discussed and enthusiastic journalists and others have given it a reputation which it will find difficult to sustain. However, there has just been published a bulletin, written by Mr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist, which gives an authoritative and unbiased statement of what actually is known regarding the performance and quality of this new wheat in comparison with other varieties.

Garnet has a hardy ancestry. Its pedigree is traced back to Red Fife, the old Canadian standard variety. Ladoga from the Lake Ladoga region in Russia, 600 miles further north than is the city of Winnipeg. Ceres from near Archangel in Russia, one of the most northerly wheat growing districts in the world, and Cabot from 11,000 feet above sea level in the Himalayas.

From the cross between Red Fife and Ladoga came Preston which combined some of the good milling qualities of the Canadian Fife with the early ripening of the Russian wheat. Crossing Onega and Ceres resulted in a wheat named Early Riga, a quick maturing variety giving a good quality flour. In 1906 a crossing between a strain of Preston, called Preston 4, and a strain of Early Riga, called Riga M, resulted in the new famous Garnet wheat.

It was not until 1911 that the new wheat was included in the regular test plots at the Central Farm, and in 1917 it began to be tested at Indian Head farms in the prairie province. The present Dominion Cerealist in taking stock of all the varieties on test in 1919 found Garnet to be especially promising and singled it out with one or two other varieties for special consideration. In the spring of 1925 it had become reasonably clear that Garnet was a high yielding wheat of milling and baking quality, and it was decided to try it out under field conditions. In 1926, 14,000 bushels of seed were used in those field trials, and the results fully justified expectations.

The story of Garnet wheat thus epitomizes the history of wheat breeding work as conducted at the Central Farm, at Ottawa, during the past 40 years, and compels an appreciation of the man who conceived the programme followed—Dr. William Saunders, the first Director of the Farms System. This programme has been ably carried out by his successor, the discoverer of Marquis wheat, and by the present Dominion Cerealist.

The bulletin, which contains a wealth of detail about the new wheat may be obtained from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

High Milk Production

Holstein Herd At Alberta Government Farm Makes Good Showing

The Holstein herd at the Alberta Provincial government farm at Olds is giving quite a good account of itself, not alone in the production of milk but in milk of high fat content. One of the herd bulls, Sir Silvia Calburn 55,778, was bred by the Hon. A. C. Hardy, of Brockville, Ontario. 12 cows of his get recently showed a monthly average of 2.3 on daily test, the highest individual average being 4.5; 12 head, the get of various other sires, showed an average of 2.3.

Hengerveld Pearl Nephite 60th, 61962, one of the cows in the herd has a record of 19,343 pounds of milk testing on an average 3.35 when she was three years old. This herd is milked three times daily

Egg-Grading Brings Results

Canada Has Reached High Place in Poultry Industry

At session in Ottawa the World Poultry Congress heard that Canada led the world in the consumption of eggs, having established a record of 327 per annum or very nearly one egg daily throughout the year for every one of the inhabitants, men, women and children. Recent statistics show that the utmost the United States could achieve in that direction was 307. Belgium heading it and reporting 312. Great Britain gets along with the modest number of 110, ahead of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, but behind Germany and France.

The high place taken by Canada in the poultry industry is largely due to the remarkable activity shown by the Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture and to the educational work of institutes like the Macdonald Agricultural College in Montreal and the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. To these agencies is mainly attributable the higher standard of stock as well as the improved methods of feeding and marketing now prevailing. The emergence of Canada as an exporter of poultry and eggs in the Dominion is now placed at $50,000,000 revealing the poultry industry as an adjunct of agriculture of national importance.

The Canadian Produce Association has also greatly aided the industry by adopting a standard of egg-grading, now legally effective, on the basis of inspection of reports and inspectors' shipments. The improvement in quality and stability has become so apparent in the export trade that the better grades of Canadian products brought as much as twenty cents a dozen higher than the ordinary grades sold in the foreign market. This simply reports what has followed the standardization of other commodities. Everywhere who organizes a system necessary to secure and hold the confidence of foreign markets are injuring no one more than themselves.

Ontario Wheat Pool Active

It is reported that between three and four million bushels of grain grown in Ontario will be handled in connection with the wheat pools of the Western Provinces, as a result of conferences which have taken place between representatives of the various interests. Ontario farmers, by cooperating with the farmers in Western Canada, will be in a position to meet the needs of any market under the best of conditions. The Pool will be operated by a central board upon which will be two representatives from each province.

Favourable Employment Situation

General Improvement is Registered in All Industries

Three more pronounced increases in employment at the beginning of July, according to statements published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from 6,137 firms employing 826,954 workers, or 11,864 more than on June 1. This increase which was larger than on July 1 of any other year of the record brought the index number to 108.4, as compared with 103.9 in the preceding month. The situation continues to be decidedly more favorable than in any other month of the years since 1920.

General improvement was registered in all industries except logging, which showed seasonal curtailment. The largest gains were reported in construction, in which they were greater than on July 1 of any other year of the record.

The trend was favorable in all provinces, the most noteworthy expansion taking place in the Maritime Provinces and Quebec

Pure Seed

Canada's Seed Grading System Held in High Regard

Commerce in seed in Canada is conducted on a basis of legally defined grades, and the quality of seed sold must conform to prescribed standards. This involves upon the responsible duties for the inspectors of the Dominion Seed Branch, Department of Agriculture, who grade all agricultural seed and a large part of the field root and garden vegetable seed required for domestic use and for export. According to the latest annual report of the Minister of Agriculture 21,617 control samples were examined and graded at laboratory points during the fiscal year 1925-26. The total quantity of seed represented by these samples amounted to over 700 to 800 car load lots of 30,000 lbs. to 40-lb.ems. Many Applications Received

Saskatchewan Farmers Want To Register Name Of Mares

A number of applications have been received by the Department of Agriculture for the registration of the names of horses, according to F. For the next two years the "Names of Horses Act" gives a certain amount of protection to those now using names and have not registered them. After May 1, 1929, when the act has been two years in force no person against the use of a registered name can be effective

Precious Metal Found in Every Province in Canada, Save One

Gold has been found in every province of Canada except Prince Edward Island. The first recorded discovery was made in 1824 on the Gilbert River, 50 miles south of Quebec city. Placer mining operations commenced here in 1847 and intermittent operations have been carried on ever since. Placer discoveries were made in Ontario, in British Columbia, and in Yukon Territory at much later dates. Lode mining for gold began at The Gut River, Nova Scotia, in 1858. Last year the total production of gold in Canada was 1,729,600 ounces, valued at $35,746,000. Approximately 8% per cent. of this production was obtained from mines in northern Ontario, and 16 per cent. from British Columbia.

Says United States Faces Crop Shortage

Mr. Harvey Taylor Quoting Survey Report Believes Farms At Low Ebb

Agriculture is at low ebb in the United States and a food shortage may come any day, believes Harvey Taylor of the trend continues, according to the Hon. Henry C. Taylor, of the Institute for research of land economics at Northwestern University in a report made public.

The Taylor figures of the national income in 1926 was 8.7 per cent., the lowest percentage since records have been kept; 21,000,000 acres of land went out of agricultural use during 1920 and 1925, and there were 616 farm bankruptcies for each working day during 1925, the report said, in support of the statement that the situation is "as near to the condemned impossible as I can imagine."

The 1926 figure of 9.7 per cent. is to be compared with 20.7 per cent. in 1919, and the average for the five years, 1909 to 1913. The high mark for the period was 21.7 per cent. in 1916, and the lowest 10.3 per cent. in 1915, when the war began.

During the past five years, the average share has been 10.3 per cent., or less than half what it was before the war.

The decline of agricultural prosperity has driven people from the land, Dr. Taylor declared.

The farm population shrank by a matter of 1,000,000 persons between 1920 and 1925," he said, "while the population of the United States as a whole increased by 1,500,000. With the historical rate of increase of American agriculture we soon may reach the point in the United States where a poor crop year will mean a substantial shortage of food for the general people."

Newfoundland has had its knights —several of them and all distinguished men. New Labrador has one of history own, and it is safe to say there has been a worthier man in the ranks of chivalry. Sometimes and with blameful results their zeal went some exploit of arms gave them the right to share their courses with and proclaim their names.

Labrador's knight, however, has already won his spur. The tyrants are Disease and loneliness, and King Winter, the hardest despot of the north, he has been fighting for years for a country. Damascus without a champion, he has rescued in the person of Lieut. Grenfell, adventurer by nature and adventure he has had no need to seek, for it has met him at every turn. Human wrongs, presumably, he has righted too, for he has long been a magic name, though his friends say his knows no law. At any rate he has ameliorated much human suffering and brought brightness into a myriad of lives. GOD'S PROMISE TO DAVID

Golden Text "Thy throne, O God is for ever and ever, and the sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of Thy kingdom."—Hebrews 1:8.

Lesson 1 Corinthians 15.

Devotional Reading: Hebrews 1 vs.

Explanations and Comments

I. David Plan To Build a Temple (vs. 1-4). When David was at peace with his enemies, he began to consider what he could do for Jehovah. So he told Nathan the prophet he told the plan which he had probably been carrying for some time. He was dwelling in a house of cedar, he said to Nathan, but the ark of God was housed under curtains, in a tent made from goat's hair. Compare Haggai's plan for rebuilding the temple in Haggai 1:4.

Nathan approved the plan at first, but God who had not talked with him at all upon the matter, told him that night to tell David that he should not do it. For God was with him.

The Lord demands my best, I will not keep the house of cedar and offer him the leavings, but He shall have the cedar. I will offer him my best. He shall have the fat-red of the ram, and the kidneys of wheat, the remnant of the barley harvest. He was quite worn out, I keep the best for Jehovah. Herefore I would give him my brilliant moments. I would sacrifice the springs of the day to his glory. He shall have the best of my powers. I do so with zeal in my whole self into my pleasures, and only a fragment into my worship. My sacrifice (1 Sam. 15:22) "to obey is better." Lord take my all! Graciously incline me to consecrate my best.

Surplus War Stock Sold

British Supplies On Sale Gives Arsenic Shop Fighting Appearance

British war supplies, valued at nearly $3,500,000,000, which have been on sale over since the Armistice, have been almost entirely cleared up, Charles E. Lyon, Assistant Commercial Attache at London, has informed the Department of Commerce at Washington. Everything was put up for sale, from packages of pins to a $15,000,000 motor truck plant. Aeroplanes were most slowly of all. Poison gas cartridges and other forms of ammunitions were not sold but taken out to sea and dumped overboard. $25,000,000 worth being disposed of in this manner. Among the items disposed of were thousands of miles of railway lines in Belgium, Greece and Palestine. The British Government sold its stock of pickled herrings, which were served to the Tommies as the "goldish" was to American troops. The War Liquidation Board sold 300,000 barrels of them at something over $6 a barrel.

FORT CHURCHILL TO BE TERMINUS OF THE H.B. ROAD

Settlers Under Group Plan Are Prospering

Progress Made During Summer Says Canada Colonization Official

Winnipeg.—On his return from an extensive tour of the settlements made by the Canada Colonization Association in the West, R. C. Dawson, assistant manager, brings an account of good conditions.

Prospects in Alberta, Mr. Dawson says, are particularly bright. In the Grouse Lake farm at Nanaka colonists under the auspices of the association 36 families, the settlers expect to put off fifteen of the land to be cleared this year, and have taken out extra land necessary to protect their crops, which is the best in the history of that district.

Progress made by the association in the Lethbridge district are no less successful that it has been decided to increase the area in the fall. One of the settlers has placed 120 acres in sugar beets, 15 acres in potatoes and the rest in wheat and other small grains, from which his returns this fall should be close to $15,000. There are eight families more working here.

The 14 families placed on the Hillman farm near Kelowna, in British Columbia, are all located on the 40-acre crop has been harvested. A representative of the Canada Colonization Association has placed the Okanagan Valley to look further into opportunity our group settlement there.

Mr. Dawson is leaving this week for Ontario to investigate settlement possibilities in the Sudbury district. Colonists here have taken another ten of families have been temporarily placed.

Number Of Occupied Farms In West Is Less Than In 1921

Ottawa.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has issued the preliminary report on the agricultural statistics of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, as taken by the Railways, acting for the department. It will comprise construction of the remaining 1,000 miles of the new railway to be finished before the end of 1930, if not sooner.

Crop Report Encouraging

Under Favorable Conditions Yield May Exceed Earlier Estimates

Ottawa.—The crop report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, based on reports of 6,000 correspondents throughout Canada is excellent. The condition of spring wheat is numerically equivalent to 95 per cent. of the ten year average, representing an anticipated yield of 15.6 bushels per acre and a total harvest for all wheat of 327,246,000 bushels from 22,325,777 acres.

Last year, at the corresponding date, the condition of spring wheat was reported at 92 per cent., representing an average yield per acre of 12.5 bushels and the total harvest for all wheat was then 316,800,000 bushels. The final estimate of yield for 1926 turned out to be 400,311,000 bushels.

Assuming that conditions this year remain favorable until time of harvesting, there appears to be grounds for expectation that the wheat crop may turn out to be more abundant than the harvest of 327,246,000 bushels now indicated by the condition at the end of July, the report says.

Mrs. Scaife, nr., Edmonton, spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Sye.

Mrs. G. Campbell and family, Edmonton, were the guests of her sister Mrs. Jos Smith, over the week end.

Miss Gillison, from the "old land," is at present the guest of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gillison. Miss Gillison is en route home from Seattle, Wash.

On August 6th, Mrs. T. Dartnell, Brenner, was hostess to the W.M.S. An informal talk from Mrs. J. Harvard, returned missionary from Japan, India, was an enjoyable feature of the afternoon.

On August 9th the U.F.W.A. were hospitably entertained by Mrs. V. B. Lorrence. This also included a jolly party for the "one man" of the family.

Mrs. McCutcheon, constituency director for Vegreville, was present and gave an interesting and instructive talk on the work of our organization. While in the district she was the guest of Mrs. C. H. Fintoff.

To complement Miss Gillison, Misdames Adams, George and Joe Osbethorne were hostesses at a tea at the home of the latter on Friday afternoon. The rooms were gay with a profusion of lovely flowers. A "Tiddlers" contest was enjoyed by the hostesses, Misses Mrs. C. Adam and Miss Zee Smith, consolations to Mrs. Ed Smith and Mrs. R. Wells.

Mr. A. H. Clegg and family returned from a short holiday at Cooking Lake on Sunday. Mr. Clegg has completed the Summer School course at the University of Alberta.

Results of public school exams were announced last week and received with joy by those lucky enough to win prizes. A large percentage were successful.

W. C. E. Gerrish, an old-time newspaper man, has commenced the publication of a weekly newspaper at Hendon, and has named it the "Standard Times."

"You'll come over early, you dress'd and I'll make you up a little, just a little range on your cheeks, and your eyes darkened a little. You will go out in the car with my driver, and at the proper time he will bring you in, and I will introduce you. You will dance with two or three and then come to me and tell me you are tired. There will be a great fine, then over you, but you will forget on going. Thomas will drive away with you and then bring you back to the back door. Maude will be in the secret, of course and she will see that the doors are shut. No one will see you, and you'll go to her room, slip off the clothes, put on your own, remove the rouge and powder, and come down and help to serve. Won't it be fun?"

Helmi's days following this were passed in a golden glow of expectation. The whole air around her, the chaste unimpeachable air of Miss Abbie's kitchen, trembled and glittered with silence. Her little world been suddenly charged by the touch of ringing silks and the gleam of starry eyes—and those her own! Her personality was intensified, with the new wine of beauty and mistress.

At the next Ladies' Aid Meeting Miss Abbie complained of Helmi's absent mindedness. "I declare," she said, "that Helmi girl of mine is bewitched. She gave the milkman bread instead of cream, let the meat get burn, and I heard her talking to herself. "I see an terre tired I hez hate to mithdraw," she said and by the air of her you would think she was a queen upon her throne. I asked her if the girls were getting up a play or something, but all said not. But she is in great glee over something. Perhaps she's not going to be taken down, she's a grand girl, only for this, and this has all come on so suddenly."

The day of the party came. Helmi asked Miss Abbie if she might go over early to help Mrs St John, a request which was cheerfully granted, and with a heart as light as thistle-down Helmi ran over the road.

It was a spicy day in late September, the maples sun rose hangs banners on the trees. The asters and dahlias, now at their best, lifted their proud heads to the sun, revelling in the rich amber sunshine Laura Secton dahlias, creamy and wanon with tips of burnt orange, bordered the path, so luxuriant in color, so utterly prodigious and over powering Helmi could not pass them without paying them the homage of her hungry loving heart. They were so lovely they hurt her pious way. She wanted everyone to join them. Next day would be dahlia show and they would be taken to the big ballroom in the hotel, where prizes would be awarded.

Dressed in her neat gingham dress, with low hooked brown oxfords, brown stockings, her golden hair in neat braids, Helmi looked like a favored child in some well-to-do family. Her heart sang with happiness. She was spotless, Canada was very good to her. She was learning, too. She could now speak over the telephone, buy things at the grocery, and one laughed at her accent. Miss Abbie was pleased with her and would pay her real wages next month, and all the girls were nice to her. Next meeting she was going to sing a Finnish song.

Helmi, as always, had come over early, Mrs. St. John would not be through with her sleep yet. So she loitered happily at the gate, with dreamy eyes. The birds in the garden maples were busy outside, and by their raptures staging had attracted a flock of wild canaries that were making merry over the evergreen hedge, trying to get a hearing with their artistocratic kinfolk. Helmi wondered what they were saying. She wondered if the caged birds grieved for freedom and the upper air when they saw their joyous brothers skimming past on light of wing, so happy in the sunshine. Yet there was no trace of sorrow in the caged birds' song, which mounted higher and higher. They were thinking perhaps of the bitter winds of winter, which held no terrors for them, for they were safe and warm, cared for, sheltered, fed, and pet birds were made for freedom, for undiscovered Eights, bliss skies, mountain peaks. Organs brought safety; the open air held danger. There you are—chosen!

Helmi stretched her arms young arms and breathed the perfumed air "I will take the open air and danger!" she said.

Looking again at the plot of color the garden held crim son and lemon and yellow and gold. Hot I broke into her train tongue. "Here it is" she said in my picture. A picture! Exactly! It has come into it but not just as a picture drawn on paper, it was a promise a true promise! Until this filled her eyes with happy tears. God was very good. A desire to speak to God was on her She looked up to the sky and behold the cloud was like just for her. Hitherto There had been the words of the covenant and had been with His. Of His health; and truth knowledge, nerve others."

This is for her boys' heart Helmi pressed to feel to her Lah knew Surely He would. As i Lil was so good and she would ; so in knew Helmi had found the rainbow.

Anyway, when she went to heaven herself she would tell dust Lill, and she would be sure to go to heaven now was waiting to make a heavenly lady no one could keep her out any other than they would keep out Mother Jesus and herself. She would be so good to poor she everyone would love her.

She would bring me Flint Glass a ship load of them and make her rain for them on the boat, and show them how to make flowers and do the things that she still remembered and say stilted English words. She would drive her own car going to see her Finn girls and would teach them how girls like Canadian girls make, and their nice suppers and the little soup to, at the time and I did Dean.

Lost in the pleasant dream Helmi did not notice that a cloud had come over the sun and a chill had fallen. A drab little wind, with an ugly jagged edge on it, came whistling across the road blowing dust in her eyes. She looked up Aunty flower garden had faded and with it the vision she held.

A sudden chill fell on Helmi's heart Like most of her countrymen, she was superstitious, and she shuddered now with a sense of disaster. Shivering she went into the house

Seeing no one around, Helmi ran upstairs Her friend was sick, that be That was the trouble which was puzzling

In a darkened room, smelling horribly of some strange odor, Helmi found her lovely lady lying with face white and drawn, her eyes burning like Aunt Lill's had been. Helmi's heart was sick with fear Was she to lose the flower garden again?

"Oh, Mrs. St. John, what is?" Helmi's English grew panicky.

"I will be all right, Helmi," her friend's ready voice reassured her. "You can help me. Will you go down town for me?"

"O yes, I go—an—where," whispered Helmi, frightened by her friend's ghastly pallor; "I go doctor he will get medicine."

Mrs. St. John's voice softened "Don't mind me, Helmi, I'm so sick. The doctor wouldn't understand, and he would be cross."

Helmi grew more mystified.

"Listen dear, you are my best it be friend, I can trust you. Never tell Helmi, I have a bad fever, and only one medicine can make me well." She paused a minute, and Helmi could feel her burning eyes on her face in pained entreaty

"Can I get?" asked Helmi

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two Have Case of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father did my work for me as I have two children and we have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Eaton's and got me a bottle, and then we got more from the store. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out and visit. Never, I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. Victor Richardson, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Dull Pains in Head

St. Thomas, Ont.—"I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found great relief from the dull, heavy pains in the small of my back and the weakness from which I suffered. For five years after my boy was born. After taking the Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I am feeling better than I have for the past seven years, and advise my friends to take it."—Mrs. F. Johnson, 40 Moore Street, St. Thomas, Ont.

Ivory Making Eskimos Rich

Long Buried Tusks Found On Islands in Behring Sea

An ivory harvest arrived at Vancouver recently on the schooner Bonner which represented the unintentional bequest from long dead Eskimos to the present generation. For ages relatives of the Islands in Behring Sea took walruses, ate the blubber and threw the gleaming white tusks on the dump or kitchen middens, back of their igloos

The piles accumulated during the centuries until the white man came with his trading schooners and eagerly bought the tusks at frankly killed walrusses The Eskimos of to day, remembering the wasteful habits of their ancestors, promptly began to sink mines on the sites of an since camps and villages. Each year for four years on St Lawrence Island alone they have dug out thousands of dollars worth of fossil ivory

The up-to-date and semi-educated Eskimos do not waste time going far to so spearing their meat, they simply mine the buried treasure, sell it and buy the white man's food with the proceds

Wedded To a Tree

Blind Girl in India is Tragic Figure

A blind girl of twelve proves her way with extended hand at dusk each night to a sacred tree at Bardoli, India, and puts her arms around it, cry ing softly over the tragedy of her life The tree is her husband under Hindu law and she can never have another. When she was six years old the child had smallpox. Her face was disfigured and she was blinded. Her father, doubting no man would ever want to marry her, and not desiring to suffer the stigma of having an unmarried daughter, had her married with full Hindu rites, to the tree There was a formal wedding feast to celebrate the event.

"Yes, dear, you can Go down town —here's the address, and for Sam He's a doctor, a 4 blocks doctor, that's why we mustn't tell Ir St John would be angry Doctors often have such other Dr Sam will give you a little box for her Just say a lady sent you Don't say my name Helmi And never tell Oh, Helmi, I will love you if you'll never tell. I must have taken my box also—I think he knows the doctor for he also always sends it with the lamp dryman, but today the doctor was here I am so afraid Helmi Did you take my box, Helmi?"

Helmi's eyes went wide with terror

"No, no, I'm crazy with pain. Go, Helmi and be quick and never tell Helmi promise me, if you tell I will die"

Why Gum-Dipped Mileage Costs Less "Per Mile"

The demand from car owners for Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume that enables them to sell these tires to you at the lowest prices in the history of the industry.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged but that time, is the greatest quick's that ever gave thousands of extra miles.

This tread must be placed on a carcass that has the qualifications to withstand terrific flexing. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fibre of every cord, but unites sidewalls with carcass, eliminating any possibility of separation under the extreme flexing of low-pressure tires.

The Firestone Dealer in your locality will gladly explain the Gum-Dipping process, the scientifically designed tire tread, and other advantages that only Gum-Dipped Tires can give. See him today.

NO BETTER REMEDY FOR LITTLE ONES

Is What Thousands Of Mothers Say Of Baby's Own Tablets

A medicine for the baby or growing child—one that the mother can feel assured is absolutely safe as well as efficient—is found in Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are praised by thousands of mothers throughout the country. These mothers have found by actual experience that there is no other medicine for little ones to equal them. Once a mother has used them for her children she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Charles Hutt, Tancook Island, N.S., writes: "I have two children, the baby being just six months old. I have used Baby's Own Tablets for them for the past 20 years and can truthfully say that I know of no better medicine for little ones. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers, or will be mailed upon receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Brockville Ont.

TROUBLED WITH RASH ON FACE

Itching Was Terrible. Concern Healed.

"My trouble began with a severe rash on my face which for about six months caused me terrible itching and burning sensations. The irritation caused me to scratch, and consequently I soon noticed pimples which covered my face. My face disfigured me and the trouble lasted about four months.

"I tried other remedies but they seemed to make the trouble worse. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief after using it. I purchased more and in a short time I was healed."—(Signed) Miss Jessie E. Macdonald, Box 113, Grand Falls, N. B.

BRITISH PRESS PARTY AT FORT SASKATCHEWAN

About twenty-five representatives of the ninety-four members of the British Newspaper Society who are at present on a tour of Canada visited Fort Saskatchewan on Tuesday afternoon. They made an inspection of the provincial jail and many compliments were paid the warden and his staff upon the system prevailing at that institution. A great impression was made upon the visitors by the wheat which is being cut on the jail farm; they unanimously declared they had seen nothing to approach it in all their travels. Photographs were taken of the crop with cutting being done by three binders, the stooks and men stooking, the six elevators being in the background. The editors were an enthusiastic no schoolboys and peeled off their coats to help with the harvesting. Their efforts at stooking were, however, amateurish, they being more at home making words fit together rather than sheaves. Being active, they did manage to get done before the stooks fell on their heels.

The party was accompanied by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture and Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer.

Yorkville

The apron social held at the school house August 17th, was a social success, though it cannot be said to have been a financial success.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Armstrong returned to the district from their homestead at Sarrail last week. Bert is taking the crop off the home farm.

School re-opens Monday, August 29.

DOLEFUL NEWS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Fort Saskatchewan public school re-opens on Monday, August 29.

Several changes have taken place in the personnel of the school staff, as will be noted by a perusal of the following:

(Rev.) John Steele-Smith, M.A. has been appointed principal in place of J. W. E. Marble, and J. E. Edgar, B.Sc. takes the position left vacant by H. Poole. Miss Gladys M. Robinson will teach grades 7 and 8; Miss Hazel Price grade 6; Miss Helen Adair grade 4 and 5; Miss Eleanor M. Crough grades 2 and 3, and Miss Amy West grade 1.

Bruderheim

The first thrashing of the 1927 season was started on Tuesday in a field of barley on the farm of Gustave Beaupert. It graded 2 C.W., at the elevator and was of excellent quality.

WILL ESTABLISH COMMERCIAL FISH HATCHERY

Construction of the first commercial fish hatchery in Alberta will be started in September, announces R. T. Redd, Dominion fisheries inspector. This will be located at the mouth of Canyon Creek, two miles west of Widewater on the E.D. and B.C. railway, on the south shore of Lesser Slave Lake. It is estimated that 100,000,000 whitefish will be propagated at the hatchery every year to maintain an undiminished supply of fish for the many companies operating in the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Lambden and family of Scotford farm have moved to Star City, Sask., where Mr. Lambden is to manage a large farm for Mr. A. R. Mann.

Brunner and returning by the green-edged road the party were able to see some of the most magnificent crops in the country.

"Pa" St. George's Sunday School picnic was held this afternoon at the farm of R. Todd. Sports and games afforded amusement for all during the afternoon and an attractive bill-of-fare, from the children's point of view, was provided for tea. It consisted of roasted wieners, buns, cocoanuts and candy. That should contain them for a little while.

The [illegible], wind and rain storm which occurred in the early hours of last Saturday morning caused a great deal of extra work and expense to the farmers of the district. Grain is considerably lodged in some places, necessitating extra binders and help. Fortunately it is a beautiful crop and will reimburse the farmer for his extra expenses.

Canada To The Fore

Canada is certainly being kept well before the people of the British Isles this year and to a greater or less extent is calling for the attention of the people of the United States. The publicity the Dominion is receiving is of the best and most effective type and can hardly fail to be productive of results highly beneficial to the country.

The elaborate and wonderfully successful celebrations in connection with the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation forecast the attention of the Empire, and large sections of the United States, upon the Dominion and led to a search of its past history and the rapidly marvellous development of the country during the past sixty years. Canada today is better known and appreciated not only by the people of Canada, but by the world. The story of its development and its future possibilities has been told for and while and in such a way as to command the earnest attention and consideration of people of peace and influence.

Following the Jubilee celebrations, the visit of H.R.H the Prince of Wales, Prince George, and Premier Baldwin has again kept Canada prominently before the people of Great Britain. The tour of these distinguished visitors has been followed with the keenest interest by the British press, and it is well within the bounds of probability that a very great stimulus will thus be given to British immigration to Canada

The ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of the Memorial Chamber in the Tower at Ottawa by the Prince of Wales in their public and their impressive dignity could not fail to impress the British people so, too, the unveiling of the statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier who so nobly carried on the work of the Fathers of Confederation and who was a commanding and popular figure in the eyes of Great Britain. Finally, the official inauguration of the Peace Bridge at Niagara attended by the heir to the British crown, the Premier of Great Britain, the Premier of Canada, the Vice President of the United States, the Governor of New York, the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, and other high officials, provided a friendly meeting ground at the whole English-speaking family and provided an object lesson for all the nations of the world.

The present year has witnessed the placing of a Canadian Minister at Washington and an American Minister at Ottawa; it has revealed the enormous possibilities of Canada with the world, including and decreased taxation at home; substantial reductions in the National debt; growth and development in all directions. Men of prominence in the life of Great Britain have visited Canada in increasing numbers, and at the present time the prosperous and newly hundred influential British newspapers are touring the Dominion from coast to coast, seeing for themselves the prevailing prosperity and picturing to the untold possibilities of the future.

It is no idle boast to say that the Twentieth Century is Canada's century. But for the interruption of the Great War and the ensuing depression, and reconstruction rendered necessary to make good war's destruction Canada would now be much further along the road to the goal not for it when the century opened. It may well be, however, that the very conditions created by the Old World as a result of the war will have such far reaching results in the movement of population that, in the long run, Canada will benefit from the standpoint of settlement and economic development more than make up for the lost war years.

Canada is in the war made Canada known to the world as nothing else could have done. Through war Canada found its own soul, realized its own capacity for achievement, developed its productive and financial strength, proved its ability to solve difficult problems and handle great undertakings. Now, in its Jubilee year, the Dominion is feeling the impulse of a reawakened National spirit, and is enjoying the fruits of an era of marked expansion in all lines of national endeavor.

The effect is everywhere noticeable throughout the Dominion and the Canadian people are fortunate in that the facts of Canada's growth, development and potential wealth are being investigated by the Old World as never before, and the story told to the millions by their own leaders following their personal visits to this country. Canada can realize greatness to the full extent that her citizens are prepared to strive for and by service and effort bring to fruition.

Motor Cemetery Increase

Daily Toll Of Accidents Has Become Appalling

Notwithstanding all the warnings and regulations intended to safeguard the safety of those who use the roads, the daily toll of accidents is appalling and the total casualty roll must be regarded as enormous. The majority of these accidents are preventable, and the worst feature about many of them is that it is so often not the victims who are to blame. The law abiding driver could be exempt more readily if he knew the habits of those with whom he exchanges, but frequently it is the innocent party who suffers most when the speed limit is abused.

Quota Law Is Needed

Immigration Figures Gave Great Excess To Canada Should Be Limited

Last May, 21,000 immigrants were admitted to Canada. Only 5,000 were from the United States. So nearly two-thirds of the new settlers were of non-American stock.

What is going to happen to Canada if our immigration Department is allowed to continue that policy? Within the memories of the United States before us, we seem to be bent on committing national suicide.

The greatest need of Canada is a quota law dealt with from the United Kingdom. Canada should be next paid to 50 cents a day.

"Pedal Propelled" Boat Refused To Function

Craft Is Useless and Trip Across Atlantic Has Been Abandoned

Condemning the, the idea of pedal propelling across the Atlantic is a failure, Edward Gentry and Jack Hayman, of Los Angeles, are abandoned the plan to make such a crossing and to be ready to go to their storage craft.

Gentry bought the boat called the "Gentry" in the harbor and the difficulty to find an engine to function. After repeated attempts he said "The craft is useless. It has a bad list and leaks badly. The pedal propelling idea is a failure."

"Gentry" is a 35 foot steel boat built like a submarine. She has a beam of three feet and draws nine feet of water. She was designed to obtain power from a small chamber at the stern of the vessel against a small windmill which drives a screw propeller in the rear. Gentry and Hayman were to make the crossing in four days

Postponed South Pole Trip

Commander Byrd Decides Details Cannot Be Arranged This Year

After giving careful consideration of the danger involved in a hasty preparation for his expedition to the South Pole, Commander Richard E. Byrd has decided to postpone until 1926. Preparations for the trip, originally scheduled for this year, would be hurried, he said, and he would not proceed the hope that he could make his start this fall.

It was explained that Commander Byrd expected to encounter severe storms and conditions which would make a mishap of any kind almost surely fatal.

RETAIN YOUR VIGOR

This Can Only be Done by Keeping the Blood Rich and Red

If you would regain your vigor and vitality, keep your blood and nerves in good condition. Anaemia, or thin blood, lowers the vitality, starves the nerves and ruinous a general run down condition. When the blood is thin the skin loses its color, the muscles droop and weight is lost. The victim of anaemia loses appetite suffers from indigestion, insomnia and sleeplessness, and is nervous and exhausted after slight exertion. If you have any of these symptoms do not delay but begin treatment now with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will be gratified with the prompt improvement in your condition. Among the thousands who have found new health through the use of this medicine is Mrs. Herbert Nagle, Lindsay, Ont., who says:—"I had not been feeling well for some time and was gradually growing weaker. I would take dizzy spells and often faint. I was subject to nervous headaches and found it hard to do my work. I took doctor's medicine for some time but it did me no good and I was still growing worse. In this condition I became the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a short time found myself were helping me. I continued the use of the pills for a while longer, and by the time I had taken them I considered me was gone and I was once more a well woman."

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist's or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box.

Death Of Noted Author

James Oliver Curwood Was Author Of Stories Of Canadian North

James Oliver Curwood, author of stories of the Canadian North, and noted conservationist, died at his home at Owosso, Mich., after an illness resulting from streptococcus infection which had confined him to his bed for one week.

Mr Curwood was credited with being one of the foremost authorities on matters pertaining to the Canadian North West, and every year there he began his career as an author. In 1906, he passed several months in that territory frequently travelling as far north as the Arctic coast. He is said to have been the only American ever employed by the Canadian Government as an explorer and descriptive writer.

Curwood's love for the outdoors motivated his life and his work as a novelist. He published 14 novels.

"The Courage of Captain Plum," his first novel, was written in 1908, after he had spent seven years in newspaper work.

His writing was in Curwood's blood On his father's side he was descended from Captain Marryatt, the novelist. His wife was born Feb 15, 1878, the son of James Moran and Abigail (Griffin) Curwood.

Held Breath Fourteen Minutes

Collegian Man At Middleton, Conn., Breaks World's Record

K. L. Taylor, Jr. of Uniondale Manor, a member of the senior class at Wesleyan, has broken the world's record for breath holding by retaining a time of 14 minutes 2 seconds

The pre test Mark was made at the University of California, in 1914, when 14 minutes 2m seconds was recorded

Taylor accomplished his feat by breathing excessively a short time before holding his breath to rid his blood stream of the carbon dioxide To prepare himself further he continued the process with three breaths of oxygen, the last of which he held for the record time

Prof N. L. Schmidt of Wesleyan says the authenticity of the test can not be questioned, as a graphic record of chest and diaphragm motion over the entire period gave conclusive evidence that at no time while the test was being made could air have been taken into the lungs

Prince Of Wales To Change His Name On Return To England

The Prince of Wales will change his residence from York house to Marlborough House almost immediately on his return from Canada. The work of reconditioning Marlborough House is now being accelerated so as to have the place ready for the Prince as soon as possible.

It is strongly rumored that his royal highness does not altogether relish changing from his compact quarters at York house, which is within a stone's throw of Marlborough house, but the latter has no study associations with King Edward VII. in his day he only occupied it for a few months and now that Queen Edward's gracious consort, Queen Alexandra, is no more, that this historic residence should be occupied by the present heir to the throne.

Minard's Liniment for Rheumatism

Would Banish All Wars By Interesting The Public In The Cause Of Internationalism

"Internationalism through education" was the theme of an eloquent address to the second biennial conference of the World Federation of Education Associations at the University of Toronto, by Raphael Herman, of Hollywood, Cal. Mr. Herman has devoted years of his life and a large portion of his fortune to the cause of internationalism.

After expressing his confidence as a layman before professionals, Mr. Herman congratulated the federation on having selected Canada as its meeting place. The 3,000 mile boundary of unprotected frontier between Canada and the United States spoke volumes for the moral conditions of neighboring nations continuing to live at peace with each other, he said

"May it be permitted to state at the outset that I am neither militarist nor pacifist," opened the speaker.

"I am an "internationalist," that is, one who loves his own country with devotion, but is convinced that patriotism does not lie only in a willing nose to die for one's country, but also to live for it. As such, I come to plead the cause of world peace through education, the only practical means of solving the problems which face humanity. I come to plead to you, educators of the coming generation, by whose hands this can be brought about—in whose hands lie the peace and the decision of the human race.

"The modern conception of internationalism is not based on the antiquated principle of individuality. It is founded on the principle of the creation and the preservation of harmony in the midst of difference, such as is achieved in a music, where one piece may contrast with, but fits into and contributes to the beauty of the whole intricate pattern. Nationalism and internationalism are complementary. Each is necessary to the other for the maximum development. Neither can amount to a passion and as such be accepted as a normal manifestation of human nature.

"Political thinkers, philosophers and economists have recognized the principle that for the solution of many of the vexed problems one nation depends on others. The complex of all nations includes an intense desire for the development of national individuality and all that it implies in the direction of cultural and political ideals. This is a fundamental, biological and psychological fact. It forces recognition of the economic—that unless nations in their dealings with each other are influenced by some sense of internationalism such as I have defined, they will find short of their own ideals and to the attainment of the highest form of existence possible.

"It is in urged that training for war is easy because it is according to nature, whereas training for peace is impossible because it is contrary to nature. We need point but to the United States and Canada. If the pacific spirit is possible here it should be possible elsewhere and with its appearance elsewhere the world's problems would, in a large measure, soon be solved.

"It was absolutely essential that the young should be taught history accurately and without bias." Mr. Herman declared.

"Youth should be impressed with the idea that truth must not be made subservient to a desire to enforce a personal viewpoint.

"History should tell the great achievements of peace over war. Peace and not war, peace with its great beneficial love is the great and only achievement to lead to the highest. It will lead to thoughts of friendliness and goodwill and things which make for the greatest progress and happiness of the world.

"History should not be taught to little children because things cannot be brought down to absolutely to order to make it understandable to them."

Mr. Herman supported his contentions by quotations from Premier Stanley Baldwin, Premier Ireland, Foreign Minister Stresemann, and other statesmen.

"We have many colleges and educational institutes on military and naval science," continued the speaker. "The girls in school are taught to worship war and its heroes. His Canons, Napoleon and Nelsons; and we are taught to admire deeds which we could condemn indignantly if done in the ordinary walk of life.

"But we do not have a single school for peace. Just think of it, not a single association that could be called the pioneer of a great youth empire in which we could discuss the mutual comprehension and civility obliging that becomes discovered and confirmed in the invalid atmosphere of the street. We must therefore begin with the spiritual and intellectual aspects of peace and have schools of peace like those of war, which will lead directly towards the goal which is not less than the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth.

An Absent Minded Shopper

Woman In London Store Wakes Through Plate Glass Window

A woman shopper in London absently walked through a plate glass window at Folkestone recently

The woman had made a purchase at a drapery shop and was preparing to leave. At the time the back of the plate glass windows was open, ready for dressing.

The customer unconsciously walked up the step leading into the window and then across the empty window floor right into the plate glass window, saving 16 by 12 feet.

The window was shattered but the customer escaped unharmed.

When asked for an explanation she said she must have been thinking of something else.

New Coal Product

Chapter That Co Says Agent of English Firm

H. A Bradstreet, of London who arrived in New York recently on the Berengaria, represents the Semplex Heat Corporation of England, which is the owner of a newly patented rendering process for coal that leaves a residue which, when pulverized, can be used, he said, in place and have motives.

"The whole secret of the reindeling of the products of coal is very simple," said Mr. Bradstreet. "The coal is put into a big rotary cooker in a closed tube, and while the fuel revolves the heat, inert gases make the coal yield up the volatile from which the products are obtained. The residue is left, and it, when pulverized, can be handled with safety.

"We gave a demonstration on July 12 for the British Institute of Naval Architects at Cambridge University, at which representatives of the United States Shipping Board were present as a result of that demonstration I am in New York.

"Oil is now regarded as a fuel, so large shipping companies in England and America have learned. They are now using a powdered coal that will flow as easily as oil, and will give the same steaming radius at less one-fifth the cost."

Poultry Congress Great Success

Exceeded the Most Sanguine Expectations Of Promoters

The Third World's Poultry Congress which was held in Ottawa from July 27 to August 4 was a greater success in every way than its most sanguine promoters expected. Delegates from countries most delegates and the Eye birds on exhibition totalled nearly 10,000. There were birds from the poultry farms of King George V of Britain, the Prince of Wales, and from the farms of other reigning monarchs in Europe. The United States and Canada had very large and attractive exhibits which attracted the most interest. Mr. Maclaren, who has been on a seven weeks' tour of the west and Alaska—her first trip east of the Great Lakes. Marvelling at the mountains. She was yet most enthusiastic over the prairies, and the size of prairie towns she found astonishing.

Report Issued

For five years an experiment has been under way at the Agassiz Experimental Farm to find out whether or not laying hens do better confined in pens or allowed their freedom in the open. The report of the number for last year giving the results of the experiment and also deals with live stock, field crops, gardening, and other experiments, is available at the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Barred Plymouth Rocks comprising one pen in each pen have been used from year to year. The results for the five years show that the advantages are not great either way. The birds confined to their pens gave an egg yield of 189 per bird, while those on range had an average yield of 194 eggs. The value of the eggs was practically the same being $4.73 per bird for the confined hen, and $4.84 for those on range There was but one cent per bird difference in the cost of feeding, which amounted in $2.77 for the confined birds, and $2.76 for the others. The grain fed consisted of equal parts by weight of wheat, oats, and ground barley, with a small amount by weight of 100 pounds each of bran, shorts, corn meal, and crushed oats, and 75 pounds of beef scrap and two per cent. of charcoal.

Engineers Should See West

"It's a pity more Eastern Canadian travellers do not travel through the West. They have no idea of the marvellous scenic beauty, or of western progress," in the opinion of Lady Heatherington, Montreal, who has been on a seven weeks' tour of the west and Alaska—her first trip east of the Great Lakes. Marvelling at the mountains, she was yet most enthusiastic over the prairies, and the size of prairie towns she found astonishing.

The study of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and Premier Baldwin of Great Britain, was taken at the dock of the Canadian Pacific Steamer Empress of Australia as she steamed towards the King's Wharf at Quebec where a thousand Dominion Volunteers awaited the distinguished visitors.

Quebec is the premier province of the Dominion and from the United Kingdom they welcome with thousands of people cheered incessantly from the gaily bedecked docks and shore line.

Increasing Attention Paid By Authorities To Protection Of The Health Of The Public

One of the most essential duties of a government is the proper protection of the health of its people. This thought became so forcible to its demand for action that a Department of Health was formed at Ottawa in 1919. Its primary duties being derived from the many departmental branches concerned with health matters

Since its inception the scope of the department has gradually increased, and now in Canada's Jubilee year, we find strong, concentrated effort working for the welfare of Canadians through the medium of the Health Department.

The Quarantine Service of a country stands for protection against the ins, infection and spread of contagious diseases. In this connection there are nineteen five hour quarantine or examined quarantine stations Every port of entry through its custom officer acts as a sub quarantine.

A medical inspection of immigrants is carried on at all ports of arrival and immigrants mentally and physically unfit are rejected from entry

Previous to the inauguration of a world-wide plan for the care of sailors who are ill or injured while on board ship, it was the practice of many vessels to land sailors at the first port where a hospital was found in charge on the community. To overcome this difficulty a tax is now collected on vessels, tonnage, and ships arriving at Maritime ports, and the Canadian Government assumes the care of all sick and injured seamen while in Canadian waters.

The suppression and control of the narcotic drug traffic has a world-wide significance, and Canada, through the department is well to the front in the work accomplished. Approximately 150 pounds of opium, 250 ounces of morphia and heroin and 127 ounces of cocaine were seized in Canada during the past year. No less than 300 persons were convicted and the number of conviction for various offences under the Act.

The problem of patent medicines has for many years been a difficult one in all countries where efforts were made to regulate the sale and control these products. Within the last few years the number of these preparations on the market has increased in Canada has been reduced from approximately 50,000 to 5,500 and all preparations for which exaggerated claims are made, or those of a toxic or harmful composition have been examined.

Especial work is being accomplished in the Child Welfare department. It is concentrating its effort on the problems of maternal mortality. Shortly, the importance of this question will be brought before the physicians and the Canadian public Publications dealing with this subject and with Child Welfare have been issued by the department.

The adulteration of food has been a public source of fraud for centuries. The food and drugs laboratory of the department examines thousands of samples of food products every year in its endeavor to give the consumer exact weight or measure, and a base fide product, as pictured on the label.

Owing to the fact that the traffic on the Great Lakes and other inland waters of Canada is increased with the population, the waters of the lakes became corrupt sewage pollution and became a menace to health.

Conditions are particularly true in the harbours and at the shore line All vessels are now inspected and must carry pure water for the use of the passengers and crew.

Report is Denied

Officials of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine denied the report that the C.G.M. would establish a regular steamship service between Vancouver and the West Coast of Mexico and South America. It was understood at the time that the plans were under way but no such a service, but it will not be operated by the merchant marine.

New Icebergs Are Destroyed

Method Of Using Thermite is Found Highly Successful

An iceberg of almost indescribable beauty, 500 feet long, with a hollow in the centre 50 feet in depth, having sides, of porcelain white and containing an emerald green lake 4 feet deep, was encountered by a recent hydrographic party.

Armed with ropes, ice picks, axes, drills and canisters containing thermite, they were trying a highly successful method of destroying icebergs that endanger the trade routes of the North Atlantic.

On landing, the party drill holes into the ice and insert the chemical charge, which is fired by fuses. Thermite develops tremendous heat at a great rate, reaching as high as 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. In a few hours the largest iceberg cracks and disintegrates with a noise resembling an earthquake.

Tribute To Mr. Baldwin

As a Patriot in the Best Sense Of the Word

A very prominent man, not of Mr. Baldwin's political faith, remarked last year that the Prime Ministry of Great Britain never stood out so great a figure as in the closing days of the General Strike, and that his greatness of character notably revealed itself by his magnanimous appeal when the fight was won. His words regarding the working men, of his country in his recent address to the Ottawa Canadian Club again underlined the big hearted, sane, and generous man, patriot in the best sense of that hard worked word.

A shrewd and successful man of business nobody knows better than Mr. Baldwin the fallacies lying behind the doctrines preached by the militant minority of the Labor party. He has on previous occasions pointed out the uncommon character of the practice of constricting output and placing the unemployed and easy going workman in a parity with the skilled and active. The deserved and high tribute he paid to British workers as a whole the other morning of their diligence, and his faith in their integrity of purpose made us under stand more than ever, in the perplexities and bitter strife which accompany persistently changed conditions in the industrial life, England almost alone amongst European nations, has not trodden, and is unlikely to tread, the bloody road of revolution.—Ottawa Journal.

Steam Shovel Automatic Passage Practicable

Competent Guess Weather Bureau and Scientists Phrase Will Overcome Difficulties

It is not distance but storms that make the Atlantic passage formidable. It will remain so as long as steamships, heavier or lighter than air, are built specially for such a service, and a consequent necessity has become established. Keeping still in the air will counter largely to avoiding storms. Great Britain is completing a dirigible that will be ready for testing in 1929. No bridge of consequence will be encountered. The proximity to land means ports and refuges nearer proper drainage to the rundled."

The reason why a chicken crosses the street has been discovered. It is to get away from a child who makes a driver try to beat the train to the crossing.

The Line To Fort Churchill

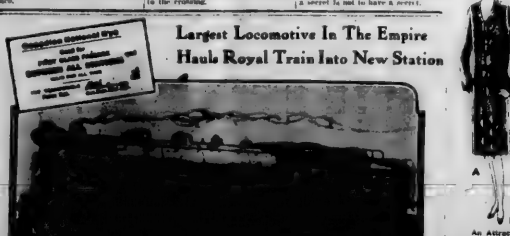
No Engineering Difficulties Will Be Encountered In Laying Out Now Road Bed

It is reported that the railway to Fort Churchill will be completed to the Saskatchewan border next year. Meanwhile, chief engineer of the construction department of the Canadian National Railways, who has been charged by the Dominion Government with the rehabilitation and further extension of the Hudson Bay railway.

Mr. Gaskell said: "At Churchill [illegible] will be no difficulty in establishing a harbor which will afford reasonable capacity required at a reasonably small cost, the land being practically free of expenditure which, giving a wide choice as to site. The 150 miles of railroad construction to complete the line is generally very favorable for the present 11 ft. railway. Soundings indicate that moving depth and conditions of fogs are the same as previously experienced."

The summer of 1927 will be employed clearing and grading the route ready for rushing bridging and ballasting in 1929. No bridges of consequence will be encountered. The proximity to land means ports and refuges nearer proper drainage to the roadbed."

The reason why a chicken crosses the street has been discovered. It is to get away from a child who makes a driver try to beat the train to the crossing.



The first locomotive to haul a train into the new Union Station at Toronto, on the occasion of the visit of this station by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, on Saturday, August 6th, was one of the 3,000 Northern Type locomotives recently placed in service by the Canadian National Railways for handling heavy fast passenger and mixed traffic. These locomotive, which are the largest in the British Empire, and of which 40 have been ordered for use on Canadian lines, are distinctively a product of Canada. With loaded, their new oil weight is 335 tons; length 76 feet and they are capable of developing more than 3000 horse power. It was this "Iron of the Steel Rail" which hauled the royal train from Kingston to Toronto.

On this occasion also, the first railway ticket issued from the ticket booths of the new station was one entitling His Royal Highness to passage "Between All Stations" on the Canadian National System, immediately after declaring the new station open, the Prince of Wales proceeded to the Canadian National Railways ticket wicket where he was issued Ticket No. 1" of the issue of the new station. Ticket number two, three and four, were issued to Prince George, Prince Edward and Mrs. Baldwin, respectively.

Of the 41 Northern Type locomotives, such as used to haul the Royal train for this occasion, twenty are being built at Kingston and the remainder at Montreal. These are distinctively a product of the Canadian National Railways and other famous passenger trains of the National System, and on the former train they will transverse the Dominion from Ocean to Ocean. $11 million will be spent on Canadian National Railways improvements and may be used either in fast passenger or fast freight service.

Lesson 2 Samuel 11:1 to 12:2

Devotional Reading Psalm 51:1-14

Explanations and Comments

Nathan's Parable (12:1-4)

Several months have passed since David ordered the murder of Uriah and took to himself the latter's wife. Now the prophet Nathan has come and in a graphic way, by means of a parable he brings home to David the enormity of his sin.

There were two men in one city, one of them rich, having many, very many flocks and herds, the other little or none. Nathan tells one day of after another's death that lands on to assume the listener's sympathy for the poor man, and allowed the rich man's deed He had benefited and benefited it, it grew up together with him and with his children. It did not of his own accord, and denied his own cup, and lay in his bosom and was unto him as a daughter. There came a traveler to the rich man The traveller was a bishop Uriah, explained to from the [illegible] the evil implications of his conduct, and he was angry with this [illegible] heart." For this wayfaring man's hand for the rich man to slay his own lamb, spoiling his own [illegible] and David's anger was kindled against the rich man and he said unto Nathan, As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this thing shall surely die.

A Real Menace

Motorists Who Demand Right To Speed Have Spoiled Driving For Pleasure

Today there is a great demand for high powered cars and we are in favor of the non-essential thing demanded by commercial [illegible] Department of Highways is confined this early in the year, and an answer to public demand on the part of motorists raised the speed limit on country roads from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour. Immediately are not satisfied with the new limit. They are purchasing cars capable of much greater speed, and are demanding the right to drive at the speed stated up in their motors.

This is an indication of the press ure to the speed age and there are those who look for an increase legal speed limit in the years to come Each year cars are travelling faster on the highways, and with this increased speed the dangers and perils of motor traffic are becoming increasingly greater.

There are some motorists who are gradually giving up the pleasures of a country drive and who are even refusing to drive their cars in the cities as a result of this tendency on the part of the general public to race and loaf. Lindsay News.

Harvest Help Arriving

Large Quota From Eastern Canada and British Columbia

Winnipeg Man.—The great rush of harvesters will soon be nearing over the prairie. Strong rates have been announced for the handling of the thousands who will come from Eastern Canada according to officials of the Canadian National Railways and these will be done in getting the help to the points where they are needed. British Columbia which will also contribute many thousands to the harvest fields, is not expected to be in the rush for help until after the Prairie Provinces and others will select their help on their fields.

Farmers Canada will need [illegible] 000 help to the harvest this year it is estimated. Manitoba needs 7,000, Saskatchewan 25,000 and Alberta 15,000 locally. Statistics on the acreage to be harvested in each province which will require help are not available but it is estimated that the acreage under cultivation will be greater than ever before. Ontario and Quebec will also require help.

Canadians in U.S. Should Receive Advantages Offered To British Emigrants

Moncton, N.B.—The movement which is afoot to bring British emigrants to Canada could not be moved to a greater extent by the same advantages which it is proposed to give those who come from the United States. Such was the view expressed by Mr. Murray in the course of an address in which he said that there are millions of Canadians now living in the United States and who are desirous of returning to their country of origin, and who are of the outstanding statements made by the Hon. P. J. Veniot in a public gathering which opened the first day's proceedings of the ninth French Canadian congress held in this city.

U. S. SALUTES CANADA

It would have been a misfortune had Canada become American. Her people need the Saturday Evening Post and ride in Ford cars, but they prefer Ministerial government, they have an Old World respect for law and order, they like the idea of hysteria to which we yield, and they embark calmly on enterprises in state ownership which would frighten us. Canada must solve many of the problems which we face. The problem of relationship with Europe and the community of nations, of integrating diverse races and faiths without undue friction, of reconciling an industrial east and an agricultural west, of new political experiments—upon these she can do well or has done well to take lessons. We salute Canada for her liberal and patriotic spirit in the last 50 years. We salute her still more for her promise of an individual civilization, a rule as distinctive as the atmosphere of her deep pine woods and the inaccessible peaks of her Western Rockies.—New York World.

WHY KEEP UP THIS TALK?

There are three things of which Canadian citizens should be proudest by either fine or unconscious merit. One of them is to make a reference to "the three thousand mile border without a soldier or a cannon." The second is that terrible bore of all proportions of our "boundless natural resources." And the third—rapidly becoming the worst (Rt. Hon. Meighen, our minister at Washington, is becoming "a daily offender) is that persistent protestation about our "loyalty to the Empire and the Throne."

Why on earth should it be necessary to keep eternally protesting about our loyalty? Englishmen don't do it. They sensibly regard their loyalty as something to be taken for granted, as it should be taken for granted. But let a Canadian get on his feet, whether he be an elderman or a prime minister, and immediately he begins to protest that he isn't a Guy Fawkes. —Ottawa Journal.

Smoothing the Path of Princes

When Princess of the Blood Royal visit their Dominions Overseas they have to go through a great number of ceremonies, receptions and functions which in the aggregate furnish a considerable amount of hard work which makes their visits anything but a vacation time. When, further, they are accompanied by the Prince Minister of the Old Country, although the latter may relieve them somewhat in the matter of speeches, the load becomes all the more serious by reason of its greater significance. Accordingly, there is all the more cause to make their few private hours as comfortable as possible and this has been largely looked after in the Canadian Pacific Royal Train that is conveying the distinguished guests across the Dominion. Grouped on the observation end of the private-car Mount Stephen that has been assigned to the use of the Royal guests are the personnel of the attendants and others whose duty it will be to make the princes and the prince forget their hard work in the lap of luxury. They are all picked men who have been out at one time or another with Lord Beatty, Admiral Jellicoe or other celebrities and although it was a very difficult operation when required, they can be turned to with a get-there-Eli. The above photograph shows the Canadian Pacific Royal Train that is conveying the Prince of Wales on his previous visit to Canada and as yet known to His Royal Highness. "Oh no, dear Mrs. St. John I never tell how—how—I mean I never heard on her hand took really that, his health, much trouble, know kind person makes. Now you see people!"

Greatly comforted and distressed Hulme went swiftly on his way. The address had been in the north end of the city, where, having the vaguest knowledge of a narrow and street number beyond hand, he applied their refined notes all over the street plan and dust, wounds and scratches were as thick as anything. Being shuddered with the thought that all the sufferers were dead and didn't care. He would her lovely lady's beautiful chairs and window hangings were come to this."

The number Helmi sought was on a building that had been painted recently. The name was on the door in gold and red foreign looking letters, with many sharp points.

Inside people were eating at many low tables covered with white oil cloth and all the waiters were Chinese. To one of them she went and asked in such she was too distressed to be frightened.

"I inquire," he said, "outside."

An outside door opened on a flight of dust gray, greasy stairs, which creaked and groaned as Helmi ascended them. She found herself in a dark passage at the top of the stairs, where dimmed curtains of dingy brown obscured the rooms beyond. Fear held her then, and for a moment she stood irresolute.

"Alan," she called, "Oh, Alan!"

A face like a yellow pumpkin peered through the curtains at her.

"Whatchawan?" it breathed.

Helmi held out the five dollar bill. "For a lady," she said, "she in very sick."

Slats nodded. She pulled a curtain back, with a rattling of rings, and said, "Wait here!"

Helmi entered a room whose air sickened her, it was so strangely cold and dead, a sort of embalmed air which would never yield to sun rays or refreshing breezes. Her heart sank with a sickening fear as she looked at her surroundings. Was it possible that she had been tricked into coming to this place? Was it a trap? Had she been lured here to be murdered? Her knees shook, shivering so that she could hardly stand, and she sank down on the edge of a chair, her head in her hands, and prayed.

Then she looked around her. The room was a kind of parlor, with a few chairs and a table in the middle of the floor, and a sofa against the wall. Over the sofa hung a picture in a very tawdry gilt frame, and Helmi, looking at it, saw that it was a portrait of herself, taken from a photograph that had been given to Mrs. St. John when she was a little girl. Helmi was about to scream with fear, but the dropped expression of the face from which her lovable aspect Edward was absolutely sometimes she told Mrs. Moore when he went out.

He went across the road and rang the bell. "Yes, Mr. St. John is at home, but she can't see anyone, she is very much engaged," the Finnish girl she maid-of-all-work said.

"What do you think?" he asked Mrs. Moore when he had gone back to the office. "I thought she looked happy and well and was happy! she couldn't be a bad girl, she!"

He could still see the pitiful face that was a reincarnation between happiness and goodness. Her again was a sad story of Helmi's sweet and sad.

Tell Mrs. St. John I called," he gave her his card.

Reverend Edward Ivey
Young Methodist Church

"I hope you'll get one of the old ones," said the maid anxiously.

"I hope so too. I believe she is an innocent girl."

Mr. Terry sought the Public Court but found that he could not see the magistrate, so she could see her after the case was heard. From the bottom he found out that Helmi was the only person arrested in the raid, and the most serious aspect of the case now was that she had resisted and struck Inspector Watt down the stairs.

The minister went to the magistrate's office to see if he could not obtain permission to see Helmi. After all, he was her minister.

Magistrate Wardsor, a gray haired, florid faced old man, sat behind an oak desk and glared at his visitor from under heavy eyebrows. The sun blind had been in his eyes.

"Well, Sir," said His Worship testily. "What can I do for you?" He down while you wait."

Mr. Terry took the round-backed, soft worn chair, vaguely conscious of the many natives suspicionals who had interviewed the fiery little magistrate official. "I am interested in the case of this young Finnish girl who is here under arrest," he said. "She attended my church."

The magistrate's face grew redder, his eyebrows bristled. "She's a young wildcat, that girl," he said. "One of our inspectors it laid up with a broken arm. I am afraid your ministerial efforts were not very successful in her case, Parson!"

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Medford, Massachusetts.—"I had Several troubles, and was confined to my bed eight months. I was so weak I could not sit up and I was very nervous. I had pains in my back and sides. I was under the care of a doctor but he did not do me any good. Then I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of order or nervous and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound and I find it restores me to health. I have recommended it to my neighbors. I tell the only two kinds of medicine I use. I receive calls from all over town."—MRS. WALLACE BROWNE, Box 426, Medford, Massachusetts.

World's Smallest Book

Twenty Nine Minute Masterpieces Exhibited At London Library

What is probably the world's smallest book was to be seen in London recently. It contains over forty blank pages bound between volumes of leather covers. Four of its size would not cover a penny, yet every detail is perfect and clearly visible without the aid of a lens. This miracle of the bookbinder's art was one of twenty-nine such marvels exhibited at the London Library, the entire collection could have been contained in an ordinary cigar box.

Among these minute masterpieces was a copy of "Gulliver" measuring half inch by a quarter inch, which is claimed to be the smallest Italian book set from movable type. Many wonderful still was a handwritten copy of the Koran found some time ago in Bagdad. Written in Indian ink on tinted paper, this book is outstanding in shape with one of its eight sides forming the back where the leaves are joined. This curious manuscript is perfectly legible despite the fact that a half-crown would cover it.

A Bible measuring one and a half inches square, and a volume of Dante which holds smaller ground ghastly in this Lilliputian library. A New Testament about one-fifth of a square inch in area that was kept like some precious jewel. In a Lilliputian pack case, was so clearly printed that one could read the title and headings without difficulty. Another book record had leather covers less than one inch square was fitted with a tiny magnifying glass through which one could admire the delicate work of the type and illustrations. Th Ehe

Patriotic Buttons To Commemorate Confederation Ordered From United States

A Sunday School of the United Church was very loyal to Canada.

It had a celebration in honor of the 58th Anniversary of Confederation, and presented a patriotic button to each scholar. The button was on thematic of the Anniversary, and in which it named the giver—that is the United Church

But—There was a microscopic letter—and it read, "Made in U.S.A."

Are those not button manufacturers in Canada?

Could not these buttons have been "Made in Canada?"

Can we legalize a button made for "Confederation Day" across the line burning in small type—the legend "Made in Canada?"

In relieving to the visit of the Princess and Premier Baldwin to Canada, the New York Times said editorially: "America joins cordially in welcoming these Royal and distinguished people as they touch her borders. A Man of Many Professional Attainments

The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the late Ray V. Pierce, M.D. At first he practised medicine in Western Pennsylvania and his unusual ability and success were most recognized there, then he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary where his famous home remedies have ever since been made.

Each succeeding year the sale of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been greatly increased. Evidently people appreciate the fact that it increases the appetite, stimulates the digestive organs to enrich the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young. It contains no harmful ingredient.

Ask your nearest druggist for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for a trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Can.

MISTAKES MOTHERS MAKE IN CARE OF LITTLE ONES

Many mothers give their children soiled foods at too early an age and are very proudly that their babies "eat everything that grown-up people do." Such a course is almost certain to bring on indigestion and lay the foundation of much ill-health for the little one.

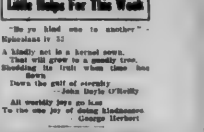
Other mothers administer harsh, unsoothing purgatives which in reality irritable and injure the delicate stomach and bowels and at the same time cause the children to dread all medicine.

Absolutely no meat should be given to a child until it reaches the age of 15 months, and then only if approved by the doctor. For medicine, all strong, disagreeable pills and powders should be abandoned and Baby's Own Tablets given instead.

Baby's Own Tablets are regularly made for little ones. They are pleasant to take and can be given with absolute safety to even the new-born babe. They quickly banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make the rot ting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A drug called santonin, which has the strange effect of making a person see yellow, has been discovered by a Scottish scientist.

Mothers Should Use



When The Babies Are Cutting Teeth

During the baby's teething time, in the hot days, see that the bowels are kept open and regular. Use Baby's Own Tablets occasionally and other good medicines should be given the young baby. Keep baby cool, clothes light in the month, and feed very often the nourishment it is taking.

This is the time when the mother should use "Dr. Fowler's," and, properly given, save baby's life.

Be sure to insist on the genuine "Dr. Fowler's" and put up only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MERCHANTS AND OTHERS PETITION COUNCIL RE EARLY CLOSING BY-LAW

A petition has been circulated and signed by a large number of business men of the town and farmers living in the vicinity praying the Town council not to pass the by-law which was published in the Record in three recent editions. They claim it is detrimental to the business interests of the town and surrounding district and also creates an inconvenience to the residents of the town and country. It is also stated on the petition that the by-law is not sufficiently signed, is not representative of the business interests of the town, and further that the by-law is not sufficient in that it discriminates against certain business interests in the town in a way which is bound to be prejudicial and causes injury to those interested.

The petition proceeds to pray that council will refrain from passing any such by-law that will take effect during the period in any year from the first day of March until the completion of harvest, as during that period it is impossible for the residents of the country surrounding the town to get to do business prior to six o'clock and would prove a great hardship to them besides proving injurious to the merchants of the town who depend upon the support received from the surrounding country.

MIGRATORY BIRDS CONVENTION ACT

A summary of the Migratory Birds Convention Act is given below. This is the law which is based upon the Treaty with the United States. Any enquiries concerning this law may be addressed to the Commissioner of the Canadian National Parks, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Open Seasons—Both Dates Inclusive
Saskatchewan — Ducks, geese and coots, September 15 to December 31. Wilson's or Jack-snipe, September 16 to December 31. . .

Alberta — Ducks, geese and coots, September 15 to December 15. Wilson's or Jack-snipe, September 16 to December 14.

Closed Seasons

There is a closed season in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta on band-tailed pigeons, swans, wood duck, eider ducks, curlew, willet, godwits, upland plover, black-bellied and golden plover, great and lesser yellow-legs, avocets, dowitchers, knots, oyster-catchers, phalaropes, stilts, surfbirds, turnstones, and all the above birds not provided with an open season in above schedule.

There is a closed season throughout the year on the following non-game birds: Auks, auklets, bitterns, fulmars, gannets, grebes, guillemots, gulls, herons, jaegers, loons, murres, petrels, pollen, shearwaters and terns; and there is a closed season throughout the year on the following insectivorous birds: Bobolinks, cuckoos, chickadee, cuckoos, flickers, flycatchers, grosbeaks, hummingbirds, kingbirds, martins, meadowlarks, nuthatches, orioles, robins, shrikes, swallows, swifts, tanagers, titmice, thrushes, vireos, warblers, waxwings, whippoorwills, woodpeckers and wrens, and all other perching birds which feed entirely or chiefly on insects.

No person shall kill, hunt, capture, injure, take or molest migratory game birds during the closed season. Sale of these birds is forbidden.

The killing, capturing, taking, injuring or molesting of migratory insectivorous and migratory non-game birds is prohibited. The possession of legally taken migratory game birds is allowed in Alberta until March 31, following the open season, and in Saskatchewan until the last day of February following the open season.

Daily Bag Limits

Saskatchewan—Ducks and Geese—50 of all kinds in one day, but not exceeding 10 geese, and 200 of all kinds in a season but not in excess of 20 geese; coots, 25; Wilson's snipe, 25.

Alberta—Ducks—50 in one day and not more than 200 of all kinds in a season; geese, 15; coots, 25; Wilson's snipe, 25.

Guns and Appliances

The use of automatic (auto loading), swivel or machine guns, or battery, or any gun larger than number 10 gauge is prohibited, and the use of any aeroplane, power boat, sail boat or night light, and shooting from any horse-drawn or motor vehicle is forbidden.

The shooting of migratory game birds earlier than one hour before sunrise or later than one hour after sunset is prohibited.

Penalty

Every person who violates any provision of this Act or any regulation made thereunder is guilty of an offence, and liable upon summary conviction to a fine of not more than three hundred dollars and not less than ten dollars, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to both fine and imprisonment.

SHOWER FOR POPULAR BRIDE

A shower in honor of Miss Isabel Bullock, who will on Thursday become the bride of Mr. James G. Southern, was held at the home of Mrs. Alex. B. Smith on Monday afternoon. There were nineteen guests present and much admiration was expressed for the beautiful decorations, the rooms being a mass of roses and sweet peas. Little Marjorie Smith, for all the world like a fairy, had the pleasure of pushing a tea wagon loaded with presents to the centre of the assembled guests. Sitting pretty on top of the presents was a doll dressed as a bride.

MRS. SPALLIN'S GRAND-DAUGHTER KILLED IN ACCIDENT AT VERNON

Much sympathy is being felt for Mrs. Spallin and her family on account of the sad fatality which overtook near Vernon, B.C., when her little grandaughter, Ivy Brinkman, aged ten years, was thrown from a trunk, crushing her skull. Particulars of the accident are given below, being extracted from the Vernon News.

That Ivy Brinkman came to an accidental death and that the jury is of the opinion that the accident was due to carelessness is not properly fastening the rope to the body of the trunk, was the verdict of the coroner's jury, which on Saturday afternoon listened to the evidence of all those who had any knowledge of the accident. The jury added a rider asking that the attention of the Attorney General be directed to the particulars of the accident with a view to introducing legislation which will make it compulsory to have properly placed and fastened ropes on any trunk on which people ride.

Annual Invasion Of the West

The prairie provinces of Western Canada are now rejoicing in the Invasion in which they are subjected once a year. Not many countries find it a matter for congratulation to be invaded by an army of tens of thousands of hungry men who, after a few months, depart taking substantial sums of money with them. But the West rejoices, extends a warm welcome, and holds out the hand of friendship to those men because it is a peaceable army of conscientious laborers without whose help the West would suffer immediate loss.

The coming of this army, of harvesters is always an important event. It examples the last stage of work in connection with the gathering of the crops which the Western farmer has expended so much labor and has followed with alternate hopes and fears through all the vicissitudes of plowing, harrowing, seeding back or over abundance of rain, hail, winds, and numerous plant pests. This army has come to assist him in finally reaping the reward of his labor and hastey of anxiety. The hum of the binder the transformation of the fields of rippling grain into stand upright pillars prairie, and the rattle and roar of the threshing outfits is music in the farmer's ears, and a perfume upon which he is never tired of breathing.

The advance guard of the harvesters army rains from British Columbia, with a sprinkling from the British Isles; then the host trains bringing their quota from the far distant Maritimes; finally the main army from Ontario and Quebec. Many of these men are veterans who served in previous years campaigns against the standing grain, but, unaccountably, the larger number are young recruits, who will see and experience life in the prairie West for the first time. Thousands of them see exactly the type the Western farmer wants as permanent settlers. Indeed, all over the West success is found among the most successful farmers men who first came as harvester hands, men who with their families are now making a great contribution to the growth, development and prosperity of the position of the Dominion.

In welcoming this year's harvester army and putting it to work, the resident farmers of Western Canada should do what lies in their power to make living conditions as comfortable for the men as possible. Many men do not mind rough it a bit, crude and rough provided they are clean. Long hours, and hard work in the fields, call, not only for the warm paid, but good food and lots of it and a comfortable bed on which to lie at night. The provision of such things seems contested workers, fit as fiddles, who are willing and capable of rendering maximum results during working hours.

The people of the West should strive, not to coddle the members of the harvester army, but to make converts of them to the glories of the West, the advantages and opportunities it has to offer. The West wants as many as possible to remain as permanent settlers, but it is equally important to the future of this country that those who return home do so with nothing but words of praise for the country and of the fair treatment and hospitality received them.

And the harvesters themselves should not be hasty in jumping to conclusions when conditions do not wholly appeal to them They must realize that this is a period of stress, when straining efforts to the breaking point is necessary, and where, in many cases, it is financially and economically impossible to make as complete preparation in many respects as might be desired. The harvesters should study the country, try to enter into its spirit and methods, and closely investigate its possibilities, with a view to deciding whether it would be to their advantage to throw in their lot with those who have done the pioneer work.

There is still room and opportunity for pioneers, —lots of them. Howard are still in store for the man, term of small means, who has an infinite amount energy and is prepared to throw his whole vigor into the task of creating a new and better home for himself. To all such the West beckons and says "Welcome." Return to your homes, if you must, but don't forget the West, and come back again as soon as you can.

Empire Party Will Visit All Provinces

Members Of Parliamentary Association Tour Dominion Next Year

Members of the Empire Parliamentary Association next year will make their first official visit to Canada, AS the nine provinces will be visited during the five or six weeks of their stay in the Dominion in September and October, 1925. The Canadian branch in extending the invitation expressed a desire to afford an opportunity for the delegates to investigate the resources and institutions of the Dominion; to promote mutual personal acquaintance and friendship between the members of the various parliaments, and to interchange views on informal conferences.

New Steel Being Tested

Dokes Extreme Heat and Acids But Experts At Copenhagen

A demonstration of some successful experiments made with a new steel that, it is asserted, will withstand extreme heat and the fraction of time and cause injuries to the metal, I made by a Copenhagen newspaper The new product is without a name. Ten tons of it have been produced at the Varde Works, for comprehensive testing purposes.

The metal has been exposed to high temperatures in Copenhagen furnaces which heat to a temperature of 850 degrees, in which the metal has been allowed to remain for five or six periods of two hours each, without showing any impression of facts. It is said that a piece of the best steel previously produced was completely destroyed in the first heating, at a temperature that had no effect on the new metal.

In the tests at the Varde the works pieces of ordinary steel and of the new, of the same size, were put in a "crucible" for six weeks at a temperature of from 1,000 to 1,100 degrees. At the end of the experiment the ordinary steel had practically disappeared, while the new alloy showed no signs of having been affected by the heat. Considerable interest has been aroused by the results obtained.

Restored To Health Through the Use Of Dr Williams' Pink Pills

"It is a pleasure," says Mrs Rene Dandeneau, of Tignish, P.E.I. "to tell you of the new health and strength I have got through the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills life was a burden to me. I was so badly run down that I did not know what to do. My blood seemed to have turned to water. I was very pale, constantly tired, and was losing flesh. It was a trial to attend housework. Added to this I had a bad cough and my husband and friends thought I was going into consumption The medical treatment I was taking did not appear to do me any good, and I had almost given up hope when a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got six boxes, and found the next benefit from them that I got six more boxes. Before these were all taken I was a new woman, color and health to good health. I gained in weight, the cough left me, my appetite returned and I once more had a good color Better still, I was able to do my housework without failure Needless to say I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all sick friends, and I hope this will be the means of putting the road to good health to some other sufferer "

High Grade Twines and Cordage Now Manufactured From Hemp Grown In Western Canada

A new and significant step, alike in Western Canadian agriculture and in the industrial manufacturing of that territory, was taken in May when at Portage in Prairie, Manitoba, a new lary of twines and cordage manufactured from hemp grown in Western Canada was turned out and shipped to a number of provincial points The new industry, employing only thirty hands and capitalized at $300,000 locally subscribed, may appear as a small one, but the event is full of interest and moment as inaugurating an activity with such possibilities to the agricultural and manufacturing industries of Western Canada and one of which there is sure need. The plant at Portage in Prairie is of improved and modern type, and on this foundation the new industry can and likely, be expected to proceed apace

The actual manufacture of medium and heavy wrapping twine in Western Canada marks the culmination of years of experimentation and other effort It has been known for several years that Western Canadian soil in many sections was suited to the growing of hemp. Many experiments had been made at the Manitoba Agricultural College and Professor Hurd one of that institution gives corroborative authority to the statement that the species could produce all the hemp likely to be required for local and immediate markets. Experiments conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway in Southern Alberta likewise established the suitability of lands in the irrigated sections to this crop. These were successfully retted and various twines actually manufactured at Western plants —the way in bale-tying machines—but it was somehow impossible to get a twine of hemp completely paved. In fact Alongsdor the farmers attitude and lack of interest in the Prairie Provinces should not have a hemp growing industry and engage in the manufacture of twines and cordage for the country to the extent of many millions of dollars annually.

After being satisfied that ample supplies of material could be produced within reasonable distance of the point of manufacture at Portage la Prairie the Manitoba Co-operative Company imported hemp seed of the best quality which it advanced to farmers with a guaranteed price per ton of straw delivered at the factory. A field was in the past owners of the company and the provincial government, which has throughout exhibited a keen interest, chose the land and inspected it for proper cultivation. During 1923 approximately 700 acres of land in Manitoba were sown to hemp, most of this about the Portage plains, in close proximity to the factory, with smaller areas at Morris, Clandeboye, Roland, Elm Creek, Carberry, Neepawa, Langruth, Swan Lake, and in the Winnipeg district. This year it has been planned to seed 1,000 acres

Unfavorable seasons attained would indicate that hemp will grow in practically any part of Manitoba. Crops in the Portage plains ran from six to ten feet in height, despite an unfavorable season. The average yield was 1½ to 2 tons to the acre, and harvesting and rotting were successfully carried out. Hemp yields, according to report, returned Manitoba farmers an average of about $50 per acre Hemp growing and manufacture have been successfully inaugurated in Western Canada, and judging by all the preparations made can be expected to make progress from now on.

The rough and polished twine is of good appearance and it was stated that, like flax also, the breaking strain of hemp grown product is much the market at competitive prices, as the market at competitive prices an actual test proving this, and those who have used it claim it is longer, stronger, cheaper and easier to handle than other twines of similar size. Two, three and four ply twines polished and stretched and rough, heavy, unpolished twines are being manufactured.

The twine is being placed on the market and is having success in Winnipeg. Selling at the same price as other twines and the type of product, no difficulty is experienced in disposing of all their present output of some 200 per day, and Western Canada can easily take care of the output of present plant

The path has for some time been cleared for engagement in hemp manufacture in Western Canada and one concrete representation and demand the situation has worked upon private enterprise and capital With the current launching of the industrial era, a time there is no reason why the industry should not have spread rapidly and free Canada to a larger extent on her dependence upon foreign sources for those very necessary commodities Already, it is understood, preparations are under way for an extension in the Provinces of Manitoba

Dates For Digging Potatoes

Early Cropping Appears To Furnish Best Productive Seed

An interesting experiment with the object of determining if the stage of maturity of potatoes when dug has an influence on the yielding ability of the seed has been made on the Fredericton, New Brunswick, Experimental Station three Mountain potatoes planted on May 16, 1923, were dug on August 17, and on September 20 in 1924 the seed dug early produced all the rain of the three periods of marketable potatoes per acre and that dug late 270 bushels per acre In a similar test conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway in Southern Alberta likewise established the suitability of lands in the irrigated sections to this crop Tubers were successfully retted and various twines actually manufactured at Western plants —the way in bale-tying machines—but it was somehow impossible to get a twine of hemp completely paved. In fact Alongsdor the farmers attitude and lack of interest in the Prairie Provinces should not have a hemp growing industry and engage in the manufacture of twines and cordage for the country to the extent of many millions of dollars annually.

Solved Difficult Problem

Prince Edward County Farmer Saved Fine Strong Of Chicks

A Prince Edward county farmer placed a broody hen on a setting of 15 eggs but unfortunately the hen died before the chickens were due to hatch Whether the chickens had already been counted or not is not known, but in any event, the problem of the disposal of the hen was solved by having two holes, one on each side of the nest, through the bottom of the box in which the hen died Then a rooster was placed on the eggs with his legs through these two holes, and allowed apparently to go about his business undisturbed by the fact that while the rooster was being completed a task greatly to his liking, there was a hen and brood of the household, and was kept sitting on the eggs until he became the proud and only parent of a fine brood, which, following which they were placed under the care of a foster mother.

Spirit Of Co-Operation

The Kind That Makes the World a Better Place in Which To Live

The spirit of co-operation which exists between the business men of Craik, Sask., and the farmers of the surrounding district as demonstrated in a "gravelling bee" held recently is highly commendable and should prove a source of inspiration to the people of Saskatchewan and Western Canada generally.

The gravelling bee to an annual event in Craik Farmers bring loads teams and their time to haul gravel to surface the roads of the town, and the business men, including clergymen, lawyers and merchants, peel off their coats and aid in the work At the end of a couple of days the town is threaded by well gravelled streets which keep them in good condition for the next twelve months

We do not know what the townsfolk do to reciprocate the assistance rendered them by the residents of the rural district, but it is a safe bet that any time the farmers are up against a shortage of help in the harvest fields, or at any other time, the townsfolk of Craik can be relied upon to rush in their aid!

It is this kind of spirit that makes the world a better place to live in and that brings material results as well that would otherwise be unobtainable Farmer Sun

Urges Farmers To Advertise

Should Co-Operate In Marketing Efforts Says Connecticut Man

Co-operative advertising by farmers was urged by William R. Rogers, advertising director of the Hotel Bond, of Hartford Conn., addressing a Farmers' Week meeting at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn.

An appropriate slogan for the Connecticut farmers made adaptable to the modern age of progress, he said, would read: "Eat! in bed, early to rise, market co-operatively and advertise"

Mr Rogers said

"No sound advertising program was ever worked out without a survey purporting to show whether a product is marketable Quite individual advertising would probably cost a prohibitive sum, co-operative advertising could unquestionably be worked out to the advantage of the Connecticut farmer

The picturesque ranch in the foothill country of Southern Alberta which jumped into world prominence eight years ago, because it took the fancy of the royal heir, is no longer to be regarded as the mere hobby of a young man in a position to indulge his taste, but as a practical establishment with an essential place in the agriculture of Western Canada. The Prince of Wales came to Western Canada this year on a real Western rancher who is playing his part in the development of the territory's first industry

That from the very first the Prince of Wales regarded the E.P. Ranch as no passing fancy would appear to be clear. The first practical step His Royal Highness took was to immediately appoint a resident ranch manager, a man of outstanding reputation in the agricultural circles of Alberta. The next was to make arrangements for the transfer from the United Kingdom of some of the best Hereford, horses, cattle, and sheep in that country. Every one showing similar importations have been made.

The effect of this has been striking and far-reaching. Not content with imported were, in the main, superior to those existing in Western Canada, where the high standard of purebred livestock industry has been a tardy and laborious process. Exhibited at Western fairs they caused general admiration and ranked among prize-winners. Going farther afield to the national shows at Toronto they repeated the high record. They were over outstanding at the Chicago International and attracted considerable attention at Calgary a comparatively new element had been introduced into Western Canada's livestock industry.

The value of this would have been distinctly limited, however, had such valuable animals been confined to the ranch itself. The reputation of a class of animals he had scarcely before known became a possibility for the Western rancher and farmer Through local and provincial sales stock from the ranch has been distributed throughout the Western Provinces, elevating the standing of the livestock industry of that territory another notch. Rapidly the ranch has made itself a distinct factor in the cattle and sheep industry, and in horse breeding, particularly the raising of polo and racing ponies. The effect has been even wider than this, for animals from the ranch have been shown at the principal fairs of the United States and have travelled to stock farms in many states of the Union as far as Missouri, where they are carrying on their work of stock improvement

Throughout the eight years the Prince of Wales, despite the fact he has been almost ceaselessly travelling in distant parts of the Empire, has exhibited an intelligent interest in the ranch, which has not been merely sentimental but practical. He has yearly right to display an appointment the ranch's stock depleted by sales, the manager has, when occasion offered, consulted with royal owner, who has personally interested himself in the stock to be moved. On his visit to Western Canada this year the Prince could view with satisfaction the result of his efforts since when eight years ago a boyish impulse prompted him to acquire the lovely Beddington property This time he came back to Western Canada not as much as a royal heir but as a real Western Canadian rancher with a definite standing among the agriculturists of that territory

Tuneless Pianos Costly

Eight tenths of the country's pianos are always out of tune, Charles Ilwraichman, of Chicago, told delegates to the National Association of Piano Tuners at New York. He asserted that about $360,000,000 of the $900,000,000 spent annually for musical education was thus wasted. Ilwraichman said that a piano needed frequent tuning and that when it got out of tune the musical ear did likewise.

He—"Would you be angry with me if I asked you to be my wife."

She—"Not at all. But I'd be furious with myself if I agreed to."

Explanations and Comments

Solomon Wise Under Test—v. 5. In Gibeon the Lord appeared unto Solomon in a dream. Gibeon was the great high place, that is, a natural hill, carved into a place for sacrifice, to stand upon a hill top. The Israelites consecrated such "high places" to the worship of Jehovah. The law of Deuteronomy 12:10-21 forbade worship at high places and restricted the worship to a single sanctuary, but worship at high places was practiced as the time of Hezekiah, 2 Kings 18:4.

Although the ark stood in a temporary tent at Jerusalem, following the fall of the city which took place before the tabernacle, the ancient tent of the wandering, was there in front of the tabernacle stood the brazen altar for sacrifices (2 Chron. 1:2-6), and there Solomon offered a thousand victims. He wished to display his royal munificence to his great assembly. That night when the thanks of the sacrifice had ruddy away and the fires had gone out, God came down and appeared to Solomon in a dream. Jehovah appeared to him and said "Ask what I shall give thee."

"Bill, rarth grows hard with tears and fears:
Much life were but a misery where-
Lord of the everlasting years,
Grant Thou the glorious gift and this dream!" Nancy Byrd Turner.

In answer Solomon spoke of his father David's uprightness of heart and God's mercies to him, and spoke of his own naught of the throne as a great kindness shown to his father, namely 1 Kings 1:44. Then he spoke humbly of himself. "I am but a little child." The Hebrew says that Solomon was only fourteen years old on his accession to the throne, but, from 1 Kings 11:42 and 14:21, that he was already married. And it is generally supposed that he was about twenty years old. "I know not how to go out or come in," he added, making use of a proverbial expression which meant that he did not know how to conduct public or private affairs. With customary oriental exaggeration, Solomon thus acknowledged his lack of experience and his realization of the greatness of the task before him. Compare Jeremiah 1:6.

An Attractive New Frock

Of decided appeal is this charming frock. The skirt, having the fulness shirred in the front, is joined to the bodice, while the back is in one piece with a surplice contrasting material for the contrasting collar, the sleeve puffs out across the back, and is applied on the lower part of the bodice. The model above has fabric print for the skirt and plain material for the bodice. If the frock had short sleeves of contrasting material and a round neck No. 1561 is for misses and small women, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 4 yards 35 inch, or 2¾ yards 54 inch plain material, and ¾ yard 39-inch contrasting material for View A, and ¾ yard for View B. Price 20 cents the pattern.

The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy, will find her desires fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

"No," was the reply. "It's too high up."

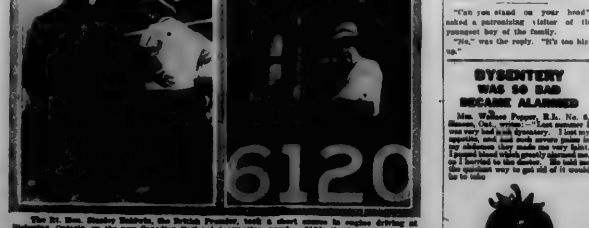
DYSENTERY WAS SO BAD BECAUSE ALARMED

Mrs. William Rogers, R.R. No. 6, Simcoe, Ont., writes:—"Last summer I was very bad with dysentery. I tried two opposite, and each seemed worse than the other. They made me very faint. As a friend to the doctor. He told me the only way to get rid of it would be to take

"I took only part of a bottle and was completely cured. I feel I cannot recommend it too highly."

The wonderful benefit completely cured has been so quickly by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, from many, many others.

PREMIER BALDWIN LEARNS TO DRIVE LARGEST LOCOMOTIVE IN BRITISH EMPIRE



The Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, the British Premier, took a short course in engine driving at Finsbury Park, London, the new Canadian National locomotive, No. 6120, being lowered and hoisted powerful railway engine in the British Empire. Mr. Baldwin, when visiting Kingston, Ont., heard that this locomotive, one of the 42 Canadian product, destined by Canadian National Railway engineers and built at the Kingston shops. The locomotive, numbered No. 6120 was attached to the Royal Train to haul it into Toronto in honor of the new Union Station. Mr. Baldwin, subsequently became engaged in the preparation of his speeches, hoisted in his work to inspect the locomotive. He was given a cab with the controller. He showed the keenest interest in the manner in which the big locomotive was handled when increasing at high speed, and worked the various levers controlling the engine. "It is a wonderful piece of machinery and should be a source of pride to the Canadian designers and engineers," said the Premier on leaving the locomotive. No. 6120 is one of forty engines of similar type and are being built at the Kingston shops for passenger and freight services of the National System. When in regular service they will run the longest runs without change of engine crews.

SURVEYING NEW H. B. LINE TO FORT CHURCHILL

Winnipeg Man. To speed up the work of surveying the territory through which Hudson's Bay Railway will pass, from the end of the present steel to the proposed terminal at Fort Churchill, three engineering parties from the Department of Public Works arrived in Winnipeg on Friday, the ninth.

Accompanying the engineers, was a small party of special craftsmen and on their way to Le Pas, Manitoba, about 200 more men will be engaged.

Some of the party will proceed to Port Nelson to commence the work of retrieving as much of the harbor material as can be used at Fort Churchill.

Another group of men will start on the preliminary survey for the harbor development at the new terminal.

It has been announced by the Government, as announced by Hon Charles A Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, that the work shall be advanced as expeditiously as possible and to this end work which can be done during the winter months will be rushed. Early next spring, just as soon as possible after the snow has melted, an army of workmen will be busy.

Will Conduct Soil Survey

Alberta Government To Investigate Agricultural Lands In North

Edmonton, Alta. A soil survey of agricultural lands in the north country adjacent to the E. D. and B. C. Railway will be made for the Alberta Government in the next few weeks.

The work will begin as soon as possible after the return of Alfred A. Hand, who is in the north now checking up some timber and other available lands. When Mr. Chard's report, with a list of lands, has been dealt with by the Government a number of experts from the Department of Agriculture and University of Alberta will be sent in to conduct a series of investigations into soil conditions, with tests to follow.

PREPARING FOR BIG TORY MEET AT WINNIPEG

Edmonton.—Western Canada will be fully represented at the big Conservative convention at Winnipeg in June, it is made a national leader. This was definitely stated by Major General A. D. McRae, Vancouver, chairman of the organization committee for the positive convention, when he delivered a special address before local Conservatives who tendered him a luncheon here.

Planning there will be a full representation from the head of the lakes to the Pacific, General McRae stated that in British Columbia it was a question as to whether or not as many were anxious to make the trip like had crossed on ah a trigger from both sides of the country. Every province would be fully represented and he had no doubt on the matter. Conservatives from Ontario and the maritimes were also expected to send a full delegation.

There probably will be 1,500 delegates at least at the convention, stated the Gen. ral, who declared it probably would result in a push in the Liberty of the party. It would likely be boosted back up to the greatest event since the days of Sir John A Macdonald.

From Ontario there would be at least a complete representation of delegates, while 75 were expected from Quebec and this would be increased to 250. Unfavorable reports were being received from the Maritime provinces and other districts, all pointing to a bumper convention.

Prince of Wales Shocks London

Bond Street is lamenting and Piccadilly refuses to be comforted and the Prince of Wales is the cause of it all. Something resembling a fashion earthquake has struck London society and the glasses of fashion and mould of form of that city are in smithereens and ashes. This, at any rate, is what Associated Press despatches from that city tell us and the reason is that the Prince of Wales is wearing a hard straw hat. It appears that it "isn't done" in the best circles and what's more it hasn't been done for forty years. Only Harrow school boys, we are told, fashionable meet custom and tourists commit this unpardonable crime. It hasn't upset the Prince to any noticeable extent and the Prince has a knack of setting himself in these little matters which is perhaps one of the secrets of his remarkable success. In the accompanying photograph he is shown parading splendid the Canadian Pacific Royal train at Winnipeg station chatting to the Honorable Theodore Burrows, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and whatever they are saying it is an odds-on chance that they are not talking about straw hats, nor discussing the discomfort of Bond Street and Piccadilly. It looks, as though the attending headgear may be the correct wear next summer in London.

BALDWIN GIVES HIS IMPRESSIONS OF RECENT VISIT

Southampton, Eng. — Right Hon Stanley Baldwin Prime Minister of Great Britain, Mrs. Baldwin and party arrived on the Empress of Scotland after their extended tour of Canada.

Mr. Baldwin had a very interesting time, the Premier said in an interview with a representative of the Canadian Press, but it has been a wonderful experience and I have enjoyed every minute of it. In 19 days I made 26 speeches I mention this only in case there has been an impression abroad that I have been on a holiday."

Premier Baldwin seem pleased in in letters of state upon his return to the to observe as a hardy despatch but was as of vigorously washing his mind there on his way to South anpton

During the voyage the Premier treated his fellow passengers to his characteristic courtesy but skilfully declined to be drawn into discussion on political or commercial matters into which some of the travelers hardly concealed their anxiety to be pulled.

Chatting with those around him Premier Baldwin again alluded to the deep impression his journey across Canada had made upon him.

"Despite some thickly populated centres like Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, one of the things that strikes there are only three persons to the square mile," he said, "so you can understand why Canada is so different from ours. Even train-king at the rate of 50 miles an hour I had to travel for a day to reach the prairies though I did cross the Great Divide and not once in British Columbia."

The Premier says chiefly most over the personal impression he has made on himself and Mrs. Baldwin, when they first viewed the heights of Aberfoyle and afterwards visited the workrooms welcome extended to the Prince of Wales, and Prince George when they visited Canada. Of all his visit to Lake Louise and of the simple heartiness of farewell given Mrs Baldwin and himself in Nova Scotia

Four witnesses, all those who survived the accident, gave evidence. These include the father and mother of the child, a married sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCarthy, all of Okotoks Centre. The accident occurred on the Kelowna road and was not due to excessive speed nor the sharp curves. Mr. Brinkman was badly scratched by the gravel and also had his head first.

The stories agreed in all particulars. They were to this effect. The family, including the ten-year-old Ivy, who was killed, left the theatre in Vermilion after the first show. They made their way to the truck on which they were in, which stood on the street nearby. Thomas Brinkman, the father, took a rope and tied the old fashioned auto seat with the back against the side of the cab. Mr. and Mrs. Brinkman and Ivy mounted the truck and took places on the seat which was fastened to a plank, raising it up sufficient for comfort. The daughter, Miss McCarthy, and her husband occupied the seat in the cab. Mr. McCarthy driving. They traveled at a moderate speed, about 12 miles an hour. Mrs. Brinkman became sick from riding backwards and changing places with her husband, sat on the side toward the bank.

As she leaned over the side of the coach, which is open sided, overhung the bank, it tipped, and Ivy, who was asleep beside her father, was catapulted through the side. Her head struck a rock on the side of the road and she fell beside her father and mother with blood pouring from a insulting wound. The seat also left the truck and fell either beside or on top of them, none seemed to know which.

Hearing Mrs. Brinkman's cry, Mr. McCarthy stopped the truck and Mrs. McCarthy rushed back. Picking up her sister she placed her in the mother's arms, with blood pouring from the girl's head and face. She ran to the Imperial Hotel where the truck owned by the Ladies' Aid was in distinguishing. Mrs. McCarthy asked the proprietor to telephone for a motor boat and connect water which was used to wash away the blood. An operator was summoned, the injured girl taken to the Vernon Jubilee hospital, where Dr. S. G. Baldwin pronounced the child dead.

Coroner Dr. O. Morris conducted the inquiry and Chief of Police Mortimer asked some questions, declined to clear up matters.

There was quite a menagerie here the other day when Athelen and Thomas made dash soup out of their two dogs with the blinder. Have never up the dogs, hope, they're not enemies. That'll leave them without a dog now, a pretty bad fix. I guess they'll have to take turn about staying up at night keeping burglars away. They're not the only ones that are capable of such an act, for some of the other neighbors have done likewise to their dogs. I think there should be a penalty for it, if a person eats the legs off his dog he should have one too on us. "Don't forget to shift the good next time."

There should be some good shooting on a certain farm when the season opens. The wild ducks have sure made a good job trampling down a piece of the wheat. It looks as if a hare deer. I bet there'll be some "gee-hootin'" when it goes out. Good luck to you, we'll all cling when we get through. Don't take the name of the Lord in vain too much, it's not His fault that you sowed your wheat

It is strange what an insulting word person can be when stirred by some people. It seems to impute all the crushing unfortunates, the cringing dependents of the poor, started in combat whose wretched existence hangs on the whim of some drunken and dissolute spouse.

What right had a person, who should be meek and appealing and apologetic to look like the young chap who had the privilege of a light weight boxing champion, Magistrate Windsor, late of Stockton-on-Tees, having this conception, though perhaps unconsciously, in his mind, looked upon the Reverend Edward Terry with extreme ill favor. There was about the sturdy clergyman of the administrator of the law, who presents civilian interference, parties hath from the person he called "Pig son." Let the church mind its own business!

Mr. Terry, roused in the new school of thought, would have simply insisted that he was minding his business as a minister when looking after the straying members of his flock.

"I am here to add resolution to one here" the minister said, "the girl has no relations over from Finland, she is only seventeen, and she came as an Lord record."

"Girl, or no girl, she will have to learn to respect an officer of the law. Three fourteens have no respect for the King's uniform, and I take it as my duty to teach them. I don't know or care anything about her record. She may have attended chapel three times a day and gone to the poorest beach, if you still use one, and maybe she can recite verses; but she can't knock one of my men down-stairs and get away with it—that's all. And besides, can you tell me why a girl with a splendid record should be found in the worst Chinese joint in the city, and have a box of boiled tablets in her hand when arrested? I WANT HIM to hear your explanation of this!"

"I cannot explain it," said Mr. Terry quietly, "but I believe there is an explanation. I believe the girl is innocent."

"Oh, indeed!" the magistrate shot his eyeglasses sideways into his hair—"another hearing one word of evidence or considering the case at all your mind is made up! Well! And if she is innocent, why won't she talk? She has refused to utter a word. Can she talk English?"

"I am not sure — very little, I think."

"Well, we have an interpreter here, but she won't talk. She is a high-tempered, dangerous young anarchist—she says I would like to see shackled to the floor!"

At this the minister's temper broke into a thousand pieces, but his voice was well under control (usually people in moving words to rouse from an administrator of the law he said quietly. "Have we no law to deal with offenders that we must resort to mob rule? Your place, Sir, as a magistrate is to exonerate the innocent quite as much as to punish the guilty. Yet here you are, prejudiced against the girl before you even see her."

"Oh, I saw her, kicking like a wild steer and snapping like a mad turtle—I saw her, all right. Well, I see no objection to your seeing her Phelps" he continued, in his mind, looked upon the Reverend Edward Terry with extreme ill favor There was about the sturdy clergyman of the administrator of the law, who presents civilian interference, parties hath from the person he called "Pig son." Let the church mind its own business!

Mr. Terry, roused in the new school of thought, would have simply insisted that he was minding his business as a minister when looking after the straying members of his flock.

"I am here to add resolution to one here" the minister said, "the girl has no relations over from Finland, she is only seventeen, and she came as an Lord record."

"Girl, or no girl, she will have to learn to respect an officer of the law. Three fourteens have no respect for the King's uniform, and I take it as my duty to teach them. I don't know or care anything about her record. YOUNG WOMEN SUFFER MOST

These Two Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ayer's Cliff, Quebec.— "I have been teaching for three years, and at the end of the year I always feel tired and have no appetite. I was awful sick each month before I got in my bed until sometimes I was obliged to stop working. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I heard many women telling how good it was so I thought it would help me. And it did. Now I take six bottles every year and recommend it to all my friends."—DONALDA FANTEUX, Ayer's Cliff, Quebec.

"Unable to Work"

Cowan's Mere, Scotia.—"I had irregular periods and great suffering at these times, the pains causing vomiting and fainting. I was teaching school and often for some hours I would be unable to attend to my work. Through an advertisement in the papers I knew of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has been of great benefit to me, the troubles being completely relieved."—LAURA J. BOYD, Cowan's Mere, Kings County, Nova Scotia.

Face Disfigured With Large Pimples Cuticura Healed

"My face broke out with small pimples which spread and formed large, red and very hard. They itched and could not sleep much when they were, and indeed, causing me to scratch, and they soon spread to my chest and back. My face was disfigured and I was ashamed to go any place. I could not stay indoors all the time.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and bought a week's treatment. I washed with Cuticura Soap and hot water, dried the parts, and then applied Cuticura Ointment well over the affected parts with gentle rubbing. I used it freely. Within a week I could see a change for the better, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed."—(Signed) Miss Ethel Cox, R. R. 1, Gibsonia, Que.

Make it a point to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment for every-day toilet purposes, and when a little help is needed, such as is usually given, you will find it most effective.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (25 and 50c.) are sold throughout the world. Canadian depot: "Cuticura Laboratories, Limited, St. Henri, Montreal." Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Keep Experiments Secret

Scientists in Carefully Guarded Laboratories Discovering Astounding Facts.

Behind locked doors in carefully guarded laboratories, extraordinary experiments are taking place conducted by many of the world's greatest scientific, which may change the course of human destiny. Among others things science is trying to make old men young; prolong life indefinitely; determine sex; control genius; produce a perfect human being; create a living creature.

Throughout the ages man's dream has been to see himself the conqueror of death, a superman able to resist all the ravages of old age and disease. Recently remarkable strides have been made. Voronoff has proved that rejuvenation is more than a mere name, sex-determination has been practised with success. Other great unexplored fields are being ravaged by the men of science. Any day now may see their complete triumph in one or more of these startling possibilities are being made in other directions. Not long ago a group of scientists in London were invited to witness a number beetles whose heads had been cut off and other beetles' heads grafted on them. It was shown that the body of the beetle on being given a change of head would gradually conform to the specimen, and even in the sex of the decapitated beetle whose head is now wave form of these beetles lived for six weeks after change of head, and fed and lived normally! The possible lines of development of these amazing experiments staggers the imagination

Little Helps For This Week

"In righteousness shalt thou be established." Isa. liv 14

This is peace.
To conquer love of self and lust of pelf
To tear deep-rooted passion from the breast
To still the inward strife.
For love to stand eternal beauty rose
For glory to be lord of self. For pure
To live beyond the gods, for count
Loss wealth
To lay up lasting treasure
Of perfect services rendered. Shame
In charity, and speech and stainless days:
These riches shall not fade away with life.
Nor any death disparage
—Edwin Arnold

As whole acres of Persian roses are required to make a single ounce of pure attar, so the soul's balm is the slow product of a long course of right living and thinking, every separate act and thought of which contributes its own minute but precious particle of sweetness to the rich result

Helpful Baby Book

We have just received a booklet, "Baby Welfare," which is one of the most interesting and instructive we have seen in a long time. It has chapters on prenatal care, Feeding of Baby, Bottle Feeding Supplementing Breast Feeding, Diet After First Year, Food Formulas, Sleep, Fresh Air, Exercise, Bathing Clothing Baby's Weight and Measurements with sundry hints as to safeguarding of baby's health and other common ailments. There is also a page devoted to Baby's Biography, which should be an interesting record of the little one's activities when it is filled in, and a Weekly Record for Baby's Weight and Height, which the mom or can fill in. In the introduction the publishers say that they have purposely omitted suggestions pertaining to medical treatment, knowing that such information should properly come from the family physician when such advice is needed. Mothers, desiring a copy of this most helpful book can obtain one, free, by writing to The Baby Welfare Department of the Borden Company Limited, 130 St. Paul Street West, Montreal, mentioning this paper.

Social and Personal

Mr. R. Field, of Perdu, B.C., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. F. B. Rudd.

Miss Gladys Flint has commenced teaching violin at the studio, Rowland, Williamson block, on Monday.

Rev. W. E. Herbert of Stettler was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Rudd last week, renewing old friends in the district.

During the passage on the good ship "Hercules" from Detroit to Port William, the passengers were entertained by a Mr. Palmer of Detroit, who was en route to the Pacific coast cities. This gentleman was an accomplished musician and entertainer, and so captivated the passengers that they resolved to make him a present, which took the form of a beautiful bouquet of gladioluses. Someone had to be selected to make the present, and Bessie Evelyn Cranston was the one chosen, and made the presentation very gracefully and in a manner which would have reflected credit on many older than herself. The recipient of the bouquet then took the little girl by the hand and introduced her to the passengers, numbering some few hundred, as Evelyn Cranston of Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mrs. Elmer Lush wishes to announce she is teaching piano at her studio, Room 1, Williamson block, on Saturdays. Any person wishing to arrange for lessons please call between 3:30 and 4 o'clock.

"HUNGARIANS" ARE RE-TURNING THEIR NAMES

The "conflict" between the imperial Hungarian partridge and the native prairie chicken in Saskatchewan is being closely watched by provincial government authorities and there is much diversity of opinion as to whether the newcomer is likely to dispossess the native of its nesting places, according to a report from the game commissioner of that province, received by E. G. Poole, fish and game representative of the Canadian National railways at Montreal. At the same time, it will be of interest to the sportsmen everywhere to learn that no open season on these birds has been declared, corresponding with that for prairie chicken. This allows shooting during the entire month of October, this year, with a bag limit of 10 birds per day, 20 in the season. The report states that there is unlimited room for increase in the number of Hungarians and also of their extended area of occupation.

WHEAT POOL NEWS BULLETIN

By the time the bulk of the wheat is moving in Alberta this fall, the Alberta Wheat Pool will have 155 line elevators completed and in operation.

The E. P. Ranch, owned by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, has been signed to a Wheat Pool contract. The ranch contains a section of land and is located near High River, Alberta. The Prince was a recent visitor at his ranch and while there instructed W. L. Carlyle, his farm manager, to have the acreage placed under a Pool contract.

WEDDING

SOUTHERN—BULLOCK

The marriage of Mary Isabel, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Bullock, and James Southern, son of Mr and Mrs. W. C. Southern, of Nanaimo, B.C., was solemnized at 8 o'clock on Thursday afternoon in St. George's Anglican church. The Rev. E. E. Lockyer was the officiating clergyman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a white georgette gown with silver lace trimmings. Her veil of white silk net was worn Juliette style, caught above the ears with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and Lilies of the Valley.

Miss Winnifred Bullock, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr Noel Bullock, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom. Mrs. Hare per presided at the organ.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where many old friends met to wish the young couple all future happiness.

Going away the bride wore a suit of silk faille with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Southern will make their home at Powell River, B.C.

The out of town guests were Mrs. J. H. Walker, Wetaskiwin, and Mrs. Orrlieb, of Berwyn, aunt and cousin of the bride, and Miss Mildred Gowen and Miss Beatrice Hutton, Edmonton.

Here and There

Air mail service between Winnipeg and Fargo, North Dakota, has been inaugurated and the first mail for Winnipeg from the United States arrived recently.

The potato acreage along the Dominion Atlantic Railway line is larger than last year and a 40 per cent. crop tonnage is looked for. There will likely be 175,000 barrels available for export, as compared with 135,000 last year.

British Columbia's farms produced 971,362,000 last year; breaking all records and gaining 96,356,000 over the previous year, according to the final figures of the Provincial Statistician, G. R. Sweet. Lumbering leads with agriculture second.

A new world record is set—300 white Leghorn baby chicks arrived from the University of British Columbia at Ottawa through the Canadian Pacific Express Company, safe, sound, and hungry, all of them. None had food or water on their 2,000 mile journey and none died or suffered.

A Barred Plymouth Rock, owned by the University of Saskatchewan, has established a new record for the three Prairie Provinces, laying her 200th egg in her pullet year of which there is still a month to go. The world's record for trap-nested production is held by No. 1 at Agassiz, B.C. pullet, which laid 351 eggs in 364 days.

Members of the newly-organized Saint John Board of Master Cigar Makers, headed by Jos. W. L. Foster, recently concluded a successful week with Canadian Pacific officials of Montreal in connection with the proposed improvements in the grain shipping facilities of the port. The chief object of the new organization, according to Mr. Foster, is the securing of a national label of an All-Canadian trade route through the Port of Saint John.

NOTICE

The following resolutions were adopted at a special meeting of the Local Board of Health called to discuss measures to combat the outbreak of Infantile Paralysis:

That the Public and Sunday Schools be closed at the discretion of the Board;

That the School Fair scheduled to be held September 13th, 1927, be cancelled;

That all children of the age of 16 years and under are prohibited from attending places of entertainment and public gatherings of any kind.

The Board of Health hereby requests the closest co-operation on the part of parents and guardians in the interest of the general community, in order that the above mentioned restrictions may be effective.

SYNOPSIS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Seventy cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the Edmonton health department to date. One newspaper reported that there were 600 cases in the city, but Dr. T. H. Whitelaw, medical health officer, declares this to be "absolute bunk."

Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health, held a conference Tuesday afternoon with city, provincial and municipal health authorities, and an official statement in regard to the general situation has since been issued. The points that a large number of cases of an abortive type are being reported, and such cases recover in a few days without paralysis of any kind. Many of these cases, resemble ordinary grippe and none have been diagnosed as intestinal influenza. It is strongly urged as of vital importance that all cases, if even apparently only mild grippe, should be seen by a physician at the outset, as these are the most dangerous since so far as the spread of infection is concerned.

Transmitted by Contact

The infection is transmitted by contact, the infectious agent being present in the discharges from the nose

Opportunities For Britain In Canada

Great Britain has a problem and Canada has a problem, one being the exact opposite of the other. In the British Isles there is a surplus population that can find employment cannot be found. In Canada there are enormous resources and vast areas of fertile lands which call for increased population in order that development may take place. The Old Land has too many people; this New Land has too few.

Looking at the flow of things it would seem to be a comparatively simple matter for the British and Canadian Governments to evolve policies under which the surplus population of Great Britain could be transferred to the open spaces of Canada, thus solving the problems of both countries. But the solution is not so easy, in fact, it is most complex and difficult.

The class of settlers which Canada wants is the agricultural type, men and women who will go on the land. True, they may not have had actual farming experience to be a success and to succeed, but they must be of that class which is likely to make good on the land.

Great Britain, however, has no large surplus of this type. If indeed, any surplus at all. The British surplus population is found among the workingmen, artisan and labor class, men and women who, because they cannot obtain steady employment, are obliged to accept the Government's dole. Opportunities for the employment of any large number of these people in Canada's industry are small, and it would be most unwise to them to encourage their immigration to Canada when there is no reasonable chance of any injurious effect on Canadian workmen and labor and lead to the creation of a Canadian situation like unto the present one in Great Britain.

The efforts of both the British and Canadian Governments are, therefore, confined to the training of a limited number of lumbermen for agricultural pursuits and the proper placing of them on farms in Canada. Welcome as these efforts are, their effect on the respective British and Canadian problems of surplus and insufficient population is almost negligible.

There would seem to be a greater hope of making an effective contribution towards the solution of the joint problem in the adoption of the idea which has been urged of late, namely, that the great capitals in British industry establish branch plants in Canada in order to enable them to successfully compete in the growing Canadian markets with their United States rivals and that they staff these branch plants with their own workmen from the British Isles.

The general adoption of such a policy would result in profitable investment of British capital, would lead to a marked development of the industrial resources of this Dominion, would help to adjust the balance of trade as between Canada and the United States, would add to the population of the Dominion profitably employed, would ease the unemployment situation in the Old Land, and would increase the productive capacity, the prosperity and wealth of the Empire as a whole.

It will be frankly admitted that the industrial leaders of Great Britain have had to face enormous difficulties during and since the war. They have borne, and are still bearing, heavy burdens. They may justly feel that the present is not the time to launch out on new and untried ventures. The situation is, however, this only through the adoption of heroic measures will conditions in the Old Land be bettered, and some relief brought to British industry. Furthermore, under existing conditions, British industries are losing out in the Canadian markets. An effort should be made to hold and strengthen their position here before it is too late.

It is gratifying to note that one big British concern has decided on a great undertaking in the Province of Quebec. An announcement has just been made that British financial interests controlling tens of millions of capital have finally concluded arrangements for the utilization of Southern Saskatchewan lignite coal in the carbonizing and briquetting of this fuel on a large commercial scale and will within the next few months invest hundreds of thousands of dollars in the enterprise.

Premier Brownlee of Alberta and Hon. Chas. A. Dunning have both been urging the adoption of the branch factory policy upon the British manufacturer, and it is to be hoped that no astute a business man as Premier Stanley Baldwin himself a big manufacturer, will pass the advantages to Britain, to Canada, to the Empire, of such a policy, and urge his adopting upon his fellow manufacturers in the British Isles.

Mr. Challies has just completed a report on the subject which will be published shortly by the Commission of Conservation.

CHILDHOOD DANGERS

Come Through a Weakening Of the Blood—A Tonic Is Needed

In their early years it is quite common for children to lose their strength, and mother should carefully watch the health of her little ones at this time. As is when the blood is weakened by rapid growth that anaemia develops. The symptoms may be noticed by paleness, leanness, poor appetite, the child grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation become apparent, with low spirits and depression.

Neglected trouble often leads to a decline, but if you see that your child's blood is kept enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood-builder ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They will build up your girl's health and ensure for her healthy womanhood. Or proof of this Mrs. George Jackson, Black's Harbor, N.B., says:—"I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a wonderful medicine. My daughter, Margaret, was in such a badly run down condition that we feared she was going into a decline. A friend was also the best exertion would leave her breathless, and she suffered from headaches. She had no appetite and had a lot to trouble. Up to the time we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, we feared we had lost her. But thanks to the use of this wonderful medicine she is again well and strong, showing no signs of the trouble that had so weakened her."

If in all troubles due to weak, watery blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found a reliable remedy. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Would Extend Air Mail Service

United States Government Looks Towards Canada As a Field For Extension

Success of the air mail in the United States has led the government at Washington to look toward Canada as a field for extension of service. Postmaster-General H. S. Sop has let it be known that he would welcome applications for air mail service between such points as Minneapolis or St. Paul, Minn., and Winnipeg, Man., where there is a fairly large volume of mail over a short distance in fact it is likely that preliminary step will be taken soon in this direction. Negotiations between the two cities but no action will not be taken until after the international air mail conference in Geneva.

It has been customary for the United States post office to attach applications, which usually take the form of specifications, signed by a considerable number of people before establishing new air mail routes. A guarantee of about $12,000 worth of business on any route is generally considered reasonable to justify opening a route.

Secretary Of State For the Dominions Finest Linguist In British Cabinet

Mr. L. C. M. S. Amery, the secretary of State for the Dominions, is unquestionably the finest linguist in the present British Cabinet. He speaks several oriental languages as well as European languages.

When in Pakistan, Sir George Milbanke, or "Uncle George" as the C. in C. was invariably called, asked once of his staff officers if he understood modern Greek. The officer replied that he did not, but that he had a good handbook on Greek and also that he knew a man who was supposed to be quiet in picking up languages.

So Captain Amery was sent for and presented with the handbook. "Can you get the hang of it by next week?" said Sir George. "Oh, certainly," was the reply. "You seem very confident," said Sir George. "Well, you see, I wrote it," replied Captain Amery.

Newsprint Industry Expanding In Manitoba When a Second Big Paper Mill Is Mooted

The newsprint industry has long been established and rapidly expanded in all eastern provinces. It sprang up and saw similar growth in British Columbia. Now the forests of the prairie provinces are being called upon to furnish raw material for news print.

One of the most outstanding recent items of interest in the Canadian newsprint is the application before the Federal Government for a pulpwood berth on the Nelson River in Manitoba, capable of supplying a newsprint mill of 300 tons per day.

This tiny contiguous to the Hudson's Bay Railway, being between the Nelson River and Lake Winnipeg, and is the second berth sought in the province of Manitoba. The Manitoba Paper Company already has obtained a berth with 4,000,000 cords of wood on the east side of Lake Winnipeg, and has built a mill at Pine Falls, with a capacity of 300 tons per day, described as the largest enterprise in the province.

A 600 ton per-day mill, according to experts, will require a berth containing at least 8,000,000 cords of pulpwood. Hence the mill will be obtained from White Mud Falls on the Nelson River, one of the greatest power sites in the Dominion. An option on these falls, it is understood, has been secured by the financial group behind the new pulpwood application. The falls are, in fact, capable of furnishing a great deal more power than the mill will need, and this is expected to be utilized by the growing mining area north and west, and thus further Manitoba's mining development at the same time.

The founding of a second newsprint mill in Manitoba would mean a great deal to the province not only in its intrinsic but also tributary activities. Such a mill would provide an outlay of about $8,000,000, and the development of White Mud Falls would provide considerable additional capital. The mill would find employment for two thousand men, and apparently surpass in volume of output any of Manitoba's present industrial enterprises.

The projection draws further forcible attention to the timber possessions of the Prairie Provinces, which in this respect bolds their name. The lumber industry has long thrived in all three provinces and its production goes no inconsiderable way to meet domestic requirements. The newsprint industry is rapidly going to them. Manitoba is about 70 per cent. wooded, and the province has been estimated to contain 1,939,000 feet of saw timber, or 4,000,000 P.M. In the sister provinces of Saskatchewan the area, actually timbered with merchantable trees is about 750,000 acres. The Province of Alberta is favored to contain almost 21,000,000 feet of saw timber. Altogether the Prairie Provinces contain about 1,000,000 acres of commercial timber lands, and there are in addition large resources of pulpwood upon which no really accurate estimate has been made.

Great Britain Would Take Canadian Cattle

But Cannot Pay Present Price Says London Man

Great British wants Canadian cattle on the hoof as all other cattle markets in the world ever, except that of Ireland, are closed to her owing to hoof and mouth disease, but she can not pay Canada's price as it now stands, declared Henry Hidgett, vice president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, London, and special representative in Great Britain of the Pat Burns Co. Calgary, at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg, where he was in conference with Mr Burns.

Great Britain's requirements in the meat line are approximately 2,000,000 tons per year, half of which she imported last year from the Argentine, Australia and New Zealand in the form of chilled or frozen meat, Mr Hidgett said.

Owing to the high prices in Canada which are kept up by demand from the United States, the export of live cattle to Great Britain has fallen off from 100,000 head in 1925 to 7,000 so far this year. Not even carcasses can be brought in owing to the foot and mouth disease.

No Market For Poor Hay

Notice Stokes U.S. Has Prospect For Record Crop

The Canadian farmers are warned against shipping poor hay into the markets of the United States in a notice issued by the Department of Agriculture. The announcement says:

"The attention of farmers in the hay shipping sections of Canada is drawn to the notice given by the United States Department of Agriculture that shippers make certain of their market before baling and shipping any poor quality hay. The warning should be especially heeded by Canadian farmers who expect to ship hay across the border.

"There is a record hay crop in prospect in the U.S. Present indications are for a total harvest of approximately 100,000,000 tons, or 18,000 tons more than last year, and 4,500,000 tons more than in the bumper crop year of 1926. A City Beautiful in the West

There is general impression when one thinks of Canada that prairie provinces are mentioned, of a country flat and uninteresting, covered with miles of wheat in the summer, but otherwise of little prominent appeal. When a man stands in this country, he is prepared as the centre point of a circle of landscape without a break, save trees, shrub or hill, to the horizon, but the advent of settlers has very considerably changed what may have been largely true some fifty years ago. The cities of the prairies are springing up—some of them almost over night—in consequence of the prosperity of the west, have been designed and built with a view to beauty and the above pictures of parts of Medicine Hat, Alberta, may bear out this claim. They represent cases of woodland shade in an oasis of a land here no life once part of trees and they are one to the hand of a man who knows how much they are valued. It is also object lesson to what can be successfully done to make beauty flourish where once little existed prior to the advent of the settler. Medicine Hat is a good example of what boundless of light and shade the cities of the Canadian West present.

King's Job Not Enviable

Everything Stopped Out For Months Among Means Life a Drudgery

There is no doubt that the strain of the daily life of the King and Queen, with every waking hour mapped out for months ahead, is much greater than the public realize.

Everyone connected with the Court remarks on the splendid health and spirits which the Queen always enjoys here. The King is now and then fatigued, but she is never.

There is no harm in repeating a somewhat pathetic comment of the King on his own drudgery in public life, as hopeless, so unpersonal, and good humored as the truly tremendous programme laid almost daily before him visiting the Lord Mayor of London this and that, or whose life during his year of office is, as everybody knows, a veritable slavery, the King remarked: "I may have to do this for twelve months; but I have been doing it for sixteen years."

But each year they have dwindled, and it was found that the prevailing westerly winds blow on to them a low wave of motorists' fumes from passing automobiles, affording an additional proof of the deleterious effect of the growing number of automobiles on the atmosphere of Paris.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Great Procession With the Ark and the Tabernacle (verses 1-11). It was during the 7th day of Tabernacles, which began on the 15th day of the seventh month and lasted for eight days (Lev. 23:34) that the ark of the covenant and all the vessels of the tabernacle brought to the ark of the covenant out of the city of David which is Zion. "Bark the House of Israel" means and the House of Levi's were present, as we would say, Jr. Sr., elders were the chosen representatives of the people and the princes of the father's house were the hereditary leaders. In addition there was a great multitude of the rank and file (2 Chron. 5:11). The priests came in order their several divisions into their places, from thirteen and here the record is made of the fact that the priests were all and beside all seven would attend all to duly to cook the lamb or other sacrifice. Also the Levites, who blessed and the Levites were present, as we found on the previous page, the other vessels bore the ark was in the tabernacle (verse 4) and the vessels in Jerusalem by David. As the two processions proceeded to the tabernacle a great many sacrifices of sheep which like sacrificed a host of sheep and oxen. The ark was loaded with the streams of blood. The ark was darkened and seemed with the clouds of incense. The songs and dances were unsurpassed since the days of the peace-son moved up the slope of the hill. It proceeded every step of the temple. It reached the holy Place (Stanley). By this he is to declare Solomon was solemnly placed in the best way known in those days. It was a primitive method of saying that king and people set no limits to the honor they would show Jehovah.

There is something reprehensible in all this circumstance, but there is a good side to such and here of slaughter. Barbaric it was, but devotional also. How we might desire we have to be ready to give of freely to our perfect. Never was there a love and worship of God" It is willing.

Make the Penalty Fit the Crime

Proposal Made That Whipping Be Added To Jail Sentence For Reckless Car Driving

Whipping, with a strap persons convicted of theft of motor cars is one of the amendments to the criminal code proposed in the report of the Canadian Bar Association's committee on administration of justice.

The report was presented on the association at its annual meeting by Judge E. Coatsworth of Toronto.

The committee would have specific legislation by the Dominion and provincial parliaments to incorporate in to the criminal code the important amendments suggested in the committee's report.

Considering the penalties for auto theft the committee recommended that instead of the present one year sentence provided by the code, the penalty be two months' imprisonment with a whipping in the second month with a strap lasting of a rat-a-tat-tat.

The committee also advised provincial legislation for supervision of persons let out on suspended sentence, for a system of parole, and for "collective dealing" with all the feeble minded now incorrectly classified both when in court and in institutions.

ANTI-SMUGGLING PLANS DISCUSSED AT WASHINGTON

Washington. The Royal Canadian Customs Commissioners left for home after holding four formal meetings with and several informal meetings with ships, customs, consignment and prohibition authorities here in the committee to look into the workings of the United States anti-smuggling machinery. It investigated the efficacy of the United States customs system in general and three or four branches of the system in particular. It received some suggestions from the United States authorities for improvement of conditions along the border. The commission will take all these things into consideration while it is preparing its report to the Canadian government after the close of the Ottawa sittings.

The commission which in Washington consisted of Commissioner Bell and his principal assistants in the United States and on negotiations for a charter with the Canada between Canada and the United States. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Mr. Moore Lawsuit, in charge of customs and prohibition, announced that the border patrols would be increased from 2000 to 3000 men. The Canadian Lake Huron district, and prophesied that the United States would greatly increase the number of the contraband vessels on the street Lakes if the smuggling of liquor by this route continues.

It is known that the United States would like Canada to establish her own customs agents in this country. The commissioners no doubt has been told that this would make it easier to prevent smuggling both ways and this complete retribution would go far toward minimizing fraudulent importing and double invoicing, which methods are now being used to cheat the Canadian customs out of revenue.

Considering the penalties for auto theft the committee recommended that instead of the present one year sentence provided by the code, the penalty be two months' imprisonment with a whipping in the second month with a strap lasting of a rat-a-tat-tat.

The committee also advised provincial legislation for supervision of persons let out on suspended sentence, for a system of parole, and for "collective dealing" with all the feeble minded now incorrectly classified both when in court and in institutions.

Popularity Of Lindbergh

Seven Million Dollars Involved in Business Others Since He Made Famous Flight

New York. Charles A. Lindbergh can have 25 cents out by doing through a real business one man in front of a large camera and $6,000,000 by accepting the business offers he declined has since he made his solo flight across the Atlantic, says Commander Fitzhugh Green, the lone eagle's chief secretary, in a popular magazine article.

Commander Green, who has compiled a check up on the mail and other communications to Lindbergh, says that during the 2 months before and immediately after the flight 3,000 letters and cables received, were at least three people asking that some fine lady marry him. attempt to match the money he received from the earth. Lindbergh also received thousands of proposals of marriage. The aviator's mail is being at least 1,000 packages

Lindbergh personally sent on all unsolicited love and would not say. He was received in return by the have changed their habits. It may be time before Lindbergh gets married, he wants to marry a really regular girl, says Green.

Lindbergh's parents are in Southern Saskatchewan, but not be staying in the town. Northcliff, the accredited agent of the people, is looking for some land, and he desires to find a farm and that but this is not likely to cause any great change in his habits. He has no plans for his future as he says he cannot tell what he will do or say. Green says.

New Doukhobor Leader

Son Of Former Leader Leaving Russia For Canada

Vladimir Petr Verigin, new head of the Doukhobors, second son of the former leader of the Doukhobors in Canada, leaves Moscow September 2, for this country, according to word received by the Russian Bureau of the Doukhobor colony near Yorkton. He will sail from Southampton on the Empress of Scotland, September 10. Permission for Mr. Verigin to leave Russia was extremely difficult to secure from the Soviet Government. Negotiations to this end have been under way ever since the death of his father in a railway accident in 1924. Many unforeseen obstacles had to be overcome. Mr. Verigin will be accompanied by Paul Pashitch Ilyashoff as travelling companion.

Makes Altitude Record

French Aviator Attains Height Never Before Reached By Man

Paris.—Aviators intent on breaking the world's altitude record proclaim higher than 42,651 feet in consequence of the feat of Jean Chilien who topped his own record by almost 2,000 feet. Chilien's former record was 12,413 metres and the new mark is 13,000 metres.

"Everyone knows I don't want to fall off the earth," exclaimed the diminutive Frenchman when informed that he had attained a height never before reached by a human being.

The wireless station picked up a German trans-oceanic wireless press message to the effect that a British cabinet of Chilien in the southern part of India, just south of Tibet, had reported that Fichter and his party had been killed.

Saskatchewan Barred Plymouth Rock Hen Is New Champion

Saskatchewan's Barred Plymouth Rock hen owned by the University of Saskatchewan has made a new record for production.

Completing her pullet year, this hen champion has to her credit a total of 339 eggs in 365 days. Not only is this a new record for Barred Plymouth Rocks, but so far as is known is a new record for all breeds of poultry.

This bird was bred and raised by the poultry department of the University. She is known as 11-2296.

Poultry Congress a Success

Thirteen countries were represented by those who had charge, that the third World's Poultry Congress, held in Ottawa from July 27 to August 4, was a greater success than even its ma gnificent predecessors predicted. Forty-two countries sent delegates and five hundred members, 10,000. There were 1000s from the poultry farms of King George, the Prince of Wales and various reigning monarchs of Europe.

GOOD CROP NOW BEING GARNERED IN PRAIRIE WEST

Ottawa—Canada is in a sure way to harvest another good crop says a statement issued by the Department of Agriculture based on reports submitted by the superintendents of the Dominion Experimental Farms. The survey includes wheat, coarse grains, potatoes and forage crops, tobacco, sugar beet, and fruit and covers all the provinces.

The wheat producing provinces of Western Canada are referred to especially in the report. In Alberta it is stated very favorable are in which to fill and ripen. Harvesting in Saskatchewan is not damage is in sel dom. Cutting is well under way in the south and just started in the east and in the province of Manitoba. Labor is quite plentiful in this district in fact," says the report, "and the movement of harvesters has been somewhat hampered by the scarcity of cars."

Reports received in Southern Saskatchewan, but not including the most Northerly districts, indicate that the yield per acre will be high and that but little if any grain will be lost by shelling. In Manitoba, however, the crop is not quite so promising as in the other provinces and promises to be up to average.

In Central Manitoba the crop is heavy and is below injured to some extent by rust. In the more northerly parts the crop is rather late and may be caught by frost and frost.

The wheat crop in Quebec and Eastern Ontario will be almost average, it is stated, in Western Ontario it is considerably better than last year.

Quebec.—The Provincial Department of Agriculture announces that its experiments, conducted in co-operation with the Dominion Branch, Canadian Pacific Railway, in the shipping of sweet cream to England, comprising four separate consignments, have been entirely successful, the cream arriving in uniformly good condition. Now that the possibility of this new development has been established, it is expected that commercial interest will center the field.

Human Fly Seeks Hotel

Los Angeles, Cal.—A human fly seeking downward from the roof of the hotel at Glendale by finger and toe holds, entered the rooms of five prominent guests through the windows, and obtained $700 in cash and jewelry valued at $15,000 thieves-like said investigators made by fingers and toes in the dust of window ledges were their only clues.

Public Opinion Against War

Increased Participation of the Masses in Peace Movements

Vancouver. Increased participation of the masses of the people in forces taking the attitudes of nations toward each other was given by Sir George Foster, in addressing the Canadian Club here, as one of the forces operating against war. He cited as an example that just 5 years ago movements possible between the United States and Mexico, but that immediately the Mexican Premier, Calles, reported to the people from all parts of the country protested to Washington. He said the history of negotiations before other conditions showed that decisions were made on the prejudices of a more limited of people.

Read the negotiations which occurred before the last war and point out how persons who participated in them," he said.

Sir George spoke on "The New Internationalism." He said the most important accomplishment in the history was the fact that the peoples of 63 nations had formed themselves into a association of nations to devise new methods of carrying on relations

Report Says Text Books Used in Chicago Are Pro-British

Chicago Histories used in 4 high cross public schools were indicted as anti-American, pro-British and "grossly distorted" in an exhaustive report issued by Mayor Thompson.

John J. Gorman, former congressman who was commissioned by the Mayor to investigate the text books, said he found "they omit facts and distort and minimize many of the great characters, events and ideals of America held sacred to the American history."

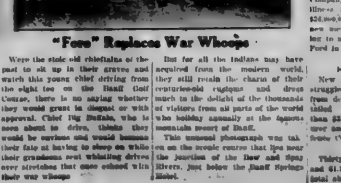
The report came just on the heels of the Mayor's recent charges of the insubordination of William Mc Andrew, superintendent of schools. Mayor Thompson has accused him of "the most piteous of King George" and the instigator of alleged anti-American teaching in the schools.

No Increase in Immigration

Ottawa. According to the Department of Immigration, June brought 14,865 newcomers to Canada as compared with 12,199 in June of last year for the same quarter of 1926—a gain of 66 per cent. The total for the first quarter of the fiscal year was 17,434 compared with 43,664 for the same quarter of 1926—a gain of 60 per cent. Of the June figures 7,272 were British, 3,642 were from the United States and 3,129 from other countries.

Asked To Appear in Movies

London. King George and Queen Mary have been asked to appear in a "speaking movie," which will be shown in London this month in connection with the admiralty's full dress film reconstruction of the battle of Cromel and Falkand. The talking pictures are expected to be the sensation of the year



"Fess" Replaces War Whoops

Were the stoic old christians of the past to sit up in their graves and watch the young chief driving from the eight tee on the Banff Golf Course, there is no saying whether they would grant it elegant or with approval. Chief Big Bedside, who is now about to drive, thinks they would be envious and would bemoan their fate at having to sleep on while their grandsons sent whizzing drives over stretches that once echoed with their war whoops

But for all the Indians may have acquired from the modern world, they still retain the charm of their race-beside ruggons and dress much to the delight of the thousands of visitors from all parts of the world who holiday annually at the aquatic mountain resort of Banff.

This unusual photograph was taken on the single course that lies near the junction of the Bow and Spray Rivers, just before the Banff Springs Hotel.

GERMAN ENTRANT IS WINNER OF THE MARATHON SWIM

Lake Shore Toronto. Four miles and one and a half hours ahead of his nearest rival, Ernst Vierhaver of Germany crawled across the finish line to victory and a cash prize of $20,000 at the Canadian National Exhibition 21-mile marathon swim through icy cold Lake Ontario waters Vierhaver's time was 11 hours 12 minutes and 25 2-5 seconds—a record for the distance

George Michel of France, four course of the English Channel, finished second to collect $7,500 both men finished strongly, but showing unmistakable signs of great fatigue as a result of the long and terrible grind from noon-day until night, after ploughing their way to the shore from 200 starters in one of the greatest sporting events ever staged on the North American continent. Michel's time was 14 hours and 12 minutes, being an easy trudge ashore

Nearly a quarter of a million people welcomed Vierhaver while second thousand waited the interminable hours to greet the second prize winner with a tremendous ovation

William Brickman of New York, the "dazzler" was the lucky finish, but owing to withdrawals took third place in the prize list. His time was 18 hours and 20 minutes.

Here and There

Air mail service between Winnipeg and Regina, North Dakota, has been inaugurated and the first mail for delivery from the United States arrived recently.

The Aberdeen bull, King of the Prairie, recently sold from the Cargilfield ranch of R. R. M. Proctor, Prince of Wales to a United States breeder, equals won the premier prize at the Calgary Exhibition.

Evidences of the removal of interest of Old Country investors in Western Canada are seen in a number of recent transactions recorded of farm properties, the former owners of these farms having pledged allegiance to the King of England.

Roberts Beaupresat, when clearing his farm south of Verner on the Lake Shore Road, found a 10lb. hedgehog which was half native and half Canadian porcupine. The discovery has aroused considerable interest among sailing men in Cobalt and elsewhere who are arriving to see it.

London, Ontario, now has an air patrol. Through efforts on the part of the Chamber of Commerce an area of 50-odd miles has been patrolled and, within a month's time, will be completely equipped and marked so as to enable all air pilots to find suitable landing places.

According to a financial statement issued from the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. for the seven months ended July 31st, the first 210 miles of the new railway line added several an increase of $3,254,- 000,000. The net profits, however, decreased $600,000 due to the four million dollar increase in the operating expenses of the railway.

Quebec City lived up to its traditions on the historic gateway and fortifications when Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Premier and Mrs. Baldwin with a distinguished party of statesmen and a blaze of color. Vast crowds thronged the streets and overflowed to the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Australia, which brought the party of visitors to Canada, stopped here only.

Experiments in root prevention by means of spraying chemical over the ground from airplanes is about to be tried out by the Province of Ontario Department of Agriculture. The chemical used is merely sulphate of ammonia, which, incidentally sells for "Cola." It is said that this can be used at 1,000 acres a day, flying at a height of 50 feet. The machine will carry 700 lbs. of chemical.

Lieut.-Col. Sir Henry Thornton, head of the Canadian National Railways, has been made an honorary member of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, in recognition of his services to Canada, stressed Sir Lomer Gouin

The apple crop this year will run to 1,250,000 barrels, according to W. H. Chase of Wolfville, or a fifty percent increase over last year, while the crop of the Eastern States is reported only half that of last year.

The Department of Lands and Forests of the Province of Quebec have planted 1,000,000 trees this season, a record figure and nearly double that of last year. Next summer it is proposed to plant 2,000,000 trees.

Canada's car debt increased by $65,826,429 during the first four months of the fiscal year. At new totals at $2,295,530,946. During the corresponding period of last year, read there was a decrease of $41,261,000. Both revenues and expenditures were increased.

Tourist travel this season is in excess of previous years and is even more cosmopolitan in its derivations than formerly, according to C. E. E. Cotton, general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, back from a tour of investigation of the company's interests in Banff, Lake Louise and other favored spots.

R. J. Chambers, President and General Manager of the Associated Fruit Growers of British Columbia, states that British Columbia apples are now being sent to South Africa, China, Sweden, Norway, Germany and Denmark as well as Great Britain, the heaviest market. New York and Chicago are big consumers of box varieties, the Mcintosh and Delicious, respectively.

A further party of 60 students, representing many colleges in the British Isles arrived on the Canadian Pacific steamship Montcalm and proceeded to the harvest field of Western Canada in the care of the C.P.R. Department of Colonization and Development. They will be placed upon farms in Saskatchewan for the duration of the harvest by the British Women's Institute League.

Construction of the first commercial fish hatchery in Alberta will be started September, announces A. V. Redd, Dominion Fisheries Inspector. It will be located at the mouth of Canyon Cr. k, on the south shore of Lesser Slave Lake. It is estimated that 100,000,000 fingerlings will be propagated at the hatchery every year to maintain an unlimited supply of fish for the many commercial companies on the lake.

So great is the interest which is being evidenced in the Scottish music festival organized as part of the Highland Gathering for Banff, September 3-4 that the Canadian Pacific Ra lway has arranged with the Alberta Government telephone to install the amplifiers of the public address system that were used at the Diamond Jubilee broadcast, so that the evening concerts will be heard not only in the ballroom of the Banff Springs Hotel, but also in the lounges and in the open air on the terrace.

General industrial transportation and agricultural animals (from reports reaching him from all parts of Canada) is excellent and will continue to improve as the market for Canadian products widens, said F. W Busby, K.C., chairman and managing director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently in Edmonton. "An important factor in the latter will be a steadily increasing population," he said. "The transportation companies, of course, only reflect the general conditions of the country, and compared with last year, their gross earnings are higher, but increased costs beyond their control have resulted in lower net earnings."

Canadian Boy is King's Chorister

When the boys of the King's Chapel of St. George at Windsor and the choristers of the Westminster Abbey Choir toured Canada this year on special Canadian Pacific trains, the very Rev. Dr. Bailey, Dean of the Chapel and Rev. Canon Dr. Fellowes were much impressed by the singing of Robert Charles Palmer, an 11-year-old Edmonton boy trained by V. P. Dilley, organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity Church, Edmonton South. Later in the year his parents, Colonel and Mrs. E. H. Palmer were informed that they had been successful as a probationer in the choir of the King's Chapel of St. George. After a period of 12 months he will be taken into full membership at King's Chapel. Master Palmer who now becomes part of the choir of the King's Chapel, Canadian honors right across Canada, sailed on Canadian Pacific steamer Monteagle for England in August to take up his new duties. The case is unique in the history of the choir which has drawn its members from all parts of the world, exclusively from boys resident in Great Britain, and these first trip outside the British Isles is the converse of a welcome the choir undertaken to Canada this year.

LOCAL VETERANS ENTERTAIN HOSPITAL PATIENTS

Seven automobile loads of veterans from the soldiers' wing of the University hospital, Edmonton, arrived at the Memorial hall on Saturday afternoon, where they were greeted by President Harper and members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. A splendid lunch awaited the hospital patients and the tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. Following the repast an hour was spent with singing the old-time songs, Mrs. Charles Bentley, of Edmonton, presiding at the piano. W. T. Hiss and Charles Hornsby, Edmonton, also contributed solo selections. President W. J. Hill, of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, thanked the Fort friends for their splendid hospitality, after which "Auld Lang Syne" was sung with joined hands, and God Save the King.

The outing was greatly enjoyed by the war-riven veterans, two of whom were blind.

HELP AT HOME

The following is a letter written to the editor of the Calgary Albertan which we publish for the benefit of the Fort children. Knowing full well they will appreciate it and bless us for it:

Editor, The Albertan:

Now that the children will be twiddling their thumbs at home to pass the time, and the query "why mothers get grey" will no doubt be answered at last, it might be well to throw out a plan of action, when not only Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, C.G.I.T., etc., can endeavor to do a good turn daily, but let all children of school age turn to and follow suit. The word "usual time" that I can think of would be to give mother a real holiday. By this, I mean for each child to "do" did help around the home. Let mother for once sit back and take it easy, and perhaps catch up with her sewing, mending, knitting, etc. Unfortunate as is this precautionary measure of closing schools it will be time well spent at home if the children will only take the opportunity, when leisure is forced upon them, to volunteer for service in the home forces and take mother's place entirely, at the wash machine, the ironing board, the carpet sweeper, bed making, tidying up cellar or attic and the house in general, to say nothing of a bit of paint here and there. There are a hundred and one different ways of helping. Give mother a real rest, a well-earned one. Do not only think it over, children, but act now. A cup of tea to bed in the morning to start the day with would not come amiss. Spare a large part of these days of forced idleness for Mother.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Pte. Allison Moore Libbey, "C" Co., 49th Battn., who fell at the battle of Courcelette, France, September 15, 1916, beloved son of J. J. and Margaret E. Libbey.

O valiant hearts, who through your glory came Through dust of conflict and through battle flame;
Tranquil you lie, your knightly virtue proved,
Your memory hallowed in the land you loved.

O risen Lord, O Shepherd of our dear
Whose Cross has brought them and Whose Staff has led,
In glorious hope thine proud and sorrowing land,
Commits her children to Thy gracious hand.

Wild Life Of Western Canada

Not least among the attractions that Western Canada has for many people, whether permanent resident, tourist or sportsman, is the abundance and variety of its wild life, and now that the hunting season is at hand it is opportune to make something more than a passing reference to the value of this great asset to all of our Western Provinces.

Judged from any and all standpoints the wild duck and geese, prairie chicken, partridge and other game birds are of immense value in this country. They constitute a picturesque feature of life on the prairies and are a constant source of delight to the lover of nature. What greater pleasure can be had than to witness the flight of duck in the early dawn or as the sun sinks to rest! A man must be of a very sordid nature indeed who does not get a thrill as he watches them winging their way across the sky.

To the hunter our game birds offer the best of opportunities for the display of the keenest sportsmanship, coupled with the best sportsmanlike qualities. And, finally, they provide a welcome addition to our food supply,—a delicacy appreciated by all.

Later in the season comes the opportunity for the big game hunter to match his craft and skill with the deer and moose, in a word, the wily Elk of the West in a drawing card for thousands of people. Without these game birds and animals the West would not be the live wire wide-awake country that it is.

But human nature being what it is, it became necessary for Governments of by local communities to protect these friends of man from man himself. As a result, the open season for shooting has had to be curtailed, and the idea of "bags" greatly restricted in order to save birds and animals from extermination. And it is only through the strict observance of these laws, and a rigid compliance with all regulations, that a further curtailment of privileges now enjoyed can be avoided. Laws have been passed and regulations are enforced by Governments, not for the purpose of depriving hunters and citizens generally of the privilege of shooting, but in their own own interests that it may be preserved and continued to them.

There are still some individuals in this world, who wrongly style themselves "sportsmen," who consider it sport and something to be proud of and boast about to shoot an inordinately large number of birds in a day or a season. Those individuals revel in having their photographs taken, gun in hand, and with their "kill" displayed around them. The real sportsman, and the true citizen, looks upon all such exhibitions with regret and a loathing contempt. It is one thing to shoot for food, or for an hour or two of the real thrill that comes to the true hunter, but quite another to engage in a worse than useless orgy of wanton slaughter. The man who will kill and kill for the mere joy of killing and in order that he may boast of his "bag" is no sportsman; on the contrary, he is the enemy of all sportsmen, and, in the final analysis, his own enemy. In the language of the old fable, he is destroying the goose that lays the golden eggs.

The writer of this article has no desire to preach; he is not a blitzer. But he would, even on the needful grounds of self-interest, not to mention public safety motive, urge all the people of Western Canada to constitute themselves unofficial game guardians,—to fully and loyally observe the spirit and letter of the game laws themselves, and see to it that other people do likewise.

Heath Hunt For Whites

Tropics Only Malaria For Colored Ones Says Scientist

The white races must eventually move toward the polar regions in search of new homes, Dr. E. N. F. Brown, president of the Geographical section, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science at a meeting in Leeds, England.

"There is no real evidence that the whites are suited for permanent residence in the tropics," Dr. Brown declared. "All evidence that is exists points to the opposite. Some races will eventually occupy the warm lands.

"Eventually the tide of white settlement will definitely set northward, even to the Arctic seas, and in its flood destroy the present inhabitants."

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Thousands everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Roderick Lamb, Three Rivers, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels, and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from harmful drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mothers, whenever worry, but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

French Scientist Poorly Paid

Edouard Branly Has Worked Fifty Years Under Trying Conditions.

Edouard Branly is cited by newspapers as typifying the struggle of French scientists to work under miserable conditions. Branly is inventor of the condenser. France calls him the "father of the wireless."

Branly has for many years conducted in a ramshackle "laboratory" an aged woman who also cut a living by doing extra hours of housework in other homes. This model of all work in now the scientist's "laboratory chief." She runs the apartment and the professor's budget has to be spent.

For fifty years Branly has worked under the conditions described, drawing a salary of about $75 a month per professor and supporting his family by personal practice as a physician. These funds are held by French governors as illustrating the need to pay real men who give their lives to science.

Operates Restaurant Three Added To Paris-London Service By French Aviation Company

A "restaurant plane" has been placed in daily operation on the air line between Paris and London by a French aviation company, the Air Union, according to advices to the Department of Commerce from W. H. Kelly, commercial trade commissioner to Europe.

A cold luncheon is served, including ham, beef, chicken, Chicken, duck veal, bacon, salmon, caviar, fruits and coffee, with wine, water or tea. In the near future an electric stove will be installed for preparing warm food.

The plane carries a pilot, a radio operator, cook, waiter and ten passengers and their baggage. It is one of the fastest in Europe, covering 155 miles in two hours.

If you are musical the dancing of the perfect instructor may thank your jelly fish progenitors of seons ago. In the opinion of Dr. J. H. Supports Bay Route

Entire support for the opening of the Hudson Bay route is given by the St. John Telegraph-Journal, one of the most influential newspapers of the Maritime provinces. "In fairness to the west," it says, "attempts to operate the Bay route should cease. The plan is going through. It should be expedited. Let us hope that the results will fully meet the expectations of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. They were made a resolute fight for what they believed to be their due, and the rest of the country should wish them all good luck."

Railway Commission Ruling Is Cause Of Worry To American Railway Interests

The Washington Post, under the caption "Canada's Unkind Cut," says:

"The Canadian railway commission has apparently put a crimp into the transportation interest of the Great Lakes and the American railroads that join the lakes to the seaboard. Incidentally it would appear that the order fixing freight rates from the great grain fields of Canada northwest to Montreal is likely to result in diverting 25,000,000 bushels of export grain from American seaports to the ships that make Montreal, instead of New York, Boston and Baltimore, their terminal terminal.

"The Canadian commission ordered a reduction of the rate on grain from 24.5 cents per hundred pounds to 16.5 cents from the head of the lakes to Montreal and the Canadian seaboard. This reduction is the established ratio of nearly 50 per cent. naturally caused consternation in American shipping circles and some means of retaliation is being sought.

Not only will this reduction materially affect the earnings of the ships and railroads so largely interested in the commerce of the whole lake region, but it may have a decided effect upon the milling interests of Minneapolis. It has been the custom for many years for the people of Manitoba to ship their wheat to Minneapolis and Duluth to be ground into flour for export. This grain in transit free of duty under bond, and the flour has been transported over railroads or by water through Buffalo to Atlantic ports for export.

"Under the new rate the Canadian commission result in diverting Canadian wheat and other grains through the ice-bound Montreal seaport to Buffalo, the effect on the earnings of the transportation lines on this side of the border will be very considerable. The grain interests will endeavor to induce American railroads to appeal to the Interstate commerce commission for permission to meet the Canadian cut."

Feeding Market Hogs

Feeding Has a Distinct Influence On the Quality Of Finished Market Animal

A large proportion of pigs marketed fall in one or more respects to comply with the standard required by either the pork butcher or the bacon curer, a frequent fault being overfatness. Often this is due to insufficient breeds and breeding, but live stock men all admit that feeding, whether it be bad or good has a very distinct influence on the quality of the finished market animal in fact some feeders go so far as to claim that proper feeding methods are of equal importance to correct breeding. In order that hog raisers may have ready available information on proper methods of feeding the Dominion Animal Husbandman has issued a pamphlet on "Feeds and Feeding for the Market Hog," which may be obtained from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. This bulletin, which is entitled, "Feeds and Feeding," deals with the following subjects, namely: Fat-balanced rations, injurious substitutes, deficient rations, over or under feeding, lack of intelligent understanding of nutritional requirements generally, all exert a particularly powerful influence during the early growing period of their brief term of development. For instance the demand of the bacon curer is for small well finished, lean-bodied carcasses, with a proportion of lean and a low proportion of offal. To obtain these the feeding must be correctly carried out. The pamphlet is independent of the animal. The use of inferior feeding stuffs, or the misuse of suitable feeds, will cause otherwise fine carcasses to turn out practically worthless or to be refused seriously in value.

World's Record In Egg Laying

White Leghorn Belonging To University Of British Columbia is World Beater

The Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Agassiz, B.C., Mr. E. M. Hicks, B.S.A., claims several world's records for egg laying at the farm. In order that these claims may be exactly understood the official report for the year 1926 is here quoted almost verbatim. After saying that previously 215 eggs per bird was regarded as high as could reasonably be hoped for, the report continues: "The contest just completed finished up with an average of 251 eggs per bird, that is 100,324 eggs from 400 birds, which is considered to be a world's record. Apart from this several other world's records were made both as to pen production (ten birds in a pen) and from individual birds. The pen that won the annual with a score of 2,067.5 points established a world's record. The pen which secured highest for one month with a total of 2,324 eggs or an average of 774 eggs per bird made a world's record for number of eggs. The Barred Rock 301 finished in the lead with a total of 309 points with 276 eggs also made a world's record for individual birds. The outstanding record of all, however, goes to a B.C. White Leghorn belonging to the University of British Columbia, namely 251 eggs in 344 days."

Points are awarded on the following basis: one point for each egg averaging 24 ounces to the dozen, one-tenth of a point deducted for each ounce that averages less than 24 to the dozen; bonus of one-tenth of a point for each ounce of eggs that average more than 24 to the dozen. Eggs averaging more than 27 ounces to the dozen are regarded as just averaging that number. Eggs averaging less than 20 ounces to the dozen, exceedingly badly shaped eggs, and soft-shell eggs are not credited.

Canada Is Building Up And Developing Trade Into Remote Corners of the Earth

When Products Are Dangerous

Uniform Heat Count Often Spoiled Canned Goods Says Bacteriologist

Are you one of the many thousands of people who catch cold after cold, or who are hardly ever free from troublesome catarrh, or some similar ailment?

If so, you had better empty your pockets, brush the linings thoroughly, and then have them washed with a good disinfectant.

A bacteriologist has been examining the fluff, dust, dirt, and so on, contained in a man's pockets, and he identified seventeen varieties of germs and estimated the total number at 1,000,000.

Now the fine dust was the deadly poison cordigite, rubbed from copper coins by friction; phosphorus from matches; aloetine in powder, and other harmful substances. Of the germs that produce catarrh there were thousands!

Whenever a handkerchief picked up a few of these germs they were inhaled, and if the conditions were favorable to them, the owner of the handkerchief got another attack of catarrh.

That the comparatively heavy cereals remained in the bottom of the lining was a blessing. Wiped on to the lips the result would have been sorrowful.

When we wonder where we ought like as that silkworm we need not be crazy cause go farther than our own pockets. Fluff—especially if it becomes damp through rain—is a rearing ground for germs.

The moral is obvious — keep your pockets clean.

No really good drama-queen is ashamed of its own record.

Some men actually believe that posters well worth considering.

Notes Making Ears Larger

If you have large ears and they are getting bigger, this may be the cause, Dr. Pfeifer, Vienna ear specialist, says the noise and clamor of modern city life are producing a race of elephant-eared men and women and says he can confirm this by measurements of his patients' ears for the last 20 years. If city noises are the cause why should ears grow larger when what humanity needs is something that will muffle sound?

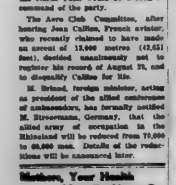
Moisture, Your Health Must Be Up to Par



—Drawn Double

London, Ont.—"During one of my seasonal periods I was so weak and nervous, I could not be around, very long at a time. I felt heavy all the time and suffered with all stomach. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and after I began taking it I felt better. I ordered four of all the ingredients, made my own medicine, and soon was well and strong. My nerves were steady, and I kept on well. I could do all my own work and I had a fine healthy baby."

If you find that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription puts the stomach, liver and bowels in perfect condition, purifies and enriches the blood, you can obtain it in liquid form, or tablets, from druggists. All dealers.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratories, Buffalo, N.Y., if you desire a 112-page book on Diseases and Hygiene of Women. Paper bound.

New Narcotic Gas

Brings Deep Sleep and Man Its After Effects

At the last meeting of the National society in Berlin, Professor Lingner described his experience with the new narcotic gas technically known as H. 167. Up to the present it has been exclusively in our other ether or chloroform in surgical cases. Gases recently introduced another means, a pure gas entitled narkylen, made of purified acetylene, but for various reasons its use has not become general.

It was not any danger connected with the use of ether or chloroform that induced the attempt to produce H. 167, but the discomfort connected with their use. Many sick people are unpleasantly affected by ether or chloroform; the feel of the mask, the choking sensation, the knowledge that they are being put to sleep by force, combine to make them nervous. On awakening they are plagued with thirst.

H. 167 does not have to be breathed in. It is applied by means of a syringe and works from the intestines. Its object is to produce the patient's spirits into a natural sleep, lasting for several hours, and fresh on after effects. Professor Lingner, in a group of unconsciousness during which no pain can be felt and memories are removed. The drug has no effect upon the heart, but sometimes affects the breathing.

Other physicians related their experiences to the society. About a thousand cases of operations with H. 167 were reported, but the method is complicated does not consider it possible to form a definite opinion as to the value of the drug until far more evidence has been collected. For the present the use of H. 167 therefore has been confined to a few great central stations for continued experiments.

Goes To Argentine

W. J. JACKMAN

W. J. Jackman, of Clover Bar, Alberta, is now on his way to Buenos Ayres, Argentine, where he will make his headquarters as representative of the Canadian Wheat Pool for South America. Mr. Jackman has been on the board of directors for the Alberta Wheat Pool since the formation of that organization. He has resided in Alberta for over 23 years, coming in 1905 from the old country to farm. During his residence in Alberta he has always taken an active interest in farmers' organizations. His intelligent knowledge of pool operations, his organizing and business ability and his knowledge of the Spanish language qualify Mr. Jackman to be an splendid representative of the Canadian Pool in South America.

Use Sweet Underground

Man Should Bury Moles in Earth To Obtain Heat Supply

Man should learn nothing to get heat from the interior of the earth instead of destroying a highly elaborate substance like coal, the British Association of Science was told by J. S. Hodgson, mechanical engineer.

He declared that heat stored in great spheres inside the earth is at least 30,000,000 times that available in the world's coal reserves. Hot rocks are found at 6,000 feet, only a few miles below the surface and much closer in volcanic areas.

The method he advocated drilling shafts five miles apart. Workers boring the holes would be protected by heat proof suits, including liquid air containers to supply cool dry air.

The lecturer estimated that a cubic mile of hot rock would yield as much heat as burning 200,000,000 tons of coal.

Make Glue From Fish Scales

Fish glue prepared from scales by natives of the Congo region in Africa, is used for strengthening their straw hats as well as canoes. Popular Mechanics magazine says. The natives prepare the glue by mixing the scales of fish with strips of various plants and boiling the mixture. The materials to be waterproofed are then dipped in this glue and allowed to dry.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Request, or the People, verses 1-5. Rehoboam succeeded his father, David, to the throne of Israel. The people through Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, asked for a reduction of their taxes. For after many years of peace and prosperity under David and Solomon, Rehoboam would not be king unless he promised to lighten the burdens which his father had laid upon us. Rather, said we will serve thee." This was the condition on which the North-ten tribes were to pledge their loyalty to Rehoboam. King The king was not ready to answer the people and asked for time to consider their request.

Rehoboam's first advisers were the aged men who had served his father and his grandfather. They told him that if he would be kind to the people now and would grant their request, they would be faithful servants to him. Rather than to be oppressed by taxation, they would serve him. This was the counsel of experience. The elders of the people who had been in Solomon's court. "I pray thee, lighten thou the yoke upon us," they said to Rehoboam, "and will do thee service." "I am with thee to help and save thee," God said to them in the days of old. "Come your servants, our sons." They seem to counsel fair promises rather than actually fair dealing, but they certainly advocated conciliatory measures.

That is the best government which desires to make the people happy and learns how to make them happy. Meeting.

Naval Men Excluded From Active Politics

Cannot Make Any Speeches Or Serve On Committees

Naval men will be virtually excluded from active politics by a new order issued by the Admiralty.

The order forbids any naval officer or man to make an address to electors or in any manner allow himself to become a candidate for Parliament. The prohibition applies also to the Parliament of Northern Ireland, the Free State Dail and the Malta Parliament, and forbids speaking for or appearing on the platform at political meetings or serving on election committees.

It is provided that naval officers must seek permission from naval authorities if they wish to enter the political field.

BRITISH SCHOOL BOYS VISIT CANADA

A party of British public school boys arrived in Canada on Saturday on the White Star Liner Alberic to make a tour of Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Algonquin Park and New York, to become better acquainted with Canadian boys and to understand the points of view of other nations by means of personal friendships. They are in charge of Rev. E. S. Fellowes-Parrow, M.A., F.R.S.S., of Cambridge University, third from the left in the front row, and Rev. Howard J. Bass, M.A., of Oxford University, on the extreme right.

Invade Railroad Field

Number Of Women Employees Is Rapidly Increasing

The rapid advance that women have made numerically into the railroad field during the past seven years is contained in figures published in the Railroad Journal, Philadelphia. It reports that in the period under review the number of women employed on class one railroads has increased more than 50 per cent. They now constitute one-thirtieth of the total staff. Their number in 1926 is given as 61,-000.

Women were employed in almost every branch of railroad service last year including the in train service and 270 in shopwork, but the most numerous class was naturally that engaged in clerical and semi-clerical occupations, accounting for 71.17, the magazine reports. The next largest class in 1926 was that employed in cleaning, namely, 7,322; other large figures being "personal service" (waitresses, laundresses, etc.) 1,811, and telegraph and telephone operators, 1,427.

CHOLERA, CRAMPS, PAINS IN THE STOMACH RELIEVED BY

Mrs. D. Laurett, Back Bay, N.B., writes: "Last summer my children were very ill with cholera and relieved nearly every orange and pains in their stomachs. I tried several remedies, but nothing seemed to do them any good. A friend of mine told me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle and gave them a few doses and they soon found relief. Now I will never be without it in the summer months."

STRONGER URGE FOR REDUCTION IN ARMAMENTS

Geneva.—That competitive armaments create an atmosphere of war and that reduction of armaments must be doggedly fought for and achieved was the outstanding feature of the addresses at the League of Nations assembly.

The Japanese delegate Minoshiko Adachi said Japan ardently desired that ruinous competition in armaments be brought to a standstill and lowered to a level strictly essential to national security. He pledged his country's co-operation with the League's preparatory disarmament commission, which another speaker, Frich Lubren, Foreign Minister of Finland, insisted was useless to consume anew before the great military period arrived the divergencies of views which had appeared at previous meetings of the commission.

H. Lafgren criticized the council of the League for its passive attitude on political problems in the giant zone, although it is believed, to the controversy between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, and showed no terror of the great powers when he uttered a caustic criticism of certain members of the League in discussing burning political questions nearer home.

After declaring the old pre-war methods were still in vogue, Felix Calonder, Foreign Minister of Latvia, warned cautiously that the new military budgets of 1926, including naval and air forces, amounted in Europe to one billion, 4 1/2 half dollars, about the same as in 1913, and that the surrogate number of soldiers, more than five million, was only slightly less than the figure for 1913.

Moreover, he remarked, the technical equipment of armies was far more developed than before the great war.

"We are living under the conditions of armed peace which prevailed before the war," he declared, "and under a system of competitive armaments which many of us believe will sooner or later lead the world into war."

French Grateful For British Sympathy

Have Protested "Golden Book" To Chamberlain In Appreciation

Paris.—For months French artisans and statesmen have been busy preparing a "golden book," which has been given by Foreign Minister Briand and other Government officials to Sir Austen Chamberlain and Chancellor, respectively.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs explains the motive of the gift—gratitude of France for British sympathy and aid. The Premier stresses the importance to world peace of Anglo French co-operation and at the same time expresses French admiration sympathy and affection for Britain M Clemenceau, the wartime Premier, writes: "Your best comrade not in the telling but in the peril."

The book contains views of the most interesting places in London and the Colonies and is replete with outstanding French statesmen, soldiers and diplomats.

Demands Repeal Of Trades Union Act

Alternative Set By Congress is Resignation Of Baldwin Government

Edmonton.—The Trades Union Congress, by a large vote, replied to Premier Baldwin's appeal for industrial peace, carried by general acclamation a resolution demanding the immediate repeal of the Trade Unions Act (restricting certain trade union activities) and failing this, urging with all the power at its command that the Baldwin Government resign.

The resolution emphasized that the Government was not indicated by peace. It said, however, that peace was hindered by the government's policy in the Lancashire coalfield, the attitude on the workers' wages; its action in breach ning the miners' hours of labor and the forcible rate which has displayed in trade disputes and in the Trades Unions Act."

Night Be Message From Distressed Plane

Carrier Pigeon Found Near Mission City Bearing SOS Message

Mission City, B.C.—Bearing the letters SOS and the figures 40622 on a metal band on its leg, a carrier pigeon, which, it is thought, may have been freed from a distressed plane or ship in the ranch of S. Erickson, farmer, living at Silver Hill, seven miles from here.

The bird, and another carrier pigeon, alighted at the ranch in an exhausted condition and very thin as though they had flown a considerable distance. One of the pigeons flew away again.

Abandon Search For Fliers

Hope Of Finding Trace Of Missing Dole Aviators Has Vanished

San Diego, Cal.—The last hope that the American war craft would come and some trace of the seven missing Hawaiian fliers apparently vanished as the seven destroyer, Omaha, flagship of Admiral Lake McNamee and six destroyers rested here on their arrival from Honolulu after searching an area of approximately 450,000 square miles in extent.

Admiral McNamee reported that not a single trace of the missing Dole fliers was discovered.

Leave For Hudson Bay

Montreal.—Following upon the departure of the Canadian government merchant marine steamer, Canadian Raider, for Hudson Bay, via Sydney, N.S., where a cargo of coal will be loaded, the department of railways and canals has decided to send the passenger, Ocean Eagle, to Hudson Bay. The tug was formerly the St. Aryans of the Saint John Drydock Company. It is not known how long the Ocean Eagle will remain at Port Churchill.

Would Extend Organization

Guelph, Ont.—Discussion of a concerted effort just now getting under way to incorporate all employees of the different branches of the postal service clerks, railway mail carriers, porters, letter-carriers and all others —into one body featured the third annual convention of the Dominion Postal Clerks of Ontario, held here.

Fire Prevention Week Begins October Ninth

Proclamation Contained in Extra Edition Of Canada Gazette

Ottawa.—An extra edition of the Canada Gazette contains a proclamation appointing the week commencing October 9 "fire prevention week" and calling upon citizens of the Dominion to inspect their premises. Fire drills are called for in schools and institutions. Boy Scout leaders are asked to give special instruction, teachers and municipal officials are asked to give training in fire prevention in the school and publicity is asked for by-laws and regulations pertaining to the question.

The proclamation is based on the statistics that the average annual loss of insurable property exceeds $10,-000,000 and that 200 persons annually lose their lives as a result of fires.

Pioneer Of West Dead

Captain Bruce Griggs Brought Early Settlers Into Dominion

Winnipeg.—Capt. Bruce Griggs, one of the most picturesque figures of the Red River settlement frontier days, is dead at Seattle, Wash.

Capt. Bruce was one of the pioneers connected with the steamship transportation systems between the Northwestern States and Canada, bringing many settlers into the Dominion previous to the completion of the first transcontinental railway line. He was 73 years of age.

Starts Aerial Mail Service

Montreal.—Canada's first attempt to start an aerial mail service was made September 7, when Major Tedlow, of the Canadian Aerial Service, hopped off from the Canadian Vickers' yards at Maisonneuve aboard a Vimmes biplane for Father Point, where he made arrangements to take mails off the Steamers of France when on their run in the St. Lawrence waterway.

More Grain Through Vancouver Port

Reduction In Rate From Calgary Will Increase Shipments

Vancouver.—The recent order of the Dominion Railway Board reducing by 20 cents the rate on flour and grain from Calgary to the Pacific coast means that the movement of grain through Vancouver this year will be nearly 75,000,000 bushels, said G. G. McGeer addressing the Vancouver South Federal Liberal Executive. "This is a guarantee of that, and if it is carried out," said the freight rates expert of the Provincial Government. "And," he added, "that means Vancouver will become one of the greatest grain ports in the world, third or fourth."

British Columbia still had a complaint, however, he asserted, declaring on that the rate on the 945 miles haul to Quebec City had been placed at 15 cents, while that for the 642 miles haul to Vancouver was 20 cents "We don't care what the rate to Quebec is," Mr McGeer exclaimed. "We don't care how low it has to be to help Quebec to get the bunfiower away from New York. But Vancouver wants the same treatment. Vancouver is now a much more convenient port for Asia."

Canadian Heads Committee

Geneva.—Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Canadian delegate, was appointed chairman of one of six committees appointed by the Assembly of the League of Nations, Senator Dandurand is chairman of the committee which deals with the following subjects: Admission, economic conference and the work of the various organizations of the League of Nations.

Lowest Birth and Death Rate

London.—The lowest birth rate ever reported in England and Wales, except in war time, is shown by the report of Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the ministry of health, for 1926. There was 681,000 births and 452 000 deaths. The latter also was the lowest ever recorded. The 1925 report shows 710,583 births and 472,000 deaths.

Stripped Of Aviation Honors

French Flier Charged With Falsifying Report Of Altitude Record

Paris.—Jean Callion, who gained fame as an altitude flier, stands disgraced and stripped of his honors.

The sports committee of the French Aero Club after a hearing on the charges that he falsified the barograph records of his latest record breaking attempt, decided that they were fully proved.

It inflicted the severest penalty within its power—disqualification for life—and struck from its list the previous records with which he was credited.

The French altitude record, by virtue of the club's action now says, is Emil Leoloize and the world's record is former Lieutenant J. A. Macready, of the United States army air force in the charge against Callion, as published in the French press, were that he inserted on his barograph a sheet on which a curve had already been plotted in invisible ink, to indicate a record breaking flight of 12,-000 meters, or 39,764 feet. It was alleged that after taking off for the pretended attempt he shot steam against the paper, thus making the ink legible and subsequently submitted the sheet as proof of his record breaking claim.

Germany Affected By Polish Tariff

Hit Harder Than Other Countries By New Ruling

Warsaw.—Customs tariff will be increased by 100 per cent., effective in four months, to all countries not protected by trade treaty with Poland, an official bulletin announced.

The ruling will hit hardest Poland's western neighbor, Germany, with whom negotiations for a reciprocal accord have been in progress five years without result.

One of the difficulties preventing the conclusion of a Polish-German agreement is Germany's insistence that Polish Export on German citizens now residing on Polish soil

Several other points, also foreign to trade, are causing delay, through the two Governments are practically agreed as far as commerce itself is concerned.

Will Of J. Ogden Armour

Chicago.—The will of J. Ogden Armour, who once was worth an estimated $200 000,000, was filed for probate and disposed of an individual estate of $1,000,000.

The will left $100,000 outright to his daughter, Lolita, now Mrs. John J Mitchell, Jr., and an annuity of $12,000 to her husband.

The remainder of the estate, except for a few minor bequests of from $1,000 to $5,000 to servants, was left in trust for the benefit of the widow and daughter.

Predict Early Winter

Lerchland, Col.—Two flocks of wild geese have been seen flying South for the winter. The early appearance of the birds, which usually do not migrate until Fall, has led to predictions of an early and severe winter. Sportsmen fear the geese all will be gone before the hunting season opens.

Return From Visit To England

DOMINION HAS DEVELOPED A MARKED IDENTITY

Vancouver.—There can be no question of the existence or distinguishing characteristics which give to Canada a marked identity of her own among the nations of the world, Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, said here addressing the Canadian Club on the subject, "The ments of Canadian Nationality."

"All across Canada the pronounced characteristics of the people are keen and move upward," the speaker said. "And there is unity everywhere. No matter where one travels in Canada one feels at home, but when one from the line into the United States there is not the same feeling.

Sir Robert credited the Maritimes provinces with being responsible for the Canada of today. He said if there had been no Maritimes there probably would have been no British Canada. The founding of Halifax in 1749 was one of the most memorable events ever made by Great Britain. He also gave credit to the United Empire Loyalists for playing an important part in laying truly the foundations of the Dominion

"Halifax held Nova Scotia and New Brunswick loyal," said Sir Robert, "and the Maritimes always count provinces a very important part of Canada."

The speaker told of the extreme difficulties which the early British settlers in Canada had to face. Even these conditions bred men of resource and adaptability.

Sir Robert dealt on the question of the French in Canada, commenting upon the difficulties encountered through two entirely different peoples living side by side. The wonder was that there was not more trouble in the early days. All the progress of the two had come to know each other better, an element of tolerance had developed, and there was a better feeling today than ever before.

Trying To Adjust Immigration Rules

Change Would Simplify Problem Of Canadians Working In Border Cities

Toronto.—The Toronto Mail and Empire publishes the following despatch from Washington:

"A new program of amendments to immigration and naturalization laws is to be worked out and suggested to the Labor Department in anticipation of action upon that subject in the next congress.

Secretary of Labor Davis, returning today from an inspection of border operations, outlined his plans to his assistants and announced that immigration in future, if he has his way, will be on a much stricter basis.

Changes in the law he proposed include: Revision of quota laws so as to smooth out present difficulties between Canada and persons Canadian aliens to work in American border cities, such as Detroit and Buffalo, without undue hardship.

John Oliver's Will

Vancouver.—Probate was granted in supreme court by Mr. Justice Morrison of the late Premier John Oliver's will in a four-page document executed July 7, 1923 and signed "Hon. John Oliver." The estate disposed of a gross estate of $75,918, which is subject to liabilities of $584, so that the net valuation is $77,-945. Mr. Oliver died August 17 at Victoria. The widow, five sons and three daughters are the sole beneficiaries.

Two Killed In Collision

Calgary.—Two engineers were killed, one passenger injured, and more than a score suffering from slight bruises and shock, when C.P.R. passenger trains caming No. 7 and second No. 2, the Imperial Limited, met in a head-on collision at Dalmead, 21 miles east of Calgary, on the main line.

To me an old expression, it "warms the cockles of the heart" when one thinks of the thoughtful and kindly action on the part of the members (and their wives) of the local branch of the Canadian Legion in entertaining the other patients of the University hospital last Saturday afternoon. It was the means of providing a ride through and a vision of a part of the country for which they have suffered these long, weary years, and at the end of their little jaunt a sturdy spread of food and flowers, cheerful faces and some music. The occasion provided quite a change in the dreary life of these worn soldiers who enlisted for the duration of the war, but who were so unfortunate their period of enlistment was changed to "duration of life." Though power was given for nine years ago the war still continues for these poor fellows and they will continue to suffer until the last one of them is "changed guard." It is pleasant to think that some of our fellow-townsmen and women were able to afford them an enjoyable change in the monotonous routine of their existence.

THE SPORTSMAN'S CREED

I believe that a sportsman should—

1. Never in sport endanger human life;
2. Never kill wantonly, needlessly or brutally;
3. Obey the laws, work for better laws, and uphold the law enforcing authorities;
4. Respect the rights and feelings of farmers and property owners;
5. Always treat land birds and game in season;
6. Never be a game hog;
7. Discourage in every way the taking of game for commercial purposes;
8. Save and reseed the natural cover of wild life in the interests of science;
9. Love Nature and its denizens;
10. Be a Sportsman.

Travel in Effigy on Pioneer Railway

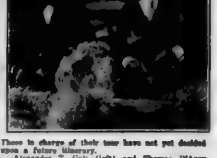
Some of the figures and, at left, conductor, by those present at Vancouver's Pioneer Day celebrations.

Traveling in effigy on the Railway that made possible the union of the Canadian provinces, the Fathers of Confederation recently journeyed from Montreal to Vancouver via the Canadian Pacific Railway. Their trip was part of the program of a Vancouver department store in connection with the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations.

The "Fathers" were outfitted in Toronto by Merle Foster after months of research among the archives at Ottawa. Little did these stalwarts dream of the reproductions of themselves would travel in far off western cities there real selves would consider an impossible task.

Every consideration was given for their welfare, they were well cared for, protected with salt grain; their bodies swathed in raw flannel of excellent quality. They journeyed de luxe in individual crates wrapped in packing paper—dustproof and exclusive.

On arrival carpenters carefully helped them from their cocoons, primed and brushed their clothes as meticulously as if they had been mailmonkeys in a fashion show. They were then comfortably seated around the conference table where they continued in conference last night for three solid weeks.



These in charge of their tour have not yet doubted upon a future itinerary.

The magistrate proceeded to give judgment. "Stand up," he commanded again.

Helmi stood.

"You are — she understands, — I thought she did."

Addressing Helmi he said, "You could have cleared yourself perhaps of one charge, but what is the use? You have no option but to send you to jail. You shall be confined for three months in the Women's Hospital."

Miss Rodgers was on her feet, "I appeal the case," she said.

The court room began to empty. Only the reporters held their seats. The remainder were going home or the women would go back to stack the dishes they left in the table; others went to inspect the shop window; two of them strolled leisurely down to the White Lunch to have a cup of coffee and a piece of pie. It was near lunch time, and as Mrs. Morris remarked to her friend Mrs. Edgar: "When a woman has only herself to cook for, she never seems when or what she eats."

They discussed the case as they sat at the marble topped table.

"That girl was innocent," said Mrs Morris, "but foolish. I'll bet she's shielding a man."

"Oh, I don't know," remarked her friend; "I remember when I was her age I had a heart crush on a woman about ten years older than I was. I forget her name now, but she was my goddess for a time. While was something fine in that girl's case — something noble. It seems a pity to send to jail, where she will have to see and hear everything that's vile and ugly. The whole thing is rotten."

"Well," said the other one, "why don't we try to do something?"

"What's the use?" Mrs. Edgar was breaking her pie with her fork. "Women never hold together. That's why people like Magistrate Windsor can insult the women's organizations and get away with it. The women's clubs are trying to make things better, and they get blamed for what goes wrong. You and I do nothing and therefore are never blamed for anything. Great system!"

"Well, some of the women in the clubs are funny," said Mrs Morris. "I saw one of them the other day getting her money out of a pocket in her petticoat. She's one of their big pompoms, too. Why don't they keep up with the times, visit beauty parlors and learn the use of rouge."

The other woman considered a moment. "Still, there's nothing criminal in keeping money in the pocket of your petticoat," she said, "when you come to think of it. She was lucky to have money anywhere. And life abounds in odd sights. I saw one of our foremost citizens trying to hook the door of her suite with a button hook last night. But no longer are we not doing anything to make things better we should not be critical. You won't forget this afternoon — don't be late—I am just having four tables."

CHAPTER VIII.

The Girls' Friendly Home stands on a hill overlooking the city, a great bare, white building with glittering windows, which in the rays of the setting sun have the look that the Moors saw, yet like the bush are not consumed.

It seemed to be ever looking down with its many eyes on the struggling people below, watching them with kindly glances, ever beckoning to those who are sore bested in the city's pale to come up and find safety. Indeed, some such conception was in the mind of those who built it, and in the dedication services many an eloquent speaker told of the soothing peace on city's hillside and tempting invitations, and rejoiced that here on this quiet hill-top the people of God had made an island of safety where the young girls might be safe in life's cruel jungle could find sanctuary.

There were numerous references in the dedication speeches to the lost lambs of the flock, pierced by many a thorn; the white lily bruised and broken and crushed in the dust of life, the lost piece of silver which cannot such a household upheaval. The speeches were made by the ministers of the city, who in large proportion made up the Board; the other members being of that type of middle-aged portly gentlemen who are usually alluding to as "solid business men."

The Board had its troubles, and sometimes even contemplated adding women to its numbers. Some of the ministers made that suggestion, speaking enthusiastically of the excellent help they received from Ladies' Aid and other societies in their churches. As a rule the solid business men opposed the proposal. It was felt that the presence of ladies might prove embarrassing. There were certain matters which were best discussed by men alone — besides, there was always a danger of women being too emotional. There was the Auxiliary Board, composed entirely of women, who held bazaars, teas, chicken suppers, made towels and aprons, looked after the girls' clothing, solicited donations and in general did all those little unimportant, yet necessary things which women do so well. It was felt by the majority of the Board that the women had their part, and it would be better not to

Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Carleton, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had been using it about eight every month. One day when I was not able to get up my mother brought me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second and a third in my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me completely and I was able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. Lamoureux, Box 168, Carleton, Ontario.

W. N. U. 1688

a merit system in the Home, which was rather alarming. She unlocked the doors; insisted that the girls lay aside the maid colored uniforms which the Board had decreed should be worn, and actually took the girls out with her in turn to the movies and to concerts and lectures. She also had her friends come with their cars every week to take the girls for drives. She planned parties, entertainments, excursions and indeed made the Home such a happy place that not one of the girls attempted to escape, although they had every opportunity to do so.

The Board looked on calmly disapproving, yet hoping. But the matter came to a crisis at a meeting where the Matron was present by request time of the meeting and one of the more solid, (no pun is by pointing out that there should be some difference in the way well behaved girls and fallen girls are treated. Here the Matron interrupting to ask him to retract the word "fallen," She gave the Board members pretty plain talk by the things she said about the double standard of morals which was made by men and which should not, and went on to tell them that many of the girls were innocent young things from the country who had come to work in the city to help the family at home, and had fallen victims to men's lust and hypocrisy. The very men who led them astray, before the eyes of some of them, and regarded as respectable men in society, no doubt now spoke of these girls as "fallen women."

It was most embarrassing. She hinted that there should be women on the Board and questioned the ability of men to quite understand the problems of rescue work.

Anyone can see from this what sort of woman the Matron was and why the Board dismissed her. The girls had hated her and had done their best to carry out all her wishes. They had scrubbed and washed and polished the Home until it sparkled; they had planted a garden and made flower beds; they had knitted and crocheted and embroidered; they had studied, sung, prayed, and bravely tried to live a useful happy life. The day she left the scenes were disgraceful—not a girl out a mouthful—they just sat and sobbed. The Board could see they had done well to get rid of her; she was having such a weakening effect on the girls.

The Board decided then and there to have a man for the head assisted by a woman of course. "There must needs be a woman" said the good old Dr. Smythe, "to appearance calm at least." So, after diligent care, Mr. and Mrs. Wymark were found secure where in the East where they were doing evangelistic work. Their letters of recommendation abounded in such terms as "earnest co-operation," "moral worthiness," "deep sincerity," "unfailing devotion," "passion for souls," etc. The Board was pleased with their joint and several appearance.

Would Avert Oil Famine

Scientist Discovers Process To Get More From Wells

An impressive government scientist has developed a process which will permit nearly 200 per cent. of the oil supply to be taken from oil wells instead of 15 per cent., which is the present average.

Dr. F. G. Nutting discovered that by the simple use of working-gas this centre fill per cent of hidden oil could be discovered and extracted from the sand.

Laboratory tests were 100 per cent. perfect, but in actual field operation the results may not be so great. Oil experts say if it passes 40 per cent. it will stave off for a considerable time the anticipated oil famine which is expected to develop at the end of six years.

Will Rebuke War Relics

U.S. Colonel Has Large Collection Of German and Austrian Souvenirs

A man of 61, whose efficient manner and youthful tone belie his age and his attainments, sailed from New York recently, en route to Hamburg, Germany. With him a small wooden box and a large packing case.

The man, who is Lieut.-Col. George Crosse Cook, R.C., U.S.A., possessor of a Conspicuous Service Cross for work during the World War, will, if asked, refuse to the contents of the wooden box and the packing case as "junk," but he has cherished that junk enough to have catalogued every item of its 500 component parts.

Specifically, the small box contains such things as caps, epaulettes, citations, gay beads, Iron Crosses, wound medals, etc. all belonging to German or Austrian troops who fought the Allies, and picked up by Col. Cook during his service in France. The packing case is filled with Zeppelin parts, pieces of shell, helmets and larger trophies.

Col. Cook, for example, will try to find Alfred Horton, of Gorbia, Surrey. For in the small wooden box is an infantry cap and a shoulder strap which were taken from Horton by the French at Hasbrae in Artois, July 9, 1916. Col. Cook wants to restore the cap and strap and learn Horton's version of the war.

Another item Col. Cook wants to give back is a wound decoration, a German medal, found on a soldier of that war bestowed upon Wladislaus Jaglin of the Fifth Company, 462nd Prussian Infantry, but being wounded later times at the front. Jaglin was captured on September 30, 1918, at Montigny.

THE TONIC THAT GIVES STRENGTH

After Acute Diseases the Blood Must Be Built Up Before Recovery Is Complete

Fevers and other acute diseases like pneumonia and influenza, leave the patient weak, with pale blood and unstrung nerves. The period of convalescence, as often long and trying, and years of poor health have frequently followed in the wake of such an attack of influenza or pneumonia.

Much of this sort of misery could be avoided by taking steps to build up the blood so that it can carry to the nerves and other tissues of the body the elements they need to restore their normal functional activities. To build up the blood and restore it to its rich, healthy color, no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last it is their unfailing power to the blood and thus restore good health and vigor.

The value of these pills in conditions described above is shown by the statement of Mrs. Rebecca O'Brien, Pembroke, Ont., who says:—"In May, 1922, I was stricken with pneumonia, and at the time but little hope was held out for my recovery. However, with the best of care I was able to walk about after three months. But I did not recover my strength. The doctor told me I was anaemic. My appetite was poor, I grew nervous and restless, I was losing flesh and practically gave up hope of ever being strong again. However, remembering that in my girlhood I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with decided success, I decided to try them again. By the time I had used two boxes there was no doubt the pills were helping me. Continuing their use I gained in health and strength and regained duties. I continued taking the pills, however, until I had used twelve boxes, by which time I was enjoying better health than at any time in the previous ten years. I can speak for what the pills have done for me, I give this statement in the hope that it may point the way to health to some other weak, despondent woman."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I tried many different remedies without success, when I decided to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed entirely." (Signed) Miss Louise J. Bolen, Hensall, Ont., Feb. 7, 1927.

BUSINESS DEFINED

Business is a game. It consists of manoeuvers to change old customers and non-customers into active ones.

To successfully play the game of business requires the use of advertising, because advertising makes business.

Printing is a device for making advertising, which means that as printing makes advertising and advertising makes business, business is impossible without advertising.

A fool there was and he saved his cents, even so you and I; but he took them out of the old strong box when a salesman called with some wild-cat stocks, and the fool was stripped to his shirt and socks, even as you and I.

OLD-TIMERS OF FORT CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shora honored by their fellow-citizens

One of the happiest events in the history of Fort Saskatchewan took place on Monday evening when Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shora were the guests of friends in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. The Memorial hall was jammed with the adult population of the town, many old timers from the country and a large number from Edmonton.

When the guests had assembled the bridal party was brought from their home and conducted to the platform at the head of the room to the strains of the wedding march. Accompanying the bride and groom were Mrs. Caleb Shora, sister of the bride, who is visiting here, and who was flower girl at the wedding fifty years ago, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, of Edmonton, who are friends of forty years standing.

The platform was brilliantly decorated with gold and white streamers, the table being centred with a handtiered bride's cake and lighted with candles in gold candlesticks. The room was also profusely decorated with streamers, autumn leaves and berries.

Mr. W. H. (Mobby) White, ex-M.P., spoke at some length, introducing the honored guests to the appreciative gathering. He was followed by Mr. Brown, district superintendent of the C.N.R., who spoke of the many years he had enjoyed the friendship of Mr. and Mrs. Shora. Mr. White then presented a purse of gold and a basket of golden chrysanthemums to Mrs. Shora, and an ebony cane with gold mounting and inscription to Mr. Shora. Mr. Shora replied on behalf of Mrs. Shora and himself.

A large number of friends extended congratulations and good wishes for their continued health and happiness and then the company formed up in a grand march which broke up in a waltz, followed by square dances and others of by-gone days, interspersed with present day dances. Mr. Shora led in a schottische with Mrs. McAdie as a partner and was followed by Mrs. Shora with Mr. W. A. Graham as her partner. Mr. and Mrs. Shora then traversed the floor together in this merry dance amid hearty applause.

Buffet lunch was served as the evening wore on and when the dancers showed signs of tiring Mr. and Mrs. Shora were placed in the centre of a huge circle of friends who sang "They are Jolly Good Fellows," "Auld Lang Syne" and God Save the King.

A register of those present was made in a book presented to the guests of the evening and the names of those registering will follow. An address preceded the registration and was as follows:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Shora,

Today, September 19th, 1927, being the fiftieth anniversary of your wedding day, your friends and fellow-townspeople have assembled here this evening to express by their presence their love and hearty congratulations on this your golden wedding anniversary.

There are those among us, who have known you since early days, to these so favored, the memory of those days and of your friendship, is something to be looked back upon. There are others of us who have known you in more recent years, but we one and all wish to express to you our sincere friendship and good wishes for your continued residence in our midst.

Fight the Fire Fiend

The week commencing October 9 has, by proclamation published in the Official Gazette at Ottawa, been declared Fire Prevention Week throughout Canada. The object is, of course, to focus public attention upon the enormous losses, both of life and property, resulting from fire with a view to the adoption of more effective safeguards against fire, and to educate all people, and especially children, against habits of carelessness in the handling of matches, gasoline and other combustibles, and in the disregard of common sense methods in the matter of extinguishing camp fires, and such simple matters as throwing away the still lighted stubs of cigars and cigarettes.

At first glance it would seem to be quite unnecessary for the national government to officially set aside one week out of every fifty-two for the avowed purpose of teaching a presumably intelligent, educated and business-like people to safeguard their own lives, homes and property from destruction. Unfortunately, Canada's fire record proves conclusively that it is only too necessary to keep up a persistent campaign to awaken the people from their carelessness and indifference in this very vital matter.

Canada, which is so progressive in many ways, and has taken the leadership in numerous worthwhile movements, and can claim the honor of achievements, occupies a low place among the nations of the world when the statistics of fire losses are studied. Few countries, if, indeed, any one, annually record the appalling fire losses which take place in Canada. This Dominion's fire loss per head of population is about the highest in the world, and the passing years do not reveal much improvement.

Canada has already sustained the loss not merely of millions but actually billions of dollars worth of forest wealth, some of which is gone forever, and have long periods of time will be required to make good, like loss in other districts. And these forests are one of Canada's greatest assets, —one of the principal factors today, and for the future, in building up the Dominion's greatest industrial enterprises and providing a very large percentage of the Dominion's export trade.

The fire fiend takes a playful, mischievous, almost deity toll of human life, as well as leaving behind it a trail of lifelong suffering and economic loss to blinded and crippled survivors.

Because of the high rate of fire losses, the people of Canada have to pay abnormally high rates for fire insurance. The insurance companies are not to blame for demanding high premiums. They must protect themselves and their policy holders, and just so long as fires in Canada remain so numerous and costly, so long will the cost of insurance against fire remain a heavy drain upon the business of the Dominion.

Then, too, there is the further heavy burden imposed upon all urban communities in the maintenance of elaborate and expensive fire-fighting equipments and large expenditures to augment water supplies for fire-fighting purposes greatly in excess of the daily domestic requirements of cities and towns.

All these forms of protection are necessary, and must be paid for in the tax bills. But because of the frequency of fires largely the result of carelessness and neglect of the most ordinary precautions on the part of many people, these services have to be maintained on a much more extensive and expensive scale than would otherwise be necessary.

Fire Prevention Week should, therefore, be observed all over the country. Special attention should be paid to the subject in all schools, while each individual householder should devote a little time to a thorough examination of his premises and make a close check-up of conditions in and around all buildings. Rubbish should be cleared away; improperly stored paints, electric wires, gasoline and all supplies stowed so, and every member of the family cautioned to exercise the greatest care in handling of matches and all combustible materials. Refuse heaps, and in the burning and extinguishing of fires. Finally, all property should be adequately insured notwithstanding all precautions that may be taken.

Attention to these important matters now may save much loss and suffering in the future.

Canada Pressed For League Seat

London Paper Says Dominion Well Qualified For Seat On Council

The London Observer, commenting on Canada's candidacy for a seat on the League Council, says it would be hard to find another candidature more powerfully qualified for the privilege. The great war was warrant enough of Canada's capacity for international service and she has played other parts since then.

In numbers and influence taken together, continues the Observer, Canada ranks high in the list of confederacies, and above all, it would be intolerable for the league to have for the first time a direct representative from North America upon the council.

It is expected that within six weeks it will be known whether or not oil in commercial quantities is to be added to Northern Ontario's inventory of wealth, for by that time tests which the provincial Government has been conducting in the Mattagami Valley will be completed and a report upon them made.

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites cause the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

Air Base in Rome East

Britain Planning One At Malta To Protect Suez Canal

The British air ministry is said to be planning development of a great air base at Malta which will dominate the Eastern Mediterranean and will protect Egypt and the Suez Canal against attack.

This idea is regarded as a premonition in view of Premier Mussolini's plan of developing a great military and naval base at Rhodes.

It is also learned that the Nizam of Hyderabad, who is one of the greatest semi-independent native princes, is planning to establish an air service in his dominion and is sending a number of young men of the leading families to be trained for air work in England. While of course, the service will be paid for out of the revenues of the Nizam, it will be coordinated with the imperial service in India.

France Raises Tariff On Canadian Wheat

Notice Of Increase Has Been Received At Ottawa

France has increased the tariff on Canadian wheat from 26 cents to 37 cents, approximately, per bushel, according to official advices received from the Canadian Trade Commissioner in Paris. The higher rate comes into effect immediately.

While Canada's export of wheat to France has fluctuated from year to year, the general tendency has been for most of last year's export of 4,315,647 bushels will mean an increase in the total French duty collected on Canadian wheat of nearly $700,000.

Canada, under the 1922 treaty between the two countries, enjoys the minimum tariff and most favored nation treatment on exports to France and the increase does not put her on a less favorable basis. The raising of the minimum tariff rate to all countries by France.

Naming Mountain Peaks

Honor Stanley Baldwin to Named After British Premier

Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin's name is to be perpetuated in Canada by a mountain peak named after him.

The geographic board has acted on a suggestion of the British Columbia Government and a peak in the Rockies in that province, with an altitude of 10,900 feet is to be called Mount Stanley Baldwin. It is visible from the railway through the Yellow Head Pass.

Other peaks in the same Caribou range are to be named the Premier Group after Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir John Thompson, Sir John Abbott and Rt Hon. Mackenzie Bowell. The Laurier Peak, 11,750 feet in the highest. Previously, mountains were named after Sir John A. Macdonald, Alexander Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Robert Borden.

Just What He Wanted

A story is related of an old tenant farmer, who, on paying his rent, told his landlord that he wanted some timber to build a house, and would be much obliged if he would give him permission to cut down what would answer for the purpose.

"No!" said the landlord, sharply.

"Well, then, sir," the farmer went on, "will you give me enough to build a barn?"

"No."

"To make a gate, then?"

"Yes."

"That's all I wanted," said the farmer, "and more than I expected."

Projected Flight Cancelled

American Globe Circling Tour To End At Tokio

Tokio.—The projected flight of the American monoplane Pride of Detroit across the Pacific on its globe-circling tour was called off here by its occupants, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock.

The decision to call off the flight followed a hospital conference with aviation experts here and others interested in the undertaking. Many telegrams from America urging the fliers to stop at Tokio also carried weight. Brock and Schlee finally concluded the attempt to negotiate the Pacific would be suicide.

They will take an early boat for the United States and have their monoplane shipped home.

TAKE MEANS TO PUT AN END TO CUSTOMS FRAUDS

Ottawa.—"We have had some evidence brought before us to indicate that in certain quarters there would be a revival of illegal practices once our commission ceased to exist. For the benefit of such parties and others similarly ill posed I think I can assure her that other means will be devised and rigidly enforced for deterring such frauds, and that for the future when such frauds and illegal practices are discovered, they will be visited with swift and relentless punishment.

The above was one of the statements made by Chief Commissioner J. T. Brown, of the Royal Customs Commission, in a brief address at the closing of the public sittings of the commission here.

"No doubt there have been some who have been guilty of defrauding the Crown of its just revenues and who have escaped the scrutiny of our investigators," he continued. "For such we say that the mere fact that they have thus far escaped exposure and prosecution must not be taken as any assurance that such practices can be continued with impunity."

The chief commissioner's closing address, which was concurred in by his fellow commissioners, W. H. Wright and Ernest Roy, expressed sincere appreciation of the work done by counsel, auditors and others associated with the work of the commission during the many months of the inquiry. Also appreciation of the report which would prepared and submitted to the Governor-in-Council, the investigation had been much while, said the chief commissioner.

"Two things above all appear to have been necessary under the circumstances," he said. "In the first place, an exposure of conditions as they actually existed both inside and outside the service, with a well informed and enlightened public conscience on customs matters as a result. The work of the parliamentary committee and our commission has made the exposure fairly complete, in the second place, it is essential to have a head to the department with the ability, will and determination to bring about the necessary reforms. There is every indication that the present head of the department is such a man."

Fast Summer Train Service Is Planned

Would Come From New York To France In Four Days

New York.—The New York Herald Tribune says that plans are nearly completed to launch an all American combination steamship-aeroplane service between Montauk Point, Long Island, Plymouth, England and Havre, France, with fast ocean liners that will make the crossing in four days.

The proposed line is to be inaugurated as the New York, Paris Steamship Company, and will operate a fleet of ten ocean liners. The ships, which will resemble a fifty thousand ton battleship, will be driven at an average speed of 30½ knots, but capable of attaining 35 knots. They will be about 800 feet long with an 80-foot beam and a draft of 34 feet 9 inches.

The new liners, to be used exclusively for passengers, will carry 600 first class, who will be accommodated in small cabins, slightly larger than Pullman car drawing rooms.

Exodus Not Serious

Only Ten Per Cent. Of University Graduates Go To States

Winnipeg.—Only ten per cent. of Canadian university graduates to the United States is not as serious as it is thought to be, according to a statement by Sir Robert A. Falconer, president of Toronto University, in an interview here.

"I went into the matter quite carefully at one time," Sir Robert said, "and I found that, according to figures that can be depended upon in Canada, the emigration of graduates did not exceed 10 per cent." The estimated shortage was about $2,500,000.

It would appear from these figures that the reduction in the letter postage from three to two cents per ounce has increased the volume of letters passing through the mails approximately, a marked increase in the parcels post is recorded and a big business is being done. Despite the one third cut in the letter rate the result of the operations under the new conditions leads to the belief that in a year or two at least equilibrium will be established between postal revenues and expenditures.

More Settlers For Lethbridge

Lethbridge.—The Canada Colonization Association has been so successful in the Lethbridge district that it has been decided to place another 25 families there this Fall. One of the present settlers has placed 130 acres in sugar beets, 5 acres in potatoes and 400 acres in wheat and other small grains from which his returns this Fall should be close to $15,000. There are eight families now working for him.

Sittings Of Railway Commission

Ottawa.—The Board of Railway Commissioners announced the following dates for sittings in Western Canada: Saskatoon, Oct. 10; Edmonton, Oct. 12; Vancouver, Oct. 19; Victoria, Oct. 22; Nelson, Oct. 25; Lethbridge, Oct. 27; Calgary, Oct. 28; Regina, Oct. 31; Brandon, Nov. 1; Winnipeg, Nov. 3; Port William, Nov. 5.

Liable To Dumping Duty

New Ruling On Imported Apples Has Been Issued

Ottawa.—Imported apples have been declared liable to dumping duty, a ruling issued by the Department of National Revenue holds that apples are to be considered as of a class or kind produced in Canada until otherwise ordered.

This means that a special (or dumping duty) in addition to the regular duty, will be applied to imported apples. The dumping duty will be the difference between the appraised value and the purchase price but not exceeding 15 per cent. of the appraised value.

Good-Will Between Canada and U.S.

No Room For Distrust Says Hon. William Phillips

Ottawa.—There is no place for distrust or misgivings between Canada and the United States, declared Hon. William Phillips, U.S. minister to Canada, in the course of a stirring address to members of the Canadian Club and delegates to the annual convention of the Association of Canadian Clubs.

"It is an easy matter for us to understand one another," he said, "because our interests are similar, our points and become already we are thoroughly well acquainted. We are in no sense foreigners to each other, but we still have much to learn, one from the other. Already we have gone a long way on the road toward mutual co-operation but we still can go even further.

"Much of the success and solid progress of the world would have been avoided in the past if nations had only found the courage to approach their difficult problems in an attitude of reasonableness and fair play.

"With diplomats thoroughly-going-

"With diplomatic relations now established and with good-will manifest everywhere, Canada and the U.S. are ready, I hope, to discuss the questions of mutual concern, as they arise, cheerfully and frankly, and in a spirit of helpfulness. In so doing we shall become the happiest illustration of what we hope civilization has in store for the entire world." For between our two countries there is no place for distrust or misgivings.

Victim Of Experiment

Scientist Meets Death While Testing Effect Of Anaesthetic

Manchester, Eng.—A victim of his own scientific zeal, Dr. Henry Rawson Wilson, surgeon and anaesthetist with a British and American reputation, was found dead in his laboratory. His wife discovered the experimenter with a mask over his face before a machine which administered gas mixtures.

It had been Dr. Wilson's great ambition to obtain and prolong the unconscious state, which is obtained momentarily when a person under an anaesthetic loses feeling yet retains consciousness.

Dr. Wilson's brother said the doctor believed he had sufficient will power to prevent himself from losing consciousness completely. Colleagues are of the belief that he met death by experimenting on himself to discover the actual effects of an anaesthetic, which it was his conviction was the only way to obtain essential data.

POSTAL DEFICIT MUCH SMALLER THAN EXPECTED

Ottawa.—Reduction of postage rates provided by the budget of 1926 has resulted in a deficit in the Post Office Department, but it is about a million dollars less than was originally estimated.

For the fiscal years, which ended March 31 last, the returns are being made up and the deficit is placed at $1,000,000. The estimated shortage was about $2,500,000.

It would appear from these figures that the reduction in the letter postage from three to two cents per ounce has increased the volume of letters passing through the mails approximately, a marked increase in the parcels post is recorded and a big business is being done. Despite the one third cut in the letter rate the result of the operations under the new conditions leads to the belief that in a year or two at least equilibrium will be established between postal revenues and expenditures.

Woman Drowned At Sea

Carried Over Side Of British Liner By Huge Wave

Philadelphia.—Mrs. Cyril H. Mansford, 30, of Fair Acres, Farm, near Hamilton, Ontario, was swept overboard from the deck of the British liner Cameronia Mariner, while the vessel was en route from England to this city.

The tragedy was revealed when the vessel docked here, bringing a tale of a stormy voyage and the husband and three children of the woman.

Mr. Mansford, a former British army officer, was returning with his family from a tour of England, Scotland and France when the accident took place. He was on an upper deck of the vessel, was carried over the side by a huge wave.

Typhoon Devastates Japan

Four Hundred Dead and Many Injured By Tidal Wave

Tokio.—Four hundred persons are dead, 2,300 injured, and 700 houses destroyed in Kumamoto, Island of Kinshiu, in southern Japan, as a typhoon and tidal wave, according to reports to the Japanese home office.

In Fukuoka, Nagasaki, and Kumamoto prefectures there were few casualties, but numerous houses were inundated and damaged.

When the typhoon struck Tokio several thousand houses in the low-lying sections collapsed. Thirty children were injured when the roof of a schoolhouse was blown off.

REQUIRE MORE TRADE ROUTES FOR THE WEST

Vancouver.—"If Canada is to achieve her proper destiny as a great nation, the people of all sections of the country must realize that new trade routes must be established and barely any section, no matter what their nationality, be brought in to develop that vast wealth stored in the great northern hinterland," Premier James G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan declared in an address before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Convention here.

"All Canadians must get a vision of what the 20th century has in store for us, then put our shoulders to the wheel and push on to the destiny that is ours," said the Premier of Saskatchewan, 35 years ago a penniless homesteader from Ontario, thrilled his 200 audience with his picture of the Canada to come.

"The most disconcerting question which can be introduced in conference, national or international, is the proposal to change trade routes," Premier Gardiner pointed out. Some of the greatest wars in history have been fought on that issue. I would say to those interested in opening the Hudson's Bay route, do not let it be opened—to those interested in opening the Hudson's Bay route, do not let it be opened. Any time spent on the established trade routes are going to admit flatly that new routes will not give any material advantage or even should they do so that their opening will redound to the national interest.

Railway development in Canada was a thing of the future, not of the past, despite the great lines already constructed, Mr. Gardiner believed. Seven-eighths of all wheat entering into international trade was produced in Canada at the present time, he said. This meant, he explained, that the prairie provinces had a population of over a half a million people feeding 40,000,000 in other countries. Yet only one-third of the land capable of producing wheat had been brought under cultivation so far.

When the great remaining open spaces were populated there would be more than enough business to keep every port in the country busy for every month it could remain open, he declared, and transportation free all year and safe outlet for a great producing region, would be one of the most commercial centres in the Dominion.

Insured For Millions

187 Persons in U.S. and Canada Carry Heavy Policies

The lives of 187 persons residing in Canada and the United States are worth $1,000,000 or more each to insurance companies, according to a survey made public by the Spectator Company, of New York.

Rodman Wanamaker, merchant prince of the United States, heads the list with $7,500,000 in policies. Several persons included in Dr. F. G. Banting, of Toronto, discoverer of insulin, are insured for $2,000,000 each.

Proposals To Outlaw War

New Idea Presented To League By Norway Delegate

Geneva.—A "voluntary universal arbitration" pact was introduced at a session of the League of Nations assembly commission on disarmament by Dr. F. Nansen, of Norway. The pact created treaties which would be a concrete development of the movement to outlaw war.

The pact makes all war between signatories impossible by arranging settlement by an arbitration board of all conflicts which are not handled by the World Court or are not solved by the Council of the League of Nations.

Plea From Earthquake Area

Tourists Along Black Sea Coast Crowd All Transports

Moscow.—Thousands of panic stricken tourists along the Black Sea coast were crowding all means of transportation in order to escape from the district which has been shaken by earthquakes in the past few days, causing death and injury in many districts. Late reports from Yalta say that 12 persons have been killed there and 264 injured. Slighter shocks were still continuing in the region, the advices said. Relief measures are under way.

Royal Brothers Arrive Home

Southampton, Eng.—The Prince of Wales, looking very bronzed and fit and in excellent spirits, stepped ashore from the Empress of Scotland here, ending his trip to Canada. He was accompanied by Prince George. The Mayor of Southampton and other city and county officials welcomed the two princes, who immediately boarded the train to London.

Assiniboine--the Greatest Achievement of the Trail Riders

A typical Assiniboine scene, the Trail Riders camped for the night. L. Col. Phil S. Gross, Leader of the Trail Riders

Mount Assiniboine, one of the most magnificent peaks in all the Canadian Rockies, is definitely established on the tourist map as a result of the recent annual expedition of the Trail Riders, when about 100 riders made their memorable ascent.

The Assiniboine district is country by the few that have visited it, to compare with the Switzerland of America. The summit is 11,870 feet high. It is frequently referred to as the "Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies," because of its resemblance in shape to the famous Swiss peak. The mountain is composed of limestone, which was formed many millions of years ago at the bottom of the ocean. Fossils of prehistoric animals are found among the hills. It was discovered more than two years years ago, but has only been visited by a few parties, the more advantageous mountaineer. This year's Trail Ride has proved most Assiniboine and the wonderful scenery surrounding it, which lead to the heights with their snowy peaks, the deep canyons and the green slopes of Mount Assiniboine; the rushing mountain streams, dotted with glimpses of lake and glacier make a picture.

The Trail Riders left Banff on August Fourth on the highest, longest and most interesting ride in the history of the organization. The new trails form an almost unbroken circle. The ride covered more than 200 miles and has over a score 9,000 feet high which had been crossed by very few people and no women. The first camp was made on Brewster Creek and the next day's ride was taken over a pass 8,000 feet in height on a trail which was specially re-cut this year for the annual Trail Ride by the Commissioner of Parks. On their way to Assiniboine which was reached on the evening of the second day the Riders travelled well-above the timber line.

The first view of Assiniboine's mighty glacier on the shores of the sapphire Lake Magog, they made camp on a grassy spot, where they were received by the Stoneys D'Aldine who has opened up a new Dude Ranch at Assiniboine, and who entertained for the Trail Riders during their stop there. The stay lasted two days, while the Riders explored the surrounding country; rested and got ready to tackle the heights with their mounts. On the second day they drove slopes of Mount Assiniboine; the rocky mountain goat, and with glimpses of lake and glacier make a picture.

The return route lay through the Valley of the Sunset, a barren desolate area in which the only sign of life is the occasional shrill whistle of a startled marmot, and over another high pass up a fortunate 8,000 foot ascent. From this pass the trail ran through mountain splands covered with meadow grass and dotted with a profusion of Alpine flowers. High Citadel Pass is the scene of this plateau which lies high above many minor and is completely surrounded by major peaks.

The climax of the trip was the Pow-Wow held at Sunshine Camp on the last night of the Ride. The Riders gathered around the camp fire in Sun Dance Tepee which had been decorated with fantastic Indian drawings. Guests in their wonderful chaps and colored handkerchiefs, famous mountaineers and guides, professional men and society women from this continent and the old world were present at the closing Trail Riders' camp.

At the annual festivities of the Trail Riders J. H. Wardle, expert woodsman of Banff, was elected president of the organization and Phil S. Gross, the well known trail engineer of the Province for more than thirty years was made a member.

The Wynnths were exactly the same type. - black-eyed, pale, nervous, with heavy-lidded, black hair through which a bloodless scalp showed blotchily, false teeth and, as Mrs. Everyone could see what they were — artificial, rather — in white they were almost blue. They believed in hell and spoke of the "world" in a tone which implied both horror and contempt. They knew that Christ was coming soon to take His own out of the world, leaving all other odd millions to their well-merited punishment.

Mr. Wynnath embodied the Board that he believed in discipline for war-ward girls—discipline, repentance, and after that a life of meek and lowly godliness.—"And," said Mr. Wynnath, "my wife will be guided by me entirely," at which Mrs. Wynnath bowed her head and said, "I will, indeed, dear."

The Board hesitated more freely "It will be better now," said Mr Simpkins, "and I think it would be well to have the pastors appeal to the ladies to have a series of teas to raise money for the additional salary. I assure the ladies will take care of it."

It was to the girls' Friendly Home (men's—the Wyngate rules) that Helmi finally was committed if she had been of the tall age of eighteen years she would have been sent to jail.

The police matron, a silent woman, who held her job because she was no taller, came with her on the car. Helmi, with clothes in a little green valise which Miss Abbie had given her, settled confidently down the path which led to the big oak door. The former matron's dowers bloomed at each side of her. They nodded a welcome to her, and she felt reassured and comforted. It must be a nice home where there were so many flowers. Helmi had put on her pleated skirt and white middy, which now had the monogram on it, just like the girls. She wore it today, because it had always brought her a good time and was full of the vibrations of fun and fellowship. The Blue and Gold Book was in her valise, and her English learning book, too. She would be all right, and Miss Hodgers would come, and the girls, too.

Helmi had not yet given up hope that Mrs. St. John would come to her and when she was better She still thought of her as she had last seen her, beautiful, distressed, ill, and told herself over and over again that ills was why her dear friend had not come to her. She was still too sick to know what had happened. Helmi had in picture the secret, her friend in her shiny gown of black silk, with her pearls, would come; she would be wearing that green velvet dress, the one that looked just like the ocean foam that had gone cutting away from the boat in creamy ends when she crossed the ocean, and her black hat with the silver arrow, she would come driving up in her big car and talk to the people in big swanky English words, making her eyes go snap like she could when she wanted the doctor to do something. Everyone always did what Mrs. St John wanted, and she would be so mad that people had been mean to Helmi, and she would call them names, and stamp her foot, and maybe cover a little — just a few good ones. And then she would turn and say "Come, Helmi, my poor, brave child."

All it would be sweet.

As Helmi was the first case to be brought in since Mr. and Mrs. Wynnath came, the worthy couple were determined to show the Board the value of discipline. The history of the case had been given them. The girl had refused to tell who she was in the Chinese den.—It was evidently a "different case." Mr. and Mrs. Wynnath had dealt with stubborn cases before. The proud and froward spirit must be broken. And it could be. They were waiting eagerly for Helmi. The Board would expect results, and the Board would not be disappointed.

When the Police Matron and Helmi climbed the flight of stairs leading to the great front door and the bell was rung the link was turned in the door and they were admitted into a dark hall. As they entered the door was shut again so promptly behind them that the corner of the Matron's cape was caught and had to be released. Then the big bell sent into places, and in a whisper Mrs. Wynnath asked them to come this way, leading them down the hall to a gloomy room which she called her "Retreat." The door was shut and locked and Helmi was told to sit down.

The Matron, living up to her reputation of being no talker, handed Helmi over with as much concision as is shown by the low man when he hooks his pincers from the square of ice and leaves it to drip its life out on your bank game. His responsibility ceases when the step is reached.

"Good-bye, Helmi, be a good girl," she said, not without a degree of kindliness. Her last delivery to the Girls' Friendly Home had pulled a handful of hair out of her not too well covered head; so she felt kindly to Helmi.

Helmi wrote her name in the brown book Mrs. Wynnath showed her, quite proud of the fine big letters she was able to make. She wrote her address "c/o Miss Abbie Moore, 53 Cheston St."

Mrs. Wynnath admired her writing. "And you can English speak?" she asked severely. Helmi—that is she transposed the words they would be more intelligible to the Finnish girl.

"A little," said Helmi, smiling back. "I can will learn more here," said Mrs Wynnath "all our good girls go to school. You like school?"

Helmi nodded.

"Now, dear I want to be your friend. I am a little mother to all the girls. I want you to tell me all about yourself."

Helmi told her about coming to Saint Paul—her aunt's death her coming to Winnipeg—Miss Abbie Moore—the Girls' Club—suddenly she stopped.

"I see," Mrs Wynnath stretched the word out until it seemed like a shoe-string pet which would be run to it's another slab of conversation.

"That is all," said Helmi

"Who sent you for the medicine, dear?" asked Mrs. Wynnath casually.

"I cannot tell," replied Helmi, look ing her questioner straight in the eye.

"You mean you will not tell Now, Helmi, trust me I'm your little mother." She came over to the girl and laid her hand on her shoulder Her touch made Helmi shiver, and where she best nestle Helmi drew away from her

"I will not tell," said Helmi again.

Mrs Wynnath drew her lips tightly over her two plate "Well now," she said, and Helmi knew it was a threat

That night Helmi ate the birls at supper. The table had been arranged diagonally across the room to get greater length, and it had a cosy cloth, although it was not Sunday. Mrs. Wynnath had expected a visit from some members of the Board.

"Dear girls," said Mrs Wynnath, in her sweet way, after a lengthy blessing had been called down from on high, "we have a new girl, Helmi Milander. She has come to us for a while, and I want you to be very good to her, and very kind. Let her know she is among friends. I am sure that I have had a little difference already, which I wish to tell you about, in order to help her I expect you all to be whole story, and this she refuses to tell me I have chained her, but she remains stubborn. Isn't she Helmi, girls? I am sure to help every girl but the girls must let me. Isn't she foolish, girls? she repeated.

"Yes, Mrs. Wynnath," said the girls in chorus. But they said it flatlessly. Their days of mourning for the other girl were over, and they forgot.

Then Mrs. Wynnath proceeded to tell the story, the girls listening open-mouthed. A new girls' story was always interesting

"Now we will all pray that Helmi's stubborn spirit may be humbled. You will all pray, won you girls?"

Helmi sat looking from one to the other helplessly Had she not one friend anywhere?

Every night after the evening meal there followed the story of prayer, when every girl was wanted to stand well with the matron present. Much of it was meaningless, but as the prayers went on a certain excitement held hold on them, and in their supplications they forgot that other ears than GOD's were listening, and unconsciously they revealed many things. The Matron, was hopeful that Helmi would be swept into the whirlpool of excitement, and would tell what she wanted to know. Helmi sat still and listened, but refused to pray.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Read Mrs. Menard's Letter. Her Experience May Help

Chatham, Ontario. — "I want to tell you how much good your medicine has done me. Before my baby came I felt so weak and run down that I could hardly do my work. My back ached continually and I was so discouraged that I could cry from morning till night. I had an uneasy baby just one year old and it gave me a lot to do. So I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I had read so much about it in the little booklet. I found a difference right away so my head was relieved and my tired feelings gone. My sister had been doing my washing and she continued doing it, as she said it might not be back if I started to do it again. It sure did help me and I had taken just two bottles when my baby came. He is a fine big boy, now nearly five months old. I am taking your medicine again and I am able to do my work all by myself now. I always recommend the Vegetable Compound to women, and sometimes to expectant mothers, as I believe they need help at those times." — Mrs. OLIVE MENARD, 32 Harvey St., Chatham, Ontario.

Testing Big Seaplane

The Westminster Gazette announces that the British Admiralty is trying out a 2,000 mile special seaplane development flight in the Baltic with a fleet of experimental flying boats as the key to the home chamber of the mercial transport work. It is hoped, the Gazette adds, that the boats will involve huge all metal aerial battleships to act as the eyes of the fleet.

A DOCTOR'S PRAISE

A Noted Doctor Strongly Endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The test of any remedy lies in its acceptance and employment by the enlisted medical practitioner. No loss an authority than Dr. Andrea Antici, physician to the Papal household, writing on the subject of anaemia, imperfect action of the nervous system and disorders attributable thereto, strongly endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, recommending them as superior to other tonics.

Dr. Antici's testimony reads as follows:—"For several years I have made use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my work and I have always found them efficacious in the treatment of disorders due to impoverishment of the nervous system, anaemia and neurasthenia, stomach weakness, retarded development in young women, and irregularities. There is no lack of tonic remedies, but in my experience no one of them manifests a superior efficacy to that of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

No more conclusive evidence of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills could be asked for or given, than is found in the above endorsement of this noted European physician. It also this, however, this medicine has created a world wide public confidence for more than a third of a century and has brought relief to thousands and thousands of weak and suffering people.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and stomach trouble — use them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and exhibit a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Little Helps For This Week

Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom.—Col. iii. 16.

The sacred lessons of the heart
Come not from instruments below;
Love is my teacher."

Every great teacher or leader lays stress on some single word of might, —he her, as it were, to his position. Buddha's great word was "renunciation." Zoroaster's, "purity." Moses' was "justice." The key to Confucius is "moderation." Moses emphasized "law". Plato, "harmony." Socrates, "reason." The strong word of Epictetus was "reliance" Antoninus, "self-possession." But Jesus gave us the key to the inner chamber of the heart in a single, mighty, sweet word, —"love."—O. S. Prothingham.

Merely a Signature

A member of a congregation, becoming angry at a sermon the minister was preaching, wrote the single word, "Fool" on a sheet of paper, called an usher to him, and had it delivered to the minister in the middle of his sermon. The minister opened the paper and read what was written. Then he said: "An unusual thing has happened. A member of the congregation has signed his name without writing the letter.

New House Ready

Prince Of Wales To Take Up Residence In Marlborough House

The Prince of Wales will go into residence at Marlborough House soon after his return from Canada.

Marlborough House, an almost square, solid red brick building, was built by Sir Christopher Wren just over 230 years ago for the first Duke of Marlborough. Later it became the residence successively of various members of the royal family, and finally was acquired for King Edward VII. then Prince of Wales.

The present Prince of Wales will normally use only a small portion of the house himself. His suite will be on the first floor, which looks out on five acres of garden. A large room, which was formerly an audience chamber, will be converted into a combined reading room and study where the Prince will conduct the principal part of his correspondence.

On the ground floor is a large room which will be used for the entertainment of friends who are not of the Prince's intimate circle.

Queen Alexandra's bedroom and bedroom will remain exactly as they were in her lifetime, as will also the private rooms with their pictures and statuary. The same scheme was followed with regard to Queen Victoria's Rooms at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, where she died although her death took place more than a quarter of a century ago and although Marlborough House as a whole has been put to different uses—remain as they were in her lifetime.

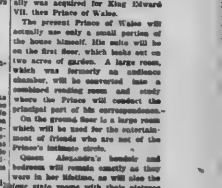
Hard and soft corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Remover, which is entirely safe to use, and certain and satisfactory in its action.

Was Interested in Photography

Queen Alexandra's interesting collection of photographs taken by herself has just been shown. Her late Majesty had a great gift of seeing a good picture, and would have made a name in the fine arts, as she was a less exalted position. In the collection are pictures of every royalty in Europe, taken over half a century. Up to a few years before her death she kept up her interest in the camera.

Though unresponsive, as a rule, to natural beauty, Napoleon showed a marked preference for violets.

COLDS COST MONEY



It is estimated that a sufferer from colds loses three days' time from work in a year.

At work, in the "movie," or at any entertainment, if your body or her has a cold and mucous or catarrh, the air is full of germs and if you are not in good condition, you may become ill. The only protection you can have is to build resistance against disease germs. Take that splendid herbal tonic,

LOCALLY KNOWN OLD TIMER DIES AT COAST

At one time a member of the R. N.W.M.P., a veteran of the Riel rebellion, and one of the two constables who escorted Riel to the scaffold, John Prench Forbes died at Vancouver last week. He took his discharge from the force in Fort Saskatchewan in 1889 and later acted as justice of the peace. He farmed for a number of years here and moved to Vancouver about thirteen years ago.

He is survived by his wife, who is a sister of Walter and William Ross, of Fort Saskatchewan, two daughters, Mrs. Langland and Mrs. Roy Smalley, and a son, Walter.

ALBERTA EXHIBITS APPEAL TO AMERICAN FARMERS

Keen interest in Alberta on the part of farmers in the middle-western states and prospects for quite an influx of very desirable settlers from that territory are reported by Publicity Commissioner D. A. McCannel, who has returned from a trip through Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The exhibit of Alberta agricultural products which was shown at a number of fairs throughout this region made a strong appeal to farmers, and Alberta's cheap farm lands, low tax rate and heavy crops are powerful strong magnets to many who are farring under the serious economic conditions existing in this part of the United States.

MAYOR HUNTER INJURED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

R. Hunter, manager of the Hunter Lumber Co. and mayor of the town, was injured in a runaway accident at the lumber yard on Tuesday morning. A customer had left his team and wagon running gear in front of the gate and, several teams waiting to get out, Mr. Hunter instructed his boy to move them up a little. As he was stepping into the office he noticed by the actions of the horses there was going to be trouble and hurried to the boy's assistance. He secured one line and a coat on the running gear just as the team made a dash, his boy having the other line. This was seized by a young man named Whitman, but despite his efforts and those of Mr. Hunter, the team could not be held back. They dashed into an electric light pole of a terrific pace, the wagon pole, neckyoke and harness being broken and Mr. Hunter catapulted forward into the wreckage. He was rendered unconscious but was revived a few minutes later in Dr. Henry's office. No consequences of any seriousness are anticipated beyond some painful bruises which have kept the victim at home for a couple of days.

TENTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, September 26, 1927

The delay in harvesting and threshing operations occasioned by the fall of rain and snow on Friday and Saturday will be very slight and with a continuance of the present favorable weather, work will be resumed within a few days, according to reports reaching the Department of Agriculture. The rain fall was heavier over the northern half of the province, but sun and wind are rapidly drying stooks and little damage to crops in the field is anticipated. Cutting of wheat had been practically completed over the provinces by the middle of the past week, and rapid progress was being made in harvesting coarse grains. Lodging has occurred in some fields as a result of the snowfall, and this will delay the completion of cutting in some cases. A good start has been made in a number of districts some exceptionally good yields have been reported. Most of the wheat threshed so far is grading No. 2 and No. 3 Northern, but the percentage of tough grain being marketed is sufficient to justify a warning to farmers not to be unduly anxious to thresh before stooks have dried thoroughly.

In the south eastern part of the province the weather has been dull, but rain did not stop threshing and good progress is being made. In central and northern sections work was completely tied up but present indications point to a resumption of threshing operations about Wednesday. In the Grande Prairie and Spi-

FOX FARMING GROWING INDUSTRY IN ALBERTA

The number of silver foxes on fox farms in Alberta has doubled during the past year, according to the estimate of H. B. Cotton, inspector for the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' association, who has been looking into conditions in this province. It is the belief of Mr. Cotton that the gross profits from the sale of Alberta-raised fox pelts will be more than $600,000, in addition to which there will be a considerable profit from the sale of live foxes for breeding purposes.

Last year there were 3,000 registered foxes in Alberta and it is expected there will be 5,000 more for registration this year. There are 76 registered fox ranches in Alberta, on which the stock varies from a few pairs on the smaller places up to 150 pairs on the largest farm, these being at Innisfail, near Calgary. Alberta at the present time ranks fourth among the provinces of the Dominion in regard to the size of the fox industry.

General Outlook Is Encouraging

The latest preliminary estimate of the yields of the principal grain crops, issued by the Canadian Government Bureau of Statistics, based upon reports from all parts of the Dominion, predicts a wheat crop of 458,741,000 for this year, the second largest crop ever grown in Canada. The record crop was in 1928, which totalled 474,199,000 bushels. This year's wheat crop is estimated at 49,200,000 bushels more than last year's yield and promises an average yield per acre of 20.4 bushels per acre.

The three great grain growing provinces of Canada, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, will produce 412,282,000 bushels of this year's total crop of wheat as compared with 353,440,000 bushels in 1928.

There has been considerable damage from rust this year in various sections of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and when final threshing returns are in, the government's estimate may be considerably lowered. The Manitoba Free Press estimates the wheat crop of the three prairie provinces for the year 1927 at 424,312,125, which is some eight million bushels less than the government estimate. This paper's estimate of the Oat crop of the three prairie provinces is also considerably lower than that of the government and in the final analysis may prove to be more nearly correct, as will the yield of barley. Reports of Alberta and the western part of Saskatchewan, the oat crop has been rather disappointing. Rust and frost has caused a lot of damage. However, there can be no question but that this year's crop throughout the west will be well above the average.

A new high record of wheat production has been established in Alberta this season, which a crop now estimated at 108,982,000 bushels, an increase of 24,624,000 bushels over the previous, bumper crop grown in 1928. But not only wheat promises a bumper yield this year; oats, barley, rye and other grains as well as the whole range of field and orchard crops promise record returns. The 1927 crop of 16,534,000 tons of hay and clover from 10,357,526 acres is the largest yield ever recorded in Canada.

The yield of oats has also been good with an estimated production of 502,119,000 bushels, of which 322,654,000 bushels were produced in the Prairie Provinces. Particularly good crops are being harvested in both Saskatchewan and Alberta and the estimate for the Prairie Provinces is the second largest chosen. In 1928 it was estimated that 321,756,000 bushels were harvested in Western Canada. The 1927 production of barley is expected to be 96,000,000 bushels, and rye 17,462,000 bushels.

Though much weather is still required for the completion of threshing operations, these have now advanced so far that over a considerable area threshing is finished. There is naturally a feeling of optimism among Canadian farmers and business men. Not for years has the general outlook been so encouraging in Canada as it is at present.

Japanese Royalty Engaged

Note To Importers: Throne Is Betrothed To Daughter Of Prince

Prince Chichibu, 25, brother of the Japanese Emperor, and next in line to the throne, is reported betrothed to Shimazu Yukiko, 17-year-old daughter of Prince Ichiji, says a Tokio despatch to the Evening News.

Prince Ichiji is chief ritualist of the Imperial Court and a member of the ancient Kioto nobility.

The despatch says that an early engagement of the Prince is urged by court dignitaries and the luck of a gem in the emperor's family (a second daughter was recently born) is felt to make the early marriage of Prince Hirohito desirable.

The first step is often so expensive that you can't afford to take the second.

Doctor That Measures Breath Of Sick

New Invention Also Records Stillness Degree Of Temperature

An instrument which measures a millionth of an inch or a millionth of a degree of temperature was exhibited by the Bell Telephone Laboratories. This device, the most refined measuring apparatus in existence, is the result of profound development of P. P. Cioffi. It was constructed to measure the minute contraction or expansion of crystals when the piezo composition undergo when they are magnetized.

Before the use constructing the most delicate instrument for measuring length was the Interferometer, which employs wave-lengths of luminous spectral purposes. The Cioffi instrument is approximately a hundred times more sensitive than the Interferometer to changes in length. A change in temperature of a thousandth part of a degree is sufficient to cause a spot of light to race across the measuring scale.

Mr. Cioffi was assigned by Dr. L. W. McKeehan of the Bell Laboratories to invent an instrument of this type for use in an executive research into the nature of magnetism. Today nobody knows what magnetism is. A good deal of light has been thrown recently upon the matter in which all the atoms are found to be of a way that each one exerts a magnetic pull in the same direction. A piece of material is magnetized in which the atoms are arranged at haphazard so that the magnetic pull exerted by one atom is cancelled by that exerted by another.

Some Highways Over-Signed

Directions Necessary Only Where Road Is Doubtful Or Dangerous

"Signing the highways" has been a topic for departmental consideration. Some have done little, others a good job, and some have "oversigned" their highways.

We read in newspapers of patients who take an overdose of doctor's medicine and die. The motorists in some localities are in the same position—overdoses of "signs" cause motorists to many good trips, and travelling is "hard work."

Whoever is in charge of signs in your highway department should study the situation carefully, and erect signs at every place where the motorist can go wrong or is in danger. No other directions are necessary. One sign correctly placed is better than ten signs placed "hit or miss."

Canada Is Rapidly Becoming Big Game Country As Result Of Efficient Conservation Laws

There is a growing realization in all parts of the world of the great resource Canada has in her game. This is denoted by the fact that Canada is rapidly becoming one of the leading big game countries of the world, due to good fortune in having a large original stock of these animals and to efficient conservation of them by wise laws, close seasons, and moderation.

The climate and soil conditions which have given Canada her wheat fields and her timber lands have also provided grazing grounds and shelter shelters for a great variety of big game. Canada's favorite and most famous game animal, the moose, and the first white man, abundantly stocked with game, and although both animals and birds, revived before the advance of settlement, and more particularly in every section of the country, some natural sanctuary into which they could retreat to live and multiply in safety.

There was a time, in early days, when settlers, arriving in the clear lands for cultivated fields, looked upon the forest and the game it contained as a phase of unwelcome wilderness to pass away. In those days there was little regard for caution or sanctuary, but fortunately Canada was by far and the hinterland as vast that the game escaped destruction.

Henry Ironside were sometimes made at the time, and a later generation writing in 1925 predicted the early disappearance of the moose from a settled district. Today, a hundred years later, moose are much more plentiful in that section than they were then, and people today value big game too highly to run any risks of its extermination by poaching and pot-hunting.

That the Canada, there is a growing realization of the value of the resource we have in big game and a determination to make the best use of it for today and for tomorrow. The idea that prevails in some quarters, that game is a luxury to which the average citizen is not interested, has no foothold in Canada because the opportunities for sport are open to everybody. In this age too, when life in town and country is lived at high tension, recreation is necessary for all, and the best forms of recreation are those which keep people in the open air and which provide a change from the regular occupations of life. This is true in a high degree of hunting, whether with gun or camera.

People are becoming soloed of the fact that game is a great natural resource and see that game not be permitted to decrease, and further, that in Canada hunting is not carried on at the expense of any other interest. In crowded Europe in old times arable fields were turned into forests to make hunting grounds for the wealthy, but Canada is fortunate in having great stretches of land suited only to the growing of timber, and to forever maintain a hunting of game is not an injury; on the other hand this contact of town dwellers with the great outdoors is really a benefit since it makes them conscious of the value of the resource.

The big game animals which may be taken in Canada, are moose, caribou, deer, bighorn sheep, Rocky Mountain goat, bear, grizzly bear, and lynx. Moose, deer, and bear are the chief animals in the Maritimes, in Quebec and Ontario, and in the Prairie Provinces, and in most of these caribou may also be hunted in season. In the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia buffalo and antelope are protected at all seasons and this is the case in regard to elk or wapiti, except in certain localities. There is an open season for bighorn sheep and mountain goat in Alberta and British Columbia.

In addition to the big game the game birds which may be shot are duck, brant, geese, woodcock, Wilson's snipe, rail, pinnated, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, and Hungarian partridge.

The enactment and administration of laws respecting big game outside within the province of the province and no changes may be made upon advantageously about notice, [illegible] from a distance intending to hunt in a particular locality will naturally communicate with the game department of the province in which they are interested, and with the railways and other transportation companies.

Canadian Air League

Would Assist Civil, Commercial and Military Aviation

Steps have been taken to form a Canadian air league similar in scope and function to the Air League of the British Empire, the latter having been formed in 1909. The formation of such a league fills the need of a representative organization in each country of the Empire to assist civil, commercial and military development of aviation. A Canadian Air League, it was pointed out, would have a great scope and opportunity in assisting and guiding development, and in helping to link up Imperial lines of air communication and influencing the coming "world transformation through aviation."

Cheap Milking

One Of the Chief Factors Of Success In Dairy Farming

Few operations on the farm require more skill and concentration than does milking, which is one of the chief factors of success in dairy farming. The importance of the human element in the production of milk of a high standard of cleanliness cannot be overemphasized. Clean milkers, clean cows and clean utensils, are all essential. The milker must be very particular about details. What these details are is clearly stated in a pamphlet on Production Clean Milk available at the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The flanks and udder of the cow should be carefully brushed about half an hour before milking, and just before milking the udder should be wiped off with a damp cloth, using clear warm water or a weak disinfectant solution. It is important to dry well, preferably with a second clean cloth. The use of a covered pail is strongly to be recommended, and it should be absolutely clean and sterilized.

Large Planes Needed For Ocean Flights

Airplanes Preferable To Hydroplanes Says The Swedish Italian " Manufacturer

Regular flying between Europe and America will be impossible for many years to come with types of motors, capable of flying about 5,000 miles without landing, Col. Cagnoni, famous aeroplane manufacturer, maintains.

If Newfoundland and the Azores are supplied with well equipped landing stations, however, Cagnoni will be preferable to hydroplanes for crossing the ocean, Cagnoni thinks. But the aeroplanes must be equipped with mechanism enabling it to float in the roughest sea in case of forced descent. The Italian aviator declared he should fly at an altitude of about 20,000 feet that at a speed of 187 miles per hour, the pilots and passengers being in hermetically sealed cabins, supplied with compressed air.

A flight from Rome to New York could be accomplished in less than 24 hours, he said.

Tobacco Grown In Alberta

Martin Baker, of Edmonton, has further demonstrated this year the possibility of successfully growing tobacco in Alberta. Last year he cropped a full acre of the fragrant weed and this year is growing an abundant harvest of strong and healthy plants, from three and a half acres.

Bank Always Good Friend

Wives Financial As Well Moral Security Counsel Thought

A bank is always a good friend it carries with it something personal. When presented as a gift it contains more than the face value of paper. It is an expression of taste and a recognition of personal appreciation it reflects the giver, it evaluates the recipient. Therefore give a bank with thought, with deliberation. When you are thinking of presenting a friend of them in the light of their personal tastes, of their intellectual bent of their spiritual associations. To give a highly selected bank means to display intellectual culture on the part of the giver.

Remedy Of Natural World

People Who Use Them More Than Fortunate Says Viscount Grey

"Of all the joys of life which may fairly come under the head of recreation there is nothing more great, more refreshing, more beneficial to the wicked woman of the world than real love of his beauty of the world," writes Viscount Grey in "Fallodon Papers."

"Some people cannot feel it. To such people I can only say, as Turner once said to a lady who complained that she could not see sunsets as he painted them, 'Don't you wish you could, madam?' But to those who have some feeling that the natural world has beauty in it I would say, cultivate this feeling and encourage it in every way you can. Consider the seasons, the joy of the spring, the splendor of the summer, the richness of colors of the autumn, the delicate and graceful barrenness of winter trees, the beauty of snow, the beauty of hard weather when the cold is bitter and calls the smiling of the sun.

"When we are bored, when we are out of route, when we have little worries, it clears our feelings and changes our mood if we can get in touch with the beauty of the natural world of geology.

Provosts Enjoyed Joke

Princess Mary was among those who appreciated the joke when the band at a Manchester ceremony she was attending struck up the tune, "Let's all go to Mary's house." The Princess had just laid a foundation stone at Manchester Infirmary, and as she stepped down from the platform the song was played. At once some of the onlookers took up the refrain and sang lustily the words, "And let's have a real good time."

Big Land Deal

Negotiations for the sale of 6,000 acres of land in the Madison district of Saskatchewan, 160 miles southwest of Saskatoon, were opened recently by the Canada Colonization Association, the purchasers being twenty Mennonite families, all in the Dominion but living in scattered districts.

May Add Airplanes To Present Service

Matter Said To Be Under Consideration By C. P. R. Officials

In Canada, about to adopt the air plane as a supplement to the trans continental flyer, as a commercial train. As the day when flight cross country trips to fit out in half or third, as at present over a considerable section of the country there is air-mail for the Dominion an early development?

Substantial steps in these directions seems to be indicated by the movement being made to urge the Canadian Pacific railway to add an air branch to its present service which, it is said, is being pushed by Major General J. H. MacBrien, former chief of staff General MacBrien is at present provisional chairman of the Canadian Air League.

It is expected that MacBrien will be placed in charge of the railway's aerial department, if it materializes. He is looking for a site for an airdrome having taken the course at Camp Borden a year or so ago, and, in addition, has made an intensive study of aeronautics.

MacBrien's plans it is said, have been studied by C. P. R. engineering officials. The railway is sounding out the federal government to see if it is prepared to assist in the early heavy expenditures by means of subsidies.

The announcement is being watched with the keenest interest, and there is much speculation as to whether the railway that was the pioneer in transcontinental development will again be responsible for spectacular advance step for future transportation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 2

ELIJAH ON MOUNT CARMEL

Golden Text "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."—Joshua 24:15.

Lesson 1 Kings 18.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 121:1-3, 9-11.

Explanations and Comments

I. Elijah's Meeting With Ahab, verses 1-2a. After three years of severe famine in Samaria because of the prayer of Elijah (as related in chapter 17), the time arrived for the famine to be ended. Jehovah had promised to send rain, and had been at work in search of water for their perishing horses and mules. He was met by Elijah, who ordered him to inform Ahab that rain was coming. Ahab came to meet Elijah. "Thou troubler of Israel," were the king's angry words of greeting boldly Elijah retorted that the king was the real troubler of the nation, for he had forsaken the commandments of the Lord and was following the gods of Jezebel.

"Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, before whom I stand," was the reply. Elijah, who ordered him to inform Ahab that rain was coming. Ahab came to meet Elijah. "Thou troubler of Israel," were the king's angry words of greeting.

The extreme care with which gasoline should be handled was emphasized by an incident which occurred on Monday when a resident of this town, accompanied by long pencils to the cleaning of clothing by gasoline, had an unpleasant and dangerous experience. He was washing some woollen material in gasoline outdoors, and while rubbing to get off a particularly dirty spot, the gasoline caught fire, we presume by the friction caused by rubbing. The victim's hands were enveloped in the flames which enveloped his clothing. We would advise anyone who is doing anything like this, to have the cleaning clothing to conduct their operations with the greatest of care. If gasoline is used in small amounts, do not resort to it at all.

THE COUNTRY WEEKLY

Let us forget the family paternal plant and the home-like atmosphere, lives of any community, or misunderstand the rise or decline of a town because of the presence or absence of such a medium, to mention particulars but to read and record the following characterization by Professor Frank Luther Mott of University, says the Research Department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers:

"I am the Country Weekly. I am the friend of the family, the bringer of glad tidings, I speak the truth. I speak to the home in the evening light of others' vicarious pain or the glad glow of the vehicle's lamp. I help to make this evening hour; I make the great and the small, the weak and the strong, the rich and the poor, all to make up life. I am for and of the home. I follow those who leave the parish boundaries of their youth to be immersed or to the center, I take them to the thrill of old days with their old siblings, I speak to the home of their youth. I am the only newspaper followed to be home-like. My congregation is larger than that of any church in town; my readers all read more than those in the school. Young and old alike find in me stimulation, instruction, entertainment, inspiration, advice, comfort; I am the chronicler of birth and love, and therefore the three great events of life.

"I bring to the home of both; I am part of the market place of the world. Into the home I carry the word of the goods which sell, and make comfort and shelter and which minister to comfort, ease, health and happiness. I am the record of the week, the history of the year, the record of my community in the archives of the present and the future. I am the chronicle of the lives of my readers. I am the Country Weekly.

"Now every dealer in merchandise, whether groceries or yams, dressmaker or old settler, should receive his own contribution to his Country Weekly in the way of a letter, a personal item, or a space. If he hasn't done this, then he hasn't done his full duty by his Country Weekly. He is not getting his full harvest from his calling efforts on a record."—Exchange.

We take that the frost will not amount to much to speak of, but by the thousands of diamonds we see a hundred miles or more by motor or making a stroll the Right and Gathering at Sunset, Alberta in September.

A shipment of potatoes from Edmonton to the United States is shortly to be made. Charles Blazer, rancher, at Lake Nesbitt, was the first farmer interested himself in the preserving of potatoes. He has had the land cleared to a distance of twenty-five hundred acres.

It has been announced that the representatives of the Cuban potato growers have agreed to take three carloads of potatoes as a gift of the Provincial potatoes this season. Arrangements are now being made to pay with the Cuban buyers for the gift of the Nova Scotia potato growers.

Increasing interest has been shown in the organization of boys' and girls' corner clubs throughout the province and a number of clubs have been formed, among others at Lake Nipissing, Cooking, Macleod and Raymond. To the winning team in Alberta Canada Packers will give a 17-jewel Bulova Park watch.

The 4,000 purebred poultry owned by the Dominion experimental farm, Lacombe, Alta., are housed in 18 houses, each 30x200 feet, and 4,000 pullets, 2,000 cockerels, 2,000 yearling hens and 1,000 cocks. In order to obtain some idea of the requirements for a flock of 4,000 it is estimated that 18,000 eggs will be set under brooder stoves and 36,000 under hens.

An unfailing indication of farm prosperity is the increasing sale of implements reported by nearly all dealers in the west this year. The demand for this machinery has been especially heavy, while the sale of threshers, binders, combines and tractors has been exceedingly large, some firms reporting from 50 to 100 per cent increase in the sales of these implements.

When the Canadian Pacific Railway train bearing the delegates to the Canadian Legion to Canadian Legion convention arrived at Coquitlam, B.C., recently, President J. H. Gorman of Ottawa was asked to stop to smoke during which the delegates had to walk a mile to where the last tie of the Canadian Pacific Railway was driven linking for the first time the East to the West. Mr. Gorman drove the golden spike.

CANADIAN MOTHER'S BOOK

The Record has received a copy of the Confederation Diamond Jubilee edition (publication No. 2) of The Canadian Mother's Book, issued by the Department of Health, Ottawa, by Helen MacMurchy, M.D.

The book has been written for Canadian mothers. The government of Canada, knowing that the nation is made of homes, and that the homes are made by the father and mother, recognizes you as one of the makers of Canada. No higher service is greater or better than the "work of the mother in her own home. The mother is "The First Servant of the State."

The book is complete with the most valuable instructions for the care of the mother, and especially to the young mother.

A copy may be obtained free upon application to the Deputy Minister, Department of Health, Ottawa, Ont. State whether English or French edition is desired, also publication No. 2. No postage is required on your letter.

"I do pray," said Helmi, in her own defense "but not loud, just me and God hear. I don't like big rew, — mother does my God."

After that the matron tried giving Helmi more than her share of work, but that plan was soon abandoned. Work melted before Helmi's clever hands. Then came isolation. Helmi's heart was so hard she could not have her meals with the other girls. Helmi bore this complacently. Anything better than having the whole mammal starting at her.

Helmi had four happy hours each day, four hours that slipped by her on shining wings, when the dining room table was cleared and lessons were given by Miss de Forest. Always Miss de Forest smiled at Helmi, looked at Helmi and called her "dear." She praised her neat, clear writing, and gave her a beautiful clasp-knife note-book with green lines in it for her own. Miss de Forest did not live at the home, but came each day to her little car, her coming and going being events in the drab lives of the young prisoners to whom she came as an ambassador from a happier world.

To the Matron, Miss de Forest went one day with something terrible heavily on her mind. Mrs. Wymath was in her "Retreat," and looked up questioningly when the teacher entered.

"Mrs. Wymath, this system is all wrong," began Miss de Forest, imprudently. "The young Finn girl who has just come in is as sweet and innocent as a rose, but she has to associate with all sorts of people. Rose Lamb has just come back from a terrible debauch, and she is full of the glory of the escapade—she knows every dive in the city. Lucille's baby is about due. Minnie is in the same condition, and the others are learning fast any wickedness they did not know. Many of these girls are mentally defective. Certainly this is no place for a bright, lovely young girl like Helmi. I always have thought it poor system, but since Helmi came it seems positively devilish."

Mrs. Wymath's lips were thin as she replied: "We have nothing to do with the system, Miss de Forest; that has been carefully thought out by the Board. You forget that under the self-seeking in Success of Divine grace, the hardest hearts may melt. Rose Lamb has had a wonderful conversion since she was brought back, and is a better girl than before. I talked with her myself and stubborn will. Rose is a brand plucked from the burning; Helmi is still a sinner."

Miss de Forest protested stormily. At the end of the month Miss de Forest was dismissed. The letter from the Board said "it was deemed not in the best interests for a teacher to remain in the dormitory. The Wymaths had other plans. They believed it was well for the girls to have the degree of sin explained to them. The dining room table was cleared and lessons were given by Miss de Forest. The snow fall of last Saturday put a halt to the threshing. A start was made by a few on Tuesday afternoon but it was found to be too tough, but everyone was on the job on Wednesday. Some high yields have been reported, the job's wheat crop on the field near the elevators threshing 50 bushels to the acre. J. F. Fechenbuchaph had a field which averaged 51 bushels to the acre and graded No. 1 northern.

BIG SUGAR BEET CROP ANTICIPATED

The largest crop of sugar beets in the history of the industry in Alberta is estimated this season from the southern part of the province where harvesting is now under way. The crop will, it is expected, total from 45,000 to 50,000 tons as compared with 41,600 tons last year. On account of the plentiful supply or rainfall during the growing season the crop has grown satisfactorily with very little irrigation. The sugar factory at Raymond is expected to open for its full run about October 10.

EMINENT CANADIAN POET ADDRESSED CANADIAN CLUB

The Canadian Club of Fort Saskatchewan was again responsible for a treat to the residents of the town by arranging for the visit here, last week, of E. J. Pratt, a Canadian poet and lecturer of the highest standing in Canadian literature.

We were indeed favored by this visit when it is considered that Mr. Pratt is visiting about twenty places throughout the Dominion and which places of course are mostly cities.

E. J. Pratt has received more artistic and more favorable criticism by the reviews of Great Britain, Canada and the United States than all most any other Canadian poet. The association of Canadian clubs has now mapped out an itinerary for Mr. Pratt to tour Western Canada and lecture on his poems in accordance with its policy of encouraging the art and literature of the Dominion.

The lecture here was delivered in the United church to a small but appreciative audience. Mr. Pratt read several of his poems from his "Newfoundland Verse." He himself is a Newfoundlander by birth, a Canadian by education and association, a graduate of the University of Toronto, and now a lecturer at the Victoria college, Toronto. A man of wonderfully pleasing personality and his descriptive talk explaining how and why he came to have each particular poem born in his brain, was as enjoyable as the recitation of the poems themselves. Only the author of poetry can adequately convey the full force and meaning to his poems. It is part of himself and expressed as such by a man like Mr. Pratt gives one a totally new idea of what poetry is. Mr. Pratt seems to have confined his literary efforts to the study of individuals, both steady and collectively, and their habitations and labors on his native shores of Newfoundland.

To give a detailed report of the poems read would take a lot of time and space even if one were able to do full justice to this occasion of delight and interest. Mr. Pratt has the following books of verse now published: "Newfoundland Verse," "The Witches' Brew," "Titans," and "The Vision of an Iron Door."

The Canadian club has other noteworthy visitors coming here and again wish to remind the public that these visitations are for the benefit of everybody and not confined to members of the Canadian club. Any member of the club will be glad to give information concerning these features.

URGE FIRE PROTECTION BY THRESHERMEN

Attention of farmers and threshermen, especially those operating steam engines, is now being called to the provisions of the Prairie Fire Act which affect them, by Basil Lawton, Chief Fire Inspector for the province of Alberta. Mr. Lawton points out that in order to prevent the risk of serious conflagrations no engine shall be placed within thirty feet of any building or stack and that a metal pan of adequate size filled with water shall be placed under the engine as a receptacle for cinders and ashes.

All cinders and ashes shall be thoroughly extinguished before the engine is removed from any place where it has been in operation and a barrel of water and two buckets shall be placed conveniently to any stack of combustible material near the engine. A spark arrester in good repair shall be used and shall not be opened while the engine is in operation.

It is hoped that closer observance of these regulations will reduce the fire loss which occurs annually from this source.

As a result of their visit, stated Mr. McGeer, London financiers will be given further accurate, first-hand information as to the resources of Alberta's great Northland. Both visitors stated that British Columbia is also vitally interested in the settlement and development of the Peace River area and especially in the provision of a coastal outlet for that section.

Big Trout Catch at Cold Lake

The total weight of trout taken by anglers at Cold Lake this season is placed at 55,000 pounds, in addition to which 1,350 pounds of jackfish and 350 pounds of pickerel were taken out of the same waters, according to the report of Herve Truscotte, fisheries overseer at the lake. A total of 904 angling permits were sold this year and the largest trout caught in the lake weighed forty pounds, four pounds heavier than the record fish in last season's catch.

The Conference Of Premiers

At the invitation of the Dominion Government there will assemble at Ottawa early in November a conference of representatives of the Federal Government and of all the Provincial Governments at which consideration will be given to the many questions affecting the interests and rights of the Dominion and its several provinces. This conference will be attended by the Dominion Prime Minister and some of his colleagues and by all nine Provincial Premiers who in each case will be accompanied by cabinet colleagues.

The object of this round table conference is, of course, to discuss problems common to all and endeavor to find satisfactory solutions, to iqdjust any differences now existing, to try and harmonize conflicting laws, eliminate overlapping in administration, and, in general, to study the financial requirements of the several governmental units. In a word, it is co-operation for the good of all Canada. Its importance, therefore, does not call for any special comments.

This conference of Canadian Premiers is designed to accomplish for Canada something similar to what the recent Imperial Conference at London accomplished for the Empire as a whole. For example, the exact status of the Dominion and its several Provinces in regard to certain subjects requires to be clarified. There is now conflict of authority in matters of Company law, bonusing and repudiation, including Provincial debts, companies. In insurance matters particularly there is more or less confusion.

Again, most of the Provinces are anxious to exercise strict supervision and control over the sale of stocks and bonds of companies, and several Provincial Legislatures consequently want new laws framed for the better protection of the investing public, only to find that all companies had to do to escape Provincial jurisdiction was to become incorporated under Dominion law. The Provinces desire Federal action to overcome this difficulty.

Another matter which is causing adverse comment throughout the country is the duplication of police forces, with consequent division of authority, sometimes leading to over-lapping and consequent friction; sometimes resulting in lack of co-operation. In any event, people do not like to see unnecessary waste of the taxpayer' money with Dominion, Provincial and Municipal police. The Premiers' Conference will give consideration to such problems at a time.

Then there is the ever-recurring question of the Dominion subsidies paid to the Provinces, and the complications resulting from the fact that some Provinces have control of their natural resources while others have not. As the outcome of the Duncan Report, the Maritime Provinces have been given a new financial arrangement temporarily. To this the other Provinces have not raised any objection, but if a new and permanent arrangement is to be made in the interests of these Provinces, then all the Provinces have a vital interest in the matter.

Furthermore, it is now fairly well recognized that the financial terms originally fixed at the time of Confederation, and so altered from time to time, work out to the advantage of the Dominion and unfairly to the Provinces. That is to say, increased population brings largely increased revenues to the Dominion through Customs, Excise, and other forms of taxation, but the Provinces have increased population mainly means increased expenditures for education, roads, hospitals, court houses, and institutions of various kinds, while the small increase in the subsidies received from Ottawa because of such larger population is more than swallowed up when compared with such expenditures. Re-adjustment of the financial terms, therefore, becomes a necessity from time to time.

No one thing is more apt to weaken Confederation than the existence of a feeling that it is not working out quite fairly to the Provinces, or that, in regard to these matters which are subject to both Dominion and Provincial jurisdiction, Federal Departments are not displaying that spirit of helpful co-operation which is essential to complete efficiency in Provincial administration. On the other hand, real unity in effort, frank recognition and understanding of each other's problems, and sympathetic consideration and action will make the Dominion united and strong.

The people of Canada will entertain high hopes that the Ottawa Conference will be as successful in its field as the Imperial [illegible] was in the larger ocean of Empire affairs.

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lesson From Seed

Great diseases cause heavy losses wherever cereal crops are grown. In Canada careful estimates of smut losses are available only for the last few years, and these show the average annual loss to the Canadian farmer from this source as over $12,500,000. Government departments, agricultural colleges, and technical agriculturists are all engaged in the effort to reduce this loss.

Generally by necessity, it is found that when supplies are limited, thrift, rubbing, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil opens the pores and penetrates the tissues, touching the seat of the trouble and immediately relieving relief. Administered internally it will act on the irritation in the throat which induces coughing and will give relief to the tissues of the bronchial tubes and secretory organs. Try it and be convinced.

Antarctic Expedition

Expedition To Explore Southern Continent Returns To England

After two years of scientific research in the extreme southern seas, Captain Robert F. Scott's old Antarctic ship, Discovery, returned to Falmouth, England, having suffered no casualties in the struggles with the ice fields.

The expedition gathered valuable information, especially about the life habits of the whale. Though they met the leading scientist aboard, told newspapermen that on the disputed natural history questions they are not unanswered. On the contrary, he declared, they have, so to speak, "a mile in every pace."

Flight Will Be Hazardous

Commander Byrd's Trip To Antarctic More Dangerous Than Any Yet Attempted

Commander Richard Byrd, who recently flew the Atlantic ocean with passengers, is still undertake the most hazardous flight that has ever been made by an airman when he will attempt to reach the South Pole by aeroplane. He has already crossed the North Pole by air, but the task he has now set out to accomplish entails even greater dangers and difficulties.

For instance, he may find himself obliged to winter in the Antarctic in the event of being caught in the ice. But if all goes well, and as now planned, the flight will have been accomplished and the intrepid explorers on their way back to civilization early in 1928.

"If all goes well" . . . These words are often on the lips of Byrd and his companions just now, for well they know, from all the data in hand, that usually all does not go well on that vast but little explored waste, which has been so aptly named "The Home of Ice."

The first aeroplane to fly across this unknown huge centre of the earth's surface will be equipped with a powerful wireless and with this device that can be blown high in the air to give greater power, so that in the event of a forced landing or other untoward event the fliers will be able at once to communicate with the companions left at the base camp at Ross Bay. They will have the means ready to effect Commander Byrd's rescue.

Progress In Agricultural Methods Shown By The Adoption Of Labor-Saving Machinery

The outstanding trait of Western Canadian agriculture is its constant progressions. Western Canadian farming never stands still but is constantly fostering new developments. The diversity of crops extends; methods of operation are steadily being improved. In particular, the advance in the adoption of mechanical devices and the general utilization of machinery to facilitate farming operations and reduce manual effort has been striking. Today, the profession of farming in Western Canada demands not so much physical strength as a practical administrative sense and a working mechanical knowledge. Man and labor requirements are steadily being reduced to a minimum and the Western Canadian farmer is becoming more and more the operator of a machine.

According to report from intelligent observers in Western Canada, the spring revealed two very marked trends in the agricultural economy of that territory, one being the greater powerlining of the large dry land farms and the other a marked increase in the favor and probable utilization of the tractor and the caterpillar thresher. Dealers in the territory report an unprecedented demand for the latter machine and a corresponding increase in orders for combines. Tractors have been steadily delivered at the rate of many hundreds to arrive in plenty of time for plum pudding and boggin, bagpipes and [illegible]

Fruit in Sheep

Sheep Raising As a Side Line On the Prairies.

Although the farmers of the prairie provinces will probably continue indefinitely to depend upon grain growing as their main source of revenue there are several lines of work which fit in admirably with grain growing and provide an extra source of revenue. One of the best of these sidelines for the prairies, according to E. Van Nice of the Scott, Saskatchewan Experimental Station, is sheep raising. Many farmers are realizing this and the number of sheep in the three provinces is increasing. They prove particularly helpful to the income when the main crop is found wanting on account of seasonal conditions. The big expense of removal from sheep, namely, weed and lambs makes the proposition doubly attractive.

Sheep are useful as a cleanser for marketing low grade whole grain and for gleaning stubble fields. They appreciate a varied ration, however, and in districts where alfalfa or clover hay is plentiful these should be used as roughage for the breeding stock in conjunction with straw, but good results have been attained at Scott when oat straw was the only rough age fed. Probably the most satisfactory method of getting a start with sheep is to purchase a few ewes now and use pure-bred rams. If the farmer has had no experience with sheep he should start with a small number.

Developing New Grain

"Mystery Wheat" Ripens Fortnight Earlier and Yields Equals Marquis

In his first statement on his "mystery wheat" which he is developing on his farm near Wembley, Alberta, Herman Trelle, world wheat and cereal king, reveals the new grain is being especially developed for harvesting by combines.

These are features of mystery wheat. The straw stands stiff even under light snow, the head does not shatter, it retains the kernels in a fast grip, even under adverse weather conditions.

The grain ripens a fortnight earlier, enabling it to stand in the field until dead ripe, without damage from frosts, thus providing ideal grain for simultaneous cutting and threshing. The yield and quality equals that of the Marquis variety.

Trelle is still developing the new wheat but hopes by the end of next season to have it released officially so that farmers all over the West can start growing it.

Prairie Provinces Are Making More Butter

Account For About Thirty Per Cent. Of Canada's Output

Every one of the provinces records an increase in butter production last year, Manitoba having the largest proportionate increase. A notable feature of the survey, in fact, is the position in butter production which the Prairie Provinces have come to occupy. These provinces, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, which a comparatively short while ago did not produce enough for their own requirements, now rank third, fourth and fifth respectively, and together account for 30 per cent. of the Dominion butter output.

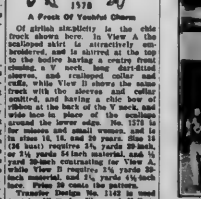
English In Common Speech of Millions

Tongue To School Children Of Almost Every Civilized Country

At a recent meeting of the Royal Society of Literature, attended by prominent literary men of Great Britain and the United States, the use and misuses of certain English words and national differences of pronunciation were discussed. The outcome was the decision to take steps to form an "International Council for English." This council would consist of fifty British members and fifty members from the United States. It would investigate disputed usages of words and study "Americanisms and Anglicisms."

The proposal that an international council for English be formed directs attention once again to the spread of the use of that tongue throughout the world. The various dialects of Chinese are spoken, indeed, by more people than is English, but on the other hand the written language of the Chinese is so difficult to master that learned men in that country have been striving to simplify it. Spanish is the tongue of an increasing population in South America and Russian in the language of about 150,000,000 people English has been carried by settlers to North America, Australasia, and Africa. It has long been the language of a world-wide commerce. In 1901, according to a British statistician English was spoken by only twenty-one millions of people. By 1920 it was the native tongue of one hundred and eleven millions. Today it is the common speech of one hundred and seventy millions. It will be spoken by more and more people as the populations of the British Empire and of the United States increase. Furthermore, it is being taught to children in the schools of almost every civilized country in the world. It is growing more as more into use as an international language.



American Legionnaires to France

Sixty members of the "Boys of '76" Eagle and Drum Corps of Post 76, Encino, Wisconsin, post of the American Legion, who sailed from Quebec recently to attend the national convention in Paris Attired in white uniforms and red sashes, and accompanied by brilliantly garbed drum majors, they presented a very handsome spectacle as they marched to embark on the Canadian Pacific steamship Montrose for Antwerp.

The corps is a part of what was considered the most unique feature of Atlantic game-their movement in history since the first sailings of the Canadian Pacific steamers for this purpose began August 26. The Legionnaires were welcomed by the convention delegates in Paris by Gaston Paineare, President of the Republic, and many prominent political and military leaders in France. Among outstanding Americans to call were General John Pershing, who accompanied the American Expeditionary Force to France, and U.S. Ambassador Myron T. Herrick.

It is estimated that well over 17,000 Legionnaires and their friends from America to attend the convention.

Unexplored Regions

Only three-quarters of a century ago large tracts of the earth were completely unknown. The whole interior of the African continent was a blank on the map and in the centre of each continent, a rectangular of the sandy waste of the Sahara. South Polar regions were unlabelled, little or nothing had been ascertained regarding the regions of equatorial South America and the central parts of Asia and Australia. Yet in 1913 geographical authorities were able to say that the unknown no longer existed and that the world had attained almost complete self-consciousness. That qualifying word almost doubtless applied to the yet untrod of portion of the Polar regions and of the interior of Brazil. Beginning with the first great exploratory journey of David Livingstone in 1853-56, continual inroads on the unknown have reduced the blank areas on the map until few fields are left for the adventurous to conquer.

Of all that remains, the most prominent feature consists of those huge mass continent that surrounds the South Pole, with an area only a little less than that of the United States. Rising to an average of 6,000 feet above the sea with "barrier backwaters" of precipitous ice cliffs, and covered more or less with snow and drifting ice, the South Polar continent long offered almost insuperable obstacles to explorers in search of fame. To surmount them by aeroplane is easy, but then come dangers of another kind. The Antarctic has been explored only one explorer, who spoke out of the fullness of personal experience, as "a horrible, desolate, God-forsaken land," where the temperature falls to 50 degrees below zero. Those blizzards enacted their toll of death when Captain Scott, Dr. Wilson and the other three survivors of his successful Polar expedition perished in March, 1912, from exposure and starvation.

Commander Byrd's proposed flight to the Pole has been made the more planned for the southern summer of next year, will be the most difficult and perilous of all Polar ventures, even more so than those undertaken in quest of that more alluring goal of the centre of the Frozen South. But the greater the hardship and peril of the quest, the stronger is its appeal to men of adventurous temper and the urge will be found to be satisfied. In the case of the Antarctic, the lure is heightened by the report of many valuable products that will ultimately attract the prospector, as it has done in the Arctic. In the meantime, the mystery holding the attraction always attaching to mystery.

New Zealand Has Appealed For Aid To Control Weed Menace

An expeditionary force of insects will be sent shortly from Canada to New Zealand. The Dominion has appealed for aid against the gunnebowry and blackberry fungus and ragwort weed which has spread too rapidly.

At the experimental station at Hampenden, Herefordshire, a host of English beetles and caterpillars are undergoing elimination tests to determine which bugs have the most voracious appetite for weeds and do not include vegetables and fruits in their diet.

When the insect "shock troops" are picked they will be rushed to New Zealand and turned loose against the farmers' enemies.

Wintering Steers Loose in Pens

To determine the relative merits of housing steers for winter feeding loose in large pens or tied in the stable a test has been conducted during the last three years at the Lennoxville, Quebec, Experimental Station. The results of the test show quite conclusively that larger gains can be obtained at a cheaper cost by feeding the steers loose in pens. Especially when the cost of labor and equipment is taken into consideration there is a marked advantage in wintering steers in this way.

Francis Henry Cook

London, Ont.—"I was in a general run-down state of health. I had indigestion and my stomach was weak and so sore I could not bear to touch it. I got worse. I did not have any health at all, was not able to do any usual line of work. I saw where Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended for stomach trouble and I decided to try it and it relieved me of my misfortune. I continued taking it and am now in good health. I am pleased to recommend the medicine as I do. It is a wonderful blood purifier."—Francis Henry Cook, 471 Elizabeth St.

Conditions Have Not Changed

Aircmen Were Warned 65 Years Ago To Be Wary Of Ozone Flight

The difficulties in the path of a proposed flight from Europe to the United States were emphasized 65 years ago by Professor Joseph Henry, famous physicist and first secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, in a letter to Theodore S. C. Lowe, inventor and aeronautical engineer.

A copy of that letter has just been unearthed in the archives of the Smithsonian Institute. What Professor Henry said in 1841 relative to trans Atlantic wind conditions is regarded by met-orologists and aviators experts there as having a personal bearing on some of the conditions faced in recent attempts to fly between Europe and America.

Lowe at that time was occupied with a scheme to fly from America to Europe in a balloon—the largest which had ever been built. Not only did he spend much money on the venture but he had the support of eminent men of his time, including George W. Childs, John C. Crosson, J. B. Lippincott, William Hamilton and others. One contributed several thousand dollars to further Lowe's efforts to demonstrate the feasibility of trans Atlantic aerial navigation.

In December, 1840, sixteen eminent Philadelphians, including those named, petitioned the Smithsonian regents to furnish him aid and advice. The regents decided they could not make an appropriation from the Smithsonian fund for the Lowe venture but directed Professor Henry to give Lowe any advice he might "deem fit as to his experiments."

Professor Henry told Lowe that a balloon of sufficient size, properly constructed so as to maintain high elevation for sufficient length of time, would be wafted across the Atlantic, because between 30 and 40 degrees north latitude, the prevailing wind currents were from the United States toward Europe, but he advised Lowe not to try the experiment over the ocean first.

Professor Henry said that the prevalent wind was completely all the way around the world, and that parlor ships in the station from New York to Liverpool frequently needed double the time in returning that they do in going."

Opening To Be Delayed

Saskatchewan Legislature With Open Early in New Year

The session of the Saskatchewan Legislature will not be held before but as soon after the New Year as possible. A decision to this effect was made by Premier J. G. Gardiner.

The fact that the season is so late and that there is a conference to be held of provincial prime ministers in Ottawa in November are understood to be the reasons for deciding not to open the Legislature before the New Year.

Ex-Kaiser Predicts More Terrible War

Says Nobody He Could Show World the Way To Peace

Former Kaiser Wilhelm foresees another war in 1937, he told a correspondent of the Copenhagen "Dagens Nyheder" in an interview in which he asserted he could show the world the road to peace.

Wilhelm evidently has slight regard for the League of Nations, which he says he has killed or blindfolded so the League delegates, he compares with children, because they have no useful war at the latest in 1937, a war which will last only a few days and nobody only a few hours.

"In the same moment that war is proclaimed giant fleets of airplanes, absolutely new and unknown, will be interrupted by wireless. Merchantmen will be destroyed immediately and a nation unprepared for it will be exterminated within thirty-six hours. Berlin, Paris and even new and propitious one and explosives unknown in Germany will be employed against which the world or nations within a moment."

The former Kaiser maintains that he is responsible to none but God, and does so prevent him from "endangering the world," and regrets being unable to return as a sovereign to teach the world how permanent peace might be secured.

"But all things now are there will always be wars," Wilhelm concluded, "I told show the road to peace, but the world prefers regarding me as a monument to astonishing me as an adviser."

Has Fairly Warm Climate

Temperature Of Mars Report Over Sixty Degrees

Not many years ago it was thought that the temperature of Mars was too low to support life. But by an ingenious device for measuring the temperature of the planet, it has been found that even in the Polar regions the temperature rises to well over freezing point. The temperature at the equator of Mars is almost that of a clear sunny spring day on earth in the latitude of New York, or between 60 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

Photographs taken in infra-red, yellow, and ultra-violet light seem to show that the planet has an atmosphere of considerable depth, though much rarer than that of the earth. Other observations show that the density of the surface atmosphere of Mars cannot be greater than it is eleven miles above the surface of our own planet.

While Mars can be observed to advantage by the telescope only in alternate years, and then for only a few months at a time, Jupiter can be observed all the year round, always presenting an interesting subject of study, except for a few weeks when it is too near the sun to be seen to advantage.

Jupiter has many curious light and dark belts that lie parallel to its equator and seem to be formed of gaseous vapours than their surroundings. The planet is spinning round on its axis once every 9 hours 55 minutes at his equator and every 9 hours 55 minutes in its higher latitudes. Objects at the equator are carried round at the rate of 30,000 miles an hour, or eight miles a second compared with 1,000 miles an hour, at the earth's equator.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 9

ELIJAH HEARS GOD'S VOICE

Golden Text: "Wait for Jehovah: be strong and let thy heart take courage." Psalm 27:14

Lesson 1 Kings 19

In national Reading Psalm 27:1-5.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Jezebels and Prophet, verses 9. In Elijah's reaction after his great exaltation we must instruct in every one might realize from his own experience. He sub follows the high side, depression, succeeds exhaustion, the Spirit down within Elijah's soul, the situation in Israel to come hopeless. He sought a cave on Mount Horeb and there was made aware of God's sheltering ear and sympathizing heart. There is nothing unreal in his meeting there with God for the prophet's own soul is stirred by the Spirit within him, shaped it in his imaginative. While meditating there he is brought to face the question of his own motive in withdrawing to the wilderness. "What doest thou here, Elijah?" Should he answer that he had run away from Jezebel? That he was utterly discouraged and that perhaps purposed giving up his work as the lonely which to thought of as especially the means of God?

The Rabbis say, "Elijah should be always willing to answer when he is called." Elijah's answer is a confession and a plea. His spirit cannot breathe itself into it while he is preoccupied with the faults of others. He must first be right with God before he can see clearly what is in his own heart. Elijah's inactive spirit, pulse, his fear, his facts, facts without and facts with in, facts yourself, and then when all self-pity, all fear of the fact that all self-decision is done away, the Spirit may be heard in the still small voice, but of your own will, but of God's.

Elijah could honestly answer that he had been very jealous for the honor of the God of hosts. Our words please may seal are of kindred spirit, and may be traced back to the Divine Word which means boiling. To be jealous for anyone else is to be burning with zeal for that one's interests. Elijah's jealous life was marked by his zeal for God. The necessity for his zeal lay in the fact which is not denied that the children of Israel had forsaken God's covenant, had thrown down his altars and slain His prophets with the sword. He thought that all hope of the reformation of the people was lost for the prophets were the only ones who could bring about a change for the better. "And I, even I only, am left," he replied "among the faithful to faithful only be," as Milton puts it, "Servants, his title, the title of the only living prophet, was in danger.

Duty Of Motor Drivers

Whole Thought Should Be Safety For Themselves and Others

The main principle which should be insistently hammered into the heads of all drivers of motor vehicles is that, besides obedience to the golden rule of "safety first," the obligation which they must fulfil is constant thought for others. It is their duty to the community to drive always in such a way that both in approaching and in overtaking other vehicles safety for themselves and other users of the road can be secured with the least possible risk to all of the horn and the brake in other words, wherever other vehicles or road users are concerned, the driver of a motor vehicle must be so regulated and so fully under their command that they can in case of need easily bring their car to a standstill. Persons safe driving and noiseless driving there is an intimate connection, and it is chiefly forgetfulness or ignorance of this fact that makes so many of those who use the roads a menace and a nuisance to their neighbors.

RURAL ROADS ARE PLANNED TO AVOID ACCIDENTS

Niagara Falls, Ont. Delegates who attended the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association meeting here apparently became imbued with the safety first idea, for continually throughout the discussions the speakers veered from their original topic to safety first suggestions.

H. R. Mackenzie, chief field engineer for Saskatchewan, stated that his province was planning its rural roads with the aim of making them neediest proof. Mr Mackenzie stated that the roads were being constructed in fact wide, and with ditches at such a gradual slant that an automobile, could run into them at a fair speed and still fail to turn turtle or fall on its side.

The annual meeting of the association, the first since the convention, did not pass without its recognition of the accident situation, several resolutions being adopted supporting the "safety first" campaign.

In touching upon the question of federal aid, the prelude to a resolution pointed out that the dwindling revenue had collected upwards of $175,000,000 in the past ten years which could be traced directly or indirectly to highways. In view of this, the association instructed its executive committee to make every reasonable effort to induce the Federal Government to grant financial assistance to the building of good roads.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President: Hon. P. C. Black, minister of highways, Regina; first vice-president, Hon. G. L. McPherson, minister of highways, Alberta; second vice president, Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of public works, British Columbia; secretary treasurer, George A. McNamee, Montreal.

Plan Subways For Montreal

Huge Project Would Provide Subway Lines and Elevated

Montreal—Initial steps have been taken, it was officially announced, by a group of local interests connected with financial houses in New York to enter into a $200,000,000 project with the city government, Federal Government and railway companies to establish local crossings in Montreal, construct a grand central terminal station and construct underground train facilities.

The work in view comprises, it was stated, the abolition of all level crossings in and entering the city either by elevating them or putting them underground. The proposition, it was also stated is being made to civic, provincial and Federal Governments beside the railway heads, would provide for exhaustion of all these bodies in the financial arrangements.

British Aviator Makes Record For Long Distance Solo Flight

Capetown, South Africa.—Lieut. H. H. Bentley, instructor for the South African air force, who left Hendon, England, on September 1, in a light moth airplane for Capetown, completed his long solo flight of more than 7,000 miles.

Lieut. Bentley, who made the trip in long hops in order to prove the possibility of London-Capetown air communication and to demonstrate the capabilities of a light plane on long distance flights, covered what was said here to be world's record for a long distance solo flight.

The aviator, who had hoped to make the trip in 19 days, found 23 necessary for the long trip, some of it over hazardous and deserted country.

Gypsy Children Ask For Separate School

Pupils in Czecho Slovakia Fear Those Of Other Tribes

Prague—School children in the town of Hohenmauth, Czecho-slovakia, have struck for separate schools, because of their instinctive fear that the swarthy juvenile nomads beside whom they sit have cannibalistic instincts.

Striking children have been actively supported by their parents, who declare their children run in danger of being eaten. Stating the force of the charges made the author of the strike, Dr. Hruby, a separate school for gypsy children, which, it is believed, would be the only one of its kind in the world.

The present protest grew from alleged cannibalistic orgies amongst 24 gypsies now awaiting trial. They are said to have confessed to murdering and devouring scores of persons, including the fifteen years old daughter of a cavalry sergeant-major. He visited the camp, but found that they did not serve "anything wrong in eating human flesh."

Aviators Safe After Long Desert Flight

German Plane Delayed By Detour Of Turkish Army

Bagdad, Irak.—Lieut. Otto Koennecke, pilot of the Germania, whose arrival here cleared up the mystery of his whereabouts, after a flight from Angora, Turkey, said that his delay in reaching this place had been due to the instructions given him by the Turkish authorities on leaving Angora on the route to be followed.

The German aviator, who is en route to the U. S. by way of the Orient, said that the instructions involved a wide detour, the Turkish idea being apparently to prevent foreign aviators from flying over certain areas of Turkish territory.

The aviator said that he had halted at Aleppo and then had deferred his departure for Bagdad in order to avoid flying in the hottest part of the day.

London.—The God of Love seems once more to have won out over the God of War in the Chinese Nationalist movement.

The Riga correspondent of the Daily Mail quotes an official Soviet despatch as the effect that Eugene Chen, former Nationalist Foreign Minister, and Mme. Sun Yat Sen, widow of the father of the Nationalist movement, were married in Moscow.

The newspaper reports the couple intend to spend their honeymoon in China by starting a new revolution, and adds that the Third Communist International is financing the activities of the bridal couple.

C.P.R. Earnings

Montreal.—The gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for August were $17,258,631, an increase of $535,401 over the gross earnings during the same month in 1926. The working expenses for the corresponding period, however, showed an increase of $1,971,681, representing a decrease of $1436,227 in the net profits, compared with August 1926. Net profits for August 1927 were $5,560,165.11.

Another Englishman has left Canada bearing with him the highest title of one of the famous Indian tribes of the Western plains. The title of "Chief Bear Head" was conferred upon Dr. Edward Brown, of the Dudley World, London, England, by Chief Running Antelope of the Sarcee Tribe.

The ceremony took place on the Sarna Ranch near Calgary, recently, during the Canadian Pacific Western tour of the World Poultry Congress Delegates of which party Dr. Brown was an outstanding member.

The photograph shows Dr. Brown shaking hands with Chief Running Antelope after he was accepted as a member of the Sarcee Tribe.

Have Reached Agreement

Railways Likely To Allow Hon. Robert Forke To Control Foreign Immigration

Ottawa.—Negotiations recently initiated by Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, looking to a curtailment of the influx of foreigners to Canada, if and when this is necessary, are achieving their object, it was stated here.

Recently in Montreal, Mr. Forke conferred with President Beatty of the Canadian Pacific Railway in regard to the existing agreement between the department and the railways respecting continental immigration. The Minister had a conference on the same subject with Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National.

"I think we are now in agreement," stated Mr Forke after seeing the C.N.R. He indicated that while the arrangement with the railways is not being disturbed, the new provision, or undertaking is that the Minister will have the absolute say as to when, and from where, the ladies of foreigners shall be stopped or curtailed.

"Meanwhile," said Mr. Forke, "I think that what has occurred will serve as a warning sufficient to avoid the necessity of any arbitrary action."

Would Make Britain Dry

Evangeline Booth Convinced That Prohibition is Possible in England

London.—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, to whom the incoming reception was given in a big London hall, is convinced that prohibition is a big possibility for England.

"If I were over here and had the help of Lady Astor, we could bring prohibition into England in six years," she is quoted as saying in an interview.

The Commander, who is making her first visit here since 1920, talked strongly on the benefits which she said prohibition had brought to the United States. "I would say to every country, if you want to be rich introduce prohibition and banish drunkenness and inefficiency."

Progress Is Satisfactory

Minister Of Railways Pleased With Work On Bay Line

Calgary.—Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, expressed his satisfaction with the progress of the work on the Hudson Bay Railway in the course of an interview here. The minister stated it was now in operation as far as mile 350 and the bridge over the Limestone River at that point had been completed.

"I expect within the next few weeks the Canadian National will let the contract for the last section of the railway to Churchill," he added.

In reply to a question as to the prospects of Fort Churchill and the length of the shipping season, Mr. Dunning said they must await Mr. Palmer's final report.

WANT CANADIAN CO-OPERATION ON WATERWAY PLAN

Washington. — Co-operation of Premier Mackenzie King's Government of Canada with the United States for the production of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway was predicted by S. L. Harding, president of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association. After a visit upon President Coolidge. He said he had "heard rumors" that the government intended to head a commission to seek an agreement with the United States and he believed these to be true.

Harding also declared that he saw no prospect of a less greater than 5,000 000 bushels of grain to United States Great Lakes shippers as a result of the fixing of an eleven cent rate by the Canadian Railways on grain from Winnipeg to Quebec.

Harding, a former governor of Iowa, said that he saw nothing in the sentiment for Frank O. Lowden, for president, in his state and that in some sections, particularly the eastern part, Secretary Hoover seemed to be gaining ground for the Republican nomination.

Harding believed that the veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill would not play as important a part in the presidential politics as has been generally predicted.

Russia Planning To Buy Montana Horses

Increased Price in Western Canada Too High is Report

Quebec.—Canada's second consignment of horses to Soviet Russia in the high class type, under the Russian steamer Dalkarby having left Quebec with 1,100 animals for Leningrad Canada's first shipment of the ship, said before leaving that Russia is looking towards the state of Montana to supply her horses, due to the action of Western Canadian farmers in raising the price of their animals to $20 each. Montana and other states are willing to supply the horses at $12 per head, he said.

The Dalkarby will be back here early in November for her third and last trip of the season.

Names Are Perpetuated

Nungesser and Coli Linked Forever in Canadian Place Names

Ottawa.—Nungesser and Coli, who sought to fly the Atlantic and failed, will live forever in the place names of Canada. The topographical survey department of the Interior Branch has drawn a new map of the new gold-bearing areas in the vicinity of Women, Narrow and Birch Lakes, in northwestern Ontario. On the map, the name Nungesser has been given to a lake and a small river flowing from it into Vermilion. The name of Coli, too has been given to a lake.

As Nungesser and Coli were linked in death, so Lakes Nungesser and Coli are linked by the highway of river and stream.

Following the rain and snow of last week the road from the instone past the divisions to the local crossing has been in a frightful condition. This is no new state of affairs and it is time something was done about it. We understand there is a dispute as to who is responsible for its improvement and maintenance. There is no better time than now for the shopping parties to get together and thrash the matter out; this is the threshing season. When one considers the thousands of dollars collected by the provincial government from the automobile owners of this district it is disgusting to have it swallow through a sea of mud which should be a road.

Pool To Build Two More Elevators

Contracts have been awarded by the Alberta Wheat Pool for the construction of two more elevators. It is announced from the head office of the Pool at Calgary. These will be 25,000-bushel houses located at Innisfail and Robinson, the newly completed New Hope branch of the C.P.R. This will bring the total number of co-operative owned by the Pool at country points in the province up to 157.

RECEPTION TENDERED MR. AND MRS. SOUTHERN

(Sexsmith Free Press)

A reception was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Southern, No. 8 View street, in honor of their son, Mr. James Southern, and his bride, nee Miss Isabel Bulloch, who were married in Fort Saskatchewan on September 1st, and who are spending their honeymoon in this city and the Sound Cities, and while here are the guests of his parents.

The rooms were very prettily decorated, the yellow and golden being border and pink. During the session Master Donald Reid drew into the room a wagon decorated in brown, tan and pink laden with gifts from the assembled guests, which in presented to the bride and groom.

A sumptuous supper was partaken of, after which the evening was spent in dancing and games. The party broke-up in the early hours after all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Southern every happiness in their married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Southern left on a visit to Powell River.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis, of Cuthbertand, Mrs. Mannion of Powell River, and Mr. and Mrs. Porter, of Cadomin, Alberta.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor.

Dear Sir:

Will you allow me a little space in your paper to comment upon a subject of importance to parents with regard to the school children. I understand that to make up for lost time caused by the closing of the school recently, that the recess time is being withheld from some of the upper grades. I do not know whether it lies with the School Board or the Principal, but as a parent I object to this for I think that a little relief from the close confinement of study is very beneficial to the children, especially after they have been indulging in all the fresh air possible lately. I maintain that they need it and will take up the subjects more quickly for it, also it should be given as a precaution. The dread disease is by no means over.

DRAGGING-DOWN PAINS RELIEVED

Woman Suffered Nearly a Year, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health

Morse Jaw, Sask. — "I am glad to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with dragging-down pains and indigestion. Also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side from my hip. I had it nearly a year when I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation. But my mother said to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her from that before. I took two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on taking it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have taken no more sickness since then and am perfectly well. I used to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find a dose now and then helps me. I am willing for you to use this letter any way you see fit and I will answer letters, if I can help any other woman. I'd be only too glad to try." — Mrs. Emma Bercourt, 614 Stove Square, Morse Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Mr. Wymuth who backed up his wife's petition by saying that one ear examination of "Lord, save" and "Hoof, have mercy!" was called to the telephone post at the moment that she was warning up to the real business of her report.

"O Lord, send down Thy chastening fire to convict and convert!"

"Amen! Hallelujah!" shouted the girls, knowing what was expected of them.

Helmi, who was kneeling just behind Mrs. Wymuth, caught a glimpse of boys in the perket of her black sateen apron. A sudden impulse prompting her, she cautiously abstracted the boys and crept quietly backward from the room. In the general excitement of the evening devotions she was not missed.

Helmi went at once to the retreat, found the key which fitted, and then to the desk. She had been trigged to creep and dust this hallowed spot, and so knew that one sacred drawer was always kept locked. It yielded to the quiet key, disclosing a pile of letters. Helmi found three for herself and one for Minnie. She hurriedly replaced the others, shoved her own and Minnie's into the front of her dress, and made the perilous journey down the long hall. If she had only cats Minnie to keep on praying. Her heels seemed to melt at the thought, her knees cracked, the house seemed to scream with silence. Mr. Wymuth was still at the phone. She reached the door. They were still on their knees. Mrs. Wymuth keeping up her supplications to the throne of grace. Some of the girls were crying. Helmi was on her knees by a moment beside them, and into her grateful heart there came an honest sigh of thanksgiving. Mrs. Wymuth, hearing it, refrained her efforts—she would get Helmi yet.

"Oh, Lord, give us souls for our sins — unlock the stubborn door — break down the bars of silence;—O, Lord, we are waiting, waiting wait-

Helmi swayed nearer to her and gently replaced the boys in Mrs. Wymuth's pocket, falling back on her knees in a rapture of thankfulness and relief. And in the general response exteries of the girls Helmi, too, joined. But the words of her song were the words of one of the yells of the —

"Merry Maids' —
"Skin a mir inka! Skin a mir inka!
Skin mir inga doo!
I love you!"

Fortunately for Helmi, Mrs. Wymuth attributed her strange words to her foreign birth, and in her joy at Helmi's apparent surrender she did not inquire closely into the matter. Helmi's silence was broken! Now for the full confession.—the stubborn will had yielded at last. .

The other girls were sent into the common room, where they began their evening task of making baby clothes in shamed silence. Although the Wymuth's had been at the Home for a short time they had filled every spark of happiness in it. Mrs. Avery had imbued the girls with a certain gaiety and enthusiasm over their sewing which had lifted it out of all sadness. A baby was to her a sacred gift; it must be made welcome! and baby clothes must be beautiful. The girls loved the two hours after supper when the little garments were fashioned. Indeed, the beauty of things that Mrs. Avery had planned and the girls had made were used against her by members of the Board, who claimed that she encouraged the girls to forget that they were sinners, and had them actually looking forward to the coming of their babies, forgetting that they were children of shame.

The Wymuth's let the girls forget nothing, and on the night they were silent and sad, as bitterly cast down as Adam and Eve, as any Christian Board could wish!

For an hour Mr. and Mrs. Wymuth struggled with Helmi. They prayed, reasoned, threatened. Their heart Mr. Wymuth at last shook her rough to—he had often said this was the best way to deal with foreigners. They had to be mastered.

Something broke in Helmi then. The nervous excitement of the evening — her three precious letters that she had not yet opened—her anxiety for Minnie, and eagerness to know what her letter contained of good or evil—something broke in Helmi's heart with sudden fury. It was that Saskatchewan temper for which her country men are noted. One moment she had been perfectly calm, tight-lipped, composed, mistress of herself, determined to bear all things: the next moment she was a flaming fury, with murder in her eyes. She hurled Mr. Wymuth from her with a savagery that sent him crashing into the china cabinet, and the words she said were words she had not known that she knew. If the hotel in Saint Paul she had heard the cleaning lady in a persistent peddler at the door, "You go by Hell!"

Mrs. Wymuth screamed in genuine, honest fright.

CHAPTER IX.

"Girls! Oh, Girls!"

Mrs. Wymuth's voice was brought with terror and brought the girls from the common room in a panic.

"Oh, you wicked, wicked girl, Helmi! You have killed the best man the sun ever shone on! He is bleeding to death, his life coming away!" Her voice, which always had a rusty whine, now fairly crushed.

The plant in the door of the cabinet had given Mr. Wymuth a cut in the cheek, and the blood ran over his pale face. Helmi, white eyed and rigid, stood as if rooted to the floor.

"Bloody murder monster!" Mrs. Wymuth's rabbit was rushing now like distant thunder. "Oh, speak to me, Mr. Wymuth." Even in her excitement she remembered that it would not do to call him by his first name before the girls—in His or in death, discipline must be preserved. "Speak, oh speak, pale Hps!"

The pale lips spoke. Mr. Wymuth's thin voice had been crushed by Helmi's blow. "Shut up, you fool, and get me something to wipe off the blood," he said.

"He raves," cried his wife drama tically. "Go, girls, go! When he wakes if he ever does wake in this life — he must see no face but mine

The girls drifted noiselessly up the stairs, deeply awed by what had happened. Helmi suddenly remembered the letters she had concealed, and ran upstairs to find Minnie, who had gone to bed early. When Helmi reached the dormitory she found herself the centre of an admiring throng. "I'm glad you pasted him!" cried one. Helmi, ain't you the best girl," said another.

"Serves him right, the big bear," was Rose Lamb's contribution. "I wish I had your nerve, Helmi. He walloped me for fair last week, and I was afraid to hit back. But Gee! he hadn't a look in with our husky Helmi!"

Minnie had awakened with the noise and was sitting up in bed, very pale and frightened, when the girls swarmed into the room. Helmi put the letter in her hand.

The first flush of congratulations gave place to dismal forebodings.

"Gee, Helmi, I'm glad it was you and not me that walloped him, I'm scared they'll half kill you." This was from Maude, a repeater who seldom spoke. "It's the Board I am scared of. There's a whole room full of them, and they get dressed the night they come—and they ask no questions about and we always happy, and we say our prayers by here and will try and repay all the kindness you have shown us."

"Shut up, Lizzie!" said a young girl who had been brought in because she and her stepmother could not agree; "Board is what you pay when you eat."

"Shut up, silly!" Maude's right. Ain't she been here twice? I guess she would know. I'm afraid they'll kill Helmi, maybe, or do something bad—expel her, maybe."

"That ain't the worst." Rose Lamb had the information now. "You can't get expelled from this place. I guess if any one could. It would have been me. This is a jail, really, only it's a jail where they're going to convert you or bust. It's best to get converted first thing. I've been converted lots of times; every time I run away I get converted all over again. Gee! I'm getting fed up with these Wednesdays! Ain't this a sweet time we're havin' tonight! I'm all for Helmi, — she's as good as a show." Rose began to sing.

Local Possibilities

Items Neighborhood Usually Offers Better Chances Than Elsewhere

Many folks will start off to some far distant city or state to seek their fortunes when there are equally good or better chances in the home neighborhood. The chances to make good in one's home location is usually better, since people understand local conditions more thoroughly. They also have friends in their home locality who will be of assistance in developing any kind of business. There are opportunities for business everywhere and they are just as good at elsewhere. The people who render superior service and who advertise what they can do will always attract attention and go ahead.

Man's "First Alphabet" Discovered As Fake

Frenzied Experts Find "Ghost Writings" Are Not Authentic

At a meeting in Paris of the Academy of Inscriptions the "Ghost Writings" discovered three years ago and believed to be man's "first alphabet" were announced as fakes. The exposition was made by Camille Julian, an authority on the Gallo-Roman era, and Rene Dussaud, the archaeologist appointed to make a special investigation.

The famous writings, which were brought to light at Glozel, near Vichy, were declared by the finders to be the work of Neolithic man, they presenting the contention that the writing established hundreds of centuries before the period generally recognized by scientists.

For some time the authenticity of the inscription was not questioned. There was merely disagreement as to its age. MM. Julien and Dussaud now declare they found many good reasons to suspect the "discoveries," citing as examples the objects had been recently disturbed, the lack of human bones, pictures of reindeer, which did not exist in France, and finally that a few of four frames was being charged for admission to the property where the "find" was made.

Fares Change With Weather

Trans-Atlantic Passenger Rates To Be Lowered During Dull Season

Trans-Atlantic passenger fares in the future will change with the seasons.

Cheaper rates for steamship passage are to prevail during the fall and spring as well as winter. This action of steamship officials has been taken to stimulate business in what are known as the off-seasons.

By the new arrangement, agreed to by all the principal trans-Atlantic companies, there will be three different tariffs, one for summer when travel is at its height, one for the intermediate seasons, the late fall and early spring, and another for mid-winter when travel is lightest.

The reductions on the more luxurious liners, such as the Majestic, Berengaria and Leviathan, in some instances amount to ten to fifteen per cent. from the summer tariff.

Angora Rabbit Farms

Reports state that Angora rabbit farming is being carried on to a very large extent by the people of France. Many thousands of Angora rabbit farms are in operation throughout the country and these depend largely on the revenue from the wool taken from the Angora rabbit which brings as much as $6 a pound for the best grade. In one year, Angora rabbit wool produced in France amounted to $190,000.

TIRD, WATERY BLOOD ALWAYS DANGEROUS

If Not Corrected Serious Results Sure To Follow

In no trouble is delay or neglect more dangerous than in anaemia, or thin, watery blood. It is very common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors. It makes its appearance in so stealthy a manner that in many cases the real development is not recognized.

But takes in time the tonic treatment through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so enriches the blood that good health and strength is speedily regained. The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything can be. Miss Teresa Hemby, Dunraven, Que., is one of the many nanervous sufferers who has found new health through the use of this medicine. She says:—"I cannot express too warmly my thanks for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. I was smothering from a badly run-down condition. I was very nervous, had little desire for food, and would feel tired out at the least exertion. In this condition I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and before using them very long found my health gradually improving, and under their continued use was completely restored. For this reason I earnestly advise all weak girls to take these pills, feeling sure that they will do for others what they did for me."

Send your name and address to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and they will mail you free a useful little book on "Building Up the Blood." The pills can be obtained through any druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Making the Canadian Dollar Go Farther than Ever Before

In the purchase of the common commodities of life, the Canadian dollar has increased its value during the past decade.

But, in the purchase of an automobile, the dollar is now worth one hundred to two hundred per cent more than it was seven to ten years ago—is worth more, in fact, than ever before in history.

While consistently raising the quality standard of its products, General Motors of Canada has increased the purchasing power of the Canadian car-buyer's dollar. . . .

. . . by the economies of volume purchasing and production,

. . . by the close co-ordination of resources and facilities,

. . . by improved labor- and time-saving methods of manufacture,

. . . by sharing with Canada the savings effected by increased production.

In quality and in value, the Canadian dollar now goes further than ever before in the purchase of a General Motors car.

ANNUAL FEEDERS CATTLE SHOW AND SALE AT CALGARY

Plans are under way for the holding of the annual Feeder Show and Sale held under the auspices of the Calgary Livestock Exchange at the Alberta stockyards, Calgary, October 19 and 18. Entries for this event close October 15, at 12 o'clock noon and all stock must be in exhibition pens not later than 10 o'clock on October 17.

Some $7,500 will be awarded as prizes in the various classes and the success which has attended these shows and sales each year since their inception warrants the directors in expecting that all cattle handled this year will be sold at prices entirely satisfactory to consignors. Reasonable travelling expenses to all Canadian stockyards will be paid in the case of purchasers of one or more carloads of feeder cattle and the usual Stocker and Feeder rate will apply on all feeder cattle bought at the sale.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL AT VERMILION OPENS OCTOBER 26TH

A large number of farm young people have registered at the Vermilion School of Agriculture, for courses in Agriculture and Household Science. Over a hundred applications have been received to date and more are coming in each day. Registration is well in advance of what it was this time last year.

The courses are free and run for the winter months only. The minimum age for admission for both boys and girls is sixteen, but many much older are registering. The Household Science course covers cooking, sewing, nursing, dairying, home laundry and household science, etc., while the Agricultural courses include training in carpentry, blacksmithing, gas engines, livestock, soils, weed seed identification, etc. Both courses include work in English, Mathematics, Chemistry and the Allied Sciences.

A number of students, where threshing is delayed, have written in asking if it will be necessary to enter the school when it opens, October 26. We, of course, know that it is a bad fall for threshing and would suggest that if it is necessary to stay out a week or so to finish threshing to do by all means, and we will arrange extra classes so that late students may catch up with those entering on the opening day.

Good Hope

The next meeting of the Good Hope Ladies' Aid will be held at the home of Mrs. Dave Emerson on the first Wednesday of November. As this meeting is important all members are requested to be present.

A fowl supper, concert and play will be held at Good Hope school on November 11th. Keep this date in mind as you will have a good time in every way.

Mr. George Abra, Bawtis, has been visiting friends and relatives in this district.

CORRALS FOR FEEDING STEERS

(Experimental Farms Note)

Steers have been fed at the Dominion Experimental station at Rothern for ten of the past thirteen winters. The custom has been to purchase these in the autumn, carry them through the winter and sell them in the spring; lately April or early May. At first it was difficult to determine an economical and effective shelter, but in 1916 two pairs of corrals were made with a space between of twenty feet. Each pair of corrals was eighty feet square with a partition down the middle making each single corral forty feet by eighty feet. The partition was really a walk four feet wide with a manger on either side protected by posts six feet apart along the outside of the manger connected by a heavy plank, high enough to allow the cattle to put their heads under the plank and into the manger without any discomfort, but not so high as to allow them to climb into the manger. Along this passage meal, cuttings, roots, cut straw, etc., can be fed with very little difficulty by means of a truck loading from a trench silo and root cellar and feed room. The passage is cut off from the south and about four feet which is far enough to allow a large bale to extend both ends, which is kept a tank heater. On the outside walls of the corrals are racks for hay or hay straw which may be thrown down over the fence. The north ends of the corrals are covered with poles and straw for about twenty feet which serves to give the animals shelter from storms. The corral fence itself is built of boards eight feet high. It is important that the part under shelter be cleaned out at least twice weekly and re-furnished with straw. Blue prints of these corrals may be had on application to the Superintendent, Experimental Station, Rothern. A detailed plan also appears in the 1922 report of the Rothern Station.

GOOD RETURNS FOR 1926 SUGAR BEET CROP

Some twenty thousand dollars has been paid to sugar beet growers in southern Alberta during the past week, representing a final bonus of 47 cents a ton on their 1926 crop delivered to the Canadian Sugar Factories Ltd., at Raymond. This brings the total returns to growers up to $7.27 per ton for the 1926 crop. This is an increase of $1.02 per ton over the final price paid for the 1925 crop, and the statement is made in a letter issued to growers by the sugar company that "Sugar prices are low and prices for 1927 and 1928 beets are likely to remain high and attractive to the farmer."

PREPARING FOR ROYAL AND INTERNATIONAL SHOWS

Alberta exhibitors who contemplate sending entries to the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair at Toronto and the International Hay and Grain Show at Chicago are reminded that these events are drawing near. Entries of grains for the Royal, which will be held November 16 to 24, must be in the office of the manager not later than October 27, and exhibits must reach Toronto and be in place not later than November 14.

In the case of the International Hay and Grain Show, all entries have to be at Chicago not later than November 10, and all exhibits must be there not later than November 31. In connection with this show exhibitors must send their names in to the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, and also send their exhibits to the Field Crops Branch of the Department, from where they will be forwarded to Chicago.

In this case all entries should reach Edmonton not later than November 1 and all exhibits should arrive not later than November 5.

Exhibits should be sent to the Provincial & Grading Plant, c-o W. J. Stephen, 9627 - 108a Avenue, Edmonton.

Higher Education In Canada

During the month of October two notable celebrations have occurred in Canada, —the centenary of the University of Toronto, the parent school which was granted by King George IV. in 1827, and the golden jubilee of the University of Manitoba. Needless to say, both anniversaries were marked by interesting ceremonies and attended by many distinguished men and women. Well deserved tributes to the part played by these institutions of higher learning in the religious, political, scientific and economic life of Canada were uttered. Indeed, the influence of the older of these two great institutions has been felt throughout the United States as well as Canada.

Considering the population of Canada, and the number, also, and financial strength of Canadian universities, it is not only surprising but a distinct tribute to those leaders that they occupy such a relatively high place among the universities of the world. All of Canada's universities are still young in years, but their standards are high and their achievements noteworthy. Their graduates are to be found all over the globe doing some of the best of the world's work.

For example, it is revealed by a recent survey of medical colleges in North America made by Rockefeller Foundation that the Medical College of the University of Toronto ranks first, with Harvard University second, John Hopkins University, Baltimore, third, and McGill, Montreal, fourth, a truly fine showing for Canada. Instead of Canadians having to go abroad in order to obtain the best in University training, the reverse is true, and hundreds of United States students are annually enrolled in Canadian institutions. Even from the British Isles come students to take the engineering course at McGill, and to pursue their medical studies in Canada.

It was from the medical college of Toronto University that Dr. F. G. Banting gave his wonderful discovery of insulin to the world, while many of the great engineering feats in Canada during the last few years, and in other parts of the world as well, are due to the genius of Canadian University trained engineers.

From the earliest days, education has been given the very foremost in every Canadian programme. It has dominated the thought and inspired the policies of the Canadian people. The result is seen in the character of the people, in the strength of our public institutions, and in the growing importance of Canada in world affairs.

The younger universities of these Western Provinces are worthily upholding the traditions and standards, of the older institutions, and will play an equally important part in the upbuilding of the West and in the contributions they will make to the life of the Dominion. Particularly in their research, survey, and extension departments is work of the most vital interest to this country being performed. The strides being made in the development of agriculture along scientific lines, and in overcoming plant pests, such as rust, will not only mean untold millions to the farmers of the West, but will result in a general raising of the standard of living, of cultural equipment, and of the level of prosperity throughout Canada.

In one of the three prairie provinces at the present time, one in every four of the population is attending school. In a small village of say approximately 40,000 population there is at present enrolment in public and separate schools, high schools, colleges, and other institutions of learning no less than 10,000 students. The writer has not the data but no doubt the same statement can be made of other Provinces and cities in the West. The heaviest single item of taxation borne by the people is for education, but it is borne gladly and without complaining. In fact, it is a matter of pride and the boast of the West.

No other subject, no other department of the Government, is watched more closely than education. It is well that this should be so, because in the intelligence, the training, the character of the younger generation that is the hope, the future of this great country. Here is to be found the basic foundation of all that is fine and worthwhile in life, and upon such foundation rests the strength and greatness of any people or nation.

Loud Talks Invention

System Of Tuning Receivers Without Touching the Dial

An electric device contained in a little box which can be carried about the house or placed on the arm of a chair has been invented for the purpose of tuning a radio set no matter whether it be in the living room, attic or cellar. There are no intervening wire or mechanical connections between the receiving set and the control box. The inventors are Reeden Washington, formerly of the United States Navy, and Wilson Auld, Jr.

The receiver can be controlled from any spot convenient to the operator without manipulation of the tuning dials or the receiver proper. It is explained out by the inventors that the radio set can then be installed in an out-of-the-way place and forgotten as all a tube replacement or [illegible] once adjustment must be effected.

One tall can (with a loud speaker) of boiled green peas, 2 canned peas, full cream milk. All soups can be in bulk.

Newspaper Association Executive

Newspaper Men Foregather

Eleventh Annual Convention Of Saskatchewan Weekly Newspaper Association

Regina. In point of attendance and in general enthusiasm the seventh annual convention of the Saskatchewan Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association was the most successful gathering of editors gazetted yet held, organized in 1916, the Association has been edited by increasing in strength, and now is able to boast of a membership of one hundred per cent. No small amount of credit for this success is due to the untiring work of the executive secretary, S. J. Dornan, of Alameda.

The sessions were held in the Hotel Saskatchewan, where excellent accommodation was provided for the booking of meetings as well as for entertainment. Regina was, moreover, mostly chosen as the meeting place for the 1928 convention.

On Thursday a luncheon was given by the Regina Board of Trade, and a dinner was tendered by the Saskatchewan Government, after which the delegates were the guests of the Tor onto Type Foundry Co., at a theatre party. The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool management gave a luncheon on Friday and on Friday evening the Weekly Newspaper Association were hosts at a dinner, at which the president elect, Mr McCullough, of Weyburn, presided.

Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: T. H. McCullough Weyburn, president; Hon. President Hon. S. J. Latta; Hon. Vice-President C. R. McIntosh, M.P., North Battleford, vice-president; R. R. Moore, Swift Current, secretary treasurer, S. J. Dornan, Alameda. Executive: F. Garrett, Watrous, S. N. Milne, Yorkton, G. W. Small wood, Kinistino, T. F. Scriver, Wolseley; H. G. Sheldrake North Battleford, and C. J. Allison, Asquith.

S. N. Wynne, Yorkton, recently elected president of the Canadian Association, was the speaker at the Thursday afternoon session. During the course of his remarks, Mr. Wynne read an extract from the report of the British Columbia Association in which a strong tribute was paid to the assistance was rendered.

PREPARE PLANS FOR CONFERENCE OF PREMIERS

Ottawa. Plans for the interprovincial conference, otherwise known as the Interprovincial Premiers' Conference, which will meet at Ottawa, November 2, are rapidly taking shape.

Arrangements are in the hands of Hon. Ferdinand Rinfret, secretary of state, and while no details of the agenda will be disclosed until the time for the conference arrives, it is known that a number of matters of wide and far-reaching interest and effect in the encroachment of the provincial rights, provincial governments have submitted questions on practically the full range of Dominion jurisdiction under the British North American Act, and federal departments have supplemented these with questions of dominion concern which also have a bearing on provincial activities.

The conference should produce a unification of practice on many problems, or at least provide the answers, as it requires law, insurance practice, and should result in important decision, operating to the benefit of each of the provinces as well as of the Dominion.

More effective co-ordination between provincial and federal authorities is one aim of the conference will be fully open to the discussion of these and all problems of interest and concern and should, it is felt here, result in material benefit to the Dominion as a whole.

Australian Tariff Trouble

Canberra, Australia. The imposition of increased tariffs on certain classes of imports is condemned by the Labor opposition in the House of Representatives in Parliament here on its supply into tariff matters. Instead of imposing the Commonwealth's industries, the report states, such tariffs have resulted in stagnation and increased cost of production and living.

Test Legality Of Betting

London.—A batch of summonses to test the legality of betting on greyhound racing will be heard October 24. The principal instigants in the prosecution are the National Anti-Gambling League and the chief defendants are the Greyhound Racing Association, lessees of the Stadium at the White City.

Want Non-Political Estimates

Ottawa.—A resolution embodying a request to the Hamilton Government asking that the militia estimates and the general policy of defence be taken out of the hands of political factors and placed with a committee of both branches of Parliament, was passed at the meeting of the Canadian Cavalry Mess Association.

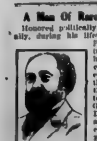
Raid Montreal Stock Brokers

Montreal.—Provincial police swooped down on the financial district here in a drive on crack brokers who are alleged to be using their premises for gambling in stocks. The descent in three st. Francis Xavier Street offices netted the raiders nothing but locked doors, the police finding the places visited closed to regular admission.

Outside the British Isles there are fewer than eighteen million white people in the thirteen million square miles of the British Empire.

A Man Of Rare Attainment

Mentored politically and professionally, during his lifetime, Dr. R. V. Pierce whose picture appears here, made a success few have equalled. He was the originator of that great herbal tonic, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the sale of which has, each succeeding year, been increased.



When you find weak, run down, nervous people taking up the attempt, just ask your nearest druggist for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or "G.M.D." in tablet or tablets. There's every chance he has it in stock.

Send 10 cents for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ontario.

Congratulated By Prince

Canadian War Graves Commission Receives Letter Of Appreciation From Ottawa. The interest manifested by the Prince of Wales in his tours of the Great War, during his visits to Canada, has been illustrated in two despatches that he sent to the Imperial Commission, expressing appreciation of the work being done in Canada in connection with the cemetery of those Canadians who died and are buried in the battlefields. It is directed in a letter received by Col. H. C. Thomson, secretary general for Canada of the Imperial War Graves Commission. The letter, written by direction of the prince, congratulates the Canadian Commission of the War Graves' commission upon the work and expresses gratification that the memorials to the soldiers who are buried in Canada is being preserved in the various burial grounds.

Marriage Rate Is High

More Marriages in Alberta in 1928 Than For Previous Five Year Average

Edmonton.—The 1928 proved to be the highest year in Alberta, compared with the five preceding years, marriages, increases proportionately and about 1,000 more than the average for the five years, according to figures compiled by the provincial registrar, Miss Edith Lyle. Births during the year totalled 18,000, an increase of 1,000 over the previous year, and deaths 4,000. Divorces granted numbered 113, a decrease of 10 from the previous year.

Edmonton had 1,657 marriages, Calgary had 1,436, Lethbridge 191 and Medicine Hat, 313. There were 670 brides in the province under 21 years, and 1,052 between 20 and 24. There were 17 brides and 17 grooms under the legal age of 16, of the grooms and two of the brides being sixty years.

Fliers Complete Journey

Cowfred Twenty-Two Thousand Miles in 311 Hours

Ingrell, Mich. Completing a 22,000 mile journey in six weeks, Edward C. McGee and William S. Brock arrived at Selfridge field, the scene of the world monoplane. Pride of Detroit.

McGee stepped from the plane first and was greeted enthusiastically by his wife.

Although two women claimed him as their husband, there was no woman to greet the co-pilot.

The airmen were welcomed by Henry and Edsel Ford, Eddie Rickenbacker and Edward S. Evans, joint holder of the globe girdling record of 23 days, 15 hours, which Schlee and Brock tried to lower.

Students Found Joke Costly

Seniors At Ontario Agricultural College Taught a Lesson

Guelph, Ont. Sophomores of the Ontario Agricultural College found a graph on the freshmen very expensive.

While the first year students were in a dance, the seniors sashed the freshies' bedding with water and ruined about $100 worth of good clothing. The college authorities have compelled the sophomores to pay for the damage and in addition have forced them to pay board bills for two weeks, expelling them from residence for that period.

Japan May Send Troops

Tokio.—The Japanese government is seriously considering the sending of troops from Manchuria to Peking and Tientsin if the situation in the Chinese civil war becomes serious, a spokesman for the Japanese war office declared. In the meantime the government is closely watching developments.

Hertzog Attacks Smuts

Bloemfontein, South Africa.—Premier Hertzog, of the South African Union, speaking at a meeting in the town hall here, on the flag issue, bitterly attacked General Smuts, leader of the opposition, whom he accused of perverting the truth and fostering racial strife and discord for his own political ends.

Deserted Leader Imagine

The King held a reception in Buckingham Palace for the American Legion delegation on the official Sunday visit to London of the United States war veterans His Majesty received the legionnaires, headed by General Pershing and G. P. Savage, retiring national commander.

Tor H Movement

"Tubby" Clayton, founder of the Tor H movement, settles in Oxford in the early nineteen twenties. The name of the movement, usually firmly established in London, is known to us as "Talbot House," a famous institution in Poperinghe, near Ypres, during the war. He is one of the most beloved padres and Britishers and he loves Three Harrys."

Declares Soviet Rule Will Be Short Lived

Does Not Represent Russian People Says Oil Magnate

New York. Edward M. Sterling, of London, chief counsel for the general of the Royal Dutch Petroleum company who has been recently engaged in a bitter controversy with the Standard Oil Company of New York over control of Russian oil wells, predicted that the Soviet government would be short lived.

Mr. Sterling stated that the Soviet government, which has taken over enough industrial resources, did not represent the Russian people.

Recalling that in June, 1916, the Soviet authorities confiscated the oil fields, refineries, machinery, stocks and assets of the oil company.

Politically and financially, he declared, practically all these objects were the property of the citizens of the people, but by some who, by remaining in Russia had escaped the confiscation which would have been declared otherwise.

Builds Motorless Plane

Cocoa, Fla. A motorless flying craft has been built here by George H. White, of Stony Brook, L.I. The machine looks like a giant eagle and its wings bear the air like a bird's. It is called an ornithopter and has made short flights successfully.

Plan Might Be Feasible

Idea Suggested By U.S. Professor To Aid Farmers

Urbana, Ills. The best means of giving the farmer a fairer break in competition with the world prices of farm products have been outlined by Professor C. L. Stanford, chief of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois.

Pro. Stanford has suggested a $200,000,000 bounty to be paid the exporter of agricultural products from present tariff income. He would place the sum equal to the United States under the control of a board, which would export one fifth of the crop and the remainder of the rate of 10 cents a bushel to meet the deficiency in the price received for the exported wheat.

In the first place, he said, the tariff rate was now so high that import of farmers' goods has been greatly reduced 50% the rate were cut in the crops. Exportation would no increase until prices that the bounty would be paid without loss of government funds.

Research Conference

Imperial Agricultural Research Conference Held in London

London. The Imperial Agricultural Research Conference, the first of its kind ever held in Great Britain, has assembled here. About 200 delegates from throughout the empire will study animal and plant breeding problems and the transport of fruit, dealing part of milk and fertilizers with the aim of making empire supplies more self supporting.

The establishment of research institutions throughout the empire and organization of a flying corps of scientists to investigate crop and animal problems will be considered.

Minister of Agriculture Walter Guinness is presiding. He delivered the opening address and Lord Bledisloe was appointed chairman.

More Settlers Wanted For Lethbridge District

Fifty Families Needed To Complete Colony In Irrigation Area

Lethbridge. According to the Provincial Government, fifty families are wanted to complete the colonizing of the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District. There are now 200 families in the project, of which 150 have been established within the last two years. Many of the district agricultural products were valued at $450,000 in 1925, $1,215,000, and in 1926 $1,626,000. This year it is estimated produce from Lethbridge northern farms is worth $2,500,000.

Ask Recall Of Soviet Ambassador

Paris. M. Brand, French Foreign Minister, sent instructions to Jean Herbeton, French ambassador to Moscow to inform the authorities that the French Government no longer considered Christian Rakovsky persona grata and desired that a new ambassador be sent to Paris.

A CHAMPION IN THE MAKING

Miss "Patsy" McKean, daughter of Ned McKean, professional of the Mimbi Lodge Golf Course, of the Canadian National Railways, on the Winnipeg River, Ontario, is going in for a champion like her "Dad." She believes in the adage "Practice makes perfect," so she has begun early to take lessons from "Dad," and is already something of a stylist.

BRITISH PEER DENOUNCES THE HOUSE OF LORDS

Blackpool, England. — The ebullient ailing spectacle of a peer denouncing his own legislative chamber in good set terms, was presented at the Labor Party conference here, by Lord Arnold, who, as Sidney Arnold, was a Liberal member of the House of Commons for some time He went over to the Labor Party in 1922, and was Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, in the late Labor Government, in 1924, and was created a peer the same year.

"The House of Lords will never give the Labor Party a fair chance because it is blind to the signs of the times," Lord Arnold declared. "It is reckless, incompetent, ineffectual, selfish, cynical, obstructive, unscrupulous and utterly reactionary.

"It has been built by a class of landed rural that to go and look at the Lords is enough. I regard, after three and one half years' experience in the Lords, that the best use to be to abolish them enough

These sentiments were expressed by the Labor peer while he was seconding a resolution condemning the British Government for its proposals for the reform of the House of Lords, and urging the complete abolition of the 1 peer House

The resolution was carried

How Money Is Expended

Federal Minister Of Finance Shows Division Of Per Capita Levy

DO NOT LISTEN TO GET-RICH-QUICK SCHEMES

The Yorkton Enterprise offers some good advice to its readers which can well be taken by those of the Record. We pass it along for your perusal:

"The splendid crop now being harvested in this district is being made the excuse for the activities of a host of salesmen from outside cities who are going about the towns and country districts painting the sale of all sorts of schemes. Farmers and others would be well advised to waste no time listening to these people. After the crop has been harvested and the amount of revenue it will bring has been ascertained and after bond obligations have been met, is time enough to consider investments of this character. We have a good crop, but that's no reason for allowing get-rich-quick schemers in the country to share in it."

FASHION'S FAULT

"Don't you think Miss Slogan has a wide reputation?"

"Yes, but it wouldn't show so much if she'd wear another kind of dress."

Here and There

The total attendance at the Toronto Exhibition this year was 1,378,000, or an increase of 207,000 over 1926.

The Saint John Board of Harbor Commissioners is now busy working on plans for more adequate port facilities and estimating costs of new wharves, grain elevators and everything necessary to handle a larger flow of business.

The establishment of a "Faculty Building" at Dalhousie University at Halifax is under consideration. If this course is added to the curriculum, it will be the first time in the history of the continent that lectures on fisheries will have been delivered as a college course.

As a latest development of the Canada-West Indies treaty, tea chests are now being shipped from Halifax to British Guiana in liquid form and re-formed at the destination. On the other hand, ice cream shipped to Bermuda is being rebranded and kept cold throughout the journey.

It took the garter more than nine-teen centuries to win a place in the sun.

"Shut up, Rose—they'll hear us—" "Hear nothing! He's dead—dead—the heat was God's sun ever done on murder—" "Rose—Rose!" Mrs. Wymuth's voice her hands dramatically in imitation of Mrs. Wymuth, while the girls choked with laughter. Then she rushed around the room, singing I'm a little wrinkled prune. I am not—as you shall see—a bit of it.

Minnie held her better rapturously in her hands. She could not open it before the girls. Waiting her chance she slid out into the long, unexpected hall, where she ran along to her bare feet until she reached the linen closet. There she found the switch and turned on the light, trembling with excitement.

A great cry broke from Minnie's lips as the read a cry of joy: her mother loved her still, loved and believed in her and would stand by her to the end. There was a dollar bill in the letter, and a whole row of kisses, and many a word of loving comfort. Minnie ran back to Bet Helmi, who was showing the girls what had happened. Her English had deserted her, but she shook Rose Lamb to show what had provoked her ascasm, and then showed with a momentary gesture how her hand had dealt the blow. The girls were delighted, thrilled and shivered with delight.

The sight of Minnie's radiant face revealed Helmi, and she bolstered her down the hall, where Minnie threw her arms around her, sobbing with joy.

"It's all right, Helmi! My mother knows. She is sorry but says I must not worry nor fret. And it ends, 'God bless my poor little girl.'"

"That is good words," said Helmi gravely, "and I'm glad I got it for you. Will you make my letters?"

Helmi's letters were from the girls of the Club and one from Miss Rodgers. Lucy Preston wrote: "Dear Helmi:—We are at our supper to-night and are thinking of you, we hope you are well and happy, too. We have scalloped potatoes and salad, and rice pudding with a rosh on top that helps some. Mother has a boat, but she won't tell who he is, and maybe she don't know, but anyway, we are teasing her, and Miss Rodgers says for you to read page eleven in the Bible and 'gold flesh, and you'll see what the little verse is we are learning today. . . . It's the 'Upward Road,' and you can just think you are with us. Miss Rodgers will write, and we want a letter from you to read at our meeting. We have Rose from sick-bed members Lily is at the Coast and Enid is in California still, and Maud has gone to school Miss Rodgers says, will be tucked in at night, for she knows Miss de Forest, who used to teach there. We often go riding now in the car, and I guess that is all. We all wish you were back.

"Your Loving Friend,
Lucy

Helmi understood, it when it had been read over again, and in her heart there was a joy of knowing that though she was in prison, someone was thinking of her, and someone called she was again at liberty. He gang were loyal to her!

Then came Miss Rodger's letter, sounding distinctly of interest:—

"My Dear Helmi:—Tonight we are meeting in the church, and we are all thinking of you, and when we knelt in our first prayer we had a few minutes when we all just prayed for you, and the girls said, 'Keep Helmi from evil—keep Helmi cheerful — let her hear English fast—and let her help down the hall, where Minnie threw her arms around her, sobbing with joy.

"it's all right, Helmi! My mother knows. She is sorry but says I must not worry nor fret. And it ends, 'God bless my poor little girl.'"

"That is good words," said Helmi gravely, "and I'm glad I got it for you. Will you make my letters?"

THEY SUFFER NO MORE

Two Women Owe Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Adolphe, Manitoba. "I was very weak and had great pains [illegible] my periods [illegible] I could not sweep for four. The pains were in the right side and extended to the hip and then down the womb. It seemed as if the body was heavy and made down. It is for those troubles I took the Vegetable Compound. I now almost it in a paper and one woman prevailed on me to take it. It has helped me in every way, the pains are less, and I have more appetite. It is a pleasure to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to other women."—Mrs. J. L. CORMIER, St. Adolphe, Manitoba.

Passed Grand Relief

Toronto, Ont. —"I am at the Change of Life with bad flushes, dizzy spells, weakness and nervousness. I had no appetite and was short of breath. I was this way about six months when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers. I have taken eight bottles so far and found great relief."—Mrs. H. J. Sullivan, 125 Lowther Ave., Toronto, Ont.

I will laugh, and love and be strong."

"Helmi!" cried Minnie. "It's here! Now we strong when you hit him (the cockroach). Helmi, aren't you glad!"

It took the book and followed the line with her finger. I sure was glad," she said.

The house was silent as still it seemed as if its heart had stopped beating. Helmi's mind was not altogether at ease over what she had done—alternating between the exultation that the letters from her friends in the north, the happiness that she had come to poor little troubled Minnie with the assurance of the Blue Book, and a deep sorrow for what she had done. Was it a very terrible thing? she wondered. She thought the sad den rage that ran like fire through her veins. Mr. Wymuth had shaken her. Should she have just borne it and made no resistance? Miss Minnie to write it all to Miss Rodgers and Miss de Forest. They would know. Was she glad her eyes she could see it blood spread-ing on Mr. Wymuth's white sleek, and hear again Mrs. Wymuth's queer words and see the blue and white splintering. She was sorry for that, and could write to Miss Abbie about breaking the glass. Miss Abbie would pay the damages.

The place should be cleaned up before Mrs. Wymuth came on and made Minnie's life hard. Helmi slipped stealthily from her bed. The girls were all sleeping now. Noiselessly she crept down stairs and into the dining room, closing the door before she switched on the light. The chair which Mr. Wymuth had fallen against still lay on its side. Helmi lifted it up and set the room in order. Then she began to pick up the pieces of glass, very careful to make no noise. At the blood-stains on the floor she shudder-ed—it was surely a dreadful thing to shed blood; she hoped Mr. Wymuth was not badly hurt.

Try as she would, Helmi could not feel very sorry. The exquisite thrill of power which she felt when she saw him thrown from her was still like wine—it was glorious! Helmi could have written a poem of elation: "How a gay hood lifted up above my enemies . . . How she knew that the wind driveth away . . . Thou prepared a table before me." She wanted to sing; she march-ed to dance. Suppose they did punish her, beat her, shut her in a dark room on bread and water like they had already done to Bet Lamb, she could bear it. She had the memory of this glorious victory, the joy of stealing the keys and hear call her letters.

Helmi turned the light out when her work was done, but lingered at the window to watch the city below, with its myriads of twinkling lights, its open saw, making weirdly fantastic figures as the washed by. She loved the city with its mellow boom of tramping feet, its purring autos and clanging, roaring trains which, like the sea, seemed to plan in ever widening circles of sound. She loved to listen to the murmur that rose and fell, swelled and lessened. Something coming — coming — louder — louder — bursting — passing — fading — passed. The sleepless, restless, shifting city! She loved it; she was part of it. Away over there, where the reflection of big lights painted in sky, she had friends. There were people who thought of her and would be glad to see her. Helmi loved it; it was her city!

Valuable Diamond Ring Found in Hotel Safe After Fifteen Years

Searching an old safe in the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, before offering it at auction, Thomas Jenkins found among a number of old papers, a three-stone diamond ring that has been lost for more than 15 years The ring will be sold and the proceeds will go to the Medical and Wharnett estates.

Years ago the ring was taken as security for a debt from a guest of the hotel when he was leaving without funds to meet his account. Shortly afterward, the old safe was abandoned, and when the ring was searched for later it could not be found.

The ring has three high-grade diamonds, each weighing more than a carat, and the present price has a value of about $950. It is estimated

A FAMILY MEDICINE

A Welland Lady Tells Of the Value Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills In Her Home

"I have many reasons for praising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs. George L. Swick, R.R. No 2, Welland, Ont. "My first experience with this medicine was in my girlhood, when following an attack of scarlet fever, I was left in a badly run down condition and the pills restored me to good health. Later in my married life I had a severe attack of rheumatism. The pain in my right arm and should-er was so bad that I could not dress myself without help. Again I resorted to Dr Williams' Pink Pills, and again they proved a blessing to me. As soon the rheumatic pains and stiffness disappeared and there has been no return of the trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also been of great benefit to my children. One of my boys was very delicate with St. Vitus dance. His hands and face would twitch and jerk. I gave him the pills, and again they did me full, as under the treatment the trouble ceased. I have also given the pills to my little girl, who was anaemic, and in this case also with the greatest benefit. Naturally when I hear any one complained of not feeling well I recommend Dr Williams' Pink Pills as I know of no other medicine to equal them in building up the blood and restoring health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, and other nervous troubles. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition, and rid-icule a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get them from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Prescott ville, Ont.

Preserving India's Sacred Trees

Huge Banyans Are Principal Attraction At Royal Botanical Gardens

One of the attractions of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Sibpur, India, is its huge banyan trees One of the largest of these trees has had to undergo a surgical operation for fungus growths. The present age of the tree is about 125 years, but according to Dr. King, the superintendent, it is much older. The circumference of the trunk, in 1925, at a height of about 4½ feet, was about 51 feet, the crown about 1,000 feet, and the number of aerial roots about 501, which are actually rooted down in the ground.

It is a pity that the main trunk was rotten and had to be cut down. There was a big hole at the centre. The stone-shaped outline of the tree from a distance presents a grand picture.

The tree is religiously regarded by the Hindus, and gives shade to many weary visitors, specially during the hot months of May and June. The "bar" is called banyan as it used to give shelter to the merchants (Banyan or Bania) during the old days, when there were no railways and other arrangements for transporting goods.

Attempts are being made to keep this oldest tree of the Royal Botanic Garden alive by removing the infected branches, and by securing the aerial roots and manuring. A few young plants have been planted to fill up the gap at the centre, and efforts will be made to graft the branches of the new plants to the older ones. The ground under the tree is being raised to keep off the floods during the rains and thus protecting the aerial roots from being waterlogged.

Little Helps For This Week

I have chosen thee in the furnace of affliction. Isaiah xlviii 10

Who watched the artist paint a peaceful lake cop
Did wonder when he gathered brushes up.
And said, "My task is done."
That on the boy's face rim,
A barrier black and grim
Contrasted hatefully with gentle tint
Of pink and azure, blood and fern!
And mocked those threads of sun.
That made the cup a prize
To ravish royal eyes.
"Why leave this jewel of black?" one dared inquire.
The artist answered, "Thy must taste
His fire.
And by that test be tried."
Smelted from the furnace heat.
Transmigured and complete,
The dazzling gift comes crowned with
sorrow's gleam,
Its black all changed to gold. So, like a dream,
Heart said to heart that sighed.
Grief may be joy at last.
When life's fierce test has passed.

The child of God is assured that all things together for good, in the is plainly included the pledge that chastisements and afflictions shall eventually prove a blessing.

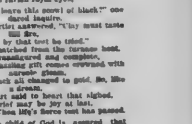
CHOLERA, CRAMPS, PAINS IN THE STOMACH RELIEVED BY



Mrs. B. Leavitt, Bark Bay, N.B., writes: "Last summer my children were very ill with cholera and suffered with severe cramps and pains in their stomachs. I tried several remedies, but nothing seemed to do them any good. A friend of mine told me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle and gave them a few doses and they soon found relief. Now I will never be without it in the summer months."

PIMPLES ON FACE 6 MONTHS

Itching and Burning Severe. Cuticura Heals.

"I had pimples on my face for about six months. They were hard, large and red and caused me pain. The itching and burning were so severe that I could not bear hot water upon the eruptions, which became quite large. Some blood on had then I was ashamed.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so much that I purchased more, and after using the cake of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was entirely healed." (Signed) Miss Ida Rae, 6 Victory Road., Nov. 6, 1926.

Warner Bros." Other Women's Husbands," a comedy-drama, is the attraction at the Eden Palace theatre this week. Hazie Hunt and Marie Prevost are in the principal roles, supported by such famous artists as Stanley Goodwin, Phyllis Haver and John Patrick. Also comedy. Admission: 40c and 20c.

A representative of one of the large coal and dress factories will be at Jones, Graham & O'Brien's store on Wednesday, October 19, with a large range of tailor and salmon cases and samples for inspection and delivery. The ladies of the Fort and vicinity are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to inspect these goods.

A slightly intoxicated gentleman invited in to a cafe late one night and sat down at one of the tables. Holding the menu card upside down, he gravely studied it for several moments. Suddenly, in an excited manner, he yelled, "Waiter, Waiter! C'mere quick, and for the mercy, cherish been a terrible calamity or a terrible calamity!"

"What is it, sir?" queried the waiter.

"Jus' look at this," shouted the drunk, wildly waving the menu, "them darn fool printers have printed their thing upside down!"

WILL ATTEMPT TO KEEP ROAD OPEN DURING WINTER

An attempt will be made this winter to demonstrate that given a good road, automobile traffic can be carried on successfully all year round in Alberta. The Prahon Club, a business men's organization of Calgary, has undertaken to keep the highway between Calgary and High River clear of snow during the winter months of to stimulate business in tilh city and encourage motor traffic from country points along this line.

PREMIER AND PARTY VISITING NORTHLAND

Edmonton, October 15 — Premier Brownlee, Hon. R. G. Reid and a number of prominent citizens are spending the present week in a trip of inspection which includes visits to many points in the Peace River country. Hugh Allen, M.L.A., Pence Riv er, is arranging to have a number of delegations meet the Premier at various points to give an opportunity to make any representations they may wish to the government.

SIR HERBERT BROWN ABES TO DELIVER LECTURE HERE

The Canadian Club of Fort Saskatchewan wishes to announce that they have obtained Sir Herbert Brown Ames, K.t., L.L.D., to lecture at the Fort on the "Changing Spirit of Europe," on November 10.

Sir Herbert Brown Ames, of Montreal, was Financial Director of the Secretariat of the League of Nations, 1919-20. On his retirement he was appointed the delegate of the Dominion of the Senate Assembly. He spent the past summer at Geneva, and was present on the historic occasion of the first election of a British Dominion, Canada, to the Council of the League of Nations, on September 15.

As a member of the Canadian Parliament and an international civil servant, Sir Henry is peculiarly qualified to speak on "The Changing Spirit of Europe," and to lecture on the aims of the League of Nations and the part of the Dominion of Canada therein.

Lethbridge is the second city in Alberta to take this important step, Edmonton having already obtained a license for a municipal air harbor.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM HAS BUSY MONTH

Establishing a new high record in the history of the system, toll business over Alberta telephone lines during the month of September, 1927 amounted to $730,405.30, being an increase of over $31,000.00 as compared with the corresponding month in 1926. A total of 433 stations were added to the system in the month, 347 of these being in towns and cities and 181 on rural lines.

ALBERTA CATTLE CHAMPIONS OF MOOSE JAW SHOW

A carload of Hereford steers owned by C. Archer of Hemiterston, Alberta, after winning first prize in the two-year-old class, was awarded the grand championship of the fifth annual feeder show held during the past week at Moose Jaw, Sask.

SWINE CLUB SHOW CANCELLED

It has been found necessary by the Department of Agriculture to cancel arrangements made to hold Boys' and Girls' Swine Club shows in Edgerton and Edmonton during the coming fall, owing to the recent outbreak of infantile paralysis at a number of points in the province and the consequent investigation of persons to allow their children to travel for from home.

The pigs fed by club members in various districts throughout the province are usually under the direction of local club supervisors, and the carlot prizes will be awarded as previously arranged, but the other features of the shows, including judging competitions for the railway trophies and the trip of the winning teams to Toronto must unfortunately be abandoned this season.

"MIRACLE" WHEAT AGAIN

(Experimental Farms Note)

There has appeared recently in a number of leading agricultural papers an article entitled "King Tut's Wheat Grown in the West." The article refers to certain results obtained by a soldier settler living near Edmonton, and gives the impression that the wheat in question was discovered in 1922 in the tomb of King Tut-ankhamen. As a matter of fact the records show that this wheat was known as far back as 1640 when one enterprising gentleman offered heads at $5.00 each.

The above variety belongs to the Pondard subspecies of wheat being somewhat intermediate between the common and durum wheats. It has numerous aliases, the most common of which are Egyptian, Eldorado, Many headed, Miracle, Mummy, Seven headed and Alaska. It has always been easy to interest people in this wheat owing to its branched head. If an unbranched head will yield so much surely a branched head will yield much more! While head for head this may be true, yet experiments have not shown that it holds good acre for acre. This wheat was probably introduced into North America from Europe or Egypt in Colonial days. It was received by the Philadelphia Society for promoting agriculture in 1807, since which time it has appeared periodically under one name or another.

In 1906 the United States Department of Agriculture began an extensive investigation of this wheat, which investigation continued for several years. In the meantime it has been grown by farmers all over the United States but it is not now grown anywhere as a commercial crop. The fact that it has never become established in spite of the remarkable advertising it has received is a good indication of its inferiority. Promoters however reappear it periodically and, owing to its striking and unusual appearance, manage to sell it to the unsuspecting farmer at exorbitant prices.

The essential facts concerning Alaska wheat have been summed up very aptly in a bulletin published by the United States Department of Agriculture—Bulletin No. 367, 1916.

P. 27—at the conclusion of extensive tests conducted at many points in the United States, as follows:

(1) That it has been used in this country very often as a means of deceiving people and very seldom as a farm crop;

(2) that it has failed to produce even fair yields when tried in many parts of the country, and has never been known to produce extraordinary yields;

(3) that it is not a good milling wheat;

(4) that the branched head is not a sign of superior yielding power.

Automobile Accidents

During the Great War the statement was frequently made that human life appeared to be the cheapest of all commodities. Judging by reports appearing in the press daily of the continuing and steadily mounting toll of those killed in the streets of the country, sometimes the old war-time statement would almost appear to be true today.

Deaths from automobile accidents as reported in vital statistics and by insurance companies now measure up in their totals to the figures credited to many of our more serious diseases. To these fatalities must be added the very large number of persons crippled and maimed for life as result of such accidents. The record is not one that reflects much credit upon our vaunted twentieth century civilization.

Responsibility for only a very few of these fatal accidents can be laid at the door of defective construction of automobiles. Car construction has reached a high state of efficiency and great care is exercised by all manufacturers in the quality of materials used and in the excellence of workmanship in assembling.

The vast majority of all automobile accidents are the direct result of fool-hardy recklessness on the part of drivers of cars, or open disregard by them of the rights of other drivers and lack of respect for the laws and rules of the road.

Many drivers either fail to realize, or deliberately ignore the fact, that an automobile in a high powered condition, capable, because of its power and speed, of doing inestimable damage. The greater the power and speed of the car, the greater the danger, and the greater the need for the exercise of circumspection and caution. Too many drivers, however, assume their car is capable of 50, 60, 70 or more miles per hour, feel impelled to drive it at that rate, quite ignoring the fact that a speed of which the car may be capable, and which may be comparatively safe on a clear, well-paved highway, is highly dangerous driving on the average sandy road of Western Canada.

Then there is the road fool who assumes his car has the power, is afflicted with the human mania of always striving to pass every other car and who seems to labor under the delusion that it is an insult to allow any car to pass him.

Again, there is the type, and a numerous type it is, which refuses to observe the automobile laws and rules of the road, based on the right-of-way from others entitled to it, and solidsky dashes along regardless of everybody else, and without giving the slightest consideration to the fact that, while he may get safely through, he may bring disaster upon the inexperienced and nervously instilled drivers. Many, probably most, drivers give way and relinquish their rights to these roadhogs rather than invite an accident. But the roadhog can never be sure of this and an accident is the result.

Finally, there is the driver who rather than slow down and possibly wait a few seconds in safety at a railway crossing, or a dangerous curve in the road, speeds ahead. Many have saved a second or two only to be instantly bereft for life or meet their death.

Legislators, road builders, car manufacturers, all are striving to devise ways and means of diminishing causes of accident. Roads are being built wider, with easier curves, less grade to them, less prominence of ditches at the side, with guard rails at danger spots, warning signs, and a multitude of other devices. Legislators and others are seeking to evolve practical headlight and other traffic regulations. Manufacturers are constantly busy improving in the improvement of brakes and safety appliances. Still the death toll mounts higher and higher.

Why? There is only one answer. Because of a desire to boast of the performances of their car to achieve a momentary thrill, to travel at a totally unnecessary speed, in a word, to outdo somebody as foolish and reckless as themselves, people will hazard life and limb, not only their own but every body's. Law enforcers are doing their best to protect a long suffering public, but they can only punish the offender; they cannot prevent the accident. Only an aroused public opinion, and a wider acceptance by all of the duties of responsible citizenship can remedy the evil and the loss to which attention is drawn.

Too many people know a lot of things that are none of their business

When a man gets a chance to display some of his knowledge he always has up the measure.

People who borrow trouble are always anxious to turn it over to others; himself when his wife was cautioned.

It's difficult for a man to collect enough courage to turn it over to others.

Dope Also Of North Carolina Mine May Eliminate Hazards

Proposing the development of a monoplane with wing and fuselage carrying sufficient helium to make the craft lighter than air, Edward Hunnington, a mine miner, believes he may make flying as safe as motor bug by eliminating nose dives, tail spins and other aviation hazards.

Hunnington has designed a model of an all-metal plane with a wing spread of 50 feet and a length of five feet. The wings are rounded and 12 feet in width.

Motors and passenger cabin are slung below the fuselage. A bailer which the inventor believes will give the craft an equilibrium by which it will right itself when removed from its balance.

Saskatchewan Exhibitor Sends First Entry Of Marquis Wheat

James A. Paur, of Langham, Saskatchewan, has the honor of sending in the first entry for the International Grain and Hay Show, which will be held in Chicago, November 30 to December 8th. He will exhibit a sample of Marquis wheat in the hard red spring class. In this class last year 16 of the 30 prizes were awarded to Canadian entries and the top sample, shown by Herman Trelle, Wembley, Alberta, was later made grand champion of the show. Additional prizes are being offered in this class at the International, and entries close November 15.

Russia Attempts To Salvage Millions In Treasure From Sunken Ship In Balaclava Bay

From the depths of Balaklava Bay the other day there was brought to the surface a gold coin. Its date was the year 1821 and it bore the inscription of George IV. Here, many feet, was tangible evidence that the resting bulk of the British cruiser Black Prince, sunk in the great storm that swept over the harbor when the Crimean War was in progress, still holds fast to its treasure of a half million pounds sterling. One more chapter was being added to the old, old tale of the quest for "drowned gold"—a quest which goes on all over the world. Sometimes lost treasure ships are not found; sometimes, if found, it proves impossible to bring up their cargoes.

It took two years of submarine search for the Soviet Government to discover the timbers of the Black Prince. Within three months from the time of commencing work the Japanese company to which the contract for salvaging had been let brought up its first coin.

The treasure galleons of Spain that sank in the Caribbean, the ancient rooms of the mid-mid Inca Indians that perished many years ago, the precious freight of many an ill-fated liner of modern times all have their seekers. Untold millions lie in the wrecks of argosies sunk by storm or war. Syndicate after syndicate has been formed to find them and every appliance of the diver has been brought into play.

The Laxlante, victim of a German submarine, lies in 225 feet of water with $5,000,000 in her hold; yet it is doubtful whether any attempt will be made to raise her for years to come. The working, depth for divers, it is estimated, is limited to 200 feet at present, and none of peril commenced at 100 feet. Even a prize of $5,000,000 might not be worth reasoning in view of the expenditure entailed. The Brit Admiralty has already refused a number of offers from German dealers of raising the Laxlante. They were anxious to prove their contention that she carried munitions and was therefore a vessel of war.

One of the greatest feats in the salvaging of treasure ships was the recovery of $25,000,000 from the Lusitania, which was torpedoed in 1917 and sank in 300 feet of water off the north coast of Ireland. Dredging proved too slow, and the crushing force of dynamite was applied to the plates of the wreck. Every coin in the strongroom was recovered by divers.

More than $250,000,000 in bullion has, it is estimated, been recovered from the wrecks of treasure ships by French and English syndicates, which sell shares in the ventures to the public. The total of unrecovered treasure, however, exceeds this sum many times over. The locations of many of these fortunes have been known for years, but the treachery of the sea and the impossibility of working beyond a certain limit have prevented salvage.

Prospectors Not Exempt

Cannot Shoot Game Out Of Season If Short Of Food

The general impression that prospectors running short of food are entitled to shoot game at any time has been shown to be erroneous by a case recently heard at Merritt B.C., in which a Princeton man was convicted of killing a deer out of season. The man in question, pleaded that he and his partner were short of food, but the magistrate pointed out that the privilege of shooting game out of season was only accorded prospectors in unorganized territory. According to the Act, "unorganized territory" consists of that portion of the Province of British Columbia north of the 53rd parallel which passes somewhere near Quesnel. Strike retreating to accept a plea of ignorance of the law the magistrate reduced the fine to the minimum of $25.

To Repair British Houses Of Parliament

Work Will Occupy Fifteen Years and Cost $10 Million Dollars

It is estimated that the cost of repairing the Houses of Parliament, which is to begin the next few months, will amount to almost $6,000,000, and that the work will occupy fifteen years. The figure is more than half the original cost of the buildings, and they took less time to build from Sir Charles Barry's plans than will now be spent in repairing them.

There is no question that the Houses are among the great building of the world, architecturally as well as in many else, though English men do not always recognize their merit. To go over them, above and below ground, and from end to end, is a good day's work.

There are something like 1,200 rooms in the two Houses, and the points of light run to very high figures, necessitating a large caretaking staff always on the spot. It is mainly the exterior however, with which the public are concerned.

Wool Research Work

Will Study Wool Growing and Wool Manufacturing in Canada

Plans practical plans for research work into wool growing and wool manufacturing in Canada, designed to help both farmers and the industry, were completed at a meeting held in Toronto of a special committee under the chairmanship of Dr. M. S. Tory, of Alberta, president.

Basic considerations and methods of examination of Canadian grown wools were outlined in a report from Prof. J. P. Sackville, University of Alberta, with special references to wools produced in the west. A. A. McMillan, department of agriculture, Ottawa, impressed the meeting with the importance of the sire in raising efficient flocks.

Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, was also of the opinion that the sire was the most important study, and that Shropshire rams imported from England had refined many flocks in Canada, and other breeds had been ruined by imported rams of other breeds. He considered that Canadian farmers could and should breed their own rams instead of importing them. Mr. Tisdale, an official of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, upheld Mr. Toole, declaring that Oxford rams imported from England had refined flocks in western Canada.

Spirit Of Adventure

Dominant in the Youth Of Twenty Years Ago, But Is Less Now

A lessening of the spirit of adventure, coupled with a gradual rise in city rescue toward agencies which exist for that purpose, may be important factors in the diminution of emigration from Great Britain. This suggestion is advanced by J. Bruce Walker, director of European emigration for the Canadian department of immigration and colonization. The spirit of adventure and optimism, says Mr. Bruce Walker in an interview at Ottawa, was dominant in the youth of twenty years ago, but, through either social or political reasons—or a combination of both — there is now, he said, too great a disposition to look to others to do doing what should be done by oneself.

A FISHY ALBINO STORY

This story proves the saying "Truth is stranger than fiction," and it is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

As the picture shows, it is a fish story, originating in Canada's most beautiful inland sea, Banff. Albinos appear quite frequently among salmon and bonanzas, but among the piscatorial tribes they are practically unknown that is to say, they were unknown until this summer. Now they have them at Banff, where all visiting there may see and believe.

These albino beauties, trout, an even fifty of them, are housed at the government fish hatchery, where they can find a border of 150,000. Out of this 50 may the light, as you might say. Later another five died while quite young, leaving fifty which are now being carefully guarded so as to health and die. A few of these are to be liberated in the surrounding streams while the balance will be kept as curios.

And the albinoes are curiosities. They have the pink eyes of the true type and their speckled skins, instead of being a beautiful shade of dark brown, are pure white, as white as the snow on Mount Assiniboine. The debonair war takes one on his fly and the brown trout is a great game fish—will know he has something new. If he does not run away from the spot in terror when his unusual coloration, he will prompt go to the nearest bunch of his fellows and the scene blessed as the taker of the strangest fish in captivity.

Electric Lights For Lapland Home

Have Eggs Are Obtained During the Winter Months

In order to find out what effect electric lighting has on egg production and the general development of hens, a test has been carried on during the last three years at the Kapuskasing Experimental Station in Northern Ontario. In each of the three years one hundred pullets were used in the experiment. They were equally divided as to weight, general development and breeding into two pens of fifty each. All conditions were similar except that one pen got no electric light while the other was lighted from four in the morning until daylight from November 1 to April 30.

The results of the experiment which are given in the latest report of the superintendent of the station, show that lights have a favorable effect on the number of eggs laid during the winter months, as the three hour average showed an advantage of nearly 500 eggs for the pen with light. At the same time over the whole year the pen with lights laid fewer eggs than the one without lights. The biggest advantage in the use of lights would appear to be in the fact that more eggs are obtained during the winter months when the price is high. The experiment also showed that lights have very little effect on the body weight of laying pullets during the winter months. They also have little effect on the amount of feed consumed, and therefore on the cost of feeding.

An Essay For Ladies

Horse Pays Best On Short Hauls and Frequent Stops

In spite of the coming of the automobile, the horse still has an important place in our economy. Wherever there are "short hauls" and frequent stops, it pays to use horsefleah instead of gasoline it costs 6 cents a minute to keep a big auto truck on the streets of New York, and only two cents a minute to use a two-horse team that will draw nearly the same weight of freight. The milk companies of the same city have found that it costs $102,000 less a year to deliver $1,000,000 worth of milk in one-horse wagons than by automobile trucks. And with the continually increasing congestion of motor traffic, Dobbin's economic advantage promises to increase rather than diminish.—Youth's Companion.

DEBILITY DUE TO INDIGESTION

Perfect Digestion Comes Through Rich, Red Blood

There can be no perfect digestion unless you have rich, red blood. This is self-evident truth. It is also true that there is no tonic for the stomach that is not at once tonic for every other part of the body. In no way, then, to tone up the stomach is to tone up the blood.

The many so-called stomach remedies merely try to stimulate your food for you. How much better it is to make the stomach and blood do it with the aid of the high priest Ananiah: see verses 1 to 5.

THE CALL OF THE PROPHET

Golden Text: "And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us" Then I said, Here am I; send me."—Isaiah 6:8.

Lesson: 1 Kings 19:19, 20; Amos 7:10-15; Isaiah 6:1-8.

Devotional Reading. Psalm 40:1-10.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Call (If the Prophet Elisha. 1 Kings 19:19, 20. Elisha was plowing with twelve pair of oxen before him, eleventh pair guided by his servants while he himself guided the twelfth pair. Elijah approached and cast upon Elisha his mantle, which was the characteristic garb of the prophets. (vs. 13). Elisha saw Elijah's call to the prophet's office. It is an interesting fact, by the way, that the insignia which graduates of certain colleges in England wear on appropriate occasions the handcloth hood or cloak can be traced back to Elijah's mantle, which was the skin of some animal dressed with the hair left on. "I wish that his mantle might fall upon me" is an expression not infrequently heard from one who covets another's gifts or graces.

Elisha ran after Elijah and promised to follow him after he had said farewell to his father and mother (vs. 20). Elijah said to him, "Go back again: for what have I done to thee." Whatever sacrifice was involved in the prophetic call was to be made up in the greatness. Elijah, like Jesus would have no half-hearted service (Luke 9:59-62).

II. The Call of the Prophet Amos. Amos 7:14, 15. The answer of Amos: "I was no prophet, nor was I of the commission upheld him in the face of the threats and ridicule of the high priest Amaziah: see verses 10-13.

Men cured in death! So a recent Canadian investigation showed. These were not cases of infectious disease—of consumption — of typhoid! They were cases where a person had sustained some slight injury—a cut, a burn, a wire-prick —and when the wound, being thought not serious enough for care of any kind, became infected. Blood poisoning and death resulted.

When you or your children sustain any injury, ensure against infection by applying Zam-Buk. This balm soothes the pain, stops bleeding, and by destroying all germs prevents blood poisoning, etc. Hence no time need be lost from work or pleasure by those who use Zam-Buk. All dealers, 50c box.

This is the time when the mother should use "Dr. Fowler's," and, perhaps, save the baby's life.

BENNETT CHOSEN NEW LEADER OF CONSERVATIVES

Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., Calgary, is the new leader of the Conservative Party in Canada.

On the second ballot, the national convention of the party accorded him two more votes than the necessary one half of all votes cast.

Mr. Bennett, speaking with much emotion, acknowledged the election of his leadership.

"It was difficult, Mr. Bennett said, for him to find words with which to express his sentiments.

"I thank you for your more than generous support, which was wholly unmerited," he said.

Mr. Bennett recalled that men occasionally attended some great rolling mass orifice for the purpose of receiving their diploma and in order to be conservated to a life of service. He feelhar might be different about a meeting of the kind but Mr. Bennett felt that the delegates had exhausted to set him aside for a life of service to Canada.

Mr. Bennett declared he could think of no more appropriate reply than to quote from the Scriptures: "Whoso ever shall compel you will be chosen among you shall be servant of all."

"You have made me your leader for the time being and God that I may be your faithful servant," Mr. Bennett said, while flowers drowned the last of his remarks. The plea for the whole-hearted co-operation of the rank and file in discharging their duties and responsibilities as citizens of a great nation.

"If each of you must see to it that an educated democracy governs the destinies of Canada, if you have a desire to become firm believers in Conservative politics, the party will act as an instrument in the due accomplishment of our country and in the advancement of our national life."

Mr. Bennett stated that his election to the leadership carried his consecration of many things he had held most dear in the past.

"They will remain near now put behind me, for no man may serve two masters," Mr. Bennett said. "You have laid upon me duties what talents and qualifications I may have to the interests of the party which I will now be privileged to lead."

It was, Mr. Bennett continued, that he was a man of considerable wealth, wealth accumulated through capitalized opportunities in the great Western plains. No man, he said, could serve satisfactorily with property obligations hovering over his head. In this respect, he said, he could serve his country without fear.

Canada's future, the new leader declared, must be one of unlimited expansion and increased prestige among the nations of the world. There was a great opportunity for the Conservative Party to act as an instrument in bringing the right policies into being for the country. He emphasized the need of organizing the younger generation to which the party leaders could safely look to carry on the work of the party.

If effect were given to the Conservative policies sufficient industrial expansion would result to provide all our sons and daughters with employment within the borders of the Dominion.

There must be no sacrifice of convictions; there must be no compromise of principles. Promise that you will be missionaries for your own party and your efforts will be crowned with success. You will then have a discernment that will reflect your aspirations, your ideals and hopes, in power in Ottawa," he said.

Says India Land Habitable For Whites

But Is Not Desirable Place Dr. Livingston Finds

Ottawa.—India, although not as pleasant a place of residence for white men as some Southern latitudes, is nevertheless capable of supplying a vigorous and contented native population. This is an essential point in the report of Dr. L. L. Livingstone who was a member of the staff of each annual expedition to the Canadian Arctic Archipelago. Dr. Livingstone who was a member of the staff of each annual expedition to the Canadian Arctic, from 1922 to 1926, examining the natives at the different ports of call, remained in the North at the conclusion of the 1926 patrol and spent the winter of 1926-27, and the spring and summer of this year in a detailed inspection of the natives in the interior whom it had not been possible for him on his previous annual visit.

The need of educating the Eskimo in health prevention, in the practice of economy, and in the methods of hygiene is strongly urged by Dr. Livingstone. The habit of getting aside employed for some necessities for seasons of scarcity and a knowledge of sanitation would greatly improve the conditions under which the Eskimos of the Eastern Arctic.

Plans For Willingdon's Visit To Washington

Program Being Worked Out By Canadian Legation and State Department

Washington.—The tentative program of entertainment of Lord Willingdon and Lady Willingdon at Washington, December 15, is now being worked out by the Canadian Legation and state department. It will be the first visit a Canadian governor general has made to the United States that of the Duke of Connaught in war years and the first time Canada's titular head has been entertained in Washington on Canadian territory.

His Excellency will exchange visits with President Coolidge and members of the cabinet and will be given the usual recognition of a representative of royalty.

It is understood that the visit has no special purpose except to establish ties of personal contact between the governor general and heads of the U.S. government.

On previous occasions the Canadian Governor-General has been a guest at the British embassy. The difference on this occasion will be that the visit will be a Canadian affair solely at the Canadian Legation as the representative of Crown in Canada.

Roads Full Autonomy

Canada's Highest Destiny Rests With in British Commonwealth Says Borden

Winnipeg.—"I yield to no man in my assertion of the fullest autonomy for this great Dominion of Canada within the British Commonwealth of nations," declared Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada, in addressing the Canadian Club here.

The highest destiny of this great Dominion, Sir Robert said, rests within the British Commonwealth.

The former Premier dealt with the influence of the early French settlers in Canada on the development of the Dominion as an integral part of the British Empire.

Premier Offers Congratulations

Sends Wire To Hon R. B. Bennett On His Appointment To Leadership

Ottawa.—Following is the telegraph congratulations to Hon R. B. Bennett K.C. who was selected by the national convention to be leader of the Conservative Party, London, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, as leader of the Liberal Government. The Prime Minister despatched the following wire to Mr Bennett:

"In the name of your colleagues as leader of the Conservative Party of Canada, and desire to tender to you very hearty congratulations upon your election. I have expressed to you by the members of your party, and on the distinguished honour which they have conferred upon you."

The telegram bears the Prime Minister's signature

An Important Agenda

Ottawa.—The leaders of the province of Canada will face an imposing agenda of nearly forty items when they meet here on Nov. 3. The city conference of the premiers promises to be the most important of its kind since Confederation, in view of the fact that several constitutional questions will come up for discussion and perhaps action. While the conference will have no actual legislative or administrative authority, its conclusion will be far-reaching, as they will affect the legislative programmes of the future of the nine provincial governments during the next year.

SEEKING LAND IN CANADA

This photograph, taken outside the Union Station, Winnipeg, is of a group of prominent United States farmers, who have been looking for settlement prospects in Saskatchewan and some of whom have purchased land. They were brought to Canada in September by Capt. L. B. Boyd, superintendent of the land, coloniza tion and development department of the Canadian National Railways at St. Paul, Minnesota, and were interested in the Helen, Tyner Valley and Swiftcurrent districts of Saskatchewan. Lake districts, on the Canadian National Railways. Their excursion resulted in the purchase of 16 quarter sections valued at $56,320, and a number of other deals are pending. Those farmers belong to the States of Nebraska and Kansas and are all well established and possessed of considerable capital. Some of them have relatives and friends already settled in the Tyner Valley district and have been urged by them to come to Canada. Others not moving themselves, are taking land for their sons.

Employees Can Buy Shares

Sir Alfred Moved To Try Out Co-Operation Plan

London.—Co-operation between employers and employees, which is not a new matter in the United States, is about to be tried out here by Sir Alfred Mond with 40,000 employees in his big Imperial Chemical Industries. Sir Alfred's idea is to make a capital list of every one of his factory hands

Through his other the employees can buy Imperial Chemical shares, quoted at 3s shillings, for 27 shillings, a piece. The only restriction is that they do not speculate. He will award free shares to workers on the basis of a man earning $1,000 annually or less getting a free share for every four purchased. The workers can vote on their stock.

That will create a direct bond between the company officials and workers," Sir Alfred said, "Industrial peace will not be attained by pleasant talk and nice dinner parties, but by actual contact between the men and employers working out practical schemes."

Arrange Exhibits For Agricultural Jubilee

Every Branch Of Federal Department To Be Represented Says Minister Motherwell

Ottawa.—Every branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture will be represented in the celebration of Canada's Agricultural Jubilee, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, announced, "and they are altogether behind from the provincial, agricultural and livestock displays which will be part and parcel of this presentation of the greatest of all of the Dominion's natural industries."

Alberta, which has had its banner crop year, has notified the minister that its exhibit will comprise grains from this year's yield, and that its display will be most comprehensive. Manitoba and Saskatchewan also will be represented

The agricultural jubilee will be staged at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto from November 16 to 24.

Irish Free State

President Cosgrave Makes Few Changes In His Cabinet

Dublin.—President Cosgrave, re elected as head executive of the Irish Free State council in the Dail Eireann, has made few changes in his ministry.

The changes that were made give Hon. Ernest Blythe the postmaster ship as well as the portfolio of finance minister Hon. Patrick Mcgilligan will come up for discussion and perhaps action. While the consolidation will have no actual legislative or administrative authority, its conclusion will be far-reaching, as they will affect the legislative programmes of the future of the nine provincial governments during the next year.

MOVE TO SPEED UP IMMIGRATION FROM BRITAIN

Winnipeg.—Adoption of a quota policy in Canada to restrict continuous immigration was not supported as feasible, Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, told a delegation of the general synod of the Anglican Church, which conferred with him here, but he gave his assurance that his department would do all it could to promote British immigration and to keep control over continental immigration.

The delegation consisted of Archbishop Matheson, the primate of all Canada; Chancellor Mackray, Mr. Justice Dodds, Toronto, A. W. Austin, Toronto; W. G. Styles, Regina; G. H. Woods, Lefroy; H. Reid, Toronto; and Canon Vernon.

A statement issued said

"Mr Forke stated that the subject of immigration would occupy an important place on the agenda of the conference between the Dominion and provincial governments in November. The Minister expressed the desire to meet representatives of the churches and other voluntary organizations interested in immigration to confer with him at Ottawa, and to have the full co operation in securing an increased flow of British settlers for Canada The Minister pointed out that suitable assistance that can be rendered by the churches in developing nomination for British families had settlements, farm workers and household workers, to receive the assisted passage rate. He mentioned that in the past year more than 5,000 Britishers have been thus nominated.

"Mr Forke told the delegation that the assistance to be offered to establish British lads who make good in canada as farm workers to insure good on their own will be supplemented by placed out through the church of land hostels at Winnipeg, Melfort and Edmonton The department was doing everything possible to develop family settlement schemes along assisted similar lines to the existing 2,000 family scheme.

The Archbishop assured Mr. Forke that there had not been on the part of the synod nor the church any intention of attacking or embarrassing the Government, nor were they actuated by any ill-feeling towards the Roman Catholic Church."

Trying To Reach Coast

Mexican Rebel Leaders Being Pursued By Federal Troops

Mexico City.—Pursued through the south mountain country of western Vera Cruz, rebel generals, Arnulfo Gomez and Hector Almada, were believed to be attempting to reach the coast, where parties of rebels by boat or other small craft would put them beyond the reach of the government troops on the right flank and counter parties of federal troops under command of General Gonzalez Escobar, who reported that he had dispersed the rebel forces and captured the main body, leaving Gomez and Almada with only about 100 followers.

To guard against the activities of bandits attempting to take advantage of the situation, the government has ordered an adequate escort of federal soldiers for every freight and passenger train.

POST SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 19, 1927

Rain threshing re-commenced last week the weather, though at times threatening, continues to behave fairly well and the threshers are favorably situated.

Some work was done and an improvement made last week to the road in the C.N.R. bridge past the elevators. It is good to have this road fixed up temporarily from time to time, but it would be much better if some money was spent on it and it was permanently repaired, permitting of its use at any and all times without grief and rough language. It is used by all farmers hauling grain to any one of the six elevators, is one of the main roads to the town, and has to be traversed by the residents of a large district doing business in the town.

MOUNTAINEER RESIGNS FROM TOWN COUNCIL

Councillor C. J. Perrett, editor of the Drumheller Review, tendered his resignation from the town council at a meeting held Monday. Payment of a bill for printing was referred by the chairman of the finance committee, who gave as his reason that a councillor had no right to accept a contract for service from the town while he is a member of the council. The town solicitor's advice was sought and his finding was to the effect that a councillor was disqualified who had an existing contract with the town for services except that in connection with which tenders calling contracts for the town could be carried in his paper, but not printing of supplies for the town office.

All Canada Agrees
'It's Better because it's Canadian"

IT'S Better because It's Canadian" . . . a year ago General Motors of Canada gave first utterance to this phrase.

"It's Better because It's Canadian" . . . newspapers and magazines all over Canada took up the theme, impressing on Canadian citizens the pride they should justly feel in the products of their country.

"It's Better because It's Canadian" . . . the phrase has struck home, has become a challenge to the Canadian manufacturer and to the Canadian buyer.

"It's Better because It's Canadian" . . . it is a fact. And because it is a fact . . . because General Motors was inspired to put it into words . . . because Canadian editors added to its impetus . . . because Canadians accepted it . . . and because the standard of Canadian quality proved it true. . . .

. . . all Canada has enjoyed a greater measure of prosperity; and General Motors of Canada, with many other Canadian manufacturing organizations, has just completed the most successful year in its history.

Remarkable Success Of Moss Settler On Lethbridge Irrigation Tract

More in the report of the first new settler on the Lethbridge Northern irrigation tract to complete harvesting this year. Saunders Bros. of Iron Springs purchased quarter section there last July paying $1,824 for the land. They have just finished their third crop to go to Lethbridge Northern as purchase price. Broke land in August. Seeded in spring and put in acres. Harvest completed. All wheat in elevator. Total crop 4,511 bushels. Grade No 1 other for wheat today $1.23 per bushel not to owner. L. N. share 1,500 bushels at $1.23, total value $1,800; which means that the Lethbridge Northern, if it sells the wheat today, will have to return $166.20 to Saunders Bros. being the excess which one-third of the crop brought over purchase price of land. This crop was cut and harvested with a combine and the grain graded a perfect No. 1 direct from the machine.

RUN-DOWN AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Ottawa Woman Finds Strength by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottawa, Ontario.—"I was terribly run-down after the birth of my little baby. I had awful backache-pains and was afraid I had nervous trouble. I was tired all the time and had no appetite. My sister-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot praise it too highly and advise me to try it. I have had splendid results and feel fine all the time now. Any one who needs a thorough medicine for run-down feelings can feel sure that it will help them."—Mrs. Emma Peaples, 352 Cumberland Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Terrible Backache

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have my baby was born I had terrible backache and headaches. I could not do my work and felt tired from the first thought I got up in the morning. But worst of all were the fits in my sides when I would get up. I had to sit or lie down for a while afterwards. I could keep my house in order, but many things had to go undone at the time because of my sickness. I was laid by a neighbor to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she said it would build me up. I was relieved before I had taken the first two bottles and have not had any trouble like that since."—Mrs. F. Mountain, 49 Burton Street, Hamilton, Ont.

The door of the common room opened quietly. The light was switched on, and Mrs. Wynnith in disheveled night clothes stood blinking like an owl at the light. Helmi stood at the window facing her, unafraid and calm.

Mrs. Wynnith had a sudden plan. Helmi had come back to the scene—she was frightened—now was the time.

"I called the girls to pick up," said Helmi, in a whisper. "I hope he is not hurt bad."

"He is dead," said Mrs. Wynnith, in a voice as hollow as an empty church. "Oh, Helmi, you have killed him, killed him by your blow. He is lying now cold in death."

Dead! The room swam past Helmi, table—chairs—door. Dead! The word beat like a drum with every beat of her heart. Dead! Dead! Dead! Murder! Murder!

The red word danced before her eyes.

"Helmi, the police will come for you. I will have to send for them—I will have to tell them you struck him down. Listen, Helmi, tell me now—the way it sent you for the doctor? I'll save you, Helmi, even now, if you'll say the name."

Terror had frozen Helmi's blood. She knew her awful a thing it was to kill—people who kill are hanged! She locked and unlocked her hands.

"Jesu say the name, Helmi, and I'll save you—just the name."

For the moment Helmi could not remove her mind from the terrible present. Then she remembered. She began to speak mechanically.

"It was—" then she stopped abruptly. Her calm she had swept.

A deafening clanging outside drowned her words, the singing scream of a fire-engine tilla raced by rocking from side to side.

"Who was it, Helmi, dear—speak the name—I will save you." Mrs. Wynnith came closer, fawning terribly. "Helmi I will tell them you did not mean it. Just tell me who sent you. They will hang you, Helmi, and you so young. But tell me, Helmi dear, and I will be your friend till me, Helmi."

Helmi drew back, irresolute. There was a step in the hall, quick, impatient, then a voice.

"What the devil are you doing in there at this time of night?"

Mr. Wynnith came into the room. With a small piece of court plaster on his cheek, the only sign of the accident, stood the alleged corpse in a faded brown dressing gown, his big bare feet sprawl hideously on the floor.

Helmi looked from one to the other, and a dull red came into her eyes—a surging rage, which with difficulty she controlled. She addressed Mrs. Wynnith. "It is you who is one damn liar," she said, in careful English. She walked past them through the open door, switching on the hall light as she passed and making no effort to walk quietly.

After that Helmi was not allowed to eat with the other girls. Helmi was a girl of evil temper—Mrs. Wynnith explained this very carefully when the girls were at breakfast. Mrs. Wynnith loved to mix morality and meals, so she made quite a little ceremony of the casting out of Helmi. The girls were asked if they thought she had done wrong. Knowing what they were supposed to say they said it—All but Minnie, who began to cry and was sent from the room.

Helmi was to be excluded from meals at tables, prayers and lessons until she apologized. Mrs. Wynnith slightly dreaded this, she had received a blow that would hurt deeply when she deprived Helmi of the lessons which she loved. She had her meals in the kitchen; prayers she could do without gladly, but the lessons!

Helmi was ordered to take her plate and cutlery to the kitchen. She did so, walking erect and calm, and looking straight into the eyes of the girls she passed. The girls shuddered for fear for her when they saw how unconcerned she was. At the door of the kitchen Helmi paused and looked back. Every eye was on her. They knew she was going to speak. She summoned her English as well as she could: "Your man," she said slowly, "he be dead already yet!"

CHAPTER X.

Era St. John had many unpleasant moments when she thought of Helmi, and in so far as she was capable of feeling sorry she was truly repentant. "Poor kid," she often said to herself, "I she weren't so pretty it wouldn't matter so much. Ugly we men might as well be in jail anyway, for all the fun they get out here, but this kid could have had anything she wanted. I believe she'll keep her promise she's that kind if she doesn't it will be my word against hers, and why, and she won't have much chance that I'd hate it to come to that—I hate women like cattle I tell them was going to be a maid that day? And I believe that Home is not such a bad place there's a teacher there—and maybe she won't mind it. Anyway, I can't help it if she is pretty as that was likely to strike a snag anyway."

Lots of the girls are not much troubled with pangs of conscience. Yet the thought persisted, gnawing, nagging—ailing in upon her gayest moments. She could not forget Helmi with her worshipping eyes and her blind, unreasoning adoration—she couldn't forget her.

Then Era tried another way. She had always been able by taking thought to justify her actions. She now justified her silence by telling herself that if she had come forward and confessed that she had sent Helmi for the drug it would have injured her husband's practice, and probably broken his heart. She told herself over and over again that she owed her first duty to him. He did so much for suffering humanity, eased so many people's pain, and did it on generously that nothing must ever injure him. That was her first duty, to guard her husband.

Era began to believe in her own wifely devotion. A woman's duty should be submergent in her husband's anyway—she really had no life apart from him. She had been wrong to be so independent of dear old Humphrey—he was the safest port in a storm after all. An early Victorian spirit settled down upon her.

In her new-found enthusiasm Era grew more thoughtful of the Doctor's comfort and more interested in his work. The Doctor, hungry for her favor, was quick to see the little attention she was bestowing on him, and responded with the eagerness of a faithful dog. Era, always analytical, and deeply interested in her own mental experiences, began to feel that the episode of Helmi was a providential thing. Inasmuch as it was bringing her and her husband closer together, and under the stimulus of this belief she redoubled her efforts to please him. She went to church with him; she joined some of the women's societies (Era was not unfaithful of the benefit she would derive socially from these affiliations. It pleased her too, to find what a fine lot of pioneers her standing made in the societies. Any way, it was good policy to make her social position as secure as possible, and if Helmi did accuse her it would be easier. Through all of Era's pious there ran one cool purpose: yet she managed to keep her conscience clear as the snow, day after day. She had mastered the art of self-deception.

Following out her plan to establish a blameless record and an invincible social one, it occurred to Era that it might be well for her to show an interest in the Girls' Friendly Home. It would show to the world that although the young Finnish girl had treated her badly there was no room in her noble heart for resentment. She glowed with the thought. Having put her hand to the plow she would not turn back.

Miss Abbis was delighted when she heard that Mrs. St. John thought of going out to see the girls, and not only that but was going to give a tea for the Home. She reported this to Mrs. Wynnith the Sunday following, when paying her weekly visits to the Home. It was used by Mrs Wynnith in her turn, not only to show the girls how grateful they should be for food, shelter, clothing, and the blessings of the gospel, but also for kind friends to think of them. Mrs. Wynnith's tongue dripped honey, when she made the announcement to the girls

Bad Thrilling Trip

Girl Member Of Trader Crew Returns After Voyage To South Seas

A proposal of marriage from a cannibal chief in the New Hebrides and a score of other adventures in the South Seas were part of the story of a girl who returned to her home in Nagg York after a runaway trip to sea.

The girl, Thia Irene Cooper, a member of a trader crew that included Malays, Arabs, Fijians, Portuguese and French men, stood watch and ate shark fins as regularly as the most hardy seamen in the enthusiasm of a dream inspired by reading the sea stories of fierceness, Conrad and Melville.

Miss Cooper shipped from San Francisco with a friend, Jean Schoen. The girls and considerable difficulty getting jobs but a kindly captain finally hired them and away they went on a cruise to the remarks lands they had long desired to see.

"We were treated courteously by every one we met," reports Miss Cooper. "I was only scared once, and that was by the cannibal chief. He pinched my arm and said 'You belong to me,' and I did not know whether he wanted to marry me or eat me. But we were good friends after that, and he promised me a copra island if I would send him a fish hat and a cutaway coat I promised I would."

Little Helps For This Week

For we are saved by hope.—Romans viii. 24.

And do not fear to hope Can poet's picture be?

More than the Father's heart rich good invent?

Earth time we smell the autumn's dying scent!

We know the primrose time will come again;

Not more we hope, nor less would soothe our pain.

—George MacDonald.

"We should hope for everything that is good," says the old poet Linus, because there is nothing under any sun we hoped for, and nothing but what the gods are able to give us." Hope quickens all the still parts of life, and keeps the mind awake in her most restless and indolent hours. It gives habitual serenity and good humor; it is a kind of vital heat in the soul that cheers and gladdens her when she does not attend to it. It makes pain easy and labor pleasant.

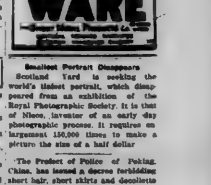
The BABY



Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

Most of you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence serves felt all through the tiny system. It gives a directful dose of castor oil dose so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic: or constipation; or diarrhoea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

CONSIDER SYSTEM OF GRADING BEEF

Proposals to grade beef for market as has been done in the case of eggs, butter, cheese and other products, are being considered by a commission appointed by the Dominion government. This commission which includes R. S. Hamer of the Dominion Live-stock Branch, Ottawa; J. H. Evans, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Manitoba; F. M. Baker representing the packing interests; R. A. Wright, president of the Western Canada Livestock Union, and L. P. McCuaig of Ottawa, has been meeting in Calgary during the past week and hearing evidence from producers, retailers and consumers as to the probable effect of a system of grading on the marketing of Alberta beef.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERMEN HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Alberta Press association was held at the Palliser hotel, Calgary, last Friday and Saturday. There was a good attendance of editors of weekly newspapers from all parts of the province and three extremely busy and educative sessions were held.

In addition to conducting a mass of the association's business and several forums presided over by members of the association, the convention was addressed by the Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Health, Mr. S. Jamieson, secretary of the Saskatchewan Press association, Mr. L. D Nesbitt, in charge of the publicity department of the Alberta Wheat Pool and Mr. Reg. J. Smith, Alberta manager Crawford-Harris Advertising Service.

The privilege of free transportation was as usual kindly extended by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways and other courtesies granted by the latter at their magnificent hotel in the southern city.

PARTRIDGE HILL OLD TIMERS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Married in Ontario on October 24, 1877, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gordon, of Partridge Hill, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the event on Monday evening. It was estimated that not less than three hundred of their friends gathered together to honor them and join in the celebration, though all that number did not sign the register provided.

A large marquee had been erected close to the house and the addresses and presentation to the happy couple were made there. Mr. W. H. White, ex-M.P., started the proceedings with a congratulatory address and then called upon the bearers of gifts in their turn. The presents given were from The Family; Mrs. Gordon's daughters; Mrs. Gordon's brother; a joint offering from Partridge Hill and surrounding districts, Edmonton and Lamont; and two separate groups of citizens of Fort Saskatchewan, the latter two being represented by Mr. S. O. Amos and Mr. G. T. Montgomery.

Mr. Gordon replied suitably on behalf of Mrs. Gordon and himself and Rev. E. J. Hodgins gave an address on their behalf.

Refreshments were served to the multitude made hungry by the long of the fall air and good old dances to good old-time music were enjoyed.

Written addresses were read and presented with the gifts from friends of Partridge Hill and surrounding districts, Edmonton and Lamont, and from one group of Fort Saskatchewan friends. The congratulatory wishes of the remainder were given extempore. A copy of the addresses follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon,

We, your friends and neighbors, on the happy occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of your wedding, have gathered here to show how to extend to you our congratulations and good wishes.

You have spent nearly thirty years in our midst, and in that time we have, at all times, found you both to be a good neighbor and friend.

This is an occasion which we are privileged to celebrate and enjoy only too rarely in our community life, and in thus observing it, we honor ourselves in honoring you.

As an expression of our esteem we ask you, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, to accept these chairs with the hope that you may long be spared to enjoy them.

Signed on behalf of Partridge Hill and surrounding districts, Edmonton and Lamont.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Gordon:

We, your friends, representing part of the citizens of the town of Fort Saskatchewan, assembled with others here tonight to join with you in commemoration of your fifty years of married life, which marriage took place in Ontario, Ontario, on the twenty-fourth day of October, 1877.

Needless to say, the celebration of a Golden Wedding falls to the lot of a very few people.

We rejoice with you that a kind Providence has spared you to celebrate this auspicious occasion. You have been able to surmount the difficulties and hardships of pioneering on two occasions, first, in Northern Ontario in the Parry Sound district, where you resided over twenty years, and secondly, removing to Alberta nearly thirty years ago to commence the second stage of pioneering. Many of us here tonight have occasion to well remember the many difficulties that had to be surmounted in Alberta in the early days.

TO SLAUGHTER 1,500 HEAD OF BUFFALO

In order to reduce the size of the buffalo herd at Wainwright, which of recent years has been increasing very rapidly, 1,500 head of these animals will be slaughtered during the coming fall and winter. The P. Burns Co. of Calgary, it is announced, has the contract for the killing and the meat will be sold as a commercial product, while the hides find a ready market. In spite of the transfer of some 1,500 head of buffalo to the park reserves in the north, the remainder of the herd is still too numerous for the carrying capacity of the park.

You did not homestead like most of us, but you have helped to develop the locality from a conquering wilderness to "the promised land," a locality second to none in Alberta.

It might be of interest to some here tonight to learn that you had to clear and blaze a trail for your children to attend Partridge Hill school, situated then where it now stands on the North West corner of your own farm; and that your family consists of eleven children, thirty-nine grand-

LAMONT PIONEER INJURED BY FALL FROM HAY RACK

F. C. Smith, a pioneer of the Lamont district, and well known here, was badly injured Monday by falling backwards from a load of hay. Several logs were broken in his ankle when he struck the ground on his shoulders and the base of his skull.

Being alone and practically helpless he was not discovered until 5 p.m., five hours after the accident occurred. Removing assistance at his non-arrival, Mrs. Smith telephoned neighbors who instituted a search and found him. Exposure to the cold and dampness is said to have aggravated his condition, which is considered critical.

The Conservative National Convention

The holding of a national convention by any great organization is always a matter of interest and of importance to people generally because of the effect it may have on the country as a whole, but when such a convention is called by a political party for the purpose of formulating policies and selecting a leader, the gathering becomes one of first importance. It was natural therefore that the recent Conservative convention in Winnipeg should command not only the interest of members and adherents of that particular party, but of the Canadian people as a whole.

Interest in the convention was all the greater because it was unique in the history of the party, being the first national gathering of Conservatives to be convened since Confederation, Liberals and other political groups have convened in such nat ional convention but the Conservatives had not done so prior to this year of Canada's Diamond Jubilee. It added one more nationality to patriot observances of this memorable year in Canada's history.

As is well known to our readers, this column does not attempt to deal with or discuss questions which are the medium of controversy between political parties, and in this particular article there is no intention of departing from that rule. But as a national event, the recent convention presented certain features and took certain actions which, instead of being controversial, are matters for general satisfaction.

In the first place, the all great national gatherings, the Conservative convention performed an unquestioned service to Canada in bringing together hundreds of the leading men and women of the nine provinces. The resultant exchange of views and opinions, the new knowledge gained of each other and each other's problems, the round table conferences in committees, can not fail to profoundly affect future policy throughout the Dominion.

To the West in particular the unqualified endorsement of the Hudson Bay Railway project and approval of steps not only to complete the railway but to develop a port and traffic in and out of that port is most gratifying. It definitely removes this great undertaking from the realm of partisan politics and places it where it belongs as one of the great national undertakings of the Dominion in the measure of which all are concerned.

It is likewise gratifying to the West that the mantle of leadership should have fallen on the shoulders of a Western man, yet a man who has an intimate knowledge of the East. Whether one agrees with the political views of R. B. Bennett or not, few, if any, will question his ability or his love for and desire to serve his native land. His long experience in public life, as a member of the old North-West Territories Assembly, the Alberta Legislature, and the House of Commons, his training in law, his qualifications as a speaker, and the responsibilities which have been his as Minister of Justice and Minister of Finance in former Governments at Ottawa, should fit him for his new task of party leadership. In the hands of Hon. Mackenzie King and Hon. R. B. Bennett, all that is best in British Parliamentary traditions and procedure should be worthily upheld.

Finally, the convention, and the settlement of the question of leadership, should have the effect of giving greater stability to political thought through-out the Dominion. It marks the end of a period of indecision and unrest in the ranks of one of the political groups which is a good thing for Canada as well as for the party itself. Unity in purpose and effectiveness in action in what a young and rapidly developing country like Canada urgently requires in order to make progress. It is vital to the interests of the Dominion that not one or two but all political groups know their aims, definitely state their policies, and show decision in their actions. Unless those who direct and those who seek to direct the destinies of Canada are themselves strong and united in leadership and policy, it is futile to hope that there may be made that contribution to the welfare and progress of Canada which is essential.

New Serum Successful

Claim Cure For Infantile Paralysis Has Been Perfected

Discovery of what is said to be the first effective commercial preparation for treatment of infantile paralysis was announced at Indianapolis by Eli Lilly & Co., pharmaceutical manufacturers.

After ten years' research an anti-streptococcal serum has been developed from the horse as in the case of diphtheria and scarlet fever serums.

The serum is being produced there in co-operation with Dr. Maxwell C. Brennecke, chief of experimental bacteriology of the Mayo Foundation, and already 10,000 cubic centimeters have been sent to poliomyelitis epidemic centres from coast to coast and even into Cuba.

First reports show it especially effective in the bulbar form of the disease.

Clinical observations show that best results are obtained if the serum is used in the early stages of the disease, before paralysis has been diagnosed, recovery without paralysis being reasonably certain in such cases. The serum has been found effective in preventing paralysis already begun, and in reducing hundreds of bodies already paralyzed.

The serum is produced from the blood of horses, which are first injected with the virus of infantile paralysis. When developed [illegible] for Eastern control centres.

Old Age Pensions For B.C.

The Pittance That Will Banish the Worst Spectres Of Poverty

The Vancouver Province is strongly in favor of old age pensions, which are now established in British Columbia. "It means, little as it is," it says, "all the mighty difference which lies between the tragedy of age in want and the assurance of a pittance which will at least banish the worst spectres of poverty. It is not too much, but it is a very great and beneficent thing, this beginning of old age pensions in Canada. In the lives of some of those neighbors and fellow citizens of ours —those who have fulfilled their three score years and ten, and have found the battle a little hard in their latter days."

Honey Exports

With a honey production of 21,000,000 pounds in 1926 a record of 200 per cent. increase for the past five years was recorded. Exports of honey from Canada in the nine months, ended June, 1927, had a value of $191,443, as compared with $159,772 in the corresponding period of the 1925-26 year before that. Germany is the principal customer, other purchasers being the United Kingdom, the United States and the Netherlands.

West Representation

Saskatchewan United Farmers Would Have Agricultural Interests Represented On Rail Board

Representation of organized agricultural interests on the Canada Board of Railway Commissioners is being asked by the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, in a resolution passed by the executive board meeting at Saskatoon. A copy of this resolution has been sent to all West ern Federal members of parliament. A vacancy will occur on the board shortly through the expiration of the term of office of Commissioner A. C. Boyce.

The resolution is as follows: "As a matter of justice and equity the executive board of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, strongly urges representation of the personnel of the railway commission so as to give the Canadian people a more equal representation with railroads Canada, and that one such appointee be given to the representative of Western organized agricultural interests."

"Father had a corn on his toe, so that he sent to all western federal members with a view to soliciting their co-operation and support."

A similar resolution has also been passed asking representation of organized agricultural interests on the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways.

Germany Plans Air Train

Powerful Planes For Locomotives and Gliders For Pullmans

Aeronautical engineers in Germany are working on plans of an air train, as a possible means of travel in the future. The locomotive will be a powerful aeroplane and the "pullmans" a row of gliders coupled one behind the other and to each other, as the cars of a train, only with considerably greater spacing between the units.

Passengers in each glider will be destined for some particular town, and on the approach of the train the gliders approached the glider for that destination will be released from the end of the string and will descend gently down with its special plant and its passengers.

Forty Thousand Miles Of Air Routes Now In Operation Daily Throughout the World

One of the dangers of uncontrolled flying is that such feats and their frequent tragic consequences may blur the public mind to the fact that enormous progress is being made in the field of prudent aviation. One always hears of the hazards that effect endurance the sometimes gallant, sometimes foolhardy, attempts to span the oceans. Less is heard of the steady, scientific conquests being made from year to year in making aviation one of the great forces in the modern world. Yet such conquests are being made. Today, for example, the total length of air routes operated through out the world is almost 40,000 miles, of which 21,000 miles are in Europe, and about 19,000 miles in the United States. The actual traffic over these routes has increased from about 3,000,000 miles flown in 1919 to about 12,000,000 miles in 1926.

The Imperial Airways Limited of Britain, subsidized by the British Government, maintain and operate regular daily services between London, Paris and Zürich; London, Brussels and Cologne; London and Amsterdam; and a weekly seaplane service between Southampton and the Channel Islands. They have now completed over half a million miles of the period of two years during which they have a monopoly of subsidized British air transport in Europe. During this period they have flown approximately two and a quarter million miles and carried 36,000 passengers and 1,000 tons of goods with only one serious accident.

Now has Canada lagged in aviation. Today the use of aeroplanes by forest conservation, aerial survey and reconnaissance, and transportation in the "hinter parts of the country is well established. The pioneer work done by commercial organizations and the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec and the Dominion Government, has been successful. Forest type sketching and reconnaissance flights in air are accepted today without question as being quick, accurate and cheaper. Since this work was first undertaken in Canada in the year 1920, 125,000 square miles of forest land have been mapped by this method. In this careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it was and kept pub the favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

Threatened With Extinction

Salmon Catch On Fraser River to Rapidly Decrease

The salmon fishing industry on the Fraser River, British Columbia, is threatened with extinction. The pack this year so far amounts to only half of that of last year to the same period. John P. Babcock, assistant commissioner of fisheries, on returning from his annual trip of inspection to the streams of the Fraser system above Hell's Gate, "where once the sockeye salmon spawned in millions," stated that "it was like hunting for a needle in a hay mow. In most sections I did not see or hear of a single sockeye this year." He pointed out that four years hence, when the cycle of sockeye existence is filled and the fish which should be spawned this year and would return to spawn in their native waters, there will be none for the nets of the fishermen or the kettles of the canners.

The mighty family of Pacific salmon are still a mystery notwithstanding years of study. The catch in Alaska has also been reduced about 50 per cent. and the American authorities there are at a loss to know why the salmon failed to put in their usual appearance in the Fraser. Hopes so far as British Columbia is concerned, officials, canners and fishermen agree that fishing be restrictive and that the only remedy is to curtail operations. But governmental action to make such a drastic enforcement effective "We cannot reduce the Fraser sockeye fishery one season to the next in five months after it is operate in the prevention of over-fishing," says the Vancouver Province. "But we do contest the fishing which takes toll of the sockeye on the spawning beds of the province, and there we should see that the lesson of the Fraser is learned and that the tragedy of the Fraser is not repeated."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Bennett's Daughter In Aerial Taxi Driver

Believes There is Great Opening in Canada For Women

For $12 per hour you can hire the daughter of a baronet to fly you anywhere you want to go in her light aeroplane. She is Miss Rhoda O'Brien, daughter of Sir Timothy and Lady O'Brien, and has just won her "A" certificate in London, entitling her to do commercial flying.

She has bought her own "mount" and means to fly for fun and for an occasional taxi driver. She has always wanted to fly after having been a keen motorist, and when the London Light Airplane Club was formed a couple of years ago she was one of the first to join it.

"I hope to be very busy," she said, "when the weather becomes better, taking pupils and doing cross-country trips with passengers and cargo. There should be a great opening in commercial flying in this age of hurry and bustle. Lots of other girls ought to learn to fly, and I am surprised that more women don't take it up."

Miss O'Brien is the second woman to get her "B" certificate there, Mrs. Elliott Lynn, being the first.

New Pointers On Shellbar Cheese

Milk Used Must Have High Percentage Of Butterfat

The process of manufacture of Mellbar Cheese has become fairly well standardized and the results now obtained make it a product of the first quality among full-flavored cheeses. The whole process of making it is described in a pamphlet distributed by the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. How information concerning the cheese has been secured through recent experiments. It is now definitely known that the quality of the product is greatly affected by the percentage of butterfat of the milk from which it is manufactured. When cheese was made from separate lots of milk testing 3.6, 4.2, and 5.6 per cent., all was of excellent quality and flavor, but with the increased percentage of fat the quality improved. In fact the flavor of the cheese made from the high test-ing milk was particularly pleasing, having a richness and mellowness sufficient to indicate the desirability of utilizing a high testing milk to obtain the very highest results with Mellbar cheese. Another fact ascertained is that the cheese may be held in cold storage for five months after it is sufficiently cured for use provided that the atmosphere is kept humid The flavor improves with age when drying out does not take place.

Arctic Fall Unsolved

Get Tide Of White Settlement Will Eventually Set Northward

Mysteries of the Arctic are still unsolved, declared Dr. R. M. Anderson, section of the British Association, Brown, president of the geographical while speaking in London recently. He declared that the existence of an Antarctic continent is still based on circumstantial evidence, that Enderby Land, with more than 3,000 miles of hypothetical coast line, had never been searched for since Dumon Peurd it in 1837, and that no ship had ever penetrated the western shores of Weddell Sea. He prophesied that eventually the tide of white settlement will definitely set northward, even to the Arctic Seas.

First Rainbow Round Up

Eskimos Please Number in Alaska At Annual Trade Fair

Preparations are being made at Alaska, Alaska, for the first round-up of the estimated 20,000 reindeer in the Mackenzie River basin, to determine the exact rate of increase in the deer herds in this region.

Since reindeer were introduced into Alaska, from Siberia, 25 years ago to ward off threatened starvation among the Eskimos, the rate of increase has far exceeded the demand Government officials have predicted that Alaska's ranges will be overstocked with the animals in another few years unless reindeer meat finds a growing market in the U.S. during that time.

THE STORY OF SIXTY YEARS

Scarcely anything could typify the advance in transportation which has occurred in Canada in the 60 years of Confederation than this photograph which shows a locomotive of the 1867 vintage compared with one of the giant 1927 passenger model locomotives of the Canadian National Railways. This Goliath of the road is designated as the 6100 class and it is the largest passenger locomotive in the British Empire. Because of the year in which it was built this locomotive has been named "The Confederation."

Following closely on the heels of the phenomenal growth of agriculture and allied industries, a third great form of development has been recently placed on equally effective rule in revamping Canada's economic structure Mining development has been responsible for some of the most striking changes that have come over the Dominion in the last quarter of a century

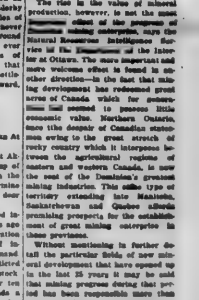
Not so many years ago Canada's mineral output was dominated by the extreme east and the extreme west. Nearly 79 per cent. of the total mineral output in value came from Nova Scotia, British Columbia, and the Yukon. Today older mining areas have developed remarkably and are stronger than ever it is the great series of interior provinces that have held the leadership Ontario has matched and surpassed British Columbia's magnificent record of progress. Quebec, Nova Scotia is rivalled by Alberta and Quebec And Manitoba, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan, though less advanced in actual development, all possess mineral resources of real promise.

With this great spreading out of mining activity into new regions, there has, of course, been an increase in the value of the country's annual mineral production. In 1926, the aggregate output reached the record figure of $241,540,000 and seems all signs fail this new record is not likely to last very long. As a matter of fact it is quite within the realm of possibility that the Dominion's annual mineral output may, within a limited measure of time, outrank the Canadian wheat crop in a financial way. Such a suggestion would have been almost unthinkable ten years ago, but if the mining industry continues to advance as it has done in the last 15 years, the possibility is more than likely to become a actual fact.

The rise in the value of mineral production, however, is not the most [illegible] effect of the progress of [illegible] Canada. Dr. Camsell, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa. The more important and more welcome effect is found in another direction—in the fact that mining development has reshaped great areas of Canada, which for generations had seemed to possess little promise. Northern Ontario, since the despair of Canadian statesmen owing to the great stretch of very sandy which it interposes between the agricultural regions of eastern and western Canada, is now the seat of the Dominion's greatest mining industry. Quebec, in the Mandavian River basin, has determined the exact rate of increase in the deer herds in this region.

Since reindeer were introduced into Alaska, from Siberia, 25 years ago to ward off threatened starvation among the Eskimos, the rate of increase has far exceeded the demand Government officials have predicted that Alaska's ranges will be overstocked with the animals in another few years unless reindeer meat finds a growing market in the U.S. during that time.

Eggs sent from China 56 years ago were served at a recent banquet of the Zoological Society of Ireland, and the members pronounced the flavor of the hen fruit delicious.



"What sort of an animal is that?"
"A mammal."
"And can there come today?"
"No; the last died from a fall from his horse."—Boon Hunter, Madrid.

Emperors Of Japan Started Piece Is Composed From Many Modern Ships

The measures and lovers of a wrestling cover are making fast work of all that remains of the inner Emperors of Japan, save one of the blue ribbon chips of the North Pacific.

For several years the old ship, which was launched in a British shipyard 37 years ago, has been lying at anchor in Burrard Inlet. Her once proud and majestic frame of clipper design has gradually been converted into a bare skeleton of steel, and in a few weeks even this will have gone to Japanese yards to be fabricated into metallic form. And he says they're true.

Manitoba Aviation League

Organization Is Expected To Give a New Impetus To Flying in the Province

The keen public interest in aviation, and the fact that Winnipeg, will, during the coming year, be the important airports in this country, has resulted in the formation of the Aviation League of Manitoba, the leading citizens serving as officers of the organization, and on the Board of Governors. It is expected that the League will give a renewed impetus to flying in this province. The officers of the League follow: J. A. Richardson, honorary president; H. C. Coleman, president; H. P. Cubb, secretary; Board of Governors: Edward Anderson, T. C. Anderson, W. R. Cubb, J. R. Coyne, F. G. DeVal, Charles Gray, W. H. Gardiner, J. Hunter, S. R. Jones, W. Campbell, A. W. McLimont, W. McCurdy, Hugh Coiler, R. H. Parkhill, C. S. Riley, J. Sully, W. L. Sutton, Major R. H. Webb, and F. O. Woodman.

The object of the League, as set forth in the constitution, is "to foster, encourage, and advance the science of aeronautics; to kindle and keep alive interest in same and legitimate aviation; to encourage and assist scientific groups or institutions in promoting the science of aeronautics, and aerial navigation, by means of power, uniform laws, flying regulations, and air routes. To prepare and distribute general and scientific aeronautical data pertaining to atmospheric conditions, flying fields and air routes, to encourage and organize volunteer and cadet squadrons for boys and young men, in which they can receive practical and theoretical instruction to prepare them for active participation in aviation, to do all such other lawful things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects.

In keeping with the work of the League, Major-General Sir A. D. McRae, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., addressed the Canadian Club at luncheon in the Royal Alexandra Hotel on Tuesday, October 18.

We promise the whisker and pole line will be active in the darkness of next Monday night as will further promise to respect them to retain a hold on society and democracy.

It was startling to find in the mail the other morning a copy of the "Fort Saskatchewan News," phone shrieked, however, it was merely a column to advertise the wares of Edmonton business people and that ordinary postage was paid on each copy as an ordinary circular letter. We surmise every town and village within a reasonable radius of the mention is supplied with a "newspaper" of its own, usually by reproducing the line at the head of page one. The name of the editor is not given, nor is the name of the printer mentioned, or his address. It is quite an advertising stunt and we appreciate the compliment the originators pay to us (if such exists). The first illustrator seems they realize the fact newspaper advertising is the best medium to reach the people.

Countries have obtained in the last few years and now that the whole country is on wheels very little is thought of travelling five, ten or even forty miles to do an afternoon's shopping. The same city stores realize the fact and are casting avenues to reach the out-of-town shopper other than the usual spaces in daily newspapers, printed posters, etc. The Record received copy and instructions to publish a four page supplement this week from a business firm in Edmonton. No question as to cost, insert order, and send in the ads.

The cost of the advt. would have been $15.00, and you know almost as well as we do we cannot afford to highly refuse to name $15.00. We may be optimists, some may have us foolish, but we doubt we could reap benefit by the business (and there will be lots aware of it effort) to the injury of our fellow-tradesmen. Circumstances may change our opinion, but this is our attitude at the present time and we hope the bulk of the men of the town will remember that when they are tempted to send their job printing out of town.

In conclusion, permit me on behalf of your friends in the town of Fort Saskatchewan, to present you, Mrs. Gordon, with this gold brooch, and you, Mr. Gordon, with this gold watch chain as a token of the esteem in which you are held by your many friends in Fort Saskatchewan.

May you both be long spared to wear these trifles which is the prayer of us all, and may you both long enjoy every satisfaction and delight during your declining years. Splendidly said indeed.

Within your beautiful walls may your children's children with joy and gratitude address this auspicious occasion, and may the genuine tenet of our blessed Saviour's institution and marriage be kept pure and unstained from generation to generation in love and concord and gospel of us all.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK
Was Sure Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it now. I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk and I was all run down and could hardly get around to do my housework. I had been under the doctor's care for four days at a time. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get around again. I took ten bottles in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have six grown-up girls to work for, so have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. WILLIE JAMESON, 303 Head Cannon Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

Do you feel broken down, fortyone and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a standard to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition. (Signed) Mrs. Ina Cosens, 303 Hazelwood Ave., Hamilton, Ont.

And now, girls, for a lovely surprise! There is a beautiful lady in the city who is going to have a tea in her own home for the children of the living away up here on the hill, and wants to make so happy. On next Tuesday afternoon she will open her lovely home, and kind ladies will come and bring gifts and money, all for us. Gwendoly will be very happy over it, and very grateful!"

"Long eats! We'll go." It was Rose Lamb who spoke for the company, gathering up the feeling of the meeting in this one crisp exclamation.

"Oh, Rose!" Mrs. Wymuth's mouth almost trembled—"Rose, how could we be invited—all of us, I mean. You should not speak so!"

"Ain't she got room?" Rose rejoined; "there's only twenty-nine of us."

"Up upstairs at once, Rose, Mrs. Wymuth commanded.

Rose started towards the hall, but stopped at the door to explain her position. "It's a swell way to hold a tea for us and not ask us."

Miss Lamb's periodic crustiness is to the world of action made her a sort of social directory for the girls. At once every girl felt she had been slighted.

"Rose! At once!"

Rose hammered leisurely up the stairs. Relieved of her disconcerting presence, Mrs. Wymuth resumed: "And, as I was in there saying, what teas are held in aid of a Home, there will be a lovely basket sent to us the next day and the poorest it contains will be given to the girls who have the most honest marks."

The tea was held. The morning paper announced: "Wednesday claimed Mrs. St. John for one of its most charming hostesses at a delightfully spiritual tea in aid of the Girls' Friendly Home." The paper was quite correct—she was a charming hostess, and the spiritualness was not perfect The oaken door had a card on the outside which said "Please walk in." On a temporary table in the passed a sweet grass basket, tied with crimson ribbon, to receive the donations. Every lady in gaily colored dresses, high-heeled, still fluid, perfumed. Mrs. St. John, who stood inside the drawing-room, received her guests, in an Amethyst Beauty satin velvet dress. The room on the table, in a bowl sitting on a mirror and so doubling their number. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Gordon; Robert Gordon; Leslie Gordon; Chad Rye; Garnet Houston.

Then the tea! No one cut the tea they did not need to be cut, they were moulded. Pink roses they were set in the palest of green leaves. The ground were rapturous. Almond cake, white and of fairy lightness, and then white creams in disks, flavored with peppermint; rose disks, flavored with wintergreen, more almonds, more disks. "Really, I shouldn't—I am dieting—but these are so delicious! I don't believe it makes one bit of difference."

Then good-byes to the charming hostess, who was still at the entrance to the drawing-room, and away.

You see, the paper was right—it was "a perfectly appointed tea." There would not have been one jangling note in its perfect harmony if Miss de Fur had been present. She had read of it in the paper and decided to come, and it so happened that she came at five o'clock, when the rooms were crowded. Miss de Fur was a large woman, deep chested, deep voiced, dominant. When she spoke, her voice boomed.

"I am so glad you are interested in the Home," she said to her hostess, "for I am sure you have never been to it, or you would not have described it as a wicked place."

"Innocent girls and guilty ones ..."

Miss de Forrest's voice carried over the rising and falling chatter—hushing it at last as the women became conscious that she was speaking to them.

"Now, take the case of that young Finnish girl, Helmi.—Some of you know her. She is an innocent girl, friendless, worthless, and she does not know the case? She is hiding someone and will not tell who sent her for the home. She is a pretty girl, too, and this girl, selfish age. But she's bounded to death by the matron to tell who sent her. Not a question of how long she can hold out. Now, think of that lovely girl sleeping in the same room and eating at the same table with some of the worst girls in town. And when she goes out it will always follow her that she had been in the Girls' Friendly. I went to the matron and said some of these things, and as I got the bete envelope from her hand I said, 'Matron, you are doing the awful business men we hear so much about. Some of you women ought to sit on the Board and try to get some sense into its wooden head. I know now the origin of" the word "Board." That's done to body vagrant girls, though I admit it's a lot more fun to go to teas and eat silver on their behalf."

Eva St. John spent a troubled night. She hated Miss de Forrest, great balking thing, with a voice like a big horn,—what right had she, when everything was going so beautifully, to burst in like that and spoil everything? What good did it do a person, anyway, to try and do right? "Nevermore I am," she thought, "more upset than ever, and if that big raw boned valentine had only stayed away it would have been all right." Out of her troubled thoughts came one resolve—she must see Helmi.

"We're gaining a foothold, Edgar," Mrs. Wymuth told her husband that night. "People are beginning to realize that the Home is being planted on a new footing. Mrs. St. John is greatly interested in the work here, and says

GIRLS' A.A.A. HALLOWE'EN DANCE WAS GAY AFFAIR

As the recruits of the Edmonton Grads keep up the traditions of the original members, so do the rising generation of the local Girls' A.A.A. keep up the reputation of the club as entertainers. The Hallowe'en dance last Friday was as successful and as happy an event as ever it was in former days and the girls are to be congratulated. The decorations were pretty and in keeping with the occasion. Several novelties were introduced during the evening and Marvin's orchestra supplied peppy music. Lunch in the buffet room provided a brief and pleasant respite.

EDMONTON AGAIN TO HAVE NORMAL SCHOOL

A new Normal school, the third provincial teacher-training institution in the province, is to be established in Edmonton in time for the opening of the 1928-9 term, announces Hon. Perren Baker, Minister of Education. Vacant rooms in some of the city schools will be utilized for the first year, pending the erection of a permanent building for this purpose.

ELK FLOURISHING IN BRAZEAU VALLEY

The last herds of wild elk in the province which have found sanctuary in the valley of the Big Brazeau river, after being practically exterminated in other parts of Alberta, are now rapidly increasing and spreading northward, according to reports from that district. Several large bands have been seen, and the animals appear to be doing well in their new home which is considerably farther north than their usual habitat.

The regular monthly meeting of St. George's W.A. will be held at the home of Miss Warrier on Thursday, November 3, at 3 p.m.

VETERANS TO OBSERVE TWO MINUTE SILENCE IN MEMORIAL PLOT

Friday, November 11th, being the anniversary of Armistice Day, the local branch of the Canadian Legion has arranged for the sale of poppies (the flower of remembrance) on that day and on previous days. The sale of these poppies will be conducted by the local Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. Everyone should wear a poppy. The cost is ten cents. At 11 a.m. on that day the town bell will be rung to signify the fact that the ten minutes silence is being observed and the bell will be rung again at the conclusion of that period. The members of the Legion will proceed from the Memorial hall to the Memorial plot at 11 a.m. and will place on the monument a poppy wreath in memory of those comrades who gave their lives in the Great War. All members of the Legion are urged to attend the ceremony and the next of kin and the general public are also heartily invited to be present and join in this act of remembrance.

PREMIER AND MINISTERS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Alberta will be represented at the interprovincial conference which opens in Ottawa on Thursday by Premier Brownlee, Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture and Health; Hon. E. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Municipal Affairs; J. C. Thompson, Provincial Auditor, and R. G. English, of the Department of Municipal Affairs.

Among the questions which will come up for consideration at the Ottawa meeting are the revision of federal subsidies to the provinces, a reconsideration of the fields of taxation as between the provinces and the province, the problem of railway development in the Peace River district, the removal of federal aid in highway construction, the division of police administration in the province and a survey of transportation, marketing and storage problems. It is expected that with the wide variety of opinion which will be presented by those in attendance from all points of the dominion, a solution for many of these important problems may be reached.

Air Station Closes for Winter

The High River air station will be abandoned for the winter and the planes which have been in operation there will be transferred to other points in the Dominion. Capt. R. Collis, officer commanding the station, is being moved to Ottawa for the winter months and the other officers will be stationed at Winnipeg. New planes are expected for the High River station next spring, and these will be employed as formerly on forest patrol service.

EXPECT ACTIVE LUMBERING SEASON IN NORTH

Sawmills along the E.D. and B.C. railway in northern Alberta are expected to turn out approximately 80,000,000 feet of lumber during the coming winter, it is estimated by Edmonton dealers. In addition, other mills in the section of the province north of Red Deer will cut over 100,000,000 feet. Operations it is stated, will commence early in November and this work will provide employment for some 3,000 men and from 750 to 1,000 teams.

SALT WELL IS BEING DRILLED AT McMURRAY

The test salt well being drilled at McMurray under the direction of the provincial department of railways has reached a depth of over 900 feet, according to the report of the engineers in charge of the project. It is estimated that a depth of about 600 feet is necessary before salt will be struck in any quantity and it is the intention to proceed with drilling until the salt vein is reached.

WHEAT POOL ANNUAL MEETING, NOVEMBER 30

The annual meeting of Alberta Wheat Pool delegates from all sections of the province will be held in Calgary on Wednesday, November 30. An invitation has been sent to pool growers in British Columbia to be represented at this gathering in view of the increasing members of farmers in the coast province who have allied themselves with the pool. Any resolutions from local associations dealing with the bylaws of the pool which a delegate wishes to bring before the meeting must reach the pool headquarters in Calgary not later than November 5.

The Misuse Of Gasoline

The number of tragedies reported in Western newspapers this fall as resulting from the careless use of gasoline and coal oil is simply appalling. Loss of life, terrible injuries to others, and destruction of valuable property in the toll which has been taken, and hardly a week passes that the total does not mount still higher.

The Fire Commissioner for Saskatchewan in a recent public address stated that, on the average, twenty-five lives are lost annually in that province alone. It is probable that the loss is just as great in the other western provinces.

In one small district in Saskatchewan three such disasters occurred within a few days of each other, resulting in four persons receiving severe burns, the complete destruction of one home, and damage to another. In another district two barns were burned, and in a third district a young lad was so severely burned that he died. All these accidents occurred at practically the same time.

Although gasoline may be sold in red tins or sometimes plainly marked as to their contents, the fact is that the gasoline is all too frequently emptied into other receptacles which are not marked, nor properly sealed. It is frequently mistaken for coal oil, and even for water.

Furthermore, many people forget, and an even larger number of children do not know, that the greatest danger from these liquids arises from their vapors. It is the vapor from gasoline mixing with the air which becomes a highly explosive article, and the lighting of a match, or an electric spark, causes a fearful explosion. Even a can which has contained gasoline, but is emptied, may still retain a quantity of this vapor, and bringing such a vessel near a lighted lamp, a stove, or a lighted match may mean an explosion.

Gasoline and coal oil should not be used to light fires. To do so is to invite disaster Gasoline is now largely used in cleaning clothes, but everybody so using it should exercise the greatest care that there is no flame or fire of any kind near at hand. In fact, gasoline for cleaning purposes should only be used outdoors and away from all fire. If the weather is such that outdoors work is impossible, then do the work in a room in which there is no fire and which is lighted by natural daylight or an incandescent electric light. Never have a lighted lamp near. Clothes cleansed in any way with gasoline should be hung outdoors in the open air to dry and be left there until the last vestige of the gasoline fumes has disappeared.

When one pours or rubs out of it is the vapor from gasoline mixed with air and exploded by a tiny electric spark or by a lighted match, and it is then that these cans alone our screens and highways at high rates of speed they will gain some idea of the terrible power of this vapor and realize how great care should be taken in its use.

Possibilities Of the Bank

Says Hudson Bay Railway Will Open Up a Great Area

"In five to ten years the Hudson's Bay Railway will be amply justified in new towns established, power plants erected, the country utilized and the possibilities of Northern Canada developed," said James A. Green, retired vice-president of Chicheanah, who was a visitor to Winnipeg recently.

It was the beginning of a new era, said the American visitor, which would revolutionize the whole life of the Dominion. The railway would open up a great area, of tremendously unexplored and enormous riches with almost unlimited supply of fish of the finest quality.

It was a good a grass country as Texas, Mr. Green said, and there were thousands of square miles fit for cattle. He looked to the future possibility of domesticating the caribou, as had already been done in Alaska, and so provide a meat supply "world without end."

Jack Minor Removes Many Tags From Birds Shot Up North

Regularly each year Jack Minor plans a hunting trip to the north woods which appears in the Minor Bird Sanctuary on their migrations north and south. Jack has discovered that now regular three- birds are in their habit of returning year after year to the same place to nest. Jack Minor recently received 23 tags from George Custer, of Fort George, Que., on James Bay. These tags were authorized by Jack, and were in numbers and years as follows: 8, 1922; 3, 1923; 1, 1924; 1, 1925; 13, 1926; and 8, 1927 (spring).

TRIALS OF INDIGESTION

Horrors About This Trouble Into Which People Fall

Indigestion is a common name for the digestive system as an ill. It like a machine, neglecting it until it works sluggishly, then irritating it into work again by the use of purgatives. The stomach needs help at all times, but a study of the process of digestion will show that purgatives, as commonly taken, are seldom necessary and often harmful.

To safeguard your digestion the diet must be controlled. Over-eating is always harmful, but one must assimilate enough food to supply the needs of the blood. Remember, the blood has to carry nourishment to all parts of the body and find fuel for its energy. Hence when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work, indigestion arises. Therefore the sure remedy for indigestion is to build up the blood. If you suffer from any form of indigestion choose your diet carefully and take moderate exercise. Small doses all start building up your blood by taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then under the influence of the new blood supply, your digestive system will respond naturally, your appetite improve and the food will do you good. So begin to improve your digestion by starting to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now.

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Why Not Steel Houses

Other Same Advantage Of Economy As Steel Cars

If a Pullman car or an ocean liner can be constructed of steel, why not a house?

Steel cars and ships are waterproof, fireproof and comparatively free from depreciation. Coming more at the outset, they represent a saving in the end. Steel houses offer the same advantage of economy and safety.

The American Institute of Steel Construction which represents ninety per cent of the steel manufacturers in this country, has been hoping that some one would invent a steel house that was commercially practical.

Timing Speed Of Animals

Sportsmen along the Pacific coast have been using their stop watches to find out wild beasts. A grizzly was pursued through a narrow canyon by an automobile, run 45 miles an hour. The average barnacle can swim as fast as 70 miles an hour. The seal, usually considered very speedy, in the water, requires four minutes to swim a mile.

Night Solve Problem

Empire Manager Agency Proposed to Old Country

The London Daily Chronicle, editorially, under the caption, "Matrimonial Agencies," says "as everyone knows, there are more women than men in this country, and in some of the Dominions there are many more than two men. Here is a surplus of women, many of whom, it is whispered, want husbands, whilst men in the Dominions are eating their hearts out for lack of wives.

Sir George MacMunn, formerly Quartermaster-General in India, suggests a remedy. Why not an Empire matrimonial agency, conducted strictly by an official line, by the Council of Empire Settlement, with photographs and testimonials, previous experience and requirements. It seems an almost feasible plan."

Rossmore Career As Sailor

Prince George Takes Post On British Flagship Nelson

Like one does of the heroes Drury strutted their whiskers in glee when Prince George resumed his active career as a sailor, for there has been reports that he might forsake the navy for the army.

The Prince, who ranks as a lieutenant, is now attached as French interpreter to the staff of Sir Hubert Brand, commander in chief of the Atlantic—a job which will pay him one shilling and six pence, or about 36 cents aday, in addition to his regular pay as an officer.

Prince George will be stationed aboard H.M.S. Nelson, Britain's newest flagship which became the fleet flagship on the anniversary of Nelson's historic victory over the Franco-Spanish fleet off Cape Trafalgar 122 years ago.

Just before starting for Portsmouth, the Prince witnessed a spectacular film fire which recalled his own experience in China on New Year's Eve, 1926, when he was attached to H.M.S. Hawkins, and with other members of the crew fought a Hong Kong fire, adding guests to escape.

Has Had Long Rest

Built by Admiral Watt, in 1751, the "Sun and Planet" engine is in working order again after forty-two years' rest. The engine is now in the science museum at South Kensington, and was put in motion recently for the first time since 1855, when it was dismantled and moved to the museum.

An Oil For All Men. The sailor, the soldier, the fisherman, the lumberman, the out-door laborer and all who are exposed to injury and the elements will find in Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil a true and faithful friend. To counteract chills, colds, dress wounds, subdue bruises and overcome rheumatism, it is excellent. Therefore, it should have a place in all home medicines and be amongst those taken on a journey.

The first school in the Netherlands for civil aviation is being financed through the efforts of the Rotterdam Aero Club which has been assured that no competing school will be permitted.

An Oil That is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was put up on the market without any flourish over fifty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a wider constituency for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout both continents. There is nothing equal to it.

The groom at a wedding is like the engine of an automobile; never sees but very necessary to make the thing go.

Call To Young Manhood To Go North, Where Canada's Greatest Wealth Is To Be Found

Premier Gardiner of Saskatchewan, speaking from the summit of Grouse Mountain a few weeks ago, gave Canadians a message that was well worth pondering over. He gave them reason to think of the future of the Dominion, and he gave them inspiration from contemplation of that future.

The "little giant of Saskatchewan," as he has been described, himself a poor immigrant to the province from old Ontario, by his dogged perseverance and determination worked himself up from the labor of a farm hand to the office of prime minister. Out of his knowledge of Canada and from his wealth of personal experience he sent a rail flashing out to the young manhood of the nation, to "cut away from the ribbon that begs the border, and go north — where Canada's greatest wealth of natural resources is to be found."

Just as Horace Greeley advised the young men of the eastern United States to "go west"—and they went and built up the republic—so Premier Gardiner calls for young Canada to adventure forth and build up the Dominion in the Northland where vacant spaces yearn for the settler, and wisdom untold, he waiting for the fortunate prospector; where water powers are waiting everywhere to be tapped and harnessed for the development of the land and the prosperity of the Dominion.

And Premier Gardiner is painting his picture of the future need on his palette the colors of the past. He told how the pioneers of other days had ventured forth from the eastern settlements to construct new homes, and rear wholesome communities that today form Canada's Golden West.

His call was to men of courage, of vision, and of enterprise, and to such, he said, there was room across.

The nineteenth century, he said, had belonged to the United States; the twentieth to Canada. He told how in 1900 the population of Canada had equalled that of the United States just one century before. In 1910 the Dominion had a population almost identical with that of the republic in 1810, and in 1920 even after four years of warfare—Canada had within a few thousands of the number of people that the United States had in 1830. So, he continued, a comparison of conditions with the republic would show that the Dominion was advancing just exactly one century behind the United States, and he felt confident that by 1950 Canada would have twenty-three million people.

If Premier Gardiner is a true prophet, the Dominion is indeed the land of destiny and its progress in the next twenty-five years will be phenomenal. —Vancouver Province.

Crab Apples

May Be Grown Successfully In Western Provinces

Most varieties of crab apples are very hardy and may be successfully grown even where the winters are quite severe. This fruit is generally very popular for preserving and jelly-making purposes and finds a ready market in the cities. There are many varieties of crabs, and some outstanding ones are described in an Experimental Farm bulletin on the "Cultivation of the Apple in Canada." A very profitable variety to grow in the Prairie provinces is the Virginia crab. It is very hardy and productive and an excellent keeper and jelly maker. Another fine crab apple is the Martha, which is large, highly coloured and very hardy. One of the best known of these apples is the Transcendent, a handsome fruit of rich yellow colour and very productive.

Gasoline Flavor In Dairy Butter

Exhaust From Gas Engine Should Be Kept Away From Separator

One of the main defects of butter made on the farm as compared with creamery butter is bad flavor. The flavor of butter exposed for sale is of the highest importance and no matter how good the butter may be in other respects, if the flavor is wrong, it is bound to be classified as an inferior article. On many farms the cream separator is operated by a gasoline engine with the frequent result that the butter acquires a gasoline (carbon monoxide) flavor, which detracts greatly from its quality. Some engine systems do assist in the prevention of this absorption of gasoline flavor as given in a bulletin on "Butter Making on the Farm," distributed by the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. When steam is available the heating can be done by putting the cream in a tub or box of water and turning the steam into the water. These chief gas cans are well soldered plain but tinned in containers about 8 inches in diameter and 20 inches deep. When the desired temperature is reached the water may be drawn off and cold water or water and ice put in the box or can to cool the cream. Where steam is available an ordinary wash boiler half filled with water may be set on the stove and the cream, can or jar of cream must be stirred continually while being heated, and constant will be necessary to avoid scorching. When the cream is heated to 155 to 160 degrees Heating to these high temperatures will give the butter a cooked flavor, but it will soon pass away leaving a mild sweet flavor. Pasteurizing should not be done until all the cream for a churning is on hand, and the cream should remain at a churning temperature at least one hour before churning. It usually requires a slightly lower churning temperature than unpasteurized cream

Pasteurizing Cream On the Farm

Simple Methods Which May Be Used For Home Pasteurizing

Pasteurizing cream is not an costly done on the farm as in creameries where special equipment is provided, but in cases where it is difficult to get the cream to churn, or where there are bad flavors on the cream, when butter is to be stored, or when a mild flavored butter is desired, it will pay to pasteurize. Simple methods of home pasteurizing are described in a bulletin on "Buttermaking on the Farm," distributed by the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. When steam is available the heating can be done by putting the cream in a shot gun cans, placing the cans in a tub or box of water and turning the steam into the water. These chief gun cans are well soldered plain but tinned in containers about 8 inches in diameter and 20 inches deep. When the desired temperature is reached the water may be drawn off and cold water or water and ice put in the box or can to cool the cream. Some New Light Is Thrown On Difficulties Encountered In Securing Suitable Emigrants

Fight In London Zoo

Canadian Bison Kills American Rival In Mad Battle

A furious fight between a Canadian and an American bison took place in the Zoo, the American animal being gored to death.

"Punch," who occupied an enclosure with three cow bison, was the victor and "Billy Bill," who shared a paddock with "Lady," was the victim.

As the conflict took place at night, when no one was present, the cause between the battling bison can only be conjectured, but with such ponderous and powerful animals, it must have been awe-inspiring. Both weighed a ton and, though Punch was the smaller of the two, he was younger and steadier than Bill and his massive, shaggy head was larger, as is characteristic of the Canadian race.

In the morning the heavily-horned mate between the paddocks was found to have been battered down, whilst in a far off corner lay the body of "Billy Bill" with a large hole in the side and almost all his ribs broken. "Punch," surrounded by the four admiring cows, stood calmly on the brow of the hill, like the immense statue of the Monarch of the Prairie. He had escaped without a scratch.

What is probably an unique experience for seamen was recounted recently by Captain A. M. Sargeant, R.D., R.N.R. former commander of the Canadian Pacific steamer Brecon, who visited Canada a short time ago for the first time since his retirement a year ago.

Last year on the final journey of the Brecon with Captain Sargeant in command, a huge white Arctic Owl dropped on board ship from a mid-Atlantic sky, and at Gravesend when Captain Sargeant was making the first voyage of his sailing days, a similar bird was captured on his ship. He commented on this strange fact that it should be on the first and last voyage that he captured a prize which is the fortune of few to possess or even see. Needless to say Captain Sargeant regards the incidents as omens of good luck.

Captain Sargeant has seen service with the Canadian Pacific for many years being in constant service since 1903. He has been in command of the Marloch, Athenic, Montrose, Irishman, Beaworth and Brecon.

Gasoline Flavor In Dairy Butter

Exhaust From Gas Engine Should Be Kept Away From Separator

One of the main defects of butter made on the farm as compared with creamery butter is bad flavor. The flavor of butter exposed for sale is of the highest importance and no matter how good the butter may be in other respects, if the flavor is wrong, it is bound to be classified as an inferior article. On many farms the cream separator is operated by a gasoline engine with the frequent result that the butter acquires a gasoline (carbon monoxide) flavor, which detracts greatly from its quality. Some engine systems do assist in the prevention of this absorption of gasoline flavor as given in a bulletin on "Butter Making on the Farm," distributed by the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa There should be a gasoline vapor pipe between the separator and the engine The possibility for the entrance of fumes from the engine exhaust into the separator room may be reduced by having a tight connection between the engine and exhaust pipe and by directing the pipe through the roof instead of through the wall of the building When it is possible the equipment should be so arranged that the separator is between the engine and the direction of the prevalent wind. The manifold in the engine may be so arranged that the engine should be started by handling the engine to avoid carrying gasoline odorous on his hands and clothing. Gasoline should never be stored in a can can, milk pail or any dairy utensil.

Pasteurizing Cream On the Farm

Simple Methods Which May Be Used For Home Pasteurizing

Pasteurizing cream is not an costly done on the farm as in creameries where special equipment is provided, but in cases where it is difficult to get the cream to churn, or where there are bad flavors on the cream, when butter is to be stored, or when a mild flavored butter is desired, it will pay to pasteurize Simple methods of home pasteurizing are described in a bulletin on "Buttermaking on the Farm," distributed by the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. When steam is available the heating can be done by putting the cream in a shot gun cans, placing the cans in a tub or box of water and turning the steam into the water. These chief gun cans are well soldered plain but tinned in containers about 8 inches in diameter and 20 inches deep. When the desired temperature is reached the water may be drawn off and cold water or water and ice put in the box or can to cool the cream. Where no steam is available an ordinary wash boiler half filled with water may be set on the stove and the cream, can or jar of cream must be stirred continually while being heated, and constant will be necessary to avoid scorching. When the cream is heated to 155 to 160 degrees Heating to these high temperatures will give the butter a cooked flavor, but it will soon pass away leaving a mild sweet flavor Pasteurizing should not be done until all the cream for a churning is on hand, and the cream should remain at a churning temperature at least one hour before churning. It usually requires a slightly lower churning temperature than unpasteurized cream

Some New Light Is Thrown On Difficulties Encountered In Securing Suitable Emigrants

"In the season just concluding we have settled in Northern Saskatchewan nearly 600 families, representing an acreage of 81,000 and an investment of approximately $1,500,000. In addition to this we have brought out from Europe almost 500 other families, which, although at present unable to take up land, are employed on farms with the intention of settling permanently in a year or so, when their means will allow."

The statement was made by J. S. McLean, new western manager of the department of colonization and agriculture, C.P.R., in a recent interview.

"Owing to the publicity given to Canada in Germany, the Scandinavian countries and Holland this year, we expect a much greater movement from these countries next year than we had this," Mr. McLean said.

"We expect an increase in British immigration as well. Owing to the restrictions placed on dominion immigration to the United States it is expected that that flow of immigration will be diverted to Canada in the future.

"It is difficult to get any large number of British families with capital and experience to go on farms of their own upon arrival. Our problem is to get them farm employment for a year or two until they are in a position to settle.

"We cannot get sufficient labor from the British Isles and other industrious countries to satisfy the demands," Mr McLewan continued.

"We are making every effort to increase British immigration, and bring in the maximum of British, but the man preferred are brought in to fill out the necessary demand. We are unable to forecast just at present how many Central Europeans, or the non-preferred settlers will have to be brought in next year

"Canada is out of step with the world in economic conditions generally," said Mr. McIntyre. "When the United States was selling its middle west, just as we are selling the prairies here now, they had the farming people of Britain, the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Germany and so on to draw from. In other words, they settled with the preferred stock. But today, these European countries have changed, they have become concentrated industrial countries, they are industrialized We no longer have the numbers of farmers to draw upon to settle our country, so we just get so many Conditions are not what they were in this respect 30 or 40 years ago, or even 10 years ago."

Management Of Chicago International Grain and Hay Show Take Preventive Measures

Following suggestions sent to them from various parts of the continent, the management of the Chicago International Grain and Hay Show have put into force a plan whereby any tampering with grain exhibits at the 1927 show will be practically impossible.

In a statement from the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture it is noted that the ideas in this regard sent into the show management by W. F. Tullis, Rask., Field Crops Commissioner, have been followed out practically in their entirety.

Each state or province will send a duly credited representative according to the plan which has been put into operation, who will be responsible for entries from his section of the continent. The corn ranks will be more tightly filled this year, while extra will be provided for the grain racks.

The exhibits will be taken from their separate containers by the representative in charge of them when judging is being conducted

British Airmen Retiring

Germans Put Price On His Head During War

Air Commodore Charles Rumney Samson, known familiarly in England as the "Captain Kettle of the air force," has retired. With his retirement there ends the most adventurous name career in the royal air force. He has purchased a home in Salisbury, England, and will pass the remainder of his life in quiet contrast to his first 44 years. During the war, Commodore Samson was such a terror to the Germans that they put a price of $5,000 on his head, dead or alive.

Discover Ancient Tree

Cedar Stump in British Columbia Is Many Centuries Old

Through the co-operation of Mr. C. P. Eliel, of the Seal Cove Lumber Company, Limited, Prince Rupert, B.C., and the Dominion Superintendent of the National Museum of Canada the huge red cedar stump which stood on top of the kitchen midden on Littlebo Point, near Seal Cove, in the north area east of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, was in October of this year cut across so that the rings of annual growth can be counted. A preliminary count shows 325 rings without including the bark and the heart-rot crowded out of outer rings. A more complete count is yet to be made and an effort will be attempted to find a more complete section of the stump where the great number of rings can be counted may perhaps be found, and counted. The Indian deposit is now known to certainly be over 325 years old, and to have reached back to the middle of the 1500 it must be known to be older since the first and last rings of growth were too close to count on the section examined. All from the heart, the heap must have taken time to form before the tree began to grow. How long ago it began to grow is unknown, probably nearly twenty years, and this must be added to arrive at the age of the tree.

The co-operation of the Lumber Company gives the Indian Archaeological Survey their opportunity for real exploration by excavation that he had since 1914. It is thirteen year since he has had funds sufficient for profitable excavation.

American Mining Engineer Is Impressed With Possibilities Of the North

Northern Manitoba and the district which extends from it from unmarred promises to be one of the greatest gold fields in the world's history, J. F. Hermann, mining engineer, St. Louis, Missouri, stated on a visit to Winnipeg recently. Mr. Hermann spent a month investigating the Herb Lake area.

Herb Lake has a great future, the engineer thought, adding that the area across Canada's northern stretches would probably take the place of the land when that country's wheat belt was worked out. He had never seen gold so widely spread over a large area.

Too much money, he declared, had been spent on promotion and not enough in the actual developing of ground. He strongly advised the pick and shovel method of developing a mine.

"If the people who like to speculate in mining would spend some money in developing instead of buying properties, often sold by unscrupulous promoters, they would come out better in the long run," he said.

German economists say the prosperity peak of the country has been passed.

AMOS PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

Golden Text: "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream." Amos 5:24

Lesson: Amos, Chapters 5 and 7

Devotional Reading: Proverbs 21, 1-7

Explanations and Comments

A Lament Over Israel, verses 1-2. "Hear ye this word which I take up for a lamentation over you, O house of Israel." A "lamentation" is a technical term applied to poetry of a mournful tone, a dirge such as was chanted over the dead, as in David's lamentation over Saul and Jonathan (2 Samuel 1:17) or in the case of my calamity, such as Ezekiel uttered in Ezekiel 19. This lamentation is likely the proper form of elegiac poetry in its brevity, being composed of couplets of verses in each of which a long line is followed by a short one.

Amos has been called "the first Hebrew prophet of Israel." The child Israel is fallen; he will not arise again. None can; she is cast down upon her land; there is none to raise her up. The point of the figure, the parallel of fact, is probably in that it represents Israel as free and virgin when first called to be God's people and then as "dead." John Merrin Powis Smith.

Amos sees the prophet of how fall that he speaks in it it were already accomplished, and her condition is hopeless. "How is it possible," said the people, "that the virgin daughter of Israel can fall? She is in a good body is rich; or that the kingdom can be overthrown, when the nation is prosperous? Is it not a nothing, from then to develop trade? Are not expenses concerned for the purpose of supplying foreign countries, and for developing the home market? And how that trade with our great foreign nations and in our home markets is in a flourishing condition, and is daily increasing, is that Israel is fallen, she can rise no more? His countrymen judged by appearances, those judged by principles. Amos saw and understood causes, the people recognized only results. Amos was impulsive and highly prejudiced and he imagined that what he hated or disliked. It fell with a crash that should be done sooner or later God's will is to be done, and our people must suffer. Although He spoke many decades before the destruction of Assyria, the consequences, which He saw, came to pass. The virgin of Israel did fall, she has risen no more." Rabbi Levy.

His prophecy was fulfilled. Zechariah, the son and successor of Jeroboam II., was murdered after a reign of only six months; his successor, Shallum, reigned one month; Menahem, Pekahiah, Pekah and Hoshea all held reigns, and then, in 722 B.C., Samaria was conquered by Assyria, and the people carried off into exile.

Prophets range punishment so often Human justice, being human, is far from being perfect. And yet there are more persons who do not escape man's punishment than who do, it may be delayed, but it comes to them finally in one form or another. But suppose they do escape many punishment; what of having their own conscience as Judah was forced to do? And if they escape that, what of the inability sins and weaknesses in their children? There is no escape. I know there often seems to be, but sometime, in some form we all have to face our sins."

WOMEN ASK FOR FRANCHISE FOR QUEBEC PROVINCE

Ottawa.—The Dominion Government has not the right to go beyond its jurisdiction and interfere with that jurisdiction which under our constitution has been given to Quebec or any other province.

So said Premier W. L. Mackenzie King in reply to a deputation from the Canadian Congress for Women's Votes in Quebec, who urged that the Dominion Government take some action toward granting the women of that province a vote in provincial elections.

"I am afraid," continued the Prime Minister, "that the Government of the province of Quebec might not appreciate any attempt by us to tell it what it should do.

"I do not mean that the Dominion Government, he said, as has sometimes been the report of the deputations, but it might be borne in mind that under the constitution of our country certain rights were given to the federal parliament, while other rights were under the jurisdiction of the respective provincial governments. In the federal parliament, women could vote; but the Dominion Government could not proceed to interfere with the right of any of the provinces in the matter in question, as to whether women should vote in provincial elections.

"I think you are in the wrong court," interjected Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice. The provinces have been judged by principles, the particular ambit of their jurisdiction as the Federal Government was within the authority conferred upon it under the British North America Act

Smallpox In Ottawa

Mild Epidemic Results In Order For Compulsory Vaccination In Schools

Ottawa.—Compulsory vaccination for all school children in Ottawa is the campaign to suppress the mild epidemic of smallpox in the city was ordered by the city board of health.

Four new vaccination barcuns will be opened immediately and no child will be permitted to attend school or other educational institution unless provided with a certificate of vaccination.

This is the first time in the history of Ottawa that such an order has been issued as necessary.

Since October 1 there have been 101 cases of smallpox reported in the city and suburbs. Dr. T. E. Lafferty health officer, informed the board today. Hop-well land Smallpox Hospital is filled to capacity with 24 cases, the largest number in the past ten years.

Tourist Trade In Canada

Amount Spent Last Year Is Estimated At $190,463,000

Ottawa.—The tourist trade in Canada over the past six years is the subject of a Bureau of Statistics survey which estimates the amount spent by visitors from other countries in the Dominion last year as $190,463,000.

Since 1920, when the estimated amount spent was $43,784,000, there has been a progressive increase each season, statistics arriving by ocean ports spent about $5,500,000 while those arriving by automobile spent approximately $105,000,000 last year, More than 2,000,000 motor cars came through Canadian ports from the United States last year while 2,000,000 railroad tickets were purchased in the United States for Canadian ports.

Tourist hotel bills last season amounted to $25,500,000, of which the Western provinces got $5,000,000.

Asking Parliament To Approve Trade Treaty

Canadian-Czecho-Slovakian Agreement Is Being Drawn Up

Ottawa.—Parliament will likely be asked at the coming session to ratify a trade agreement between Canada and Czecho-Slovakia Republic. No such agreement has been signed as yet, but it was learned at Ottawa that negotiations have been carried on between the two countries on the basis of the mutual exchange of most-favored-nation treatment.

At present a provisional treaty only, for the regulation of trade relations, is in force. The proposed agreement, it is said, would bring better Canadian trade, will expire in the spring.

Czecho-Slovakia is one of the countries in which the Canadian Government is seeking to establish direct trade relations, and has also granted preferential treatment to a number of articles from European countries in the hope that it may be induced to do likewise.

Proposed Flight Of Dirigible Abandoned

Visit Of Los Angeles To Canada Has Been Cancelled

Washington.—Lack of an adequate and specific landing area at this time, caused the navy department to abandon the proposed flight of the dirigible Los Angeles to Canada.

The dirigible, carrying Rear Admiral Samson, British under secretary for air, and Assistant Secretary Mac-Donald, of the Navy Department, of the department and Metcalfe of the Commerce Department, was in readiness to leave Lakehurst, N.J., on the building 19, 127ft. top which is to have a gas capacity of 7,000,000 cubic feet.

I have just received word that the British and Germans will probably have built new ships on a flight around the world," Mingos continued, both ships should be completed early next summer. The world flight should require between 12 and 14 days with, say, two stops for fuel gas.

No Unemployment in Quebec

Quebec.—There is practically no unemployment in the province of Quebec, according to Lucien Gingras, deputy minister of labor. Never before has the province been through such an era of prosperity, judging by the demand for labor," he stated, commenting on conditions in the district of Montreal conditions are very good and according to the report of the provincial employment bureau, there hundreds of men are finding work each week.

Carolist Movement Grows

Severe Censorship Has Been Established In Rumania

Vienna.—Reports from Belgrade say a severe censorship has been established at Bucharest on all news. Communications arriving by ocean at Belgrade and Bucharest has been cut off and only official telegrams are arriving at Belgrade from the Rumanian capital.

The Carolist movement, however, is known to be sustaining a most serious character and disappointment with the Government is declared to be increasing. Many of the Carol supporters have been arrested.

Predicts Race Around World

British and German Dirigible In Competition Race Now New York Writer

New York.—The New York Evening Post says a race around the world between the German and British dirigibles seems to be a matter of interest to most countries on a dramatic

The paper quotes Howard Mingos, a writer interested in aviation, saying that two airships are under construction in England, each of commercial size for capacity, to be used on mail and passenger route between England, Egypt and India. Mingos said the Zeppelin Company in Germany is building the 127ft. top which is to have a gas capacity of 7,000,000 cubic feet.

I have just received word that the British and Germans will probably have built new ships on a flight around the world," Mingos continued, both ships should be completed early next summer. The world flight should require between 12 and 14 days with, say, two stops for fuel gas.

Schwartzbard Acquitted

End Of Sensational Murder Trial In Paris

Paris.—At the end of the eighth day of one of the most remarkable trials ever conducted in Paris, Samuel Schwartzbard, young Jewish watch maker, who assassinated General Simon Petlura, Ukrainian nationalist leader, on a Paris street corner 15 months ago, was set free by the jury on all counts.

Schwartzbard was acquitted on all criminal counts, but no condemnation of the conduct of French police. No nominal one-franc damages to the family of the victim.

The verdict was returned at 22, criminal courts, and was read amid a trembling voice, but smiling, assassin of the acquittal which was greeted with a burst of approval by the jam ked court room.

Most of the 600 spectators screamed and cheered, laughed and cried.

Inquires About Pension Plan

Yukon Taking Up Question With Minister Of Labor

Ottawa.—Percy Reid, gold commissioner for the Yukon, is in Ottawa to take up with the Minister of Labor, Hon. Peter Heenan, the question of applying the old age pension legislation in the Yukon.

Commencing on the visit of the gold commissioner, Mr. Heenan declared that, in conference with the premiers of the prairie provinces, he had been encouraged to believe that co-operation between them and the Federal Government in the matter of establishing old age pensions in their respective provinces would shortly produce practical results. The minister cited the example of British Columbia in refutation of the suggestions made that the scheme was unworkable.

"Whatever may be said against old age pensions and the fifty-fifty plan as between Federal and provincial contributions," he said, "the fact remains that the old people in British Columbia are now receiving their cheques, and that is highly important."

Prince Of Wales To Exhibit Stock At Royal Winter Fair

Toronto—The Prince of Wales again will be represented in the show stock at the Royal Winter Fair. A. P. W. Westcott, manager of the fair, has just received an entry of six purebred horses from the "E.P." ranch owned by His Royal Highness of Polo, Alta. Two of the horses are Percheron Princeton Carmon and Princeton Donovan. Others include Mayor Gunness, Somerset and Somerset Gaiety, all thoroughbreds.

Two years ago the Prince of Wales won the senior and grand champion ships in Shorthorn bulls with his fam ous white bull King of the Fairies.

Strike Still On

Some Coal Miners Are Working In Harvest Fields

Drumheller, Alta.—The situation in the Drumheller coal fields where a strike has been in progress for some days, remains unchanged from the first day. There has been no movement of any kind. The operators are standing solidly against the miners and have refused to meet the men in joint session.

The strike has had one good feature in that it relieved the shortage of labor in the threshing fields, many of the striking miners going out at $6 per day.

Approximately 1,000 miners in six mines went out on strike demanding recognition of the Canadian union

GALLANT RESCUE OF PASSENGERS ON SINKING SHIP

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil. The Italian Liner Principessa Mafalda, which sailed from Genoa with nearly a thousand passengers aboard, more than two of them Italian emigrants bound for a "land of promise" in South America, lies at the bottom of the ocean off the Brazilian coast.

Rescuing vessels answering the call of the Mafalda's SOS are believed to have rescued all but some 65 out of a total of 986 passengers and a crew of 260.

The steamer sank 30 miles from Porto Seguro, a port of the State of Bahia. Whether she struck a hidden reef or the hulk of a derelict, as one report has it, is not definitely known, but long before the liner's plunge to beneath the waves a serious accident occurred aboard—some say a broken propeller shaft, followed by an explosion of the boilers.

The story of the swift rescue of nearly 1 000 souls facing death by New York is an epic of the sea fraught with elements of drama and heroism. Had not swiftly speeding steamers raced to the rescue of the stricken ship the disaster might have become one of the greatest in marine history. A history written deep in the blood of thousands of lives lost.

As the rescue ships have into sight a closer went up from the Mafalda's decks. Then silence fell on the Atlantic below and the Mafalda began sinking rapidly. This information was received in the approaching rescue ships. The commander of the Fusimoca signalled to the other rescue ships that he would attempt to get close to Mafalda before she sank, hoping thereby to save everyone aboard. His task was extremely difficult because of the darkness, but daring is hailed by the survivors as a great deed, inasmuch as his ship took a large number of passengers from the sinking Principessa's decks.

The other ships crews labored valiantly, saving many from rafts and lifeboats.

The Mafalda was valued at 12,000,000 lire (about $675,000), and was insured. It is reported, for 8,750,000 lire. It carried freight worth about 2,000 000 lire, insured separately

Protect Slavery Methods

Question Raised In Connection With Child Labor In Rhodesia

London.—Child labor and what is slavery within the British Empire, the second within a week, has been raised in connection with legislation recently adopted in Southern Rhodesia which is said to authorize indenture of children to work in mines and the white plan of boys for discharge.

The Westminster Gazette, which leads the campaign, points out that the legislation applies to children of any age, girls as well as boys, thereby raising grave sexual questions. The paper demands interference by the British Government. The Anti-Slavery Society also is appealing to parliament

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

FORT SASKATCHEWAN BRANCH—A. E. Rigg, Manager

ALL through its long, successful history, General Motors of Canada has had its eye to the horizon . . . listening not for what followed, but looking always toward the thing ahead.

And General Motors has seen many of its visions realized. . . .

It has seen a great industry grow up in Canada to supply the Canadian family with a means of transportation to meet its needs and resources, to answer the desire for style, dependability, luxury.

It has seen, in the Canadian Fisher Body plants, the perpetuation of Canadian ideals of craftsmanship.

It has seen, in the General Motors Research laboratories, the development of countless advances and refinements on which much of modern motoring comfort depends.

It has seen, on the General Motors Proving Grounds, the proof of principles which are now accepted factors in automobile design and construction.

It has seen the triumph of co-operative purchasing and manufacturing methods with their resultant economies to be shared with the buyers of General Motors cars.

And the eyes of General Motors are still to the horizon . . . still seeking new ways to improve General Motors cars and to place the cars within reach of ever-widening circles of Canadian buyers.

PAINTED FIRES

BY NELLIE L. McCLUNG

It was in February that Mrs. St. John decided to take immediate action. Helmi would be free in March. It would be intolerable to have the girl under her roof at the time, with the uncomfortable feeling that she might upset everything. Helmi had a terrible temper. Mrs. Wymuth's stories of Helmi's outbreaks had been rhetorically embroidered, indeed, the stories of Helmi in the Wymuth cell thus were positively exciting. And, true to type, Mrs. St. John began to find reasons for her desire to get rid of Helmi that had in them no selfish taint. It was better for the girl to go to a fresh place, a new scene, now to notice the land of beginning again.

By the time she had reached the idea in her mind a week, Mrs. St. John felt it was truly big Sister impulse which prompted her to help Helmi to escape; the only disconcerting feature of it being that she could not tell anyone which changed her of the praise which was her due. But a sense of virtuous and heroic remove permeated the region of her heart. She would do for noble things, and she only hoped Helmi would be grateful. She would do it handsomely, too, and would give the girl an outfit of clothes that would surprise her. That fun suit which never fitted her property—Mrs. Stone knew Wymuth-ers! Her plaid motor coat — heather once were never anyway, and she really should have one to match the new car—and then a plain black travelling dress, across as a nun's, black, straight and plain with stiff collar and cuffs.

She thought of everything, and prepared a perfect flight for Helmi. She took her for a drive and explained it all, overcoming Helmi's objections by telling her that she was to be kept another year. The plea was this: She would bring the "Meet Class" to see a picture at the "Grand." She had done this, as it would excite no suspicion. When they were all seated and the picture was absorbing everyone she would whisper to the girl next to her that she had suddenly remembered that she must meet a friend at the afternoon train. Helmi would come with her. Her story first that would be that she left Helmi sitting in the car while she went to meet her friend and was passing through. When she came back Helmi was gone. She thought, of course, Helmi had grown tired of waiting and had gone back to the theatre, and when she went back in the darkness she did not notice her absence, believing she had found a seat in some other part of the building. She having arranged with the door-keeper for their return when they went out.

The play was over and they were getting into the car when they missed Helmi. Mrs. St John ran into the drug-store and phoned to the Home. Was Helmi there? No, she ain't. Then she told her story, rather breathless and incoherent in her excitement. Mrs. Wymuth at once suspected flight, and notified the police. Helmi could not be out of the city, for she had no money. Mrs. Wymuth expressed the belief that she had returned to her haunts but a diligent search of the Chinese section of the city failed to find her.

It was two hours later that the conductor on Number Four walked through the train with a telegram in his hand:

"Woman girl has escaped from Friendly Home, wearing gray coat green tam, plaid dress. Inand Send her back on Number Seven."

Signed, "F. Brooks,
Chief of Police."

Conductor Bryce walked slowly through the train, furtively appraising his passengers. A woman with two children, a dressmaker, an old lady reading "The Christian Guardian," two young girls whom he knew.

Conductor Bryce shook his head. Then he went through the Pullmans and spoke to the porters, giving them the wire to read. They also were puzzled.

"Only one flapper got on, Sir, at Winnipeg, all the rest were older women—you know, snorters, —with suits and veils and black hats. The flapper is some swell—shiny black valise, heavy like stones—she's no Flan girl running away. She's in the stateroom, Mr. No. A.

Nevertheless the conductor hurried to the stateroom and knocked. The door was opened by a rather languid looking young girl, in a plain black silk dress, with white collar and cuffs. In her hand she held a Bible and Gold Book. She raised her eyebrows in polite and rather haughty interrogation.

"Oh, I beg your pardon, I just wanted to see if the drawing room was occupied," said the conductor, "Will you show me your railway ticket, please. The porter will get the other one."

From a shiny new patent leather purse which lay carelessly on the seat she drew a long ticket, which she handed to him without haste.

"You will go right through to Saskatoon," he said, handing it back to her.

The girl bowed her head and resumed her reading.

The conductor went back to the porter. "Why didn't you tell me, you blockhead!" he said. "That girl is a swell. Can't you tell a thoroughbred when you see one? She had already shown her ticket to the other conductor. I felt foolish."

"Didn't I say she as a swell—didn't I? I said she was no Flan girl clearin' out.—didn't I say that—I'll bet I did, and I'll bet you heard me, too. I'll bet I did say it. Didn't I say she had a big valise and heavy—I'll bet I did."

"Shut up," was the conductor's reply.

The lady in "A" was no longer languid. She was regarding her new watch-fob with great interest and satisfaction. On a border hung a Land scene tan suit with silk embroidery; on another a motor coat. Numerous blouses and other articles lay on the next beside her. In her black purse were four ten-dollar bills, and in her heart was a great joy. A song came to her lips —

"Keep on moving when you're missed the steps,
Keep on dancing when the fiddle stops,
Keep on fighting till the curtain drops,
And you'll get there in the morning!"

And so journeyed Helmi once more into the unknown young strong and unafraid.

CHAPTER XI

The horrified change of clothing in the motor-car, the jumble of directions, and the excitement of her departure left Helmi breathless, but the quiet seclusion and security of the drawing room soon restored her. She was here, the train was moving, as far removed as clothe could be from what she had been wearing in style, color and texture. Her plaid dress, tam-o'-shanter, thick gray coat and coarse shoes were all safely in a valise in the back of Mrs. St. John's car and would within the next twenty minutes be meandering in her furnace.

Helmi was dressed in a black silk, severely plain dress with a real lace collar primly held in place with an enabled silver bar, a close hat of brilliant sweet pea shades, under which her golden hair showed becomingly. Her coat was of dark, blue cloth of various cut with leather trimmings, her shoes the pedal style so popular that summer. Mrs. St John had eased her conscience by supplying Helmi with sleeping necessaries and even Ed a handsome black suit case fitted with ivory toilet articles two of the latest magazines, a new novel, a box of chocolates, even a bunch of violets and a ball embroidered dolly.

A wiser woman would not have supplied such expensive things for a girl who had to seek some employment in some other woman's kitchen, but Mrs. St. John had simply provided Helmi with the sort of things she would have liked herself had she been in Helmi's place. Besides, she had felt rather repentant for the stingy little Christmas present, the white and silver sheep worn book, which she had given to Helmi, and it was her desire to make amends now by showing Helmi how lavish she could be.

Forced To Abandon Ship For Russia

Soviets Withdraw Concessions and Famous Explorer Leaves Hastily

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous explorer and humanitarian, has been wrenched from his early sympathy with the Soviets by the treatment which he recently received at their hands. Dr. Nansen who was appointed High Commissioner to Russia by the League of Nations, devoted his Nobel Prize award of 120,000 Swedish crowns, with $100,000 he had collected, to efforts to improve the conditions of the Russian peasants.

With the object of teaching them modern farming methods, he established from the fertile governments in the Dnieper and Saratof regions concessions of land, upon which he founded model farms, with the latest equipment in machinery and tools. The Nansen stations soon began to pay their way, but the peasantry instead of regarding them as useful object lessons, saw in them a scheme to deprive them of their own lands.

When Dr. Nansen began to exhibit a manifest on his property on the Dnieper the local authorities indicted such a hearty fear for not asking previous permission to work the pit that he was obliged to cease work on his farms temporarily to come to some arrangement. The Soviet authorities took the suspension as an excuse for abandoning the concessions, and Dr. Nansen lost not only his money but several years of hard work, as well.

Special Service For Old Country Travellers

Canadian Pacific Railway Announces Special Train To Saskatoon

A special through service for the convenience of Old Country Christmas travellers will be provided from western Canada to the Atlantic seaboard (Saint John), by the Canadian Pacific Railway for December sailings. Through sleeping cars will leave Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Regina and other western points on Winnipeg where they will be attached to special trains operating direct to the ship's side for the following sailings:

S.S. Metagama, November 28th.
S.S. Montclare, December 6th.
S.S. Montrose, December 9th.
S.S. Montcalm, December 14th.

This special service will assure connections and eliminate the necessity of transfer enroute, thereby providing maximum travel comfort.

Special round trip excursion fares to the Atlantic seaboard during the month of December are also announced.

Leads In Steam Wireless

System Has Been Brought To Perfection in Britain

Britain's perfection of the beam wireless system is one of the outstanding proofs that she leads the world in radio and telegraphic communication," declared John McMillan, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs, Montreal, who was in Vancouver on a tour of the Western lines.

"That marvelous station at Rugby has been working to Montreal perfectly for almost a year as well as working to South Africa, Australia, and India," he continued. "The importance of this station is shown by the fact that it can communicate with any part of the empire or any separate Dominion at the same time.

Japanese Earns Title Of "Swiftest Girl Alive"

The fleetest girl in the world hails from Japan. Miss Fumiko Toroe exchanged her kimono for running shorts, and earned her right to the title of "swiftest girl alive" when she won the 100 meters sprint in the All-Japanese Sports Carnival held recently near Tokio.

Her time is 12 2-5 seconds. Charlie Paddock's time for that distance is only two-fifths of a second faster, and Paddock is called "the fastest human."

Fumiko has beaten all men runners of her own country and all the best women runners in the world.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the usual infantile spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or these many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that, and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

An Armistice Day sunday will be held on Friday, November 11, in the Memorial hall at 2:30 p.m. A musical programme is being arranged. Tickets for the sunday are on sale. Tickets for admission in one dollar and tickets can be obtained at the hall or from Dr. Brown, J. S. Wright, D. Roberts, F. Stanley, G. J. Dawson, W. McAdie or D. Gould. Everyone, whether veterans or not, is cordially invited to be present.

Though cases of foolish and unpleasant pranks were played by Hallowe'en frolickers we have not heard of anything outrageous being perpetrated. The town constable had a busy time checkmating the various gangs and more than half his crew. Several arrests were sought and effected to cool off in the lockup for a short time and we would give a penny to know what their reflections were while behind the bars.

SIR HERBERT BROWN AMES COMING SATURDAY, NOV. 19

The Association of Canadian clubs continues its arranging lectures tours of prominent men to tour the Dominion and deliver lectures on various subjects. Its purpose is to create a national public opinion and spirit by the study and discussion of Canadian problems, institutions, history, art and letters. The Association of Canadian Clubs is a federation of Canadian clubs in all parts of Canada.

The local Canadian club was only inaugurated about nine months ago and has already been successful in its object. We were first honored by the visit of the Governor General of the Dominion, Lord Willingdon and his wife and party took lunch here through the efforts of our local branch. We next had a visit from E. J. Pratt, a noted Canadian poet and lecturer, and a man who is helping to put Canadian literature on solid footing.

We now have Sir Herbert Brown Ames, Kt., L.L.D. coming to Fort Saskatchewan to lecture on the "Changing Spirit of Europe." This subject is especially timely, in view of Can-

MIKE LECKY AND ANTON ZAK TIED TOGETHER, BAK TO BAK

Last week Bruderheim staged a miniature Western front. Mike Lecky and Anton Zak of north of Bruderheim were the attackers and the Bruderheim hotel and some of the local residents were the object of the offensive. According to reports, Lecky and Zak, fortified by the pugnacious efforts of a few glasses of beer, commenced the war. They started by hitching Frank Wilmer of Lamont, who retaliated and more than held his own. The attackers then retreated and one secured a wooden club and the other some stones and an iron bar. They then with war whoops started for the hotel, presumably to find Wilmer. On the way they were striking at all and sundry of the inoffensive bystanders, which resulted in John Schneider getting a wheel with the club, and Gus Schreiber got one which fractured his arm. The iron bar then came into support and an assault was made with it on Wm. Dilts. The townsfolk then came to the conclusion that a mass attack was the only remedy for the submission of the affray and they grabbed Lecky and Zak into the fields of an inch and a half rope.

Time was then called and the referee, Constable Warrier, A.P.P., at Fort Saskatchewan, was also called. He arrived at Bruderheim and took charge of these two combatants, who showed decided signs of rough wear.

The next stage in the battle was on Friday, November 4, again at Bruderheim, when the prisoners were returned to the scene, this time in custody. The attackers were in this case A. W. Miller, barrister of Edmonton for the prosecution, and Constable Warrier. Mike Lecky and Anton Zak were on the defensive and Magistrate Coe. B. McLeod was on the bench. Lecky was charged with the charges of causing grievous bodily harm, two charges of common assault and another charge of carrying an offensive weapon. Zak was charged with two charges of common assault and one charge of carrying an offensive weapon. The outcome of the case was that Mike Lecky was sentenced to six months imprisonment with hard labor and fines amounting to $60.00 and costs and Anton Zak was accused fines totalling $71.60 and costs. Lecky is now therefore a prisoner in the county's camp and decides that after all "discretion is the better part of valour."

TWO MINUTES SILENCE ASKED ARMISTICE DAY

In accordance with arrangements for the observation of Armistice Day, sanctioned by His Majesty the King, the people of Canada are invited to mark the occasion by a two minutes' silence at 11 o'clock a.m. on Friday, November 11. This is a special observance suggested by His Majesty and is in addition to the regular celebration of the date recognized by the Canadian parliament for the previous Monday.

ALBERTA CATTLE TOP CHICAGO MARKET

Forty-one head of Alberta grain-fed steers shipped by P. Burns and Co. to Chicago recently set a new figure on that market for this class of cattle during the season. These steers sold at $14.65 per hundred pounds, exceeding the previous high price by 65 cents. Good prices on the American markets have attracted large shipments of cattle from the western provinces during the past few months.

ST. GEORGE'S THANKSGIVING SUPPER AND DANCE SUCCESS

There was a hearty atmosphere about the supper held by the ladies of St. George's church on Monday that made one feel sociable and comfortable. The visods were up to the usual standard of tastiness set by the workers of the parish and the welcomers were proficient at their work. Whatever the order given, a helping of chick's fin or baked chicken's feet, the chicken was there. A large crowd was entered to in an effective manner; no kiss wanted and every one satisfied.

The dance which followed was the usual two and some affair. The children look forward to this annual event, it is the one night of the year they are at liberty to mimic themselves like the grown-ups, and they surely do enjoy it. For once in a year the adults do not mind it either, so long as the children are not too much in the way. On this occasion the happy medium was struck and everyone had a good time.

The local orchestra supplied a surprisingly good brand of music. They should celebrate their talents in that direction more seriously.

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE is extra good.

A Good Deed

It was our pleasure, says a writer in a New York paper, to meet with the finest spirit, fully matured, aboard a Long Island train recently. At one of the stations the gentleman stood in front of an accidentally dropped glove out the window just as the train started to move out. Without a moment's hesitation he leaped off the other one after it. Moved by curiosity, we dropped all reserve to ask him why he had done so. He unknowingly explained that the one glove that remained would have done him no good; nor would the best glove have done the finder any good. This being the case, he had tossed out the other, so that the finder might become a complete set.

The viewpoint and line of conduct at this man might well serve as an object lesson to many, adding contentment in their own lives and countering bounds, on others. The average person, it is to be feared, would have scrambled and hammered his best—though it be,—and generally made himself and possibly others miserable for a time, and all to no end. But the hero of this little incident, which might have passed unobserved, enjoyed a brighter outlook on life and a finer conception of things generally; he had sustained a loss which, under the circumstances existing, could not be restored. He realized on the instant that he must accept that loss. His immediate thought was as to how his loss could be turned to somebody's gain.

If in family and community life and activities the spirit displayed by this unknown man became the inspiration of our thoughts and the guiding motive of our actions, how much happier this old world would become. What contentment of spirit and real joy in living would be experienced by those who adopted and followed such a policy of unselfishness, resulting in an inner calm of satisfaction for surrendering the cursed and unnatural desire to be sustained.

Such a spirit and code of conduct costs nothing, and how much more satisfactory all round it would be to that usually followed in which a lower statement that if he must lose, or has lost, he will at least have the satisfaction,—poor though it be,—that nobody shall be the gainer thereby.

There are people no doubt who are inclined to belittle any good at the insistence with which members of the Boy Scout organization are taught to be vigilant for opportunities for helping others in order that they may do at least one good turn a day. But if such people would strive for just one week to emulate these Scouts and do good turns to others, they would quickly discover a finer richness and joy in their own lives while at the same time happiness and gain would be conferred on others.

The people of Canada have just observed a day of National Thanksgiving and in a few weeks all Christendom will be joyously celebrating the happiest day in all the year, Christmas. Many may have sustained losses and suffered defeats in the months that are passed without making the slightest effort to commit such profit as they could from their loss and without turning defeat into ultimate victory. Possibly they are still bemoaning the sad fate which overtook them, boiling sorry for themselves, and declaring that luck is against them. Such an attitude will avail nothing; it merely makes for further discontent, discouragement, and additional failure and loss. Such an attitude is taking the joy out of their own future lives and making for unhappiness and misery for others.

Let the dead past bury its dead. Forget your losses and disappointments except as they can be capitalized to realize future gains, if not for yourself, then for somebody else. In the long run this will mean gain for you.

Custom Observed On Anniversary Of Historic Victory

On the anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar, the monument to Lord Nelson in Trafalgar Square, as in customary on this date, was bedecked with laurels. Nowadays the monument has become a sort of cenotaph for wreaths placed there to honor the sailors buried beneath the waves in the Great War.

Nelson's flagship Victory, which is now permanently drydocked at Portsmouth, still is undergoing restoration. Her topmasts and spars have not yet been replaced, as Nelson's famous signal, "England expects that every man will do his duty," flew from the mainmast 139 years ago.

At the dinner given by the Navy League Earl Beatty, former Admiral of the fleet and First Sea Lord, proposed a toast to "The Immortal Memory of Lord Nelson." Earl Beatty was supported in the toast by the oldest living admiral the Hon. Sir Edmund Robert Fremantle, who is in his 93rd year.

Soldier Settlers Efforts Of Pioneers

Aviation is Great Factor For Peace Says Designer and Builder

A million or more planes blackening the air over America, from River planes, in which the young man can take his sweetheart for a ride in a dual control side by side cockpit, to giant multimotored air transports, were pictured by Anthony H. G. Fokker, at a luncheon of the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce of New York.

Mr. Fokker said the development of commercial flying was closely linked with military aviation and that the nations of Europe had realized this. The subsidies granted to air transport lines in Europe for commercial purposes, he said, were part of the general preparation plan for future wars whereby pilots would be trained and fields, hangars and workshops provided for future military use.

"Aviation is the cheapest and most efficient method for killing people," Mr. Fokker said. "In a city like New York bombing planes loaded with gas bombs could destroy a million persons overnight without fail. No important will aviation be as an offensive weapon in another war and so great is the danger that I believe that the safest place for men will be the front line trenches."

The designer suggested that aviation was a factor for peace by its very deadliness as a potential weapon of offense.

"Men are not so likely to start a war or to help keep one going," he said, "when they realize that anywhere can they find safety for themselves. The man who stays away from the front to manufacture shells and guns as war commodities will be more dangerous than the man at the front."

Yeh Why Company Failed

Ex-Kaiser Says People Did Not Sacrifice Enough

In an interview with George Sylvester Viereck, printed in Liberty, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, formerly German war lord, tells why Germany lost the war:

"Because we did not obey God in all things; because we hesitated to bear the worst; because we refused in the end to face all risks in preserving faith! The German people performed miracles of endurance, but at the last they failed. The supreme miracle can be accomplished only by faith. We should have fought to the very last morsel, the very last man, the very last round of ammunition."

The ex-emperor is a prolific one to talk about fighting to the last morsel! the German people had indeed performed "miracles of endurance." They had borrowed over their means and swallowed their black bread sufficiently enough. It was their leader, their empire-owning, who by his midnight departure for Holland set them the example of submission to stern fate.

Wilhelm had plenty of carrots. He had castles and chateaux. He had abundance while his people starved. He had millions in the midst of beggary. He had his child near, carefully protected during a time when grass grew green on many new graves. For him, more than the German people, the "supreme sacrifice" was made, for "refusing in the end to face all risks," is, perhaps, no more inherent than might have been expected.—New York Tribune.

Possibility Of War Remote

Last Gun Fought Nearly a Lustre Ago, Says Ambassador

Possibility of another world war in the near future is very remote in the opinion of Baron George Pranckenstein, Austrian ambassador to Great Britain.

"The last war taught us a lesson we will not speedily forget," said the ambassador. "It was a colossal catastrophe that even now the world has not yet recovered from its blows."

The baron is in Canada to arrange for the sending of Austrian peasants to the Dominion to take up farm lands.

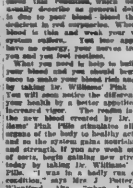
RUN DOWN IN HEALTH

Why Many Men and Women Are Badly Handicapped

When you are so run down in health that it impairs the efficiency of your work as well as your power to enjoy your leisure hours, or obtain rest, it is time you looked to the cause. If you do not, a serious breakdown is almost sure to result. In nearly all cases like these, which are unfortunately described as general debility, it is due to poor blood and the consequent lack of red corpuscles. When the blood is thin and weak your whole system suffers. You lose appetite, have no energy, your nerves trouble you and you feel restless.

What you need to help to build up your blood and you should begin at once to make your blood rich and red by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will soon notice the difference in your health by a better appetite and increased vigor. The reason is that the new blood created by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills stimulates all the organs of the body to healthy activity and so the system gains nourishment and strength. If you are weak or out of sorts, begin gaining new strength today by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "I was in a badly run down condition," says Mrs J. Potter, of Chatham, Ont., "and was advised using Williams' Pink Pills and they fully restored my health. I strongly recommend them to those in ill health people."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.



Price $10, a ton at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Christmas and New Year's day fall on Sunday this year, but, as usual, will fall hardest upon father.

Head Emptiness For Turkey

Holiday Observed While First Census Is Taken

Turkey has undergone a moral an patience, namely the taking of its first census.

The suspicious populace was convinced that the only possible motive in such a counting of heads was to facilitate the stampless of the tax gatherers.

To offset the opposition, the government ordered that the people at home while the counting was proceeding. For this reason, Friday, which is a Turkish rest day, was chosen.

From the first stroke of dawn, Constantinople assumed a city of the dead in war paint. Not a soul appeared. Shops were closed and streets deserted. Everyone was rigorously forbidden to leave his domicile until the census was completed.

The data collected included the names of men, women and children, with their age, religion, native language, profession and state of health and education.

The Least Excitement Made Her Heart Palpitate and Flutter

Mrs. Ambrose Over, Elginburg, Ont., writes: "I suffered for some time with a bad heart which seemed to be constantly getting worse. The least little excitement would cause it to flutter and palpitate, and at times I would have real bad spells. I noticed in this way for some time when, one day, I saw advertised, so decided to try them. Before I had taken one box I knew when I began the second I felt better, so I continued taking them and in a short time my heart felt strong and relieved.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 85:5-10.

Explanations and Comments

I. Jehovah's Love For Israel, 11:1-4.—"When Israel was a child," in the beginning of his national existence. "Then I loved him, and called my son out of the bondage in Egypt." "Called him, locally, into the land of Canaan, and morally, to set an example of true religion."—Cheyne.

"Hosea dwells on that beautiful past, half in melancholy reflection on the contrast, and half in pervasive pleading that the old relations between the nation and their God may be restored. The early days in Egypt and the desert were a history of grace on the part of God. The prophet stops in his message of doom to recall forcibly the early periods of Israel's national existence, and now God's love claiming its own, and meeting them with its response."—Blair.

"The more the prophets called them, the more they went from them. They sacrificed unto the Baalim, and burned incense to graven images."—Whitehouse. "It was the great of the prophets. They kept up a church within the nation, and they developed ideas which bore fruit in due time."—Cheyne.

Hosea's great comparison God with a father who teaches his child to walk and carries it when wearied in his arms. But the child failed to reconcile that it was Jehovah who healed him. Even the prophet's character (ch. 3) proves that of a child being trained by a parent to that of one driven by a considerate master. "I drew them with cords of a man," not with cords such as are used for beasts or burden—"with bands (reslaty) of love, and I was to them as they that take up the yoke on their jaws, and I laid food before them." "They knew not" but are guided by a long good; the rule is fixed ever the hour may the horse, and the cause down over the face. A considerate master raises the yoke from the animal's cheeks that it may eat more comfortably.

"How much more clearly should the Christian church see this than Hosea, after the greatest of all object lessons in Jesus Christ! The whole story shows with beauty tenderness, with human sympathy with pain in their joy and their sorrow, sympathy with all little children and with all those the yoke pressed, the laboring and heavy laden. Can He fail to draw all men unto Himself? With the world as His parish, with all mankind, its bonds of love He is binding the world together. Who can resist the appeal?"—Hugh Black.

II. Israel's Unfaithfulness, 11:5-7.—"He shall not return into the land of Egypt." Israel's punishment for her sins is to be in Assyria. "The sword shall abide on his cities." "Because of their own counsels." "Israel's sin was that of self-will, of following their own devices instead of God's."—Cheyne.

III. Israel's Restoration, 14:1-9.—"Return unto Jehovah thy God." "Israel's sin was not only idolatry, but self-confidence, self-reliance, self-sufficiency. Hence the first step in repentance is to turn away from self to God."—Whitehouse. "Take with you words." "Words of penitence, of confession, of prayer, of praise."—Cheyne. "Receive us graciously." "Take away all our sin." "Accept us in thy mercy." "Let us be thine." "Let us be thine." "Let us be thine

If there should be anyone in this district dissatisfied with his crop this fall, and we fail to see how this could be, let them consider the condition of the farmer in England. Churches over there are holding Thanksgiving services for "the harvest overseas," as their own crops being ruined in one way and another, chiefly by heavy rains and floods.

Ghosts of the Past

The good old days of steering "liners", oil lamps and engines under the seat were brought back again the other day when Toronto's first motor car ran out to see the veterans rattle past at a shaky four miles an hour, and some narrowly escaped injury when one of the dinners spit and bucked at a corner. The 1902 Oldsmobile shown in the picture led the parade, driven by its owner, Otto Collins of Port Dover, Ont. Behind the Olds, which chugged away without a halter, is visible one of the first McLaughlins made in Canada, a two-cylinder 1907 model.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Says Marriage Prolongs Life

Wives Live Longer Than Single Women Declares Actuary

Married women live longer than single women, according to the British Government Actuary, Sir Alfred Watson.

In a report on life tables based on the population as returned in the 1921 census, and on the average number of deaths recorded in the three years 1920-22, rates of mortality for single, married and widowed women show that the advantage lies with the married women.

At the youngest ages for which comparison was possible the highest rates were those for single women. Rates for single and married women differed but slightly between the ages of 24 and 27. But thereafter the rates for married women were usually lower than those of single women or widows, while rates for widows were invariably heavier than those for single women or wives.

PAINTED FIRES

BY NELLIE L. McCLUNG

Helmi carefully studied her clothes—pale green strip of paper with a yellow bark, on which were strange words. She saw the names Saskatoon, Edmonton and Hoyle Mines. Evidently this last was her destination. Mrs. St. John told her she was going to a lovely spot in the mountains—here a lot of men worked in mines. Mrs. St. John had heard her husband speak of it, she said. Helmi shrugged her shoulders doubtfully. A mine where a lot of men worked did not sound very attractive. It would mean that she would have to wash dirty bare floors, wash big white cups with ugly tea stains, and have no good times at all. She would never stay in the city where she would find a girls' club, and go to suppers in basements, and play basketball in short pants, and would see lovely dresses in shop windows, and not low-cream cones, and perhaps have another chance at night school; then on Sundays she would go to church and hear a lovely organ with a sweet religious sound, and perhaps she might find another Miss Abbie.

Helmi now recalled Aunt Lill's advice and faithfully said it over and over again—"Leave men alone—they break your heart." She was determined that she would always remember this. Girls were boys, also girls like Lucy Powers and Hazzie. She wished now that she could write Lucy and Hattie and tell them everything, but Mrs. St. John had warned her to write no letters. The Girls' Friendly would try to find her and bring her back, as she must give them no clue.

It was a big disgrace for them to have a girl, and they would get the police after her. Helmi shuddered when she thought of the police and the angry, red faced old man who glared on Sunday at her in the police court. Still it certainly did not seem right to run away without a word to Miss Abbie and the girls,—but oh! it was too great to be free! The joy of life and living unbridled her so closely as she journeyed that there was no room for resentment in her heart. At this distance she could even think tolerantly of the Wynnetts. She would come back some day a very rich lady and buy out the Girls' Friendly home and run it herself. The first thing she would do would be to burn all the girls' uniforms and give every girl a new dress of pink, blue, mauve, and buns, as according to their tastes—and she would drive a little car and take the girls riding with her in turns. They would tell her all their troubles.

Dabbling up through all Helmi's dreams came the joyous consciousness of freedom. She remembered the day she had watched the birds in Mrs. St. John's garden—that lovely September day of amber sunshine so long ago now. She remembered the dainty pet her birds in the pretty gold cages, with the little throats gurgling with music, singing to their little wild cousins, dark in color, harsh of voice, but free! Pilgrims of the upper air were they, who knew no law but their own desires; and now she was free again, too, just like the wise canaries, and was off again on the great adventure of living, with no one to please but herself. She had been one year in Canada, and, after all, it had been a pleasant year, too, and she had learned a lot of English. She would yet find the flower-garden of her dreams and live there forever and ever.

As night came down and the fields turned purple with twilight a momentary depression came over Helmi as she thought of the girls at the mine. Since the stealing of the letters Helmi had been a great hero with them, and had basked in their admiring glances. As night came on she suddenly missed it all and felt a shiver of loneliness go over her heart. The world was so big, and everywhere alone in it seemed to have friends.

The train came to a standstill at a little station, and Helmi could look right into the dining room where the station family sat at supper. A rosy lamp with a wide umbrella shade threw a cheerful glow over the table. Helmi could see the father helping mincemeat and cheese from a round white bowl. A baby sat in his high-chair pounding impatiently on a blue enamel plate, a girl about Helmi's own age, a chubby, rosy, and bonny girl, sat beside him; Helmi wondered if that girl knew! It was nice to have a family of your own, even if you did have to bob after the baby and clean the mussy tray of his high-chair after every meal. As she watched the scene slowly passed away from her.

The train with its load of human freight fascinated Helmi. Mrs. St. John had told her it would be best for her to show no interest in her fellow passengers, but she lingered over her meals in the diner to watch them, wondering about each of them. Did they all know where they were going? Had they people to welcome them when they arrived at their destination, or were they like her, just going some place to be away from some other place? She wondered if one kept on going, going, going, would every disagreeable thing fall away, every sin and every sadness? As she looked out over the moving fields, the air was so sweet and purifying—it would surely wash away everything that one did not like to remember—and how that train did eat up the miles throbbing, pounding, beating, hypnotizing and riveting! She tried to time the telephone poles were all the same distance apart by counting on her fingers at the same rate of speed. Sometimes she could get to ninety, but more often a pole came in at eighty-seven.

Helmi felt the distribution of riding in the drawing-room all alone. It seemed to have about it a proud aloofness, with its own little wash room and towels, and abundance of room, while the car outside was crowded. It flattered her, too, to notice how attentive the porter was, though she was shrewd enough to connect it with the generous tip which she knew Mrs. St. John had given him, and dealing in him thereby that gratitude which shades delightfully into social status.

Mrs. St. John had told her that when she went for her meals it would be well to carry a book—a book keeps chance acquaintances at a distance, for it plainly means "Keep away! can't you see I'm occupied"—and just how conversation was not discussable. Helmi's Finnish accent might betray her, all those instructions, hurriedly given though they were on the way to the station were strictly obeyed. She remembered to walk languidly, to guard against any show of open interest in her surroundings. It was well to let her fellow travellers think that travelling was an old story—some experience for her. Wasn't she pained she patted her mouth daintily.

A tired mother with a swarm of sticky children occupied a double seat half way down the car. When Helmi came out of the dressing room and found them on her way to the diner, the woman looked after her curiously. "I hope that girl knows when she's well off," she said. "Gosh! It's me that ought to have that place to myself with this gang of mine, where I could wallop them to peace without having folks stare at me. But ain't it the way of the world? Them that has gets! People with big fat milk—a have small houses; people in big houses have none at all. It sure does seem strange—but what can a person do? Large Pimples Lasted A Year Calicura Heals

"My face and back were all covered with pimples. They were red, hard and large, and some were filled with matter. For a while the itching and burning were so intense that I could not keep myself still, and my face was disfigured. I had to stay home from school. I tried a number of remedies, but they did not help me any. I used other remedies but they failed to help me. I used for a few months one of Calicura Soap and Ointment. After using the Soap and Ointment for a few days I noticed a change, and I continued to use them for about a half a year, when I was healed." (Signed) Miss Dorothy Dodd, Hillsboro, N.B.

The British Policy

Helping Other Lands To Achieve Self Government

Dr. Adams, emeritus vice-Principal of McGill, who has returned from a visit to the East, says that the British have made Palestine prosperous. Brigandage has been suppressed, roads have been improved and extended, and reforestation is being studied. Order has replaced disorder and the inhabitants are benefiting. The mill tary force numbers but a thousand, two hundred of whom are British. The High Commissioner is Lord Plumer, a fine soldier and statesman, and a most capable administrator. The improved conditions in Palestine are in the nature of things. It is the British way to help other lands and peoples to achieve the best possible results. — Montreal Gazette.

CARRIED WIFE TO BED

Suffered So She Could Not Walk. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Missaning, Ontario.—"I am a practical nurse and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to suffering women. For three months I was almost helpless and could not sit at the table long enough to drink a cup of tea. Many a time my husband carried me to bed, I could be so weak. Then he read in the paper of a woman suffering as I did who got better after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, so he went and got it for me. When I had taken three bottles I was able to do my own work and have had splendid health ever since. I have a big washing every week and I always take it; sometimes a half barrel of clothes. I tell it to my only medicine and I have told many a one about it. Any one wanting to know more about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I will gladly write to her. I do all I can to recommend it for I feel I owe my life and strength to it."—Mrs. Nina Bowman, R.R. 1, Missaning, Ontario.

If you feel broken-down, nervous, and weak sometimes? Do you have the blues? Backache? Dizziness? Then why not write to Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Company in confidence to tell of such ills? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is confident to help you. It always has helped thousands of others. Why not try it?

Little Helps For This Week

In the fear of the Lord is strong confidence, and His children shall have a place of refuge.—Prov. xiv. 26

Have faith in God; for He who reigns on high
Hath borne thy grief, and bears the mightiest weight.
Still to His arms thy only refuge fly.—

Trust Him; trust Him about every one and everything, for all times and all needs; earth and heaven, the conquest of sin, the growth of holiness, the cross that chides, the grace that stirs. To trust God glorifies and honors Him.—Theroid.

GUARD THE CHILDREN FROM AUTUMN COLDS

The Fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next cold and wet, and unless the mother is on her guard, the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mother's best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

How Turkey Handles Speeders

Policeman Instructed To Throw Nails in Their Path

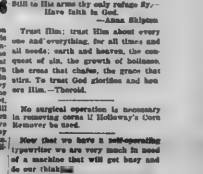
A unique method of combating the tendency of Constantinople motorists toward excessive speeding has been put into practice recently. The mayor, in addition to providing for a motor cycle traffic squad, has formed instructions that the patrolmen be provided with short nails to throw in the path of recklessly speeding drivers.

Constantinople's narrow, tortuous, cobbled and hilly streets are no bar to the chauffeurs, who drive at breakneck speed, causing many casualties.

The mayor says the next campaign will be against excessive noise. He sees no reason why the ordinary automobile should sound like a fire engine answering a call.

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, frequently cause the restlessness that they should derive from food and malnutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full nutriment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

The BABY



No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost all little ills. Paregoric and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serious.

That's the beauty of Castoria, its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without that evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic, constipation, diarrhea, or need of a good, mild, regulator.

Just one warning; it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Eight offers were submitted by competing firms, and the bids for this large block of provincial securities indicates a keen rivalry for their purchase.

FOURTH SHIPMENT OF HORSES TO RUSSIA

The fourth trainload of horses purchased in the west during the past summer by the buying commission of the Soviet government was shipped from Dunsmore, Alberta, on Thursday last, bringing the total number of horses in this shipment to 2000 head. The consignment is some 300 head short of a full headload, delayed harvesting and unsettled weather having interfered with roundups on the range in a number of districts.

More than 2000 horses will have left Canada for Russia when the ship sails this time, states Louis Kon, who has been in charge of the purchasing commission, and of these fully 75 per cent have been secured in Alberta. Mr. Kon is unable to announce for some time plans for further purchases next season, but states that the Russian buyers have well pleased with the horses shipped from the west this year.

SENIOR HOCKEY TEAM HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF SEASON

A joint meeting of the senior hockey club and the committee appointed by the Canadian Legion to sponsor them was held last Wednesday. Dr. deBlaquire was appointed chairman by the committee and Mr. W. H. Thorne-Collinson, secretary. Apart from electing Roy Stuckey captain of the team only routine business was discussed.

PERMANENT LOCATION OF PEACE RIVER HIGHWAY TO BE IMPROVED

As a result of a trip of inspection into the north country by Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works, and J. D. Robertson, deputy minister, it has been decided that further improvement will have to be undertaken on the permanent location of the Peace River highway before travel will be possible over the road into the north.

Prior to beginning work on the Peace River highway between Athabasca and McLennan two years ago the government engineers after a careful survey recommended a permanent location for the road which would be improved from year to year. This recommendation was accepted and during 1926 sections of the permanent location were improved in places where there was no trail or where the old trail used by early settlers and trappers was not suitable for motor car traffic. However, where the old trail had been reasonably passable for the past six or seven years and could be used temporarily during the average season and under ordinary weather conditions, the improvement on the permanent location was postponed.

Unfortunately during the summer just past, the water of Lesser Slave Lake rose six feet above normal, thereby rendering impassable for traffic the old trail which generally followed the lake shore and making it necessary for the government to proceed immediately with the improvement of the highway on the permanent location which was adopted as such two years ago.

ALBERTA TRADE WITH ORIENT PROGRESSING

Good prospects for the exportation of Alberta livestock to Japan now exist as a result of the visit of Captain Kawabuzi of Yokohama, who has spent the past month looking into conditions in this province. Following the visit of H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, to the Orient two years ago and the trial shipment of stock sent over at that time, the extensive interests in Japan which Captain Kawabuzi represents are interested in the importation of beef cattle for slaughter and beef and dairy cattle, horses and sheep for breeding purposes, on a scale which will greatly increase the volume of the company filled out of the square and dismissed.

VETERANS AND CITIZENS OBSERVE TWO MINUTES SILENCE ARMISTICE DAY

There was a good turn out of members of the Canadian Legion at Memorial square on Armistice day. They were ready formed up as the town bell was rung to notify everyone 11 o'clock had struck and the following two minutes should be spent in silent meditation and prayer for those who fell in the great war. D. Harper, treasurer of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, laid a wreath at the foot of the monument and at the expiration of the two minutes, the company filed out of the square and dismissed.

Manufacturing In The West

The general impression of the prairie provinces of Canada held throughout the Eastern provinces and in other countries is that they are almost purely agricultural, and that manufacturing is practically negligible and, where carried on, is on a small scale and local in character. No doubt many Western people if asked for information on the subject would express much the same opinion. Nor would such a view have been very wide of the mark a comparatively few years ago.

Within recent years, however, a marked change has taken place, and manufacturing along many lines is now an important feature of Western activity. Not only in this the case but development among industrial lines is proceeding at a pace which is a surprise to people who take the trouble to investigate. The extent and rapidity of this growth is only realized when actual official statistics are studied and comparisons made from year to year.

The gathering and compilation of statistics of this kind is slow and laborious work, and considerable time must of necessity elapse before all returns from many industries are obtained and examined. Latest available figures, therefore, are always for a period of one or two years back. Recently the Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued a report on the manufacturing industries of the prairie provinces for the calendar year 1925, comparing them with the figures for 1924. The growth indicated in this twelve month period is quite remarkable and most encouraging.

For the year 1925 the number of manufacturing industries reporting was practically the same as for 1924, but the gratifying fact is disclosed that these industries substantially increased their capital, employed many more workers, largely increased their wage bills, utilized larger quantities of materials, produced many more millions of dollars worth of goods of all kinds, and operated on a much more profitable basis.

Capital invested in manufacturing industries in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta increased by $14,000,000 during 1925, and at the end of that year amounted to $321,778,000.

The number of employees increased by over 6,000 during the year with the result that no less than 77,178 people are now engaged in some form of manufacturing industry on the prairies. To these 77,178 people salaries and wages were paid aggregating $42,527,000, or nearly eight million dollars more than in the preceding year.

Materials used by the several industries during 1925 had a value of $141,892,000, or an increase of over $21,500,000 over the preceding year.

Through the application of labor and the use of these materials, goods, having a gross value of $238,352,000, were produced, an increase of $25,547,000 over 1924. In other words, the prairie provinces in 1925 turned out on the average twenty million dollars worth of manufactured goods per month, or three million dollars per month more than in the preceding year. The net value of 1925 production was $97,625,000, or $14,000,000 greater than in 1924.

Analyzing these figures to some extent, it will be seen that manufacturing industry in the west, after paying $21,500,000 more for materials, and $3,000,000 more in salaries and wages, increased the net value of production in the one year by an amount equal to the total increase in the amount of capital invested. Certainly a most encouraging showing.

Those who are familiar with western conditions, and the decided improvement which has taken place within the last two years, know that the growth in western industry disclosed by these figures between 1924 and 1925 has been forging ahead since between 1923 and 1927. Bumper winter power and other developments in all three prairie provinces, and the decided increase in interest both at home and abroad, in the natural resources of the West, give confidence that in a few years more the industrial activities of the prairies will be a factor of importance in the economic life of the whole Dominion.

Big Rockfort Storm Warnings From Greenland

Messages Could Be Sent To Us 24 Two Days in Advance

From the summits of Greenland's icy mountains, weather prophets soon may be able to broadcast to the world warning of coming storms which work havoc in the Atlantic ocean lanes and the temperate zones generally. This is the hope of Prof. William H. Hobbs, head of the University of Michigan scientific expedition who started for home among the Leviathan today after two weeks studying the northern storms at the place of their birth, piloting over the great ice cap of Interior Greenland.

The expedition spent the summer at Kangedanguadahjord, within the Arctic circle.

"It is probably the longest fjord in the world and affords wonderful country on a majestic scale which has been long for few white men," said Professor Hobbs.

The Hobbs expedition established three observation stations 100 miles apart, one of them being on the summit of Mount Evans. From the observations made at the stations it is expected to result the location of coming storms over the north Atlantic 48 hours in advance of the storm arrival over the ocean lanes.

Selected members of the University of Michigan's expedition will winter on the mountain and will send observation balloons with small batteries for meteorological study. Two members of the party will spend the winter in a cabin on the inland ice for the purpose of making observations. Stakes have been placed and measurements made for the study of glacier movements.

TONE UP THE BLOOD AND NERVES NOW

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Have No Equal For This Purpose

Anaemia, lack of good blood causes not only pale faces and white lips; it is the root of many pains and miseries. It is the cause of chronic nerves, headaches and backaches, and of indigestion and biliousness. There are many women and girls suffer. To regain new health and strength the blood should be enriched through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine has brought new health and strength to thousands of weak despondent people.

Among those who have found new health through the use of this medicine is Mrs. Gregory J. Murphy, Enniskillen, Ont., who says: "Before the day I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, before I began their use I was in a run-down and very weak condition. The least exertion would leave me breathless and tired out. Housework was a trial, and at times I felt very discouraged. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got six boxes. I had not been taking the pills very long until I began to feel better in health, and continuing their use they restored me to my former good health. I also gave the pills to my daughter, who was anaemic and run-down, with the same good results. Now I always have the pills in the house, and would not like to be without them."

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and get your druggist today, or send 50 cents to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and a box will be sent you post paid. A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request.

Declaring War On Narcotics

Working Fund Of Five Million Dollars Urged At Conference

Formation of a world narcotic defence association with a working fund of five million dollars, was urged at the first session of the conference of committees of the World Conference on Narcotic Education and the International Narcotic Educational Association at New York.

The association would be non-profit making and would have the power to utilize "all honorable means to obtain the mobilization of the resources and virility of society everywhere against narcotic drug addiction and to acquire and maintain immunity from this universal race menace."

Two million dollars of the five fall to be sought, Captain Hobson explained, would be used in hospital work; another two millions used in educational work, while the remaining million would be set aside for lawenforcement.

Of Interest To Canadians

Dictionary Of National Biography Contains That Of Sir Wilfrid Laurier

That monumental effects, the dictionary biography, upon the founding of which the noted publisher George Smith expended his whole life and fortune, was enriched recently by a 600-page supplementary volume embracing the years 1912-21.

Among the biographies of special interest to Canadians is that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Next in importance perhaps comes the sketch of Lord Strathcona, written by Prof. Wrong's son, Edward Murray Wrong, vice-president of Magdalen College, Oxford University.

Prof. W. L. Grant, principal of Upper Canada College, is responsible for the biography of Sir Charles Tupper in the dictionary. He produces a compressed but very recital in which he describes Sir Charles, one of the Fathers of Confederation, as "perhaps the most fearless and constructive statesman whom Canada has produced."

Prof Grant has also written about General Sir Sam Hughes, whom he handles judiciously. After noting Sir Sam's fine energy at the opening of the war, he remarks:

"He was responsible for arming the Canadian forces with the Ross rifle, which afterwards was replaced by the Lee-Enfield rifle. He was of splendid energy, had much personal charm, but was too undisciplined and impetuous to be an easy colleague, either political or military."

Had No Airport Facilities

And People Of Ottawa Missed Seeing U.S. Dirigible

The flight of the United States airship Los Angeles from Lakehurst, N. J., to Ottawa, with Sir Charles Hanson, British Secretary of State for Air, on board, was abandoned, because the Canadian capital lacks suitable airport facilities. Thus the people of Ottawa missed the opportunity of seeing afloat a great dirigible, similar in type to the two now being built in Great Britain. Certainly the Los Angeles, moving steadily through the air at an apparently slow speed, with the sun shining on its torpedo-shaped metal hull, must be an impressive spectacle.

Dairy Factories In Canada

A report recently issued by the Canadian Government Bureau of Statistics shows that in 1926 there were 2,074 dairy factories in Canada, an increase over the preceding year of 63 and an increase over the year 1914 of 245. Of the 2,074 factories in operation last year, 1,247 were creameries; 1,411 cheese factories; 350 combined butter and cheese factories and 26 condenseries.

Many Losses From Hail

Prairie Provinces Visited By Severe Storms This Year

Losses from hail in the Prairie Provinces are heavier this year than in any year since 1921 according to figures furnished by the secretary of the Canadian Hail Underwriters' Association. The heaviest storms were on July 9th, July 20th, August 5th, 19th, and 15th. Between June 15th and September 14, there were only two days (July 2nd and July 5th), when hail did not fall somewhere in the prairie provinces. In Saskatchewan premiums amounted to about $3,500,000 while losses totalled approximately $2,500,000, an increase of more than $1,000,000 being received in premiums by the 53 companies operating in the province. Of the 53 companies, 32 lost money on the year's operations, while 12 broke about even, and the balance made a small margin of profit.

Only five of the 51 companies operating in Alberta made a profit when three broke about even on the year's business, the rest losing money. Premiums in Alberta totalled $2,500,000, an increase of more than $1,000,000 being received in premiums by the 53 companies operating in the province. This official report goes to show that the fact that there is as yet no log in the straits indicates that in 1927, at any rate, navigation will be open much longer than in the Fall of the Hudson River, where the last ship clears about November 15. The straits are from 60 to 100 miles in width and it is inconceivable that if the ice commanded so appear now, it could block the channel in two weeks, or even a month.

The absence of fog, too, is a great surprise t othe officials. Fogs always appear at this time of year on the St Lawrence. In the last two days several ships have cleared from Montreal and made the entire trip to the Atlantic ocean without being able to see farther than a ship's length in any direction. Those ships assigned by radio direction and avoid-collisions having used the radio alone. This has pleased the officials, that in all probability an official statement will be issued.

Difficult Now For People To Get Along Without It

The extent to which the automobile, in its double function of utility and luxury, has affected American society, economically and industrially is amazing, if one regards it from almost any point of view. Its rapid has been the change that the community has by no means been able to adjust itself to it. It will be years before the highways are reconstructed to meet conditions and they never can be made safe to meet them. As for the effect on retail business, not even yet has the trend become clear. Society, of course, as to recreation, the effect of the automobile has been profound, but on the whole American life in many phases is still in a transition period. But the least interesting subject, in case the country should have a severe dose of hard times, would be the effect on the

"Pleased to meet you!" really meant something when Canada welcomed these young Englishmen to her broad acres. A fine group of potential farmers never landed here. They were photographed outside the Canadian National Railways station at Winnipeg, when they broke their journey to Vermilion, Alberta. The young men will study Canadian farming methods at the Alberta Government's agricultural farm at Vermilion, and when they get farms of their own they will be fully qualified to handle them. They are between sixteen and twenty years of age and came from all parts of England, most of them from down-at-heels.—Canadian National Railways Photograph.

The BABY

Why go so many, many babies of today endure the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up'hall the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered yours, yet, for Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and regular in its stomach. And its gentle influence passes full all through the tiny system. Not even a drowsy bit does of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. And for those times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

Chatter Box Radio Set Will Eliminate Static

"Monophone" is invention Of Retired U.S. Army Officer

Announcement that he has perfected the "monophone," an instrument designed to carry radio into the home over the telephone or electric light wires, was made by Major-General George O. Squier, retired former chief signal officer of the U.S. army. The general claims the device will eliminate static, and the radio commission by clearing the bands and increasing indefinitely the number of broadcasting stations.

The device is virtually a three tube receiving set without dials, "stepping up" attachments, batteries or amplifiers. According to General Squier, it would utilize the same lines that now supply current to homes for lighting and lighting without interfering with their present purpose.

The monophone would be connected only to the station or "user" operated or used by the companies leasing the instrument. Buttons would control the instrument for frequencies and there would be no dials to change stations

Removes Touchy Corns, Brings Solid Comfort

The Baby's First Short Clothes

When baby is ready for short clothes, you'll find the combination pattern, No. 1174, which includes a short slip with or without cape, short jacket and bonnet. Just everything for baby's layette. Simple to make and smart with a note, that always adds a little to style elsewhere. And the straight line. The round collar gives a tailored finish and is set for small or deep V cuts or slit does as much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. And for those times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, but as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Buying the best on knee and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Apes Taken From Rice To Vienna To Be Used in Clinic

Eleven anthropoid apes, travelling first-class in private compartments, arrived at Vienna from Rice on the Simplon Orient Express. Each was accompanied by a special attendant and received by a special attendant and received by a special express. The remaining seven of the apes was described, however, as not fit to be taken to the clinic of Dr. Sergo Voronoff. There they will submit to a painful gland operation in order to prolong the vigorous youth to octogenarian Austrians who wish to add another spell of years to their lives.

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a honest endorsed up on her child's health. Mothers who have used Baby's own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zephyrin Levesque, Three Rivers, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels, and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets contain no narcotic and injurious ones and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Railway Extension in Peace River

Explanations and Comments

I. The Creed of the Wealthy and Their Punishment, 2:1-5. "Woe to them that devise iniquity and work evil upon their beds!" cries the prophet. "When the morning is light, they practice it, because it is in the power of their hand." Micah is here arraigning the wealthy classes. He thinks in terms with little regard at night to plan and plot evil upon the couches of the poor, and then carrying their plans into effect when daylight comes because it had the power. They believed that might was right.

They controlled the land and its fruits as Ahab and Naboth discovered to their sorrow and loss. Micah, and the oppressed in both cities and in the land had suffered much at the hands of the rich. "Therefore thus saith Jehovah: Behold, against this family (the whole family of Israel) do I devise an evil, which they were bending all their necks from which ye cannot remove your necks; neither shall ye walk haughtily; for this time is evil." In this time was evil, for men were living as if God were not, and who was threatening in the Assyrians who were ultimately to be divinely used as

Bentley Made Solo Flight Of 6,100 Miles in Tiny Moth Plane

When brought into comparison with some of the speech making flights to the credit of Lindbergh and other pioneers, the significance of the record-breaking flight from London, which has ended at Cape Town, is apt to be lost by the thrill-loving public.

A wildly enthusiastic welcome at Wynberg aerdrome, Cape Town, marked the culmination of an 6,100-mile solo trip over sea, desert and the forests of Darkest Africa, made by an intrepid Miss South African aviator named Lieutenant Bentley on a tiny Moth aeroplane providing for its hop through the enterprise of The Star, a Johannesburg evening newspaper.

A particularly notable feature of this fine flight on a machine with a motor of only 60 horsepower is that it was completed in twenty-eight days, whereas Pierre van Ryneveld, who planned a pioneer trail from Cairo to the Cape in 1920 (and used two machines in his attempt), took forty-four days to reach his goal, while Sir Alan Cobham's flight in 1925 occupied ninety-four days.

TO STRENGTHEN LIQUOR LAWS OF PROVINCES

Ottawa.—Very important matters have been upon the question of the liquor traffic and respect of Senator, were said, during the progress of the discussion on the question at a sitting of the Dominion Provincial Conference.

The provinces were unanimous in their request for control of the importation of liquor, both where there are legal control boards and also where there is local prohibition. Likewise there was unanimity in demand, for the curbing of the operation of liquor export licenses.

The announcement, which came from the Federal Government representatives, was that the bill, recently before the provinces the right to import liquor, and to be restricted to the Provinces had been filled by the Senate.

As regards export licenses, the understanding is that the provinces may continue to grant licenses for the export of liquor from Canada, but that the Federal Government will not grant licenses in the Province.

Another proposal of the provinces was for the establishment of a uniform system of liquor. The Minister of Finance declared that the dominion would not entertain any proposal quite in consonance with the demand for lower excise duties, but stated that the Government was willing to listen to reasons.

There was discussion on judges and a majority of the speakers favored higher salaries and uniformity in the retirement of judges but little attention was paid to the question of age limits, although out some of the oldest judges were the most efficient.

Allowed Wave Bands For Directing Aircraft

Canada's Right To Exclusive Bands Recognized By Radio Conference

Washington.—Canada's right to exclusive wave bands for the direction of aircraft in the Dominion, has been recognized by the International Radio Conference, and a wide band, sufficient to take care of extensive development of commercial flying in Canada has been set aside for the purpose of Canada.

When the question of communication between aircraft and ground stations was under discussion at the conference, the Canadian delegates brought up the necessity for the recognition of the needs of aviation in the Dominion. It was pointed out that in practical application of aircraft to the construction, survey work, and similar useful purposes, Canada led the world. The necessity for a clear band for which aircraft could communicate regularly with ground stations, was recognized as it had been previously recognized in Europe.

"With the additional facilities," a Canadian delegate told the Canadian Press, "it will be possible to provide not only for the very extensive forest protection operations in the various provinces, but also for an kinds of commercial aircraft enterprises."

Mountie Is Promoted

Niagara Post Office Damaged By Fire

Building Practically Wrecked By Explosion in Furnace

Niagara Falls, Ont. — Immediately following the explosion which wrecked the post office building here, twenty postal clerks and employees escaped from the building safe returns and managed to remove the mail to safety. Mrs. Gardiner, wife of the caretaker, and her infant child, were rescued from the smoke filled building by firemen.

An explosion believed to have occurred in the furnace and blowing out all the windows and doing damage to nearby buildings, started the fire

The force of the blast broke windows in buildings nearby and also was hurled through a doorway in the street but was not injured

Huge clouds of smoke that filled the building prevented firemen from entering

Is Minister Of Railways

Geo. Spence, Maple Creek, Accepts Portfolio in Saskatchewan Government

Regina.—Appointment of George Spence, member of the House of Commons for Maple Creek, as minister of railways in the provincial government was announced by Hon. J. J. Latta, acting premier.

A reorganization of the Saskatchewan government, in which the portfolios held by all the ministers, except those of Hon. Dr. J. M. Uhrich, minister of public health; Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture, and George Spence, minister of railways, will be effected, it is forwardstood.

"It is considered important that George Spence, who has always shown a marked interest in and agitated for railway development in the newer districts of the province, should be given an opportunity to serve in the cabinet," Hon. Mr. Latta in making the announcement.

Says Debt Reduction Essential For Canada

In Order To Retain Position In World Markets Declares Robb

Ottawa.—"It was essential for Canada to reduce her debt to maintain her position in the markets of the world," Hon. J. A. Robb told the provincial premiers conference here for the purpose of submission for increased subsidies. The minister of finance emphasized the tremendous obligations growing out of the war and the maturities which the Dominion was compelled to meet from time to time.

Hon. Mr. Robb promised nothing except what parliament would see fit to do in the matter of increased subsidies.

Canadian Guard at Washington Unveiling

The Canadian Guard of honor at the unveiling in Washington of the Canadian monument to Americans who fell while serving in Canadian Units, which was dedicated on Armistice day, was drawn from the famous Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec City. They are shown photographed at the Canadian Pacific station in Montreal enroute to Toronto recently before joining other Canadian units and proceeding to Washington. The "Cross of Sacrifice" was erected in the Arlington National Cemetery by the Canadian Government. The unveiling ceremonies were of an international nature, troops and dignitaries from Canada and the United States taking part, the monument being unveiled by the Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Ambassador at Washington.

Canadian Airmen Dive Into River

Fliers Deceived By Reflection Of London Sky On Water

Fredericton, N.B.—Deceived by the reflection of a London sky in the smooth surface of the St. John River, a Canadian air craft dove straight in to the river here. In the plane were Flight Lieutenant C. M. Harvey, pilot of the machine, Corporal Whalley mechanic, and C. Donnelly, photographer All are from Dartmouth, N.S., air station.

Canoes, rowboats and power craft dashed from both banks of the river as soon as the crash occurred. As the plane had circled several times before planning for the surface of the river The three aviators were all clinging to the wreck, the plane having broken up after striking the water

The airmen were out about the face and neck and head and suffering from shock and exposure.

Want 10,000 Horses

Russia Ready To Place Big Order For Canadian Nags Next Year

Quebec.—Transportation of 10,000 Canadian horses through the port of Quebec to Leningrad, Russia, is the goal that has been set by the Soviet Government for the 1926 season, of which 1,000 were shipped here. With the departure from Quebec about November 16 of the Russian steamer Dzherkrist with 350 horses, a total of 2,000 of the animals will have been shipped through this port this year, and in order to carry the considerable forage, figure already at for next season, the Soviet Government will charter one steamer in addition to the Dzherkrist.

"Whenever the Russians are prepared to observe the ordinary decencies of international intercourse and abstain from interfere in our domestic affairs and from a policy of intrigue and hostility," he continued, "they shall find us ready to meet them in the spirit of liberality and good will which inspires our whole foreign policy."

Federal By-Election

Polling Day At Maple Creek Constituency Fixed For Dec. 8

Ottawa.—A federal by-election is impending in the constituency of Maple Creek, Sask., consequent upon the resignation of George Spence, Liberal M.P., who has become Minister of Railways in the Saskatchewan Government.

Writs for the election fix November 25 as nomination day and December 8 as polling day.

This is the first by-election since the Conservative Party's immediate return to power and the choice of Hon. R. D. Bennett, K.C., as leader.

The contract for this new service has already been awarded.

Hitherto these remote posts have been practically isolated, delivery of mails being entirely dependent on dog teams during the winter.

Making Effort To Have Sentence Changed

Council in Nelson Case Appealing To Department Of Justice

Winnipeg.—Counsel for Arthur Nelson, found guilty of the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson, are preparing to make representations to the Department of Justice for the commutation of the death sentence, Nelson was sentenced to be hanged January 13.

The plea of insanity which the defence offered at the trial will be the basis for the representations to be made to the proper authorities. The evidence given by defence witnesses, together with records from Napa State Asylum, California, will be forwarded to Ottawa.

They will be supplemented by X-ray plates photographs of Nelson's head. The plates were ordered taken for investigational purposes and were not offered in evidence at Nelson's trial

BALDWIN IS QUITE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT EUROPE

London.—Publicity the traditional rule of principal speaker at the Guildhall, where once a year the big business men of the ancient city of London get a review of governing-mid chairs straight from Downing Street, Premier Stanley Baldwin declared himself an optimist about Europe, because he is a realist

"Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, protagonists in the struggle of the day," he said, "now meet as equals and partners to endure the issues of peace, and they look forward to the consequences of our common civilization."

Mr Baldwin paid graceful tribute to Aristide Briand, the French Foreign Minister, and to Gustav Stresemann, the German Foreign Minister, as far seeing leaders who rendered a rapprochement possible

"All Europe honors them and renders them tribute," he added. "All Europe asks where best will a sustenance be found with the courage of Stresemann, the broad humanity of Briand, what country in the Balkans, in Central or Eastern Europe, will first follow their example and earn like fame"

The Prime Minister wished he could speak more hopefully about Russia. There were circumstances which led Great Britain to cease diplomatic intercourse with Russia, but "there were similar circumstances which prevented the United States from ever establishing such intercourse.

"Whenever the Russians are prepared to observe the ordinary decencies of international intercourse and abstain from interfere in our domestic affairs and from a policy of intrigue and hostility," he continued, "they shall find us ready to meet them in the spirit of liberality and good will which inspires our whole foreign policy."

Would Eschew Politics

United Farmers Of Ontario Will Discuss Resolution On This Question

Toronto.—A resolution calling for the abolition of the political committee and the elimination from the official statement of aims of the organization of all reference to political action which will be placed before the United Farmers of Ontario when they meet in their annual convention in this city December 7 and 8. The resolution if passed would remove all hint of a political complexion from the organization.

The same resolution asks the association to condemn the use of the title U.F.O. by any members of the provincial or Dominion Parliaments, or any candidates for either House

A resolution asks that a study of co-operative marketing be placed on the curriculum of rural schools.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE COMMUNITY

The newspapers are criticised more than they are commended. They are criticised because they printed this or failed to print that; because they gave too much space to one story and too little to another. But papers concentrate on their way knowing that they are filling an increasingly important part in the affairs of the community. They realize that, being human, they commit mistakes, erring in judgment and in fact. They realize, too, that these mistakes, while always regrettable and frequently the result of insufficient time for consideration and verification, are infrequent compared with the vast amount of matter which is correctly presented to the reader.

BUY CANADIAN GOODS

Toronto, Nov. 15—Application of the Produced-in-Canada principle to the purchase of Christmas gifts is being urged on all its members by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. A special card is being prepared for early distribution directing the attention of the 4,500 members of the organization to the desirability of purchasing articles produced in Canada for gifts, instead of imported articles and suggesting that this policy be recommended to all employees of Canadian factories and their families. It is pointed out that 2,000,000 people in Canada live on the wages paid in Canadian factories and that if all these ask for "Produced-in-Canada" goods between now and Christmas, a tremendous demand will be created.

MUNICIPAL SECRETARIES DOING BIG BUSINESS

A big volume of business is being handled by municipalities throughout the province at the present time, according to reports from inspectors of the department of municipal affairs. With more money in circulation as a result of the movement of the crop, tax payments are coming in rapidly, one district reporting receipts at the rate of $2,000 a day during the past week.

Municipal district offices in all parts of Alberta have been found to be in good condition this year. Inspectors report the books and accounts to be satisfactory and the municipal affairs in a generally healthy state.

TORONTO PACKER BUYS ALBERTA RANCH

The sale of the Berry Bently ranch located in the Big Bend Hills, north of Medicine Hat to James Harris of the Harris Abattoir Company of Toronto was announced during the past week. The purchase price is stated to be in the neighborhood of $40,000 and in addition to the deeded land the sale includes the transfer of 2,000 acres of lease, 120 horses and 700 head of cattle.

WINTER CARE OF THE DAIRY HERD

Dairy cattle have been kept at the Dominion Experimental station at Scotsbrook since 1914, and although methods of feeding and housing them are in some respects different from those in most herds, the health and vigor and production of the animals is generally satisfactory, which is testimony what has been done. Cattle do not seem to know whether the stable is padded or not, and, strictly speaking, it is a matter of economy or loss, their production and condition of health does not seem to vary with temperature. There is very little, if any, effect in the quality of the milk produced. The cows in stalls and the calves dropped after July 1st are kept in stables free from draughts and in ventilated so as to be supplied with dry fresh air but not warm, the temperature frequently dropping to below zero. It is important that the animals have access to water in the winter but the temptation then is to deprive the cows of water in order to save feeding and watering. It turned out rather dear for water irrespective of the weather the cattle are more healthy. Calves dropped before July 1st, both heifers and thoroughbred bulling do not require stables. They thrive in corrals improvised by poles and straw stacks in the north end. When provided with plenty of fresh bedding they do not seem to mind the cold, although their health should be looked after correctly. It is better if the stables can be closed by the end of October. Cattle can be carried through the long winter on a ration of roots and hay in weights if they have unlimited feed of the right kind. They thrive on plenty of hay or oat straw and chaff with a little meal. They thrive better if fed regularly, watered and milking carried out with regularity.

Canadian Buyers Profit by Canada's Export Trade

In the distant reaches of Britain's far-flung empire you will find General Motors cars, built in Canada by Canadian craftsmen, from Canadian materials.

In five years over 110,000 automobiles have been sent overseas by General Motors of Canada to carry the standard of Canadian quality around the world.

This represents a truly important contribution to Canada's export trade.

It represents millions of dollars to be spent in wages to Canadian workmen, in the purchase of Canadian metals, woods, hides and the countless other materials entering into the manufacture of General Motors cars.

And it represents a greatly augmented production of General Motors of Canada, resulting in lower costs of manufacture, in economies of purchasing, in greater savings of time and labor through greater volume.

Thus, because in India, in Egypt, in Malta, Ceylon or South Africa, someone is buying a General Motors car from Canada, General Motors can offer to you, in Canada, a product of higher quality at a lower price than otherwise possible.

Hypnotism Used Instead Of Anaesthetic in Surgical Operation

Hypnotism has been used in place of anaesthetic during a major surgical operation at St. Luke's Hospital Chicago. The operation, performed on a young woman, was for the removal of adhesions in the abdomen and was reported a success. She was under hypnotic control more than an hour.

While the case was under the direction of Dr. Alfred P. Solomon, of the Neurological Service, St. Luke's, the person was Dr. Harold G. James, also a member of the hospital staff. Dr. Solomon hypnotized the woman. A member of St. Luke's confirmed the report of the operation, but declined to give details, asserting it is chief importance was scientific and that results would be printed for the medical journals and associations.

Medical authorities said the reported usage of hypnotism in surgery has prevailed for almost 75 years but that instances have been few.

CHAPTER XII.

When the train leaved its pass above the Eagle Mine, Helmi looked down on a valley where lay like a shallow saucer, broken jaggedly but fairly down the middle by the river, which ran jade green and foaming to the plains beyond. The rim of the saucer was fluted by a dozen rivers of evergreens running down toward the centre. The sunlit three of them flanked the bottom in a line of giant altar, and were marked by long mounds of slag.

To the west rose the mountains, green at the foot where the forests grew, gravelly and bare above the timber line, rising still higher to hard gray rock, seamed across like faded carpet, and at the very top an icing of snow which had run down the crevices as if it had been put on too soft by unskilled hand. The two great peaks stood starkly as each other across the stream, seeming to dominate the whole landscape, and when the train stopped and the conductor called "Eagle Mines," Helmi could scarcely believe that the two giants towering high above her.

"I suppose, now, you think these two peaks are right near, don't you," said the conductor as he carried her valise down on the steps.

Helmi admitted that she did.

"Well, don't count on seein' over there before breakfast, for they're twenty miles away. Walking towards mountains is a thankless business in this country—a person don't seem to be able to get much nearer. In fact, you do well if you can hold your own."

Helmi thanked him, and, taking her valise, walked across the narrow platform. Looking to the river she could see far into the mountains, for the river channel is wide and its general direction unbroken.

Around the station buildings were huddled the miner's houses, all of the same pattern, all of new lumber and unpainted.

The bottom of the saucer, on both sides of the river, is a fertile plain of deep black loam, which in summer is covered with heavy grass and pea vine, but with never a sow to eat it, for the miners are not given to farming lately. The company which owns the mines was seized by the desire to rest their men in the soil when the first mine was opened, and to this end bought all the land in the saucer, which covers a full township of six miles square, and gave to each man who signed on for a year a tract of twenty-five acres; but as for not much success had come, for the miners when their eight hours were over had little inclination to plant or hoe. Even the mine manager, who could discourse nobly on the subject of giving the worker a stake in the country "to keep him from putting his feet through the plate-glass of serfdom then," had not laid a spade or hoe on his own twenty-five acres of grass, nor indeed removed the pile of clay which had been excavated for the basement of his house. When a man can earn [illegible] a month and find a real free home, it hardly seems fitting that he should spend his leisure time mastering muscular exercises demanding the feeble knees of spindly young rubbengers.

The trouble with Eagle Mines was that no one expected to stay. A mine may give out and who knows when the seam may end? There were outcroppings, to be sure, all around the saucer, but there were holdings, and cross faultings, and in some of the seams interbedded shale, which in combined the fuel and fire-brick of the mining cost.

Getting Her Right

The new milkman was a rather bashful young man, but he was most anxious to please his clients. An elderly lady appeared at the door of a grand house which he served, and haughtily put the question. "How much is my milk bill?" The young man blushed and stammered: "Degin' yer pardon, mum, but—me name's Jim."

The spirit of Heimi's hard-working, soap-making, dirt-hating grandmother stirred at the sight before her. Her hour, capable hands craved a chance to show what they could do, with the travel-stained, tear-wet, much bewitched family before her, mother and all. The mother was at a low ebb—shivering, cowed, her whole soul quiescent to terror or the connection between shirt and blouse, hair in strands, hair set dragging from one temple, shoe-lace untied, stockings sagging; her shoulders drooped, and her voice wobbled.

"Let me have him," said Heimi, reaching out for the five-year-old, "I will wash." The family stopped all its activities; five-year blennius were discarded; the seven-year-old, who was riding the back of a seat shouting "Ride 'em, Cowboy!" paused openmouthed; Mandie in surprise relinquished the sat her, at least as much of it as would leave her hand. "I have a little wash-room of my own. There I will take him please," said Heimi. Charlie went with her without a word while the family looked on in dumb amazement. "Ma, ain't that the limit," whispered Mandie in wonder, "I thought she was a lady."

Charlie came back in due course subsiding from applications of soap and water. His garters were mended, his hair brushed, his nose pink as coral and shining inside and out. His clothes were straightened and brushed, and he emitted foreignly of rather weak cologne powder. He held a new five-cent piece in his hand, and his spirit was subdued and serene. The others were taken one by one, converted and returned—the mother last of all—while Heimi dealt with the grandmother in a very staid and dignified in their new state of cleanliness. Heimi sang to them in English, then in Finnish, the lullaby that had been sung to her by her own worried mother.

The conductor passing, saw with surprise the change that had come to the to this neat of stormy petrels, and the same thought came to him that Mandie had expressed. "There's something uncanny about this," he said to himself. Then he listened. He recognized the Finnish songs, having worked with Finns in the lumber-camps near Port Arthur before he went on the road. His brows overvaulted and one eye was shut tight. He went to the end of the car and sat down to think it over. He read the telegram again. Then he closed his head wearily. It was curious.

Just before Edmonton was reached the conductor knocked again at Heimi's door. She received him with the air of languor and the lifted eyebrows. Again she was the experienced traveller, slightly bored, but his quick eye noted that all her things were packed away. "Here is your ticket, madam," he said politely, "will you please give me back the slip I gave you. Your ticket is for Eagle Mines, I notice. A funny thing happened yesterday. Just before we reached Bitter I had a wire from Winnipeg asking me to be on the lookout for a young Finnish girl who had escaped from the Girls' Friendly Home in Winnipeg. They seem to think she's on this train but I certainly can't place her. Well, if she's on board I hope she won't try getting off at Edmonton, for the police will be watching for her there, sure. She had better get right on and get off at Eagle Mine place. Now, that place you're going to would be all right, for its on a spur-line quite away by itself, and it's the sort of place where there are a lot of people coming and going all the time, and there would be no questions asked there. I was out there one time shooting. It's a queer little backwash of a place." Their eyes met in a look of understanding. Heimi's were startled, wild and questioning; his were calm and reassuring, the level eyes of a kindly old conductor who has looked upon much human misery and trouble, and always to understand and help. His totally detached remark helped Heimi to recover her composure, there was something so protective and kindly in his tone. In a moment she had back all her dignity and poise. "How very interesting," she said, turning to her book.

The conductor left the train at Edmonton, that being the end of his run, but he waited until the train went out. The lady in the "A" grazing room did not answer and his police who were waiting retired after a fruitless search among the passengers.

The conductor stood with his little valise in his hand watching the train, with its dull gray smoke-wreath laid well back on its shoulders, making its way westward through the ranks. "But is a game little girl," he said to himself, as he laid down his valise, to light his pipe, "and I would just like to know her story. Well, I hope she gets a good man."

Heimi journeyed happily on, blissfully unconscious of the fact that a picture of her was in the evening paper and a short summary of her career as told to an eager young reporter by Mrs. Wymouth. It said among other things that she was a girl of violent temper who had given much trouble to the Home authorities.

LOCAL NEWS

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of the First United church will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Walker on Friday afternoon, November 19, at 2:30 p.m.

The annual meeting of the Fort Saskatchewan curling club will be held in the town hall on Friday, November 19, at 8 p.m. All interested in either curling or skating are requested to attend.

A meeting of the Fort Saskatchewan Red Cross Society will be held in the buffet room of the Memorial hall on Wednesday, November 24, at 3 o'clock. All subscribers are invited to attend.

An auto collision occurred Tuesday afternoon at the corner of Dennis avenue and Rose street. The cars of Carl Thomas and Otto Schreiber collided and bent fenders and radius rods resulted.

LOST—Between the town hall and town centre on Sunday night, an Overland touring car, aged, answers to name of Lizzie. Anyone found in possession of the property after this date will be maliciously combined.

Coming Events—Christmas and 19-30. Christmas comes first and "it won't be long now!" Time right now to be thinking of your Personal Xmas cards. Use the Record's samples and get that little task off your mind.

This is to remind you that next Saturday evening Sir Herbert Brown Ames, K.L., LL.D., will deliver a lecture on "The Changing Spirit of Europe." Everyone is invited to attend lecture, which is being given at the United church at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

Owing to the rough and slippery condition of the road near the Agricultural school Constable Warrier's car skidded and turned over last Wednesday. The constable has since been confined to the house with his injuries but fortunately is fast recovering. Fender, running board and some glass was smashed on the car.

Miss Thereon M. Siegel, who is to appear in recital in the Memorial hall on Monday, November 29th, is noted as a delightful entertainer, having the power to interpret great authors with a suggestiveness and sympathy that convey their very thoughts to the mind of the audience. The recital promises to be of unusual interest and it is hoped will be generously patronized.

The ice underneath of the skating rink has been finished and ice is being prepared. The skating area has been considerably enlarged and the entrance entirely altered and a decided improvement. It is quite an event and should be seen to be appreciated. It will be opened for skating within a day or two and we understand admission will be free the first night.

BURNS BUYS BAR U RANCH

Floyd Burnett, of Good Hope, had his face and hands badly burned last Saturday by an explosion of gasoline. While trying to start an engine he poured some gasoline into the tank. There was still a live coal in the tank and it ignited the gasoline. Floyd's face and hands were badly burned and he also received a bad shock. He was taken to the hospital at Edmonton where he is now reported to be getting along nicely.

Obituary

The death took place on Friday, November 18, at his residence on Lanrior crescent, Fort Saskatchewan, of a respected old timer in the person of Napoleon LePage, aged 66 years.

Born in 1841, he came to Alberta in 1886 and farmed in the district until 1912, when he retired and came to live in town.

He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Marsden, North Edmonton, Miss LePage, Fort Saskatchewan, and Mrs. LaSalle, Detroit, Mich., and two sons, Charlie and Joe, of Fort Saskatchewan.

Funeral service was held at the Roman Catholic church on Monday morning and was largely attended by friends of the family and townspeople. The service was taken by Father Kiechen, assisted by Fathers Colleville and Fidelis. Interment was made at

SIR HERBERT A. AMES GIVES INTERESTING LECTURE ON EUROPE

"There has been a great reconciliation between those ages old enemies, France and Germany. Diplomatic difficulties arising since the war have been settled between them and between other European nationalities and the League of Nations is responsible for the larger part of those amicable settlements."

This is the opinion of Sir Herbert Brown Ames, K.L. LL.D., who spoke in the United church on Monday evening last before a pretty fair audience. He came to Fort Saskatchewan through the efforts of the Canadian Club at the Fort and is now on a lecture tour through the Western provinces under the auspices of the Association of Canadian Clubs.

Sir Herbert's subject was "The Changing Spirit of Europe," on which subject he spoke for one hour and fifteen minutes, which to those present seemed all too short, so interesting was the subject matter and its presentation. As a speaker he was decidedly natural in manner and delivery. In an unhesitating flow of well chosen expressions his eloquence told his audience, graphically and vividly, the historic importance of the diplomatic changes that have taken place in Europe from the finish of the war to the present time.

He touched briefly on the fact that while a sitting member of the Canadian parliament he was offered the distinguished position as Secretariat or Treasurer to the League of Nations. How he accepted the position and the insight the position gave him of international affairs. He sketched the conditions of the various governments at the time of the formation of the League and of the beneficial effects the activities of the League had upon the peace of Europe and the relations next it was accomplishing. He told of the fact that Canada held a position on the League Council and the honor that was thus conferred upon Canada by such distinction. The dramatic climax of the address was the verbal picture drawn by Sir Herbert, an eye witness, of the supremely historical moment when Germany was admitted to the League and given a permanent seat on the Council and how Mr. Stresemann made the overtures on behalf of Germany and the eloquent speech of M. Briand offering the hand of France in friendship and future peace.

The address was well received and no doubt on account of the stormy weather and Saturday being the last home evening of the town, many were prevented from attending.

Mr. A. E. Gibson, president of the local branch of the Canadian Club, was chairman, and also personally attended to the transportation of Sir Herbert from and to Fort Edmonton.

DATES SELECTED FOR U. F. A. CONVENTION

The 1928 annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta will be held from January 17 to 20, it is announced from the offices of the U.F.A. in Calgary. It is likely that Calgary will be selected as the meeting place, last year's convention having met in Edmonton. Resolutions to be submitted to the convention are already coming in to the U.F.A. office and a busy four days' program is anticipated.

ALBERTA BEING WIN IN TWO CONTESTS

Pens of barred rocks from the Winter Egg Poultry Farm, Lethbridge, have recently won high honors in two major egg-laying contests. One pen has been awarded a silver cup for the highest winter production from individual hens and the silver cup for the highest scoring heavy breed at the University of Georgia contest, competing with 100 pens from all parts of the continent. At the Manitoba provincial egg laying contest held at Brandon, the Lethbridge pen of ten birds laid a total of 2,366 eggs during the 51 weeks of the test and the eggs were awarded the highest score for weight.

Weddings

COLCY—NAUBERT

A quiet wedding was celebrated in the parish church of St. Anthony on Saturday morning, November 19, when Miss Alma Naubert and Mr. Amde Colcy were united in marriage. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. J. A. Naubert, and the bridegroom was supported by Mr. A. D. Lamoureux, his brother-in-law.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of ashes of roses and a honeymoon hat in harmonizing shades. Her wedding costume was in lovely contrast to the smart tailored travelling suit which she wore with a pretty fur shelter.

The happy couple entertained for their honeymoon at the Strathcona depot at 7:30 o'clock, attended by the good wishes of a host of friends. On their return they will reside in Edmonton.

On Wednesday a linen shower was held at the home of Mrs. A. D. Lamoureux, when the bride-elect received many beautiful gifts from her friends. A tempting lunch was served by Mrs. Lamoureux, sister of the bridegroom. At the same time the bridegroom was charivaried in an uptown apartment by his friends, who presented him with a handsome club bag. Later the group of men joined the party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lamoureux for the remainder of the evening.

FRANK WALKER HAS SOLD HIS LAST FORT BUILDING

Frank Walker disposed of his river lot farm on Tuesday to Chas. Parquhar. This is the last piece of the numerous holdings of Frank's and it was with more than a penny he finally relinquished possession. He says that for the first time in forty years he does not own a piece of Alberta but he hopes that cannot be said for very long. The state of Mrs. Walker's health is the underlying reason for his latest deal and upon Mrs. Walker's health rests to a very great extent Frank's future activities.

Having come to Agricola, in the Fort Saskatchewan district, in 1894, he finds it a difficult task to pull up stakes and leave, and doubts his ability to do so permanently.

Mr. Walker plans to make a trip through the Peace River country and it is expected he will be accompanied by Joe Carscadden and possibly one other.

Winter Traffic

Snow on the city streets should mean to all automobile drivers at least one thing, says a daily newspaper,—a driving speed of at least ten miles an hour less than summer speed. And this word of advice to city motorists may well be passed on to motorists on country roads.

Snow in a tricky matter. It provides good traction on paved streets and hard roads when a car is forging ahead, but no traction at all when the brakes are suddenly applied. In other words, a car can be driven easily on it, but can be stopped only with difficulty.

It is disconcerting to drive up to a street or road intersection at what in the summer months would be a moderate speed, and finding need of applying the brakes, feel the car sliding helplessly onward, or suddenly skidding to the side. It is disconcerting always, and it is frequently dangerous as well.

Experienced and careful drivers have various means of obviating this sliding and swaying, but they know there is only one sure method, one real safety device—to drive slowly, and particularly so when many new road intersections, curves, culverts, bridges, passing other cars, etc. Only so can a car on slippery roads be kept sufficiently under control for safety.

Pedestrians, too, should take warning. The practice of standing on the road just a foot or so away while a motor passes is dangerous enough on dry roads. It is doubly dangerous after the snow comes. If the driver has need to apply his brakes suddenly the car nine times out of ten will sway to the left or the right, and the pedestrian standing too close is likely to be sideswiped with unpleasant results.

Winter conditions should, in brief, intensify care in driving and walking. There is much greater liability to accident with snow on the ground.

Cold weather brings another danger which is not so much in evidence in summer. In cold weather motorists are tempted to start up their engines and allow them to run for a time to warm up while the closed doors of the garage. As a matter of fact the garage fills up with the deadly monoxide gas from the exhaust with all the possibilities for tragedy which such a condition betokens about.

Another factor which necessitates greater care in winter driving is created by the fact that tearing cars have all their curtains up while the windows of closed cars are kept shut. It is not possible, therefore, to signal with the same ease and effectiveness to other cars to the rear regarding the intention to driver to intend to make. In the winter, therefore, greater attention should be paid to the rear than is necessary during the summer months if accidents are to be avoided.

They were discussing physical research, spiritualism, haunted houses, etc. "Do you believe that ghosts walk?" asked the host, small of stature and gentleness. "Of course, I do," he replied: "there's abundant proof of the fact—haven't you ever heard the 'Dead March'?"

Are You Nervous? Sleepless?

St. Catharines, Can.—"I was in such a nervous and hysterical state of health that I could hardly get around to do my work. I could not sleep and the least noise or excitement would completely upset me and there was no rest for me. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I was soon well and strong and have never had another spell of nervousness since.

"I always keep a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets in my medicine chest; they are the only medicine I have ever taken that would regulate the liver and relieve constipation." Mrs. Adda Taylor, 46 Wiley St.
